On Friday the oranges were sold, the most prominent buyers being Montreal dealers. The oranges, which were mostly Sorrento fruit, brought good prices. Boxes of Sorrento oranges were sold at $2.20 to $2.40, and half boxes at $1.50 to $2.15. Messina oranges brought $2.80 to $3.90 per box, and $1.25 to $2.40 per half box. These big prices were freely tendered on all the fruit, only one lot of 200 boxes being withdrawn.

A portion of the Forest Holme's cargo was sold at Quebec to buyers from Toronto, Hamilton, Montreal and Quebec. This is the first sale held there since the old days, before the sales came to Montreal. The lemons brought 75c. to $2 per box, and oranges, $1.75 to $3 per box. Among the buyers present from points in Canada and the United States were: Messrs. S. Saitta, New York; J. W. Lumsden, Philadelphia; E. Andrews, New York; Chas. Parsons, New York; R. A. Tucker, New York; R. A. Tucker, jr., New York; E. Butterworth, Boston; E. Zucca, Minneapolis; P. Van Valen, Chicago; Isaac Tuck, New York, proprietor Producer and Distributor; Geo. McWilliam, Toronto; Frank Everist, Cameron Husband, M. P. Clemes, Toronto; J. B. Oke, Port Hope; G. W. Hunt, Ottawa; G. Sansome, London; White & Co., Toronto; J. Wulff, of The T. Eaton Co., Toronto; Wm. Dixon, Hamilton; George Walker, Guelph.

The cargo of the steamer Forest Holme is now being sold. This consists of 20,000 boxes of Messina fruit and 5,000 boxes of Sorrento fruit. After the Forest Holme comes the Bellona, which is now in port. It is expected that her cargo will be sold on Monday, the 12th inst. She has on board 33,000 packages of oranges and lemons.

J. A. Dickie has secured the grocery business of Burt Bros., at the corner of Fort and Blanchard streets, Vancouver, B.C., and is putting in a large stock.

DID NOT WANT TO TAKE THE CASH.

An interesting point with regard to the duties of apprentices was decided recently at the Canterbury County Court. An apprentice objected to "taking the cash" in its literal sense — not figurative — by occupying the cash desk, and contended that it was no part of his duty to act as cash taker and bookkeeper. The judge, wisely, we think, took the opposite view and remarked that he would "find fewer grocers in the bankruptcy court if they had been taught bookkeeping." Two or three successful grocers who, after building up prosperous businesses of their own, had devoted some of their spare time to winding up the insolvent businesses of others, have declared to us that in nine cases out of ten they have found that the business has come to grief through careless bookkeeping. On the other hand—we don't say it was so in this case—we have known instances of apprentices being unfairly employed in such a manner as this. We mean by being kept for too long a period of their term of service at one insignificant section of the business, instead of learning what would be of more service to them. When a boy is apprenticed he expects to be given an opportunity to learn every section of the trade.—Grocery, London.

2. A French firm, manufacturing ladies' Parisian clothing of the highest class, make inquiry respecting the best means of getting into touch with Canadian importers of such goods.

4. A Lancashire firm desires to correspond wit buyers in Canada of steel wire screening, such as is used in stamp batteries in the gold mining districts.

5. An English firm of manufacturers of table glass of the best quality make inquiry respecting the market that exists in Canada for these goods.

E. W. GILLETT COMPANY, LIMITED.

The first annual general meeting of E. W. Gillett Company, Limited, 32-34 Front street west, was held in the office of the company at 11 o'clock on Thursday, May 1. Stockholders of this company are composed of the principal wholesale and retail grocers of the Dominion, of whom there was a large representation in person at the meeting. Mr. E. W. Gillett acted as chairman, and the greatest possible harmony prevailed. The company takes over one of the best manufacturing businesses in Canada, and, owing to stockholders being merchants in all parts of the Dominion, there will be such a large number of workers to push the sale of Royal Yeast, Gillett's Lye, Magic Baking Powder, etc., that it is confidently predicted by the management that the already enormous business done by the company will at least be doubled in a year or so.

Mr. E. W. Gillett, of Chicago, Messrs. Wm. Dobie, John Firstbrook, M. A. Thomas and H. C. Barker, of Toronto, were elected directors for the ensuing year.

The by-laws of the company were submitted and unanimously approved of and adopted. The newly elected board of directors held a meeting immediately after the shareholders' meeting and elected the following officers : President, Mr. E. W. Gillett ; general manager and treasurer, Mr. Wm. Dobie ; secretary, Mr. Geo. Hepburn.

IMPORTANT TO THE GROCER.

It has become quite a common practice of late among some of the jobbers when receiving an order from the grocer for a certain article or brand of goods to not send that article, but something else which pays the grocer a larger profit, saying it is just as good, or just the same.

This is mostly practised on weak or easy-going grocerymen, who allow themselves to be influenced against their own interest, but to the interest of the jobber or agent. That is neither fair to the grocer or manufacturer.

The grocer should get what he wants or calls for ; the manufacturer should have the benefit of the sale of the goods, when called for, which he has established through their merits, and the expense of advertising.

The fact that L. Schepp Co.'s cocoanut and other articles have been substituted as above is the cause of this complaint.

BEET SUGAR AT BRANTFORD.

At a meeting of the Brantford, Ont., Board of Trade, on April 30, a resolution was passed in favor of establishing a beet-sugar factory in that city. In this resolution, the matter was referred to the consideration of the council of the board, and satisfaction was expressed at the offer of the Ontario Government to conduct experiments to test the suitability of the country around Brantford for the growing of sugar beets. The board promised to cooperate with the Government in the carrying out of these tests.

A letter was presented at the meeting from Joseph Stratford stating that a capitalist had offered to put up $500,000 for the establishment of a beet-sugar factory, providing $100,000 were subscribed locally and a sufficient acreage guaranteed.

The factory would have a capacity of 500 tons of beets per day, and would employ from 100 to 250 men.

PRAISE FOR THE FRUIT MARKS ACT.

In reference to the strictness of the regulations of the new Fruit Marks Act enforced by the Dominion Government, John Adam, Son & Co., fruit importers, Liverpool, Eng., writing to one of their Canadian agents for the export of fruit to the Mother Country, state : "We anticipate good things from this Act, as it will certainly prevent men of no experience going into the trade, but it seems to us that the present system of inspection is hardly stringent enough, as, without turning out the barrels completely, it is quite impossible to see all the fruit. This Act will encourage honest packing in every way, and we are quite sure that it will be to the interest of the trade."

"Cocoa Time" is all the time

You don't have to wait for the seasons to change in order to sell Cocoa—it is as staple as flour. "Cocoa time is all the time," but you may have to wait for a possible demand to spring up for a Cocoa that is not widely known and advertised, and that does not sell on intrinsic merit.

Over 200 medals and awards have been taken by the Messrs. Fry—Cocoa excellence won all this. Absolute purity—easy solubility—rich, delicate flavor. "The household Cocoa"— Right!

The quality and workmanship that goes into my Cigars must be RIGHT. By that I mean not excelling in one or two particular points, but in all. At the very start I must begin right by being prompt in filling my orders. At the finish I must still be right by having satisfied you to the letter.

Right methods, right work and right profits ought, I think, to hold your trade once I gain it. Let everything else be right yet the laggard will spoil it all—you can rely absolutely upon the promptness with which I shall fill your orders. Once more I ask you to let me send along that "trial order" of a thousand or more of my cigars—you can have a long time in which to pay for them and you can return them and have your money back DURING ALL THAT TIME.

Plan for a New General Store.

A SUBSCRIBER who does a large general business, and who proposes putting up a new building, writes asking for suggestions as to plans, etc. Possibly the accompanying plan may be of some service to him.

In studying a plan that is to be devoted to the purposes of a general store, it will be found that the most essential element to be considered is the arrangement of the various departments in relation to each other, so that they will be easy of access.

If the floor space should be so narrow that it would not be possible to place the counter on both sides without crowding the space too much, the entrance might be placed at the corner, as shown in the sketch plan. But in the case of a wide frontage an entrance in the centre with another on the side street will allow of a much better arrangement of the floor space.

The various departments should be arranged according to their importance, and there is necessity of having them placed where they will be convenient to the public.

For instance, all the different lines of dry and fancy goods should be placed in the main portion of the building. Groceries should come in for a good deal of consideration, and, possibly, this department should also be in the main portion of the building. The boot and shoe department could be placed in a somewhat retired place and also the hardware department.

The cellar or basement, provided that it is well lighted, can be used for those lines of goods that require to be kept in a cool place, such as oils, paints, etc. When it is not possible to use the basement for such purposes, these goods should be kept in the extreme rear portion of the store.

The general store in the country town is a counterpart, in a smaller way, of the departmental stores of our large cities, and the same principles in regard to plan might be applied to both with certain modifications. In the smaller store the floorwalker has to be dispensed with, and, for that reason, the various departments should be placarded with a sign, which will be readily visible upon entering. This is a point that may seem quite unnecessary, but anything that tends to save time and assist in the economical working of the different departments will, in this case, be a convenience to the public.

In taking the various departments in the order suggested in the plan, it might be well to first consider what class of the community are the best customers of the retail merchant. It will be found to be the case generally that women are the great shoppers in every community. In arranging the various departments it will be necessary to give those the preference where the articles which women are in the habit of buying most extensively are to be had. Such a department might contain the various lines of fancy and dress goods, and in some cases it may be presumed there might be a milliner's department, although, as a rule, this particular branch of trade is a business of itself, only to be found in large stores.

There are two points to be considered in arranging what might appropriately be called the women's department. First of all, it should be made convenient, and, for this reason, it would naturally occupy the front portion of the store, where there is also plenty of light to be had, which is possibly the more vital point of the two to be considered. How essential it is to have the very best light possible where there are numerous colored articles to be displayed is readily understood, when it is known how often women are heard to say that they have been disappointed in the shade of some particular color. The cause of all this is generally owing to the fact that it was not possible to see the goods to advantage at the place where they were purchased. If the stores were better lighted this trouble and annoyance with the public might be avoided or diminished to a very great extent.

A matter that might be considered at the present is the question of shelving. This is an internal feature that has a great deal to do not only with the appearance, but in regulating, to some extent, the amount of light that is to be transmitted from the better lighted portions of the store and dark corners. In a building that has light on all four sides the question of lighting is a simple matter, but when, as in the majority of cases, the light is admitted on two sides only, it then becomes necessary to study carefully the disposition of the shelving, so as not to impair the lighting of the interior.

It is advisable that the cases containing shelves should not be more than seven feet from the floor to the top. By limiting the height for shelves to seven feet, goods placed upon them are within easy reach without having to climb up on step ladders. Above shelves placed along the side of a wall, long low window openings should be made, which will greatly assist the internal lighting.

The show-window might now come in for consideration. In large cities and towns great attention is given to this important feature in all commercial structures. The window opening should be as large as possible without imperiling the stability of the building. There should be as few mullions or divisions in the glass as possible, and, when used, they should be made very small so that the view of the contents of the window may not be obstructed. In the interior, what might be called the showcase should be separated from the store proper by a light screen, filled either with glass or paneled with wood. The screen should be fitted with a sliding sash or door that will afford access to the goods displayed in the window. The height of the screen will depend somewhat upon the height between floor and ceiling. As a rule, it should not go higher than the transom, so that the upper portion of the window can be opened to allow a full circulation of air.

THE SALMON COMBINE.

Aemilius Jarvis, of Toronto, speaking of the proposed salmon cannery combination of British Columbia, is reported in a despatch from Vancouver to say that the combination does not intend to cut down the output, but will try to double the business if it can. The business would be centralized, and as many fishermen and more would be employed as in the past.

The eastern people are putting into this business one-third of the capital, and the other two thirds will continue in the hands of the cannery people. Thus a large amount of eastern money will be invested in the Pacific Province. The cannery people will control the business and be the directors, and only one director will probably be elected to represent the eastern capitalists.

A TRIBUTE TO TEA-BLENDERS.

Since the advent of the large distributors of tea, who judiciously blend to suit what they conceive to be the requirements of the public, there is less effort made to follow the example of a few years ago and push Indian and Ceylon teas as such with the consumer. As we have pointed out before, the general public seem indifferent on this point and trust to the grocer, or, in the case of packet teas, to the blender. A few packet companies make a point of stating that their produce is either Indian or Ceylon, or a mixture of both, but blends, the component parts of which are not known to the public, are for the most part supplied, and to judge by the demand for certain packet teas and the success of the firms selling them, these must hit the public taste remarkably well, and do credit to the tea blenders' skill and knowledge.—Home and Colonial Mail, London.

INCREASE IN LONDON TEA ROOMS.

The increase in the number of tea rooms in London and the Provincial cities and towns is a striking proof of the popularity of tea, for although at some of them coffee is supplied, the demand is mainly for tea. In the West-end of London several fine shops have recently been added to the number of tea rooms, and there is talk of one to be opened by Ceylon planters next month. The tea supplied at most of the rooms is a blend which is not specially mentioned as British grown, so that tea rooms claiming to supply either Indian or Ceylon tea might find additional favor with consumers, as was the case some years ago when at the South Kensington Exhibition this was done. One concern has contrived to give the Londoner a conception of the tea-shop of Japan. Geisha girls have been, or are supposed to have been, imported from their native land, and flit around in an atmosphere of almond blossom, in quaint Japanese costumes, attending to the wants of their patrons. We presume the tea is not from Japan, as the London public are not acquainted with the Japanese leaf, and very little finds its way here.—Home and Colonial Mail, London.

Origin of tbe Shorthorn Steer—The Markets—Miscellaneous Notes.

ORIGIN OF THE SHORTHORN STEER.

THE Durham ox, it is claimed by English authorities, was the foundation of and suggestion for the shorthorn steer. The genesis of the Durham ox dates back to 1796. He was by a bull with shorthorns, owned by Chas. Colling, out of a common cow. Bailey's "Durham" says: "His form and nice handling indicated every disposition to fatten at an early age, and, at five years old, he was not only covered with thick fat upon all the principal points, but his whole carcass was, in a manner, loaded with it, and it was then thought so wonderful an animal, and so far exceeding whatever had been seen before, that it was purchased, to be exhibited at a show by Mr. Bulmer, of Harmby, near Bedale, in February, 1801, for £140. At this time its live weight was 216 stone (of 11 lb.). Bulmer got a caravan for it, and, after travelling it for five weeks, sold it, with the carriage, to John Day, of Rotherham, for £250. Day could have immediately resold it for £525; in June he refused £1,000, and, in July, £2,000 for it. He travelled it for nearly six years through the principal parts of England and Scotland, but it dislocated its hip-bone at Oxford in February, 1807, and, after lying eight weeks, was slaughtered. The greatest live weight it attained to was 34 cwt."

FRANKFURTER FRYING SAUSAGES.

Butchers' Advocate, New York, gives the following recipe for making Frankfurter sausage: "Pork of the hams and shoulders is freed from big sinews and soft fat and chopped together half-fine. The proportion of the lean pork to the fat ought to be 4 to 1, or 4 pounds of lean pork to 1 pound of fat pork. To this half-fine chopped pork add of spices for each pound of meat 2-5 ounce of salt, 8 grains of saltpetre, 31 grains of white pepper and 8 grains of grated nutmeg, and chop as long as the single pieces of meat and pork are recognizable. Never chop so long that the mass looks smeary. In case the meat is solid and consistent, pour, during chopping, some water on to it. If the meat is watery and glib, no water is needed. The fat clinging to the knives is taken off and not worked through. If the mass is too much rubbed off with water the sausages; even if the meat is consistent, will get hard and tough in cooking, and this must be avoided. They must be consistent, tender and juicy when cooked. The mass is filled into the stuffer from the block and stuffed loosely into narrow hog-casings. The sausages are turned off in pairs, each pair weighing about 5½ to 7 ounces, then hung on smokesticks, with sufficient space for each pair. After the water has dripped off for several hours the frankfurters are hung into moderately warm smoke, not too near the fire, for smoking until they show a light-brown color."

ORANGE-FED PORK.

Here is a good chance to build up another South-Californian industry. A catching sign in shops which cater to wealthy clients should be "Southern Californian orange-fed pork." A pig raised from the time of weaning on alfalfa and then topped off with corn and oranges, with perhaps a few orange blossoms to finish up, and the hams boiled in Californian sherry, should furnish a dish fit for a king or even a president, and ought to run a close race with geranium-fed beef.—Butchers' Advocate.

THE PROVISION MARKETS.

TORONTO.

Beef carcasses are ½c. lower but the good demand for front quarters has caused them to advance ½c. per lb. Dressed hogs continue firm and unchanged. Live hogs have advanced 25c. per 100 lb., and there is a small supply and a good demand for export. The prices of lamb and veal are steady. We quote: Dressed hogs, $9 to $9.50; beef carcasses, $7.50 to $8.50 per 100 lb.; hind quarters, $8.50 to $9.50 per 100 lb.; front quarters, $7 to $7.50 per 100 lb. Veal, 7 to 8c. per lb.; lambs, 10½ to 11c. Live hogs, Selects, $7.25, lights, $6.50 to $7 per 100 lb.; choice export cattle bring $5.75 to $6.50 per 100 lb.; lights sell at $5 to $5.50.

The prices of provisions are firm with a tendency to go up. The demand for smoked meats and barrel pork is good. We quote as follows: Long clear bacon, 10½c.; smoked breakfast bacon, 14 to 15c.; rolls, 11½c.; medium hams, 13 to 13½c.; large hams, 12½ to 13c.; shoulder hams, 10½ to 11c., and backs, 14 to 14½c.; Canadian heavy mess pork, $21; short cut, $22 to $22.50; lard, in tierces, 11 to 11¼c. per lb.; tubs, 11¼ to 11½c., and pails, 11½ to 11¾c.

MONTREAL

Pork has arrived at a point which leaves no precedent; but though prices are very high dealers are looking for still further advances, as the scarcity of hogs continues and can hardly be relieved before September or October. Jobbers are now quoting Canadian short cut mess pork at $24.25 to $24.50, an advance of $1.25 to $1.50. Chicago clear pork is also 75c. higher on all grades. Jones', a second brand of Armour's, is quoted at $25. Fairbank's refined lard (compound) is 5c. higher per pail. This is reported due to the advance in cotton seed oil. Their Cottolene has also been advanced ¾c. per 20-lb. pails, or 60-lb. tubs. Our quotations follow: Heavy Canadian short cut mess pork, $24.25 to $24.50; Chicago clear pork, $27.50 for heavy and $26.50 for medium; selected heavy short cut mess pork, boneless, $22.50 to $23; hams, 13c.; bacon, 15c.; lard, pure Canadian, $2.30 to $2.35 per pail; refined lard, compound (Fairbank's); $2.10 for 1 to 24 pails; $2.08 for 25 to 49 pails; $2.07 for 50 pails and over. Snow White and Globe compound, $1.75 per pail; Cottolene, 11¼c., for 20-lb. pails, and 11c. for 60-lb. tubs, for Quebec and Ontario.

SAN JOSE SCALE AT NIAGARA.

On May 12, the Ontario Government was waited upon by a deputation of fruit growers from the Niagara district in reference to the measures taken to prevent the spread of the San Jose scale. The deputation consisted of Réeve Carscallen and George Fisher, of Saltfleet, and J. W. Smith, of Burlington. They said the scale had been kept in check by the precautions already observed, but there were still individual cases in which the work was neglected. The Minister was asked to take such action as to totally wipe out the insect.

A NEWFOUNDLANDER'S VIEWS ON UNION WITH CANADA.

JUDGE MORISON, of Newfoundland, was in Toronto early this week. Judge Morison is the gentleman whom the press despatches recently announced was about to leave the bench in order that he might lead the party in Newfoundland that is favorable to Confederation with Canada. He was born in St. John's in 1857, was educated at the Academy there, and studied law with Sir John Winter, whose partner he subsequently became. He sat for Bonavista from 1888 to 1895, and at his last election received the largest vote ever given in the island. He entered the Cabinet in 1894 as Attorney-General.

To a newspaper reporter he said he had nothing to say upon the question of his personal relations to parties or to Confederation. He did not affirm or deny the Halifax report. The rumor, he said, was simply a rumor, and he had nothing whatever to say as to what he intended to do.

He was not disinclined to talk upon the general subject, and stated that whereas, in 1869, Newfoundland was strongly against Confederation, she was being driven by the logic of events towards UNION WITH CANADA.

In 1869 the colony had no debt, and the taxation upon imports was about 10 per cent. To-day, chiefly through the building of railways, the debt had risen to about $20,000,000, the interest on which was alone equal to the total expenditure of the colony in 1869. To meet this, import duties had been increased until now they averaged about 33 per cent. or about $10 per head of the population of 200,000. Thus the colony which stayed out of Confederation because it wanted low duties finds itself forced to charge higher duties than Canada does. The other cause which helped to keep Newfoundland out of Confederation was ignorance, the people believing that Canada was largely a wilderness that would take much from Newfoundland and return little. Now they knew that Canada was a big and rich country, and that Confederation was not pressed by Canada from mercenary motives.

WHAT BOTH WOULD GAIN.

Newfoundland would gain from Confederation reduced cost of government: her post office, lighthouse, wharves and marine service and Customs Department would all be taken over by Canada, leaving the island education, roads and administration of justice.

Canada on her part would gain an increased market, as the, in round numbers, $7,000,000 worth of goods imported into Newfoundland, largely from the United States and Britain, would, to a great extent, come from Canada, when Canadian goods came in free and all other goods paid 33 per cent. Canada would gain control of the fisheries of the whole North Atlantic, and would be able to dictate her own terms to the United States, instead of allowing that country to play off Canada and Newfoundland one against the other.

Judge Morison says that Newfoundland is a

in timber, pulpwood and minerals, and, that once joined to Canada, her development would be rapid. He does not think the present Reid contract is as good as the previous one, as it practically gives Mr. Reid the railway for nothing for 50 years, and does not impose the necessity of development upon him, which the old one did.

As to the French Shore difficulty, he believes it would be settled in a year if the Newfoundland claim had the weight of the Dominion of Canada behind it.

ENCOURAGING THE SALE OF HONEY IN STORES.

BY G. A. DEADMAN.

A HINDERANCE to the sale of honey by storekeepers is the small margin of profit made on it. This drawback is largely due to the beekeepers themselves, and, although I think perhaps those who take no journals are the worst offenders, yet I am quite safe in saying that it is not confined to them alone. I believe it is one of the most difficult problems to face outside of the large cities. First of all, if we ever expect our merchants to push the sale of our products we must make it worth their while to do it. At the Buffalo convention there were some who expected storekeepers to handle honey in trade the same as they do butter and sell again at the same price—make two sales and have profit on only one. There are merchants who will do this, I know, but don't flatter yourself that they will do more than they are obliged to, and that you will ever help the sale of honey much in that way. I would be ashamed to ask them to do it. Far more honey will be sold and consumed if our merchants will handle and keep it prominently before their customers. One way to encourage them is to give them a better percentage of profit. It may be that we cannot compete with the corn syrup manufacturers, who can supply a can for 45c. that retails for 75c., but we can do a little better, yes, a good deal better, than we have been doing.

The majority of those who have never been behind the counter have a queer idea of business and seem to think that because a merchant makes 10, 15 or 25 per cent. on his goods he must be getting wealthy, forgetting the expenses that must come out of this. In order then to do this we must stop selling retail at wholesale prices. It is no credit to a man to quickly dispose of his small crop of honey by selling in this way, but he will find that to dispose of a large crop he may be glad of other help. At Buffalo, when this subject of marketing honey came up one elderly gentleman went on to say how readily he disposed of his crop of comb honey going from house to house. It turned out, however, that he had sold it at about 14c. per lb. "Selling retail at wholesale," remarked one, and they wanted to hear no more. Not long ago we were short of honey at our drug store. A bee-keeper near by was selling some around town. I asked for a reduction to sell again, but no, and he charged me the same per lb. for 100 lb. as a consumer when taking only a lb. We should, before putting a retail price on our honey, have a scale of prices and not put the retail price so low that we can only give a buyer in quantities ½c. a lb. to handle it. Let me tell you that honey cannot be handled for ½c. a lb. On one occasion I took a considerable number of orders for honey from customers to be delivered by their grocers. I had some 30 grocers whose names were given me through whom this honey was to be delivered. I went to most of these, to arrange for it, and allowed them 15c. for each 10 lb. pail (no order was taken for less). Now, while some were willing to do it for this, others objected and said they could not do business on so small a margin. I was allowing myself the same amount to cover cost of selling, and, as I told some of them, that surely if I made the sale and all they had to do was to deliver and take the pay, without any risk whatever, that they should be able to do it for the amount stated, especially as this half profit was only on these first orders to introduce it. I mention this incident to show what many merchants think about it.

First, then, there is the retail price, which we will say, for convenience, is 10c. Then we allow Mr. Grocer 20 per cent., that will be 8c.; then if we sell to a wholesale grocer we must make a reduction again, say 1c. per lb., or 7c. It would not be just to charge the wholesaler who sells your grocer or some other grocer, the same price, as one buys in small quantities, while the other buys in large lots and has to take the risk of loss from bad debts and we can afford to take less when we run no risk ourselves. If you put your retail price at 7c., as some do, then figure on your grocer and wholesale buyer's price accordingly, for remember that your grocer in handling your honey should be able to sell at the prices you do. Some may think that if a customer buys in quantities that they should have a reduction, and so they should, but do not reduce it so much that your grocer could not supply him at your prices and make a little. Your customers will see the justice of this and when buying in small quantities will expect to pay accordingly. In this way you are not only getting something for your trouble of retailing it, but your grocer will be encouraged to keep it always on sale and display it, too, which is very important. —The Canadian Bee Journal.

MONTREAL MARKET DAYS.

AT a meeting of the market committee of the Montreal City Council on May 7, the question of what should be considered market days in the city was brought up. It was the opinion generally that Montreal was large enough for every day to be a market day. If such a plan were adopted it was thought that the trade of the market would greatly increase.

Ald. Chausse said that the custom of looking upon Tuesdays and Fridays as the market days of the week was over half a century old, and there was no reason for keeping up a system so unsuited to the needs of the city. On these days there was such a crowd that everyone, buyers and sellers alike, had much difficulty in conducting their business. By having every day as a recognized market day, this would be overcome, in addition to which it would be of great convenience to the public to be able to find a good supply at the market whenever they desired to come.

There was a general agreement with these remarks among the members of the committee, and, although nothing definite was done, it is expected that the matter will be brought up again, when, doubtless, some movement will be made towards the desired end.

FLOUR FOR SOUTH AFRICA.

The Dominion Department of Agriculture has received through the War Office an order for 2,000 tons of flour for South Africa. One thousand tons are now being loaded at St. John, N.B., and the balance will be shipped about May 20.

The flour is being furnished by the Ogilvie and the Lake of the Woods Milling Companies.

TRANSFER OF WELL-KNOWN CONCERN.

AN important change in an industry of much interest to the grocery trade occurred when the Michel Lefebvre Vinegar Works, Montreal, were purchased by Mr. John Carsley, president of The Ozo Company, Limited. Under its new ownership this well-known concern will be continued under the style of "The Lefebvre Vinegar Works; The Ozo Company, Limited, Proprietors," instead of, as it has heretofore run, "The Lefebvre Vinegar Works; Theodore Lefebvre & Co., Proprietors."

The Lefebvre Vinegar Works, 661 Dorlet street, Montreal, are the oldest in their line in Canada, having been established in 1849. During the half century and more that this company has been in existence, the superior quality of the vinegar and the steady reliability of the goods have built up a business, and earned a reputation which but few such concerns can lay claim to possessing.

The greatest care is exercised in every department of the factory to bring their product up to the highest possible standard; and it can be said of the vinegar made there that not the slightest particle of organic matter can be found in it. The brands, of which there are several—all too well-known to need emuneration—are all white vinegar, the only white vinegar made in Canada. It is seldom, indeed, that one can take up a glass of vinegar and find the perfect clearness that is characteristic of the Lefebvre makes. This is due for the most part to the splendid equipment of the factory, for it has been generally recognized for some years that this is one of the most up-to-date and best fitted factories in America. In former years it was necessary in all factories to put the mixture through the same process three or four times; but now, with all the latest improvements in the factory, fittings and appliances, once is sufficient.

The vinegar is manufactured in bond, under a strict Government supervision, an inspector being on hand at all times, keeping the keys of the factory, spirit rooms, etc., and making thorough tests of the product. The make in every factory is bound to vary in quality from different causes to a greater or less degree; but the representative of THE GROCER learned from the inspector at this factory that an evenness of quality was being produced which it would be difficult to find elsewhere. Every batch is kept close to the standard. The cleanliness of this factory reflects credit on the management and on the methods of work. The floors, walls, vats and everything connected with the building are as free from all unclean substances as constant care and labor can render them.

From the mixing vat on the ground floor the liquid is pumped by steam up to the second floor into a large vat. From this it drips into the generators, and thence down to the ground floor again, into a huge vat from which the inspector makes his tests; as at this stage the mixture has become vinegar. Not a pint of the vinegar can be taken from the vat until the inspector has completed his tests. Afterwards it is run off into another vat and measured. Throughout the whole factory there are something like 100 of these different vats. The manufacturers of this vinegar have no duty to pay on the alcohol used; but, instead, must pay a duty to the Government of 4c. on every proof gallon of vinegar.

There is a possibility that the factory under the change of ownership will be enlarged, although its capacity now is one of the largest in America. It is the intention to go into the manufacture of pickles and jams some time in the near future.

SOLE WHOLESALE AGENTS,

THE EBY, BLAIN CO., LIMITED

WHOLESALE GROCERS, ETC. TORONTO.

AN IMPORTANT REMOVAL.

LOCKERBY BROS., tea importers and wholesale grocers, have moved from their old place at the corner of St. Sacrament and St. Peter streets, Montreal, into larger premises at 138 McGill street. The change has long been contemplated, but the firm had been located in the old place for 23 years, and put off the removal as long as possible. The continual increase in their business, however, made it next to impossible to get along in the cramped quarters of the former building. During the last months of their stay they were forced to listen to complaints about not delivering goods promptly enough; though, under the circumstances, with the great difficulty they had in shipping they were making deliveries as promptly as they were able.

But larger quarters had to be procured in the end, and in their new place they have some 15,000 ft. more space. The building has five floors and a basement, the rooms being 150 ft. deep, with ample light from the front and back of the building, as well as from a large skylight in the centre which gives light to every floor.

The basement is a great acquisition. It is splendidly lighted, and makes the best receiving room they could possibly have. The goods are slid from the wagons directly into this basement, and a hoist takes them to any floor desired. The yard in the rear is large, and no crowding of teams will take place as in the St. Sacrament street entrance. The shipping room is at the back of the ground floor, and two large doors provide accommodation for shipping the goods; or, if required, they can be brought in at one door, while others are placed on the wagons from the other door and sent to their destinations. The shipping facilities thus acquired are what the firm has long been in need of, and customers need have no fear of being made to wait for their goods in the future. Business can be done about twice as easily as in the old place. One half of the ground floor, in the rear, will be used for laying out orders, the sales-room being in the front part. The office is near to the door, a sample-room having been secured where some privacy may be had. Here is the tea-table, the kettle, and all necessary for the testing of the teas. The light, which is an important item in this operation, could not be stronger, the table being close to the window. It was with some regret that the firm parted with their old round tea table, which many people will remember. It was in the firm over a quarter of a century, and before that was used by Mr. Douglas, then by Douglas & Kirk, then by Kirk & Lockerby, and finally to the successors of all these firms, Lockerby Bros.

The upper floors will all be used for stock rooms, the general offices being in the front part of the first floor. An electric elevator is another convenience which could not be had in the old building, but which is in the new. Altogether, their new premises will afford accommodation and facilities which will be of importance to the firm's business.

INDUSTRIAL GOSSIP.

NEW SODA WATER WORKS. Soda water works are being established at Stratford, Ont., by George Tune, formerly of The Stratford Soda Water Works, and they will be conducted under the style of The Tune Bottling Company. The block belonging to Walsh Bros., on Ontario street, has been secured and fitted up with new machinery, the combined spray and generator system being adopted. There will be a compressor, pumps, gasometer, generator, syphon filler and crown filler, and the whole business will be run by an electric motor. The bottles will all bear the name and monogram of the new firm.

AN INTERESTING CASE.

A CASE which will, no doubt, have some interest for business men generally was decided the other day in the United States Circuit Court. A capitalist named Young had been advancing money to a firm in New York, which subsequently became insolvent. These advances were made according to an understanding with the president of the company long before it was known to be in an insolvent conditon. The company, in turn, gave demand notes for each advance made and signed bills receivable and collateral thereon. The amount finally owed Mr. Young was nearly $54,000. After the company became bankrupt this sum of money was collected and deposited with a trust company on the joint account of the trustee of the estate and Mr. Young. But when the latter endeavored to secure payment the trustee contended that the collateral held by the plaintiff did not constitute tangible assets, and that he was not entitled to go beyond the company to recover liabilities of the concern, and thus deprive the other creditors of a certain sum of money.

As our readers are well aware, the bankruptcy law which is in force in the United States allows no preference, and the object of the trustee of the estate was to present the case of Mr. Young in the light of a preference claim. The Court held, however, that, as the agreement was entered into prior to any knowledge on the part of either concern impending insolvency, the plaintiff was entitled to the fund held in the joint account.

We fancy that this decision will receive the endorsation of the business men generally, those, of course, excepted who are directly interested in preventing this large sum of money from being paid to one claimant against the estate.

EPXORTS OF CEYLON GREEN TEA.

ALTHOUGH the Ceylon green tea trade has not, perhaps, developed as rapidly as its champions hoped, yet the figures which have recently been issued from Colombo are not of a character which should cause dismay.

From January 1 to April 1, 307,121 lb. of green tea were exported, while last year for the same period the quantity was only 15,850 lb., an increase of 1,838 per cent.

The United Kingdom, which, in 1901, for that period took no Ceylon green tea, this year received 98,130 lb. Of course, the greater part of this was, no doubt, reexported. Russia also, which took none in 1901, took 24,210 lb. for the period named this year.

We are naturally more interested in the exports to America, and the figures show that while for the first three months of last year the quantity was only 12,010 lb., this year it reached over 184,000 lb.

A return recently received shows that from October, 1898, to December 31, 1901, the Government of Ceylon has paid bounty on 2,161,923 lb. of green tea. Practically all this tea, of course, came to Canada and the United States.

There is some good in all advertising and all advertising does some good, but the best advertising and the advertising that does the greatest good is newspaper advertising.

WORTH EMULATING.

A SOMEWHAT unique step is being taken on the Pacific Coast in regard to tourist travel.

In Victoria, B.C., and Tacoma, Wash., there are two live tourist associations. They hold regular meetings and are led by live men who are continually devising ways and means of attracting tourists to their respective localities. Fortunately they do not appear to to be actuated by any spirit of jealousy, for, instead of working against each other, they are cooperating, in order that the one may be able to help the other in attracting tourists to their respective cities.

Such mutual cooperation is seldom witnessed, even among cities in the same country, but we do not remember ever having heard before of tourist associations in different countries cooperating together as the two cities of Victoria and Tacoma are doing.

It is to be hoped that they have set an example which tourist associations, at least in Canada, will emulate. And there is no reason why it should not extend, also, to tourist associations in border cities on both sides of the line.

A PECULIAR HALIFAX LAW.

They have a somewhat peculiar by-law in force in Halifax, which prohibits the washing of store windows after eight o'clock in the mornings. In spite of this by-law one of the local storekeepers undertook one night after 11 o'clock to wash his windows, and for this offence he was brought before the Police Magistrate and compelled to pay a fine.

This somewhat peculiar and antiquated law is evidently a sort of a twin brother to the celebrated curfew law. Now that a fine has been imposed on one of the local merchants who is ambitious to have his store windows present a cleanly appearance, it is possible an agitation may arise which will cause its repeal.

There is no question about the necessity of repealing such a law, and it is to be hoped that the merchants of Halifax will unite their efforts in trying to bring it about.

NEED OF BUSINESS MEN.

THERE never was a time when the demand for business men in Governments was so reasonable as it is just now.

Nearly all the principal questions which are before the Canadian Government are of a business or trade character. Most of them are questions which merchants could settle much better than politicians. There are certain questions, we admit, which lawyers and professional politicians can deal with more readily than persons without political or legal training. But no questions of this class are as important to Canada at the present time as those purely commercial.

For example, take the matter of the Imperial conference, shortly to be held in London to discuss the relations of Great Britain with her colonies. To us the most vital of these relations is that of trade. Canada will have four Ministers of the Crown in London at that time. Of the four, but one, Mr. Paterson, is a business man.

We do not mean to say that the others are not able and distinguished men, but they are not business men. All the issues which arise out of the trade discussions in London must to some extent be new ground to three or four of our representatives. We do not say this in any complaining spirit, but only for the purpose of emphasizing what has been contended for in these columns during many years, namely, that there should be a larger representation of business men in all our Governments.

Canada is represented in London by an experienced and successful business man, Lord Strathcona. This is greatly to our advantage. We ought to induce our big men of like attainments to take a more prominent part in our public affairs. This is no idle complaint. In England itself, an agitation has been on foot for some time against the filling up of the most important offices in the State with men who do not understand business.,

During the last ten years the commercial interests of the world have been getting more and more important. Even war is now conducted on a business basis. Everything is being systematized.

Surely, then, there is nothing surprising in the demand that national commercial interests should, as far as possible, be attended to by commercial men of national standing?

Of course, political considerations often interpose and prevent Prime Ministers from filling up vacant offices with the best men. If so, we ought to change the political conditions, instead of going on year after year allowing the business of the country to fall more and more into the hands of politicians who, however honest and capable they may be, are men of theory and of vague ideas, instead of with practical experience and business insight.

CLERKS' ANOMALOUS POSITION.

THE grocery clerks of Charlottetown, P.E.I., are at present in a somewhat anomalous position.

For five nights in the week the stores of the dry goods, hardware and some other lines of business close at 6 o'clock, but the poor unfortunate grocery clerks are compelled to return to their labors every evening. Naturally, they are dissatisfied with this condition of affairs, and it is to be hoped that the agitation which has sprung up there for remedying this state of affairs will be successful.

There is no class of clerks that work harder than those engaged in the grocery business or of whom more intelligent attention is demanded.

If they are compelled to work long hours, and especially longer hours than the clerks in other lines of business, they cannot be expected to do justice to their employers, or to any one else. The grocers of Charlottetown would find it to their own interests to place their clerks on an equal footing with those engaged in the dry goods and other trades.

A FAST SERVICE.

IT IS stated that the Ottawa Government is considering an arrangement for the inauguration of a fast transatlantic steamship line having connections with a transcontinental railway. It is said that, with this end in view, negotiations have been opened with the C. P. R. for a weekly passenger service between Great Britain and Canada equal to the best that sails from New York. A dozen steamers would be required to maintain a good freight service, and the total cost of the undertaking would be $20,000,000. The Government has power at present to subsidize a line at $700,000 a year, but for a passenger and freight service $1,000,000 yearly would be required.

When Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his colleagues go to Great Britain in June, this project is likely to be discussed with the C.P.R. directors and representatives of the British Government.

FOREST HOLME'S FIRST CARGO.

THE cargo of the steamer Forest Holme, containing 25,000 boxes of Messina, Sorrento and Maiori lemons and oranges, was sold at auction on May 9. There was a good attendance of buyers, New York, Boston and Chicago being represented, besides the local fruit men.

The average price brought was not up to that of former sales this season, as much of the fruit was in very poor condition. Messina lemons sold as low as 40c. The bidding on the better quality of fruit, however, was brisk and sales were quickly effected at good prices.

Sorrento oranges sold from $1.50 to $2.75 for finest fruit; Maiori lemons, from 75c. to $3, and Messina lemons from 40c. to $1.80.

The principal Montreal buyers were Hart & Tuckwell, Vipond & Co., and John Barry & Sons.

The steamer Bellona has now unloaded and her cargo will be sold on Friday, May 16. It consists of 33,000 packages of Sorrento oranges and Messina lemons. A few Messina oranges are included. This fruit will likely bring better prices, as it is in the very best of condition.

The Escalona is the next steamer to arrive. She will be the last.

INQUIRIES ABOUT CANADIAN TRADE.

Inquiries received by the Canadian section of the Imperial Institute, London, Eng.:

1. A Glasgow firm wishes to appoint reliable agents in the leading Canadian cities for the sale of Clyde refined sugar.

2. A London agent, long established, wishes to hear from Canadian manufacturers and shippers seeking representation.

[The names of the firms making the above inquiries can be obtained on application to the Editor of THE CANADIAN GROCER.]

FIFTY YEARS AGO.

The following is from The Toronto Globe of 50 years ago:

It is proposed to construct a substantial new suspension bridge at the Falls for the use of the Great Western and the other railway companies, whose lines will meet at that point on both sides of the river. It is not intended that trains of passenger carriages shall pass over it, but only baggage and freight cars, slowly propelled by horses or stationary engines. It is supposed that travellers would prefer to walk over, and, with a great deal of reason, too.

The business on the Ottawa may be looked upon now as having fairly commenced. On Monday last 14 cribs of white pine passed through the North Chaudiere slide. Apropos, speaking of timber, we understand that several parcels of white pine have changed hands among the merchants in Quebec at 8d. per foot.

We observe that a ship direct from China with teas for Messrs. Gibb & Ross has arrived at Quebec.

THE WIARTON SUGAR FACTORY.

The corner stone of the Wiarton Sugar Factory will be laid on June 5 under the auspices of the Masonic Grand Lodge of Canada. Grand Master John E. Harding, of Lindsay, will perform the ceremony. At present the main building is rapidly being pushed forward and will be ready for its roof in five or six weeks. Work has been commenced on the walls of the sugar house, 75 x 200 feet, at the north end of the main building, and machinery for the machine shop is being installed as soon as it arrives. There are about 100 men altogether employed around the works.

CUSTOMS REGULATIONS AT SKAGWAY.

The Toronto Board of Trade received a communication on May 12 from Skagway regarding Customs affairs at that place. The document is as follows:

The Skagway Chamber of Commerce ask your co-operation in obtaining from your Government Customs regulations at Skagway that will permit the warehousing in bond and subsequent re-entry of Canadian goods into Canada in broken bulk as the trade may require. The immense benefits that the people of the Canadian Yukon would derive from such a Customs regulation are too self-evident to require more than a mere mention. Dealers could hold their stocks in bond at Skagway, breaking the bulk as demanded by their trade, and relieved of the necessity of ordering their every invoice from a distance of a thousand miles further away than the port of Skagway, would be under no necessity of carrying large sums of money in the high freight between Skagway and interior points. It would further obviate the necessity of buying beyond current needs, as under these circumstances Canadian wholesalers would certainly carry adequate stocks in bond at Skagway. The benefit to the Dominion at large would by no means be inconsiderable. The impetus thus given to Canadian trade would displace United States goods in the Skagway market by enabling merchants of this city to fill their orders with Canadian goods. The business which Skagway now carries on with the Canadian interior consists almost solely in filling orders to satisfy the requirements of trade that cannot wait for shipments from Vancouver. Under present circumstances this trade, which in the aggregate is by no means inconsiderable, must apply to dutiable merchandise of the United States. The merchants of Skagway could not find it profitable to do business with an interior patronage with dutiable merchandise were they brought in competition with local stocks of like non-dutiable goods.

An arrangement of this kind would, moreover, greatly tend to obliterate border ill-feeling over matters of present international controversy.

This matter will be taken up for consideration by the council later on.

STOLE JAM.

The grocery store of John Campbell, 192 Queen street west, Toronto, was entered on Tuesday, May 13, by John Cronin, who declared he was hungry. Some bologna sausages and some biscuits and cheese were handed out to him by its proprietor, which were eaten by Cronin. He could not have been satisfied with what he got, for, on leaving the store, it is alleged that he picked up a pail of jam, carrying it off with him. He was soon arrested and gave his address as 218 Richmond street west, Toronto.

The case was brought up in the Police Court on Wednesday, May 14, when it transpired that the man's name was John Brownlee, and not Cronin. His address was not 218 Richmond street west either, but he had boarded there four years ago. He was sent down for three months.

HAVE COMPROMISED.

McKenzie, Meldrum & Co., general merchants, Thedford, Ont., have compromised at 50c. on the dollar, cash. This arrangement was made at a meeting of their creditors in Toronto on May 13. The firm was burned out about a month ago sustaining a total loss. The insurance was $6,000, and $3,500 of this was paid to the firm which McKenzie, Meldrum & Co. had bought out and the balance left to pay the creditors. The liabilities are about $5,500.

TO CARRY SALMON TO ENGLAND.

Four large vessels have been chartered already to carry the salmon pack of British Columbia to Europe this year. They are the Artemis of 1,463 tons, the Cambrian Hills of 1,760 tons, the Marian Woodsides of 1,549 tons, and the Glenmark of 1,357 tons. These are all sailing vessels. It is claimed that the reason for not chartering steamers is that fish shipped so long a distance in steamers, through many different atmospheres and constantly subjected to the vibration caused by the machinery in operation, would deteriorate in quality and value.

SARNIA PROHIBITS TRADING STAMPS.

The Town Council of Sarnia, Ont., have passed a by-law prohibiting the use of trading stamps, coupons or other devices within the limits of the corporation. It will come into force on August 1, 1902.

HALIFAX-JAMAICA SERVICE.

A monthly service between Halifax and Jamaica has been contracted for by the Dominion Government with the Halifax and West India Steamship Co. The company will receive a subsidy of $1,150 a trip, or $13,800 per annum for 12 trips. The steamer Beta is the vessel to be put on the route. Her registered tonnage is 1,037.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

Toronto, May 15, 1902.

GROCERIES.

THE past week has not been a particularly noted one in the wholesale grocery trade. The volume of business is rather light. This is no doubt due to some extent to the unsettled feeling in regard to refined sugars, particularly in view of the fact that the price of granulated declined 5c. per 100 lb. in New York on Monday in spite of a strong raw market in Europe. In canned goods the chief feature is possibly the weaker feeling in regard to canned beans, which have been reduced 2½c. per dozen by the packers. Tomatoes and peas remain steady and unchanged. In spices, the most interesting feature is a slightly easier feeling in regard to pepper. Rice and tapioca are meeting with a fairly seasonable demand. There is just a moderate demand for coffees, and the outside markets are slightly firmer at the moment. There is not a great deal doing in either syrups or molasses. The latter rules steady to firm. In teas, there is a little more doing in Japan descriptions, which rule firm, while Indian and Ceylon teas continue weak. Nothing particunew has developed during the week in regard to foreign dried fruits, the demand generally being fairly good, with prices steady to firm.

CANNED GOODS.

The market for canned beans is weaker. Prices have been reduced 2½c. by the packers, while the demand is dull. Although canned beans do not cut much of a figure in the canned goods market, this reduction has attracted some attention. Wholesalers quote 70 to 75c. to the retail trade. As canned beans are being sold by the retailers at as low as 5c. per tin, it is possible the consumption of this line will be stimulated, and, of course, the situation ultimately improved. Canned corn continues weak, although the fact that at least three of the factories in the Niagara Peninsula have agreed with the Packers' Association not to put up any corn this season, naturally tends to improve the tone of the market, particularly as there is a good consumptive demand. If the packers put through their scheme to put up no corn this season rather higher prices may be expected to rule on this article. Canned tomatoes are in rather good demand and firm in price from 92½ to 95c. Further inquiries for canned tomatoes have been received this week from New York and Chicago, and we understand that some carlots have recently been sent to Minneapolis. It appears that the lowest price at which canned tomatoes can be purchased from the packers is 90 to 92½c. in carlots, and at these prices the stock is limited. Canned fruits are meeting with a fair demand. The feature of the canned fruit market is the scarcity of gallon and 3-lb. apples, for which there is a fair inquiry. Three-pound canned apples are quoted at from 90c. to $1, and gallons at $2.65 up. The demand for canned meats is keeping up well, and prices rule firm with 1-lb. cans being quoted at $1.55 to $1.65. The demand for canned salmon is good, and correspondence received this week from Vancouver indicates that the proposed amalgamation will be, at least partly, successful. We quote: Fraser River sockeye, $1.42½ for five-case lots and over, and $1.45 for less quantities. Northern sockeye, $1.25 to $1.30; cohoes, $1.05 to $1.15, according to quality. The market is still bare of canned haddies, but the canners report that the fish are beginning to run and that packing is now going on more freely. It is expected that small lots will be shipped early in June. Local wholesalers quote price firm at $1 to $1.10.

SPICES.

Singapore black pepper for forward shipment is being quoted at lower prices. Stocks of pepper on the local market appear to be rather light at the moment.

See pages 39 and 40 for Toronto, Montreal, and St. John prices current.

Ginger, if anything, is a little easier in the outside markets. Locally, the spice trade is moderate.

COFFEES.

There is not a great deal being done in green Rio coffees, but in roasted coffees a fair business is to be noted. The outside markets have taken a little firmer turn, and receipts at points in Brazil are rather light. Local quotations are unchanged. We quote: Green Rio, No. 7, 7¾c.; No. 6, 8c.; No. 5, 8¼c.; No. 4, 9c.; No. 3, 10 to 12c. per lb.

SUGAR.

The sugar market in Canada remains in much about the same condition as it was a week ago. If anything, the demand is, perhaps, a little better, but it is still light, with prices unchanged. The disturbing feature this week is a decline of 5c. per 100 lb. in granulated sugar in New York. This decline is due to the same cause as the decline of last week in Canada, namely, heavy receipts of foreign granulated. In Europe, both beet and cane sugar rules firm. In New York there has been a decline of ⅛c. per lb. in Muscovado raw sugars. Centrifugals are unchanged, but there is said to be every indication that the next sale will be at a reduction. Local representatives of Austrian refiners report that granulated is held at equal to 5 to 10c. per 100 lb. higher than a week ago for June and September shipments. The difference between the price of foreign granulated and Canadian is at present so small that the confectionery manufacturers, who are the principal users of the former, are now giving the preference to Canadian sugar.

The receipts of raw sugar at the four United States ports last week were 32,072 tons and the meltings, 33,000 tons, thus reducing the stock by 1,072 tons. The total stocks in the four United States ports at the end of last week were 133,177 tons against 134,105 tons the week before, and 216,568 tons a year ago. The stocks, however, in the United States and Cuba together are 566,177 tons against 404,308 tons a year ago.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

The demand for both syrups and molasses is only light. Advices from New Orleans report a fairly firm market. We quote: Corn syrup, 3½ to 3¾c. in barrels and kegs; sugar syrups, 30 to 32c. for medium, and 35 to 40c. for bright. Molasses, 24 to 26c. for open-kettle.

RICE AND TAPIOCA.

There is the usual steady trade being done both in rice and tapioca. The recent salvage auction sale in Toronto at which tapioca sold at 2 to 2½c. per lb. has somewhat disturbed the local market. We quote: B rice, 3¼c.; Japan, 5½ to 6c. tapioca, 3½ to 3¾c., and sago, 3¾ to 4c. per lb.

TEAS.

The first samples of early picking Japan tea arrived on the Toronto market early this week. The prices asked for early May pickings are about 5 per cent. higher than last year, according to a cable received in Toronto on Tuesday. Of course, these samples are sent on more as a matter of form than for the purpose of transacting business. In consequence of the high price of Japan tea of new season's growth, a little more attention is being given to last season's teas, there having been quite a number of inquiries at from 14 to 17c., and some transactions have taken place. A cable from Foochow says that the export duty on tea has been reduced to 5 per cent. It was formerly 10 per cent. The market for Indian and Ceylon black tea continues weak and very little business is being done. Mail advices from London, England, under date of May 2, say that, although the quantity of Indian tea offered at the auction was smaller, it proved far in excess of requirements, and, with very poor competition, prices marked a further decline of fully ¼d. per lb., except for teas possessing choice quality. In Ceylon teas the auction was smaller at any time since the beginning of January, but, in spite of this, there was no improvement in prices. There have been some transactions on the local market in Ceylon green teas, but there is still a scarcity of this description. China green teas are still practically unobtainable.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS — The currant market rules steady as to price, and the local demand is fair. We quote: Filiatras, 5¾ to 6c; Patras, 6½ to 7c., and Vostizzas, 7½ to 8c.

VALENCIA RAISINS—The shipment due to arrive here last week did not arrive until Tuesday of this week. It was only a small one, and will, no doubt, be quickly absorbed. Prices continue firm at 6¾c. to 7c. for selected and 7¼ to 7½c. for layers. There are a few fine off-stalk raisins on the local market, which are being quoted at 5¾ to 6c.

PRUNES—Business continues fairly good, and prices steady. Spot prunes in New York are reported stronger. Prices locally are unchanged We quote as follows: Californian prunes, 100-110's., 5c.; 90-100's, 5½ to 6¼c.; 80-90's, 6½ to 7c.; 70-80's, 6¾ to 7¼c.; 60-70's, 7½ to 8c.; 50-60's, 8 to 8½c.; 40 50's, 8¾ to 10c.

FIGS—The demand continues fairly good for tapnet figs at 3½c. per lb.

DATES — Continue in light demand at 4½c. in bulk, and 6¼ to 6½c. in packages.

CALIFORNIAN EVAPORATED FRUITS—The demand continues fair and prices unchanged at 11 to 14c.; for peaches, and 13 to 17c. for apricots.

GREEN FRUITS.

There is an improved demand for lemons and the market that is at present loaded with perishable Messina and Valencia stock will soon be restored to a more healthy condition. The sales of oranges continue large, but they are scarce. The receipts of pineapples have increased and they have been reduced in price 50c. to $1 per crate. Strawberries are coming in large shipments and they are down to 15 to 18c. per quart. Some apples are being offered at $7 per barrel. Bananas are firmer and the good demand for them has a tendency to advance their prices. We quote: Oranges, Mexicans, $2.75 to $3.25 per box; Californian navels, $4.25 to $4.75 per box; Mediterranean sweets, $4.00 to $4.50; Valencias, $6 to $6.50 per small case, $7 to $7.50 per large case; grape fruit, $4 to $5.50 per box; bananas, $1.20 to $2 for firsts, and $1.25 for eight hands; pineapples, $3 50 to $4 per case; Southern cucumbers, $1.75 to $2.25 per doz.; Egyptian onions, $3 per sack; Messina lemons, $2.50 to $3.50; Palermo lemons, $2.25 to $2.75; Sorrento lemons, $2.50 to $3.50 per crate; Southern tomatoes, $3 to $3.50 per case of 6 baskets; strawberries, 15 to 18c. per quart.

VEGETABLES.

There is a good trade doing in rhubarb, onions, lettuce and asparagus. Carrots are scarce, but are in good demand. There is some Californian grown cabbage on the market at $3 per crate and new potatoes are being offered at $8 per bbl. We quote: Green onions, 7 to 8c. per doz.; rhubarb, 20 to 40c. per doz.; carrots, parsnips and beets, 40 to 50c. per bag; turnips, 25 to 35c. per bag; lettuce, 20 to 30c. per doz.; radishes, 35 to 40c.; mint and parsley, 20 to 25c.; cabbage, 50 to 70c. per doz.; dry Egyptian onions, $1.75 per bush; potatoes, 85 to 95c. per bag; asparagus, 50 to 75c. per doz.; butter beans, 90c. per peck; Californian cabbage, $3 per crate; new potatoes, $8 per bbl.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—The market continues strong at 13 to 13½c. per doz., an advance of ½c. over the prices of a week ago. The receipts are large, but the competition amongst the buyers in the country keeps up the prices. A larger quantity than usual are being placed in pickle this spring.

BEANS — The demand is slack. We quote: Choice hand-picked, $1.20 to $1.30; prime, $1.10 to $1.20 per bush.

HONEY—There is some trade doing. We quote as follows: Clover, in 60-lb. tins, 9½ to 10c.; less quantities, 10 to 11c. per lb.; in combs, $2 to $3 per doz.; dark honey, 5 to 5½c. per lb.

MAPLE SYRUP AND SUGAR — There is a quiet demand. We quote: Maple syrup, in 10-lb. tins 90c., and 90c. to $1.10 per imperial gallon. Maple sugar is quoted at 9 to 10½c. per lb.

DRIED AND EVAPORATED APPLES—There continues a good demand for evaporated apples, but they are scarce. We quote as follows: Evaporated apples, 9¾ to 10c. in carlots and 10¾c. per lb. in less quantities. Dried apples, 5 to 6c. per lb.

POTATOES — The demand for potates for export to the United States has fallen off, and prices have declined 10c. per bag. They are now quoted at 75 to 80c. per bag on the track.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—The weakness in the butter market last week has been followed this week by a decline of 1c. per lb. The receipts are large, and choice dairy prints and rolls are in brisk demand. There are some good grades of creamery being offered at 19 and 20c. per lb., but the prices for well-known grades are up to 23c. We quote as follows: Choice 1-lb. prints, 16 to 17c.; large rolls, 15 to 16c.; tubs, best quality, 14 to 15c.; tubs, medium grade, 12 to 13c. per lb.; bakers' lots, 10 to 12c. Creamery prints are worth from 19 to 23c., and creamery solids, 19 to 21c. per lb.

CHEESE—The market for cheese continues strong, although nearly all the old cheese has been exported or consumed, and new cheese is now being made in increasing quantities. The prices are expected to weaken in a few days, as they are now abnormally high for the class of cheese being offered. We quote cheese in small lots, 12 to 12¼c., and for export, 11½ to 11¾c.; new cheese, 11½c.

FISH.

There is a big demand for herring and trout and the former are scarce. The latter have declined ½c. per lb. The catch of all kinds of fish this year is large and the prices are lower than they have been for many years. We quote: Fresh fish—Lake Erie herring, 4 to 5c.; perch, 4 to 5c.; trout, 6½c.; mullet, 3c.; pike, 4c.; British Columbian salmon, 20c.; whitefish, 7½ to 8c.; catfish, 10c. per doz.; blue fish, 9c. per lb.; mackerel, 12 to 15c.

GRAIN, FLOUR AND BREAKFAST FOODS.

GRAIN—A big decrease in the world's visible supply of wheat, together with the expectation of an adverse Government crop report, has caused the Chicago wheat market to brace up considerably. This is having its effect here, for the price of Manitoba hard wheat is 87c.; No. 1 Northern, 84c., and No. 2 Northern, 82c. per bush., advances of 1c., 1½c. and 2c., respectively. The arrivals of grain on the local market comprise some oats, a little wheat and less rye. We quote prices paid on the street: Red and white Ontario wheat, 77 to 81c.; oats, 47 to 48c.; barley, 55c., and rye, 62c. per bushel. At outside stations 77½c. is paid for fall wheat at the cars.

FLOUR — The changes in the wheat market have caused buyers of flour to purchase only in small lots, and trade is inclined to be quiet. We quote: Ontario patents, in bags, $3.60 to $3.75; Hungarian patents, $4.00 to $4.15; Manitoba bakers', $3.70 to $3.85; straight roller, $3 30 to $3.40 per bbl. in Toronto.

BREAKFAST FOODS—There has been an improvement in the demand all around and the prices are firm. We quote as follows: Oatmeal, standard and granulated, in carlots on track here, $4.75; standard rolled oats in carlots on track here, $4.50; in bbl., 20c. more; broken lots are 20c. per bbl. extra; rolled wheat, $2.40 in 100 lb. bbl.; cornmeal, $3.60; split peas, $4 75; pot barley, $4.25, in 196-lb. bbls.

HIDES, SKINS AND WOOL.

HIDES—The scarcity of hides is still felt. The demand for them is good. We quote: No. 1 green, 7½c.; No. 2 green, 6½c.; No. 1 green, steers, 8½c.; No. 2 green, steers, 7½c.; cured, 8½c.

SKINS—The receipts of sheep and lambskins are small. We quote: No. 1 calfskins, 10c.; and No. 2, 8c.; deacons (dairies) 60 to 70c. each; sheepskins, 80c. to $1; lambskins, 20 to 25c.

WOOL — There is scarcely any trade doing. We quote: Fleece wool, 12½c., and unwashed, 7c. per lb.

SEEDS.

The season is nearly over and the demand is slack. We quote out of store at Toronto: Red clover, $6.50 to $9; alsike, $10 to $16, and timothy, $7.80 to $8.25.

MARKET NOTES.

Canned beans are weaker.

Granulated sugar is 5c. lower in New York.

GROCERIES.

THERE has been a general improvement over the business of the previous week in groceries, although it must be said that the impetus given to trade by the opening of the canals was not as great as was expected. Business with points in the country has gradually increased in volume, and now that the roads are in a fairly good shape, this trade has become steadier and much more satisfactory. B and CC rice have declined 7½c. per 100 lb. in all sized quantities. Gallon apples have been advanced by some jobbers on account of their scarcity, and in 3-lb. apples an advance of 10c. was made. In prime white pea beans, as a result of the situation which we explained in a recent issue, a material advance has been considered necessary by jobbers, who are now quoting them at $1.40 per bushel. The large arrivals of ground sulphur, which have been bought at very low prices, has unsettled the market for the time, and jobbers have reduced their prices accordingly, the stock now selling, per bag lots, at 1⅝ to 1¾c. per lb. Peanuts have gone up another ¼c. per lb. In pork, both Chicago and Canadian, a continual rising market has prevailed, and further advances have occurred during the week past. Some damage was reported to have been done to the market gardeners' crops on Montreal Island and in the counties in that vicinity by the frost which occurred on Friday night. One of the most important gardeners stated that his crops had been ruined, some four acres of cabbages having been destroyed, and tomatoes and melons also being in bad shape. Plum and cherry trees also suffered. At Lachine, considerable damage was reported, many of the small fruit trees being blasted. Stocks of fried smelts are almost exhausted. The canners' stocks are also exhausted, and they will not be procurable until the next pack is put up in September.

SUGAR.

Trade has gone along in this market much as usual, notwithstanding the decline of 10c. in white sugars. The present price for granulated sugar is $3.70, and for yellows, $3.05 to $3.70. The only inconvenience experienced now is that refiners are not able to supply any extra ground sugar, and it is probable that they will not be able to make deliveries of any for ten or twelve days. The consumption of sugar is gradually increasing, and this, besides the fact that the raw sugar market was firmer, gave no one the idea that a decline was likely, so the low prices, the lowest on record here, came as a surprise to all in the trade.

TEAS.

All reports received from Japan regarding the crop there confirm the belief in the strong feeling on that market. A cable received lately stated that the market had opened 2 yen higher than last year, and business was very active. The market at this figure was firm. The weather conditions have been most unfavorable, frost damaging the crops in some places to such an extent that the first pickings will be only half the average. It has been settled to date that there are only 9,000 piculs as against 19,000 last year. Locally, there has been practically no change. Trade is slowly improving with country points. Green teas continue very firm.

SYRUPS.

The market for corn syrup is quiet and uninteresting. No quotable change has been made. Our quotations on corn syrups are as follows : 3½c. in bbls.; 3⅝c. in ½ bbls.; 3¾c. in ¼ bbls.; $1.60 in 38½-lb. and $1.20 in 25-lb. pails.

MOLASSES.

The market for Barbados molasses continues unsettled. Montreal jobbers are still quoting 23 to 24c., although a considerably lower price than this has been taken. The statement in some papers that the eruption at St. Pierre had damaged the cane in Barbados by ashes, etc., received little respect from good authorities, most of whom state that the greater part of the crop has already been marketed, and even under other conditions, any such damage to the canes could easily be overcome. The price of Antigua molasses is 24c. and Porto Rico, 38c.

CANNED GOODS.

The feature in the canned goods trade during the week has been the advance in 3-lb. apples of 10c., making the present price $1.10. Gallon apples are also difficult to obtain, and the market is firmer and higher, warranting the jobbers asking $2.85 to $2.90 for them, an advance of 10 to 15c. The situation in tomatoes grows more serious, and the scarcity continues as great as ever, though jobbers show a disinclination to advance prices. The demand for salmon has increased greatly, buyers apparently being afraid of the pack getting into the control of a trust, with consequent higher prices. We quote as follows: Peas, 82½c. to $1.15 ; corn (ordinary), 80c.; tomatoes, 95 to 97½c.; gallon apples, $2.85 to $2.90; 3-lb. apples, $1.10 ; salmon, $1.00 to $1.05 ; for pink ; $1.30 for spring ; $1.32 for Rivers Inlet red sockeye ; $1.45 for Fraser River red sockeye, and $1.42½ to $1.45 for "Clover Leaf" talls.

SPICES.

There has been nothing new in this market to report. A good business is doing, and our quotations are now as follows : Nutmegs, 30 to 55c. per lb., as to size ; penang mace, 45 to 50c. per lb.; as to quality ; pimento, ground, 12½ to 15c.; cloves, 15 to 25c.; pepper, ground, black, 17 to 22c., according to grade ; white, 25 to 27c.; ginger, whole, Cochin, 15 to 17c.; Japan, 13 to 14c.; Jamaica, 16 to 20c.; Afghan, 12 to 13c.; ground, Japan, 15c.; Cochin, 16 to 17c.; Jamaica, 20 to 22c., and Afghan, 13 to 14c.

RICE AND TAPIOCA.

A decline has taken place in B and CC rice of 7½c. Trade this week is quite active. We quote : B rice, in bags, $3.02½; in ½ bags, $3.07½ ; in ¼ bags, $3.12½ ; in pockets, $3.17½. In 10-bag lots an allowance of 10c. is made. CC rice,, $2.92½ in bags ; $2.97½ in ½ bags ; $3.02½ in ¼ bags, and $3.07½ in pockets. In the open territory prices are about 10c. less. Patna rice is worth 4 to 5c. per lb., and tapioca, 3⅛ to 4c.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS.—The primary market has shown a strong upward tendency, the firm feeling being due to various complaints made in regard to the disease in the vines, which may become more general if the present wet weather continues. The local prices are : Fine Filiatras, 5⅝c. in ½ cases ; cleaned, 6c.; 1-lb. cartons, 8c.; finest Vostizzas, 7¾ to 8c. per lb.

VALENCIA RAISINS.—These are very scarce. We quote : Finest off-stalk, 6¼c.; selected, 6⅝c.; layers, 6⅞ to 7c. per lb.

SULTANA RAISINS.—This market is practically bare of Sultanas, and it is reported that they are also very scarce on the London market. What few there are are held at firm prices. The local price is 9c. per lb.

CANDIED PEELS.—Trade is as usual. Citron peel sells for 16½c.; orange, 11½c., and lemon, 10½c.

MALAGA RAISINS.—There is an active inquiry for these, but little business is doing as there is great difficulty in obtaining supplies. Quotations are as follows : London layers, $1.50 to $1.60 ; "Connoisseur Clusters," $2.15 to $2.25 ; ¼'s, 65 to 70c.; "Royal Buckingham Clusters," $3.30 to $3.35 ; ¼'s, $1.05 to $1.10 ; "Excelsior Windsor Clusters," $4.50 to $4.60 ; ¼'s, $1.30 to $1.40.

DATES.—These are scarce. Hallowees sell for 4½c. per lb.

FIGS.—There is also some scarcity in figs. The inquiry is active. Tapnets are worth $1.20 and layers, $1.15.

CALIFORNIAN RAISINS.—There is a good business passing in Californian seeded raisins at unchanged prices. They are now quoted at 9¼ to 9½c. per lb.

PRUNES.—Nothing new has been heard from the primary market in regard to these. A steady demand keeps up, and our quotations are as follows : 8½c. for 40-50's ; 8c. for 50-60's ; 7¾c. for 60-70's ; 7½c. for 70-80's ; 6¾c. for 80-90's ; 6½c. for 90-100's.

CALIFORNIAN EVAPORATED FRUITS —The market is steady in all lines. A good demand continues. Apricots sell for 14½c.; peaches, 10½c., and pears, 10c.

NUTS.

Another ¼c. advance has been made in peanuts, and prospects are that still higher prices will prevail. At present, "Coon" and "G" brands, roasted, ought to sell for 7½ to 8c. respectively, in bag lots, considering the present basis of the primary market. Other lines on this market remain unchanged in price. A letter from Ferdinand, Baller & Co., Messina, dated April 30, says of filberts : "The last price paid for prompt shipment was 43s. 6d. c. & f. New York. For future delivery of the new crop, 47s. 3d., with freight to New York at 1s. 9d. per bag. Local prices are : Walnuts, 9¾ to 11c. ; Tarragona almonds, 12 to 13c. ; shelled walnuts, 16½ to 17½c. ; shelled almonds, 26 to 27c. ; Jordan shelled almonds, 42c.; filberts, 8¾ to 9¼c.; pecans, 15 to 16c.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER.—There is a gradual increase in the deliveries as the season advances. Butter is coming forward better this year than last, there being more inducement, as prices are higher. Finest creamery is still quoted at 19 to 20c., though at the latter price not much business has been transacted. Dairy sells for 17 to 18c.

CHEESE.—Finest colored and white cheese are both quoted at 11 to 11¼c. Holders and buyers are still at loggerheads over the price, and although the inquiry is active the business doing does not amount to a great deal. The inquiry for export is very good, shipments to date amounting to twice as much as during the same period a year ago.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS.—An advance took place on Monday of ½c. per dozen in eggs. The demand is good and a much firmer feeling prevails on the market. The present price is 12½ to 13½c. No. 2 eggs are, for the moment, scarce. There was some inquiry for pickled eggs for export in fall, but at the advanced price little business, if any, was done.

HONEY.—There has been no change in the market, and our quotations are as follows : Buckwheat honey in comb, 9 to 10c. ; strained, 7 to 8c.; white clover comb, 13 to 14c. ; white extracted, 9 to 10c. per lb. ; slightly tinged, 10 to 11c.

ASHES.—The market is dull. We quote : First pots, $4.30 to $4.35 ; seconds, $3.90, and pearls, $6 per 100 lb.

MAPLE PRODUCTS.—There is a fair business doing in maple products at unchanged prices, syrup selling for 70 to 80c. in large tins, and 50 to 60c. in small tins. Sugar, 9 to 9½c. for finest goods.

BEANS.—Business continues brisk in this line. Primes sell for $1.25 to $1.30 in jobbing lots.

POTATOES.—Following upon the stronger feeling which developed in this market, choice Quebec stock advanced 7 to 10c. and are now quoted at 80 to 85c. in carlots, and ordinary at 60 to 65c. per bag. Choice Ontario stock sells for 70 to 75c.

GREEN FRUITS.

There is a fairly good demand for green fruits, and the market is improving. Canadian asparagus is coming forward in better quantities, and the price is now $1.50 to $1.75, or 75c. to $1 lower than a week ago. Oranges and lemons remain at our former quotations. Arrivals of Canadian asparagus have sent down the price of this article $1 per bbl. Strawberries are 12 to 15c. per box lower. Canadian lettuce has gone down 5c. We quote as follows : Jamaica oranges, in bbls., $4.50 to $4.75 ; in boxes, $2.75 ; Valencia oranges, 420's, $5.00 ; 420's, Jumbo, $4.75 ; 714's, $5 ; Messina lemons, $2 to $3 per box ; pineapples, 20 to 25c. ; Canadian apples, $4.25 to $5.50 per bbl.; cocoanuts, $3.50 per bag of 100 ; bananas, No. 1, $1.25 to $2, and eight hands, $1 to $1.50 ; sweet potatoes, Vinelands, $5.50 to $6 ; Malaga grapes, $5.50 to $7 per keg; cranberries, $7.75 to $10.50; red onions, $3.50 per barrel ; yellow $3.25 ; chestnuts, 10 to 11c. ; Italian chestnuts, 12½c.; grape fruit, $4.25 to $5 per box ; Florida tomatoes, $3 to $3.50 per crate ; fine spies, $5.00 to $5.50 ; radishes, 45c. per doz.; spinach, $2 per bbl.; No. 1 cucumbers, $1.20 to $1.40 per doz.; strawberries, 13 to 15c. per box; asparagus, 40 cents per bunch ; Boston lettuce, $1.00 per dozen ; Canadian lettuce, 35c. per doz. ; Canadian spinach, $2.00 per bbl.; Egyptian onions, 2¾c. per lb.

FISH.

The market for fresh fish is in an unsettled condition as to price. There are plenty of every sort offering, and prices have gone very low. Halibut was sold last week at 5c., which is the lowest price on record in this market. British Columbian salmon was disposed of at 14 to 15c. There is a good demand for fish, the cold weather which prevailed towards the end of last week having given an impetus to the trade. FLOUR AND GRAIN.

Henri Jonas & Co. - Montreal.

FLOUR.—The general tone of the flour market is firm. Manitoba flour is in good demand, but the higher prices asked for Ontario are curtailing the business in that line. Straight rollers are 10c. higher. We quote : Manitoba spring wheat patent, $3.90 to $4.25 ; winter wheat patents, $3.75 to $3.85 ; strong bakers', $3.55 to $3.95 ; straight rollers, $3.50 to $3.60.

GRAIN.—Ontario No. 1 spring wheat has advanced 1c. more, but the demand for Ontario wheat is not active. Oats are ½c. higher and buckwheat 1c. higher. We quote: Ontario No. 1 spring wheat afloat May, 78c.; No. 2 spring wheat, 76c. ; peas, 87½c.; rye, 62½c. ; oats, 47½c. ex-store ; corn, 72c. ; buckwheat, 68c., middle freights ; barley, 57c.

OATMEAL.—No quotable change has occurred in this market, but the market is firmer in sympathy with the higher price of oats. We quote : Rolled oats, $4.90 to $5 in bbls., and $2.40 to $2.50 in bags.

FEED.—Deliveries of feed have not been very heavy, and under an active demand the market has become firmer. Ontario bran is quoted 50c. per ton higher. We quote: Ontario bran, in carlots, $19 per ton ; shorts, $21.50 ; Manitoba bran, $19; shorts, $22 per ton, including bags.

BALED HAY.—There has been no change in the market for baled hay. The feeling, however, is firmer. We quote : No. 1 timothy, $9 to $9.50 ; No. 2, $8 to $8.50 ; clover, mixed, $7.50 to $8 ; clover, $7 to $7.50 per ton, in carlots.

MONTREAL NOTES.

Peanuts have advanced ½c.

Eggs are ½c. per dozen higher.

B and CC rices are 7½c. per 100 lb. lower.

Strawberries have dropped 12 to 15c. per box.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

St. John, N.B., May 10, 1902.

THOUGH early there are many indications that the Exhibition to be held next fall will be one of the best we have ever had. Special efforts are being made to make it attractive to the farmer. This will insure a very large attendance and manufacturers will find it greatly to their interest to be attractively represented. As the best space is being quickly taken up our western friends should not delay. Many of the western manufacturers who have put in exhibits in the past have reaped large results.

In business the week has shown steady movement. There has been little of particular interest. Evaporated apples have become very scarce. Cream of tartar is held at firmer figures. Rice is quite low and there is a good steady sale.

OILS.—In burning oils there is a good sale for the season, and prices are rather firmer. Paint oils are held firm at full figures ; the largest sale is over. Turpentine is much lower. This is a line that is bought in small quantities. Lubricating oils move freely, and the trade is a growing one. In seal oil, even after new oil is on the market, the high prices are likely to rule. Cod oil is high and very light stocks are held.

SALT.—In Liverpool coarse salt arrivals are now irregular. Some is brought via Boston, and there are two large direct shipments expected. Prices tend rather higher. There is a good steady demand, and a fair stock. In fine salt, English salt of extra quality is being repacked into wooden boxes and freely sold. We quote : Liverpool coarse, 55 to 60c.; English factory-filled, 95c. to $1 ; Canadian fine, $1 per bag ; cheese and butter salt, bulk, $2.40 per bbl.; 5-lb. bags, $2.85 to $2.90 per bbl.; 10 lb. bags, $2.70 to $2.75 per bbl.; 20-lb. wood boxes, 22c. each ; 10-lb. wood boxes, 14c. each ; cartons, $2 per case of 2 dozen ; English bottled salt, $1.25 to $1.30 per dozen ; mineral rock salt, 60c. per 100 lb. (Selected lumps.)

CANNED GOODS.—There is little change, but prices generally are firmer. Tomatoes are not a large stock. Corn is not a large stock either, but it can be replaced more easily. Peas seem plentiful. In fruits, strawberries are in light supply. Gallon apples and 3-lb. apples are high and about out of the market. Peaches are firm. Canned meats are higher, and very firmly held. The season of sale is just opening and the outlook is strong. Salmon have a fair sale at even prices. In domestic fish, some of our packers have been giving considerable attention to clams. Western dealers should give more attention to this line. They are attractive goods. New finnan haddies are offered. New sardines and kippered herring are not yet on the market. Old stocks are well cleaned up.

GREEN FRUITS.—This is a very busy season. Small fruits are beginning to come in freely. In American strawberries prices are getting reasonable and more are being used. Native rhubarb is now received and prices are low. In cucumbers and tomatoes, they are still imported, and the sale is limited. In pineapples, this is not a large market, and the season is early. Valencia oranges are still freely received, but the season is late. Quite a large shipment of Jamaicas have been received, but Mediterranean fruit is beginning to take the place of other lines. Lemons are plentiful, and the prices are still low. In bananas, the sale is large with prices low.

DRIED FRUITS.—Evaporated apples are now high and about out of the market. Dried are scarce. Flaked apples, in pound packages, are finding quite a free sale. In prunes, the low prices continue, but there is a fair sale of the smaller sizes. Apricots and peaches are very quiet. Dates are a light stock, and prices are firmer. The sale is limited. Currants have taken quite an upward turn. There is a steady sale. Raisins should be firmer, but local sales are light, even in package goods. In Egyptian onions, the English market is much higher and the season is about over for receipts.

DAIRY PRODUCE.—Butter is beginning to come in quite freely, and for choice new stock there is a ready sale at quite full figures. Stocks of old butter are quite light. Eggs have been quite scarce, and prices are now rather higher. There is a fair sale. New cheese have arrived. A few New Brunswick cheese are offered. Prices are high and the market has been bare.

SUGAR.—Quite fair stocks are held, it being generally thought that the present low prices are about at the bottom. Refiners will only sell for prompt shipment. In yellows, the grade of sugar offered shows an improvement.

MOLASSES.—The tendency is to a firmer market in Porto Rico grades. A fair stock is now held here. Cargoes are expected at both Fredericton and Moncton. In Barbados, the present stock is not large, but considerable has been bought and is offered to arrive quite low, and well under Porto Rico prices. The quality has so far turned out good.

FISH.—In fresh fish there have been fair supplies of cod and haddock. Halibut are rather lower. This is one of our finest grades of fish. Gaspereaux have been a light catch, and they sell freely for bait at quite full figures. The pack of alewives is likely to be light, which will no doubt mean improved prices. They have ruled quite low. Dry cod and pollock have little movement. The market is rather easy. In smoked herring, the sale is small and prices unchanged, though they have been so low one would think they could not be packed for the money. The market is now rather firmer. Pickled herring are quiet. There is little offering except Bay herring.. We quote as follows : Large and medium dry cod, $3.50 to $3.60 ; small, $2.50 to $2.60 ; haddies, 4½ to 5c.; smoked herring, 5½ to 6c.; fresh cod and haddock, 2 to 2½c.; boneless fish, pollock, $1.50 to $1.60 per 100 lb. ; pickled herring, $1.75 to $1.80 per ½ bbl.; Canso herring, $5.50 per bbl.; Gaspereaux, 60c. per 100.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL.—Flour holds firm at the somewhat higher price. The sale of Manitoba grades is quite large. Oats and oatmeal are rather firmer. The market shows quite a range. Some very poor oatmeal is offered. In cornmeal the prices are somewhat higher. There is a fair steady sale. Beans are higher. Very few western shipments are offering, particularly handpicked goods. Primes are hardly sold here at all. Bar-fruits are in fair demand. Canned meats are very firm, and several lines have advanced sharply this week, and further advances in all lines are looked for within the next few days. Corned beef in 1-lb. tins is now $3.30 to $3 35, being an advance of 15c. per case ; 2-lb. tins, $3 to $3.10, being an advance of 10c. per case ; pigs' feet, 1-lb. tins, $3 25 per case, and 2-lb. tins $3.10 per case, being an advance of 15 and 10c., respectively ; brawn, 1 lb. tins, $3.25 to $3.30, and 2 lb. tins $3 to $3.10, being an advance in the same ratio.

FLOUR—Since last writing, The Ogilvie Milling Co. have advanced their flour prices a further 5c. per sack, making their price for Hungarian patent $2.10, while all the other mills are selling at $1.95. Trade is stated to be good and all the mills heavily oversold. There is a good export demand, but millers state the home market is more profitable at present.

CEREALS—The market is firm in all lines, and without change in prices. There is a good demand for rolled oats, both for domestic consumption and export trade. Prices are : 80's, $2.20; 40's $1.15; 20's, 60c.; granulated and standard oatmeal, $2.75. White beans have dropped again, and are now quoted at $1.65. Cornmeal is steady at $1.80, and split peas firm at $2.85.

BUTTER—Creamery, some four additional factories have opened this week, but to-day there has been little shipment, and as demand is good prices are firm at 21 to 22c. Winnipeg for creamery bricks and 20c. for boxes. The supply of dairy butter is still limited and the extra choice shipments of fresh made in small lots bring 18 to 20c. Winnipeg, but the regular quotation is 16 to 17c. for round lots of fresh dairy in tubs or rolls.

CHEESE—A small supply of new Ontario cheese has been brought in, but even at 14c. there is no profit to those who are handling it. With this exception the market is entirely bare.

EGGS—The supplies coming have been very light so far this month, and as the demand is good it has tended to stiffen price. Case eggs are worth 10½ to 11c. Winnipeg.

GREEN FRUITS—The market is well supplied in nearly all lines. Oranges grow harder to obtain and what will probably be the last car of navels arrived this week. No change in the price of oranges is reported. Bananas are firm and hard to obtain; nearly every house here is short on them. Prices are firm at $3 to $3.50 ; pines have dropped to $4 per dozen. A shipment of American apples, boxes and barrels, was received this week and found very ready sale, the barrels were quoted at $6.50 to $7 and the boxes at $2 75. Strawberries are fairly plentiful and the price has again dropped, being now $5 for the 24-basket crate.

VEGETABLES—There has been quite an excitement in the potato market. The American buyers who were in here for the past two weeks, as soon as the American market on potatoes slumped, got out, and in some instances men from whom they ordered carloads are now looking vainly for their purchasers. Prices have, in consequence, dropped on carlots and 25 to 30c. is the best that can be looked for. Some local dealers state, however, that during the rush a sufficient quantity of potatoes were shipped to relieve the pressure here and that prices will probably run from 35 to 40c. for the balance of the season until new stocks come in. Turnips have advanced and are now 75c. per bush., carrots are also higher, being $1.50. Egyptian onions are 5c. per lb. Green vegetables : Onions have dropped 15 to 20c. per dozen ; lettuce, radishes and parsley, 30c. per dozen; Californian cabbage, 5c. per lb.; rhubarb, 5 to 6c. per lb.

NOTES.

The representative of the Horton-Cato Co. was in the city this week. The sale of Royal Salad Dressing, Celery Salt and other condiments put up by this house is on the increase. One-half pints of the dressing sell at $2.85, and pints at $4.75; celery salt at $2 per doz.

W. G. Douglas has placed on the market here a new stock food known as Carnefec, which retails at 25c., 50c. and $1 per package. It is also sold in 25-lb. pails. This food will be handled through the local jobbing houses, and already Mr. Douglas has a gratifying demand for it.

THE OTTAWA RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION.

THE regular monthly meeting of the Ottawa Retail Grocers' Association was held on Monday evening. There was a fair attendance of members and business was got through with in good time.

The room committee had not made much progress, owing to a lack of funds, and, after some discussion, it was suggested that the Association solicit aid from the wholesale merchants so that the room could be properly furnished at once. The committee, Messrs. Booth and Ellis, were still left in charge.

The excursion committee reported having interviewed the O. and N. Y. Ry. Co. several times, and secured the option for Dominion Day to go to Stanley Island, but had not been able to make definite arrangements for a boat. Pending a reply, they could not do any more for a few days.

Two applications were received for membership—from S. J. Major as associate member, and Bate & Co. for active membership. Mr. L. N. Bate was present, and intends to take an interest in the Association, which will undoubtedly be of a great benefit.

Under the head of unfinished business, the matter of the Association's petition to the council of some time ago, asking for the abolition of trading stamps, and which was held by the finance committee pending a decision in the courts, it was decided to press the matter until a by-law is secured.

The matter of early closing of stores on Saturday, which is a live question at present, was discussed and a resolution passed to the effect that the Association was not in favor of so much late buying on Saturday, but, as it rests altogether with the public, it was to be hoped that the customers would endeavor, owing to the agitation at present, to do all they could to buy early, so that the merchants could close before 10 p.m.

The treasurer reported a balance on hand of $20.

At the next regular meeting it is altogether likely the Association will hear from the president on the question of "Partnership in Business," and Mr. L. N. Bate on the shortest systematic bookkeeping suitable for the grocery trade. It is hoped that all members will bear in mind and have a big turnout.

A CASE OF NECESSITY.

"My son," said the parson to a small boy who was digging in a back lot, "don't you know that it is a sin to dig on the Sabbath, except in a case of necessity?" "Yes, sir," replied the youngster. "Then, why don't you stop it?" asked the good man. "'Cause this is a case of necessity," replied the young philosopher. "A feller can't fish without bait."—Chicago Daily News.

TRADE IN COUNTRIES OTHER THAN OUR OWN.

NEW CROP OF APRICOTS.

PRIVATE advices from the Coast say: "New crop apricots are close at hand and the large buyers have an idea that prices will rule low. A few cars of choice Royal have been contracted for early shipment at 7c. One dealer reports his authority from a grower to contract his crop of Royal at 6½c. in bags. Exporters have been feeling of the foreign trade and find their views too low to even consider at this time."

ANOTHER SALMON COMBINE.

Private advices from Seattle, Wash., state: "Another combine of Puget Sound and Alaska salmon canneries is projected. Philip J. Brady is the local representative of the proposed combine. Ten plants are included, located on Puget Sound and the Alaska Coast. Mr. Brady claims to have options on six of the plants, with assurance that he can get the other four whenever the papers are ready. The output of the canneries in question is 500,000 cases."

CANNED SALMON IN LONDON.

The improved inquiry for salmon which was noticeable last week has again further developed, and a good trade has been done in all descriptions. The weak features of the market which existed a month ago have now almost entirely disappeared. The principal cause for alarm was the supposition that the American market was considerably overstocked. The prices, however, in New York have now advanced to a somewhat higher level than those existing in London. In fact, it is not too much to say that in some grades the price is fully 1s. per case dearer than it was a month ago. This change has been going on in such a quiet way as to be almost unnoticed by the holders, but there is now no doubt that the relative cheapness of the article is beginning to make itself evident, and it is highly probable that in the immediate future the values of tall tins will advance at least 6d. per case.—Produce Markets' Review.

THE JAPAN TEA MARKET.

The New York Journal of Commerce of May 12 says: "Cable advices from Japan reported that the tea market at Kobe opened during the week and prices were about 1¾c. per lb. higher than last year. Settlements of new crop Japan tea, it is reported, have been fairly large, and the first shipments from Yokohama to the Pacific Coast have been made."

SITUATION OF CURRANTS.

The demand for currants continues steady, if not quite so large as during the preceding weeks, and duty-paid clearances are still on a considerable scale. In spite of these facts, Provincial fruit continues to decline in price, and has now fallen in all 20 per cent. since Christmas. The decline has, so far as can be seen, been brought about by financial mismanagement, and appears to have no relation whatever to the statistical position, or rather, to be in direct contradiction to it. Whatever may be the prospect of the growing crop, it would seem that supplies of currants available between now and next September must be insufficient to supply an ordinary demand, and the decline in price of good Provincial fruit is thus, on practical grounds, inexplicable. These remarks do not in any way apply to better qualities, which continue to maintain, if not improve, their value. Finest parcels certainly show an advance.—Produce Markets' Review.

BALTIMORE PEA PACK IS BACKWARD.

Whilst the weather is apparently progressing with seasonable celerity the crop developments are somewhat backward. We are now, with the date of this issue, at the very point of what should be the opening of the season of pea-packing in Baltimore in average point of time, as the 10th of May usually marks the beginning of the first packing of green peas. If any of our factories get to work within two weeks it will be more than we expect. * * * The delay in the commencement of the pea-packing is making cause for a raid on the supplies of canned peas in stock, and this in turn strengthens the market for green peas. There have been some sales of cheap grades of stock peas during the past week to clear up warehouses, but the finer brands are, if anything, higher than they were last week. In the Northwest, we understand, quite a number of pea-packers are sold up to their full capacity of future peas, and this is certain to steady the market considerably once the packing season commences.—The Trade, Baltimore, Md., May 9.

THE REPORTED DAMAGE TO PRUNE CROP.

Advices from California say: "Since the publication of the reports that the prune crop had been damaged, the growers have been examining their crops closely. A number of growers who were in town yesterday report that the damage is decidedly spotted. The injury is by no means widespread and it is not considered serious in a broad sense. The trouble is confined solely to the Valley orchards. Foothill fruit is untouched. In a number of orchards one tree will not be damaged at all, while the next one is totally bare of fruit. The disease attacks the prune at the point which turns yellow. In a few days it turns black and falls off. A summing up of the total damage, as far as reported, shows that it is not worthy of consideration, taking the crop as a whole. One large grower says he is of the opinion that the trouble will become serious unless stopped. Experts still believe that there will be a big yield."

CALIFORNIAN CANNED FRUITS.

Open prices on 3-lb. extra 1902 pack of Californian canned fruits were named on Saturday through Johnston, North & Co. by The Golden Gate Packing Co., as follows: White cherries, $3; Bartlett pears, $2.60; lemon cling peaches, $2.85; Crawford peaches, $2.50; plums, $2.10, and apricots, $2.25 f.o.b. the Coast. On the above basis it is stated some orders have been booked. Interest, however, centres in the probable opening basis on standard grades, which it is generally believed will not be forthcoming until something definite regarding the probable pack is known. So far as can be learned no other Coast packer except Flackenger & Co. has opened up on the 1902 pack. The association, it is reported, is not expected to open up on any grade until later when stocks of the 1901 pack are more generally cleaned up than now.

All reports from the Coast indicate that the 1902 pack of canned fruits gives promises of being larger than last year, with the possible exception of apricots.

VALENCIA RAISINS IN NEW YORK.

According to the regular monthly statement issued by Mr. J. A. Hawkesworth, New York, stocks of Valencia layer raisins on May 1 were 10,000 boxes, against 19,000 boxes on April 1. The receipts during April were 2,000 boxes. The distribution during April is figured at 11,000 boxes. Of Sultana raisins stocks on hand May 1 were 10,000 boxes, compared with 8,000 boxes on April 1. Receipts during April were 4,000 boxes, showing a total distribution during the month of 2,000 boxes. The principal holders on the spot to-day advanced prices on Valencia layers to 8c. Advices from London state that stocks there are exceedingly low, and that offerings in the primary markets are limited, the principal holders being practically cleaned up.

LIGHT SALMON RUN.

Private advices from the Columbia River report a continued light run of fish and that packing operations are going forward on a small scale only. The advices state, however, that a good run of salmon is looked for later, experts predicting high water in the river during June and July. So far as can be learned no change in the selling basis on futures has been made, and packers' representatives report a fairly satisfactory business at the recent cut to the $1.35 price for 1-lb. talls. It is intimated that at least one other packer has met the Warren cut to $1.45 on 1-lb. flats. The present market on futures is $1.35 for 1-lb. talls; $1.45 to $1.50 on 1-lb. flats, and 85c. on ½-lb. f.o.b. Coast.

Talk on the street among brokers is that the present low basis is not permanent. This opinion is based on the loss to packers figured on the cost of raw material at the prevailing prices. It is intimated that the packers will get together and either withdraw all prices pending a higher basis or advance prices on short notice. So far as can be learned, however, there has been no official intimation of such a move.—N. Y. Journal of Commerce.

THE SUGAR SITUATION.

Czarnikow, MacDougall & Co. say of sugar: "Refiners' wants are beginning every day to meet the demand arising from the increasing consumption of refined which always occurs at this season. Their stocks of raws in the three ports are no greater than they were when prices were respectively 3-16 and ¼c. higher than they are now, and the prospects of further large receipts and of any pressure to sell are, if anything, less than they were at the periods referred to. The only less favorable condition for sellers is that European beet markets are from 3¾ to 5d. per cwt. lower and that beets might now be imported at the parity of 3 9-16c. to 3⅝c. for 96 degree centrifugals. With respect to sowings, there seems to be a general belief that the decrease for all Europe will be nearer 10 per cent. than to 6 per cent. as estimated by Mr. Licht.

Our Terms Not Popular With the Grocery TRADE.

Our travellers, our customers cannot get used to our terms. We believe it is the right system, but as the trade does not appreciate them, we will return on the 15th of May to the old way. On and after May 15th, our terms will be the same as regularly sold by the wholesale grocery trade of Canada We confess we feel disappointed. We understood to hold our own under the 10 per cent. system we had to over double our business. It has cost us $15,000.00 (fifteen thousand dollars) in good hard cash to find out the trade do not want them, and as charity should begin at home we intend to put this $15,000 down in our own pockets instead of the trade who do not appreciate it.

Our terms are, now, some goods net cash; others, 1 per cent. 10 days; 3 per cent. 10 days; 5 per cent. 10 days, instead of 10 per cent.

Wishing this change will be for our own benefit.

It is Worth Thinking Over

This question of QUALITY in Canned Goods. There is no article in the grocers' stock that is better worth looking after, and perhaps none that is so often carelessly bought.

Examine the contents of the can you are buying. It will pay you well for your trouble.

The Kent Canning Co., LIMITED Chatham, Ont.

Anyhow there is a feeling of confidence in Europe that the worst has been experienced and that there is little chance of the beet market again receding to 6s. f.o.b. Unless quotations for beets, October-December, 1903, delivery should be much higher than those at present ruling for October-December, 1902, the sowings in the spring of next year will be greatly increased. New crop Javas have attracted more attention, and it is rumored that a moderate business has been done for June-July shipment at a price equivalent to 1 13-16c. c. and f., basis 96 degrees. Cuba.—On the 20th of this month the inauguration of the new President will take place, with the usual festivities customary on great occasions, particularly in Spanish-speaking countries. This means that, even with favorable weather for grinding, sugar estates will have to suspend operations for at least five or six days, to enable all hands to participate in the rejoicing at the installation of the Island's first President. Many plantations will prefer to consider their crop ended by the 20th, rather than start grinding again, after the festivities are over; consequently, the number of factories that will be at work after that date will be very small."

POOR CROP OF MALAGA ALMONDS.

A private letter from Malaga states that the prospects for the coming crop of almonds are very poor. Unfavorable weather has affected the outlook for both Jordan and Valencias, and pines are advanced on the small holdings of these descriptions still left in first hands. Opening bases on the new crop are not looked for before July.

SITUATION IN CURRANTS.

In connection with currants, The Hill Brothers' Co., New York, say: "The steamer Sicilia sailed from Greece on Friday with about 110 tons, or approximately 650 barrels. At that time the weather was again threatening and unfavorable, thus aiding the spread of the dreaded peronosporos. Earlier in the week cables advised actual damage to the crops, and with a continuance of the damp weather it is probable serious damage will result. It was just about this time two years ago when the first reports of unfavorable weather and damage were put out, and as the damp weather continued uninterrupted for some time the result was most serious. The Greek market is firm, with few exporters making firm offers, latest cables quoting that market as above the parity on spot. In this market considerable business has been done at present prices."

N. Y. STATE CORN CLEANED UP.

It was stated to-day that practically all the cheap standard State pack of corn has been cleaned up. A lot of several hundred cases was closed out at 65c. here, and the sellers now ask up to 70c. Reports from up the State say packers are holding generally on the basis of 70c. f.o.b., claiming that the prospects for the coming pack, with special reference to the acreage under contract do not warrant the selling out of holdings of 1901 pack on less than a 70c. basis for standards. More interest is reported in offerings of Southern pack.—N. Y. Journal of Commerce, May 13.

THE LARGEST TEA PLANTATION.

The largest tea plantation in the world is on the Sinagar estate in Java, which covers about 15,000 acres of land, of which 8,500 acres are devoted to the cultivation of tea and coffee. The estate produces more than 1,000,000 lb. of the finest tea a year, and altogether it has yielded more than 80,000,000 lb. The estate, run by Europeans, has a capital of $300,000, and it pays dividends of 9 and 10 per cent. annually. It has paid as high as 24 per cent., and has never failed to pay well. Its annual wage account amounts to $100,000, and in addition it furnishes its own employes with medicine and rice. The men who are employed regularly are paid 7 cents a day and rice. The women get a Dutch cent a pound for picking. This is equal to four-tenths of one cent, and some make as much as 25 cents a day, while others make 10 cents or less.—Tea.

LICENSED VICTUALLERS' CONVENTION.

At the monthry meeting of the Licensed Victuallers' Association of Montreal, held on May 7, the president, Mr. Lawrence A. Wilson, asked the members to prepare at once for the convention of the Victuallers' Association, which is to be held in Montreal in September next. In order to give the members a better opportunity to organize, it was decided to hold no further monthly meetings until after the convention. Meantime, the directors will meet regularly and attend to all details in connection with the occasion. It is intended to make the convention one that will be a credit to the Montreal Association.

AMALGAMATION SCHEME REJECTED.

TORONTO RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION DECIDES AGAINST UNION WITH THE MERCHANTS' ASSOCIATION

THE regular monthly meeting of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association was held in St. George's Hall, Elm strest, on Monday evening, May 12, and 25 or 30 members were present. The debates were interesting and to the point. Considerable debating talent exists amongst the members, and it was called into requisition when amalgamation with the Grocers' Section of the Toronto Branch of the Retail Merchants' Association of Canada came up for discussion. President W. J. Sykes was in the chair and Edward Hawes was secretary.

THE AMALGAMATION QUESTION.

J. Bond moved that the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association unite with the Grocers' Section of the Retail Merchants' Association of Canada. Their connection with that larger body would give them more influence than they now have as a separate organization, and they could thus have the support of all merchants in dealing with the various matters affecting the trade that arise from time to time.

J. G. Gibson was against amalgamating with the Retail Merchants' Association, but promised that anything the Grocers' Section did worthy of support would be backed up by the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association.

T. Clarke thought it would be beneficial for them to join with the Grocers' Section. He favored the motion.

B. Panter had been on the committee that had conferred with the retail merchants on this question, but did not like the idea of affiliation with the others. Everything of importance had to be referred to their executive for sanction, and this would leave little power in the hands of the Section.

M. Moyer claimed the debt-collecting system of the Retail Merchants' Association was a point in their favor, and he supported the motion.

A. R. Williamson declared that much credit was due the retail merchants for their work in abolishing trading stamps.

D. J. Kelly told the story of the fight against trading stamps. The movement originated with the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association, a number of grocers belonging to which had banded themselves together with several other Toronto merchants to fight the trading stamp people and engaged Mr. Ed. Trowern as their secretary. These had subscribed liberally to a fund to pay their campaign expenses, and the Retail Grocers' Association had granted them $50.00. With this money they rented rooms in the Temple Building and conducted a vigorous campaign against the stamps. Neither they nor the Retail Merchants' Association had anything to do with the deputation of merchants that later on waited on the Provincial Government praying for Legislation against these stamps. Better terms also, he thought, might be obtained than those at present offered by the Association of Retail Merchants for amalgamation.

The motion was defeated by a large majority.

THE PRICE-RESTRICTIVE PLAN

proposed in a letter from the Grocers' Section of the Retail Merchants' Association met with a similar fate. This plan is to be applied to shredded wheat biscuits and its supporters expect to derive great benefits from it when it is in operation.

But the opponents of the scheme urged that the profit of 60c. a box it allowed to the wholesaler was too large altogether, and, they said, it was wrong in principle. It would build up the wholesaler at the expense of the retailer. Similar agreements had been made in the United States, but none had ever been kept.

RATES FOR THE EXCURSION.

Letters were received from the Grand Trunk Railway quoting their rates for a summer excursion to Orillia, Ont., and Jackson's Point, and from the St. Catharines Navigation Company, stating the cost of an excursion to Lewiston and Buffalo by their boats to St. Catharines and thence by land to the Falls.

The secretaryship was awarded to Mr. C. Barnard Nettlefield, and it was left to the executive to draw up the agreement and arrange the terms with him.

President W. J. Sykes and J. G. Gibson were appointed to interview some of the boat people regarding the securing of a boat for their summer excursion. They will report to the executive.

President W. J. Sykes announced that Government Fruit Inspector McNeil was anxious and ready to address the Association on Friday evening, May 16, on the workings of the Fruit Marks Act. He wishes to obtain the assistance and advice of the retail grocers and fruiterers on the carrying out of this Act in the city of Toronto during the coming summer.

The Executive Committee were instructed to arrange for a hall and to suitably advertise his coming in order to secure a good sized audience.

AN ADDRESS FOR MR. NOLAN.

James Nolan who has left for Dakota will be forwarded an illuminated address setting forth the regret of the Association at his retiring from business in Toronto and from the Association, mentioning the value his counsel and assistance has been to the Association in the past, and expressing the best wishes of the Association for his future prosperity. It is signed on behalf of the Association by the president, secretary and treasurer.

It was about 12 o'clock when the Association adjourned.

INSTRUCTION IN SHOW-CARD PAINTING.

How to paint neat and attractive show-cards is instruction every window-trimmer or the merchant who trims and makes his own show-cards must be interested in. W. Edwards, Carleton Place, Ont., Box 315, has just issued a book of instruction in professional painting, that it would be well for every country merchant to possess. It instructs in artistic sign, show-card and ticket-writing, silver and gold lettering, etc., and is illustrated with over three dozen sign writers' model alphabets and figures. It is a condensed story of the accumulated experience of a lifetime in the business, and a teacher of the art, perfected by method, costs only $1 mailed postpaid, and you will find it worth a hundred. Buy it. See advertisement in this issue.

A NEW PLANT.

Meakins, Sons & Co. are now settled in their new premises at 59 St. Henry street, Montreal. The new plant which they installed last fall for the manufacture of corn brooms has worked satisfactorily, and the output is increasing every month. New machinery has been added for the manufacture of brushes, and the firm is now in a position to turn out brooms, whisks and brushes of all descriptions at the shortest possible notice. The "Empire" brand of brooms has been a great success from the start; so much so that since opening their new plant they have been unable to catch up with the orders.

CONTRIBUTORS TO THE KING'S DINNER.

Among the generous contributors to the dinner to be given by the King to the poor of London were J. & J. Colman, who offered to furnish the mustard; W. D. & H. O. Wills who will supply every man with an ounce of tobacco, and the Salt Union who offered to supply the salt. It was stated in the daily papers that the British Tobacco Trust would furnish the tobacco, but it seems that neither the British nor the American trust will have this splendid opportunity of advertising.

FRUIT RAISING IN JAPAN.

FRUIT growing has not hitherto been an important industry in Japan, according to the United States consul at Yokohama, and when attempted it has been as a side occupation of the farmer or gardener, there being few farms in which fruit forms the staple crop. Fruits originally cultivated, and probably native in Japan, include the orange, pear, peach, sour plum, almond, grape, persimmon, loquat, pomegranate, gingko or salisburia, and fig.

The "suykan," or Japanese sweet orange, is smaller, sweeter and less juicy than the oranges raised in America, and the thin membrane separating the sections of the fruit is tougher; it has a very pleasant flavor, and is much used for food by both natives and foreigners. It is cultivated all through the warmer regions of Japan, and is the most plentiful of the fruits raised here, being found in the markets from early autumn until late the following spring. The country also produces an orange larger and more acid than the Californian product, and somewhat bitter. It is not much valued, and is produced in small quantities only.

The persimmon comes next to the orange in the number produced, and is a favorite with the natives, but its season is comparatively short. It closely resembles the persimmon of our Southern States. The sour plum is extensively cultivated and yields a good crop, but the other fruits named above, though more or less widely grown, are produced in much smaller quanties—the fig being most abundant and most valued of the less important fruits. The Government has introduced peaches, pears and grapes from Europe and America, and has fouud the soil and climate well adapted to their production, so that these are now cultivated in addition to the native varieties of the same fruits.

Of the fruits wholly unknown in Japan until introduced from abroad, the apple has proved most successful, and it has become a chief product of some districts in the Hokkaido, or northern, islands. The apples are of fine appearance and excellent flavor, and the trees yield a profit very encouraging to the cultivator, so that the area of their production is being increased. Cherries also have been introduced, but the fruit is inferior. However, the greater skill in cultivation which will come from longer experience may yet produce very satisfactory results. The native cherry tree produces a profusion of beautiful flowers, but no fruit, and the Japanese gardeners have cultivated it solely with reference to these, having developed a variety with clusters of large, double blossoms. Strawberries and other small fruits are raised by gardeners in the vicinity of the large cities, and the plants bear fruit of fine appearance, but little flavor.

The natives eat fruit chiefly fresh, and its use as a table diet is not general, although increaslng. The processes of drying and canning fruits are beginning to come into use, but only as a means of preserving the fruit for home consumption, not for export.

Dried raisins, apricots, figs and prunes are imported in small quantities, but dealers here say that they sell these goods only to foreign residents and to ships laying in supplies for a voyage. During the moist, hot summer, flour, meal, dried fruit and all similar merchandise quickly becomes infested with maggots, unless securely protected, and it is therefore necessary that the fruit should be put up in bottles, tin cases, or closely sealed boxes before it is shipped to this country. In view of the growing appreciation of the native for fruit as an addition to his rather limited bill of fare, an enterprising agent might be able to find or create a market here for the fruit exports of the United States—a market which will, however, be limited by the poverty of the working classes; for when $6 or $8 a month buys food, fuel and clothing for a family of four or five persons, dried fruit at 12 cents a pound must needs be a rare luxury.

INSTALLING A TELEPHONE LINE.

A telephone line is to be installed by G. R. Ashwell & Sons, general merchants, Chilliwack, B.C., between their store in Chilliwack and their branch store in Sadis.

The firm is now in the market for the necessary plant.

WILL TEND TO CHEAPEN CANNED PEAS.

One of the United States courts has decided that a pea-vining machine made by a Colorado manufacturer does not infringe upon the patent of a similar machine manufactured by The Chisholm, Scott Co., Baltimore, Md. The machine saves much labor by gathering vines and all and shaking the peas out of the pods by wholesale. It is a valuable contrivance, and The Chisholm, Scott Co. have not sold it outright, but have charged a royalty of 10c. per doz. cans for its use.

A conflict between the two manufacturers is at once expected to arrive, and, as a royalty of 2c. per doz. would yield the owners of the machine a large profit, the result will likely be a decline in canned peas of several cents per dozen in the United States.

A GOOD EXPORT SEASON.

United Factories, Limited, manufacturers of the well-known standard goods, Boeckh's (Toronto) brooms and brushes, Bryan's (London) brushes, and Cane's (Newmarket) woodenware, report a busier season than ever. Their export business to Great Britain, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa is materially increasing year by year. The old names of Boeckh, Bryan and Cane seem known all over the civilized world.

The Barclay ranch, in the Okanagan Valley, British Columbia, has been sold to Sir Thomas Shaughnessy. It is 15 miles south of Peachland, 10 miles from Penticton and in the heart of the great fruit belt of British Columbia. The ranch consists of 400 acres, and will be divided into small fruit farms.

Explanation of the Fruit Marks Act.

LAST Friday evening, May 16, Dominion Fruit Inspectors Alex. McNeil and P. J. Carey addressed a number of retail grocers and wholesale fruit men in St. George's Hall, Elm street, Toronto, on the Fruit Marks Act. A number of points that might be overlooked were explained by the inspectors, who took up the Act in sections and answered any question asked by the audience. The meeting was under the auspices of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association and was presided over by Mr. W. J. Sykes.

In a few words Mr. Sykes said the inspectors were present to explain the working out of the Act and the relations between the wholesaler, retailer and consumer. He then introduced Mr. McNeil.

AN HONEST PACKAGE.

Mr. McNeil said the objects of the Act were to secure an honest package and prevent fraud. He believed it would have the effect of greatly promoting the fruit trade and thus much extend it. He then proceeded to deal with the Act clause by clause.

DEFINITION OF CLOSED PACKAGE.

The third clause of the Act, he explained, defined a closed package as a box or barrel the contents of which cannot be seen or inspected when such package is closed. Other packages, such as berry boxes and baskets, were not closed. And the fourth section applies only to closed packages. It states that every person who, by himself, or through the agency of another person, packs fruit in a closed package, intended for sale, shall cause the package to be plainly and indelibly marked before it leaves the premises where it is packed, with the

and the full surname and address of the packer; the name of the variety or varieties, and a designation of the grade of fruit. This section had been amended during the last session of the Dominion Parliament and the Bill passed by the House of Commons. The amendment states the designation of the grade of fruit shall include one of six marks, viz., for fruit of the first quality, No. 1, or "XXX"; for fruit of the second quality, No. 2, or "XX"; and for fruit of the third quality, No. 3, or "X." But this mark may be accompanied by any other designation of grade provided that designation is not inconsistent with or marked more conspicuously than any one of the six marks that is used on the package.

Section five says packages are not to be sold unless so marked.

Section six establishes

or fruit. This grade consists of fruit of one variety, well grown, sound, of nearly uniform size, of good color for the variety, of normal shape and not less than 90 per cent. free from scab, worm holes, bruises and other defects, and properly packed. Any inferior grades should be marked down.

THE PITH OF THE ACT.

Section seven was the pith of the Act. It enacts that no person shall sell or offer for sale fruit packed in any packages, the face or shown surface of which gives a false representation of the contents of the package, such false representation being when more than 15 per cent. of such fruit is substantially smaller in size than, or inferior in grade to, or different in variety from the faced or shown surface of such package.

METHOD OF INSPECTION.

The method of inspection was this. Take a basket, a lined basket if possible, to prevent bruising the fruit. Take off the top layer and put it in a basket by itself. Classify the fruit into two baskets, placing in one fruit equal to the face and in the other fruit not equal to the face. If over 15 per cent. were found inferior it was a violation of the Act. It has not yet been decided whether the fruit should be COUNTED OR WEIGHED.

This applies to apples, peaches, pears, plums, strawberries, raspberries, tomatoes, but not to wild fruit, such as huckleberries. The pails of wild strawberries and raspberries the women pick and bring to market in Quebec and elsewhere were not included under this Act.

By the eighth section the person in whose possession the fruit was found was held liable. The penalty for violating the Act was not to exceed $1 and costs and not to be less than 25c. for each package sold, exposed or offered for sale contrary to the provisions of the Act. In default of paying the fine imposed the culprit would be liable to with or without hard labor. If the retailer had bought the fruit condemned by the inspector from a wholesale merchant in the same condition as it was when condemned he could obtain redress under another section.

After a package has been marked

FALSELY PACKED IT CANNOT BE SOLD,

but the fruit may be repacked, if possible, and sold.

The method of prosecution is to lay the case before a magistrate and have the offender summoned.

All fruit imported from other countries comes under the power of the Act.

Oranges and lemons are classified as being in open packages.

TO ENFORCE THE ACT.

The Government has appointed twelve inspectors for the Dominion, from Prince Edward Island to Manitoba. The enforcement of the Act in any place where a fruit inspector was not stationed was left to some other inspector, such as the food inspector, to carry out.

Mr. McNeil had found the merchants everywhere ready to assist in enforcing the Act. They were all anxious for an honest package.

A vote of thanks was tendered the inspectors for their addresses and the meeting then dispersed.

Among the wholesale fruit merchants present were Messrs. Geo. McWilliam, H. W. Thorpe, and O. E. Stringer, of McWilliam & Everist; Cleghorn, of Cleghorn, Smith & Co., and Chas. E. Dawson and William Dawson, of The Dawson Commission Co.

"Weary Willie" in Manitoba Free Press.

AND who has not read with pleasure the narrative, so clearly portrayed, of the great battle of Blenheim, drawn from the old man's memories of the past, by the finding of a skull, and entered into the interest of the boys who listened so attentively, and the "man is only the boy grown tall," and as we sat at eventide in the rotunda of the "Clarendon," Winnipeg, a chance remark brought the chairs of the circle closer, while one of the fraternity said: "A funny thing happened in our office recently. We have a man in charge of our enamel department named Daniels and 'Dan,' as he is popularly known, can handle travellers as easily as he does some of the 'children of Israel.' Recently a small boy came into the office and accosted the information clerk with a request to see Mr. 'Lyons.' On being informed that no man of that name worked there, he said, 'It's Mr. Daniels I want to see.' 'Well,' was the reply, 'why did you ask for Mr. Lyons?' 'Because,' said the urchin, 'mother said if I forgot

When the laugh subsided, another of the party said, "I had the pleasure of calling on Mr. James Lindsay, of The J. H. Ashdown Co., and he is telling a good story on one of our 'profession.' You all know Mr. Soper, in charge of the house-furnishing department? (Every head bowed assent.) Well, recently a traveller called who happened to have partaken somewhat freely of the 'oil of gladness,' and having explained his mission, Mr. Lindsay said, 'Let us go round to see Soper.' Thereupon our travelling friend drew himself up to his full height and with much dignity replied,' 'I think I am sober enough to take all your requirements now, avoiding the necessity of coming round when I'm sober.' "

"Did you ever hear the story about the non-conductor?" said Bill ———, and he cocked his hat to one side and gazed wisely at the ceiling. "No," chorused all hands, and while Bill's gaze was still elevated sundry winks and nudges were exchanged. Proceeding, Bill said: "Once a certain street car conductor was discharged for a certain misdemeanor, and was afterwards arrested for murder, tried, and sentenced to death by electrocution. On the day of the execution, being placed in the chair, it was found that all the electric currents had no effect, and it was discovered that the phenomena was caused by his being a 'non-conductor,'" concluded the narrator, and a broad smile suffused his countenance. But not a muscle in the faces of his hearers changed, and the look of expectancy still remained, while one broke the silence by saying, "Go on with the story, Bill." The smile of the narrator disappeared, being replaced by a look of disgust, and with dignified contempt, he arose and left the circle, and to-day a request for the story of the "non-conductor" is considered in the light of an unfriendly act.

A NEW MATCH.

Another kind of match, intended to supplant the phosphorous matches, which have been prohibited for a year, has lately been introduced in the Swedish market. The inventors of the new match are the engineers Landin and Jernander, of Stockholm, who have patented their invention in several countries. This match looks like the well-known potash and paraffin matches, which, however, by reason of the fact that they contain poisonous phosphorus, come under the same prohibition as the old and worthy lucifer match. But the new match, which has been named "Repstickan" (the scratch match), possesses a property which the potash match lacks, viz, it is damp-proof, and can therefore be lighted against a damp or wet surface, provided this is hard. The inventors claim that Repstickan is the least poisonous match in existence, the safety match not excepted.

The manufacture of the new matches, which at present is carried on for the inventors, has been entrusted to Lidkopings Tandsticksfabrik. It it is said that negotiations are going on for the sale of the patent in other countries.

VANCOUVER MERCHANTS AND KLONDIKE TRADE.

"Orders are coming rather slowly from the North this season," said a local commercial man who has large interests in the Klondike, recently. "The large companies are doing most of the importing so far, and they are, I think, buying more of their goods in Canada. The N. A. T. and other companies are making purchases in Toronto, Montreal and other places, and some also in Vancouver, especially in goods handled locally, which have come from England, around the Horn.

"I think that if Vancouver merchants want to do a big business in the North, they should combine and open a large store and warehouse in Dawson, and ship in their own goods for sale. If the wholesalers of the city would make such an arrangement, they would have an opportunity of competing with the N. A. T. and other companies, a business which now presents a great many difficulties." — The Province, Vancouver.

SALMON COMBINATION EFFECTED.

The United Canneries Co., organized and incorporated in New Jersey, has succeeded in buying out 40 of the 75 canneries on the Fraser river and placed them under one management.

The deal was put through by Æmilius Jarvis, of Toronto, who gets $500,000 in shares valued at par for his trouble. Some of these canneries were bought for all cash and some for part cash and part stock, and now it is said that steps will be taken to combine with The Alaska Packing Co., and thus practically control the salmon markets of the world. This season the company will limit the pack.

The first board of directors for the new organization are Messrs. Campbell Sweeney, manager of the Bank of Montreal, Vancouver; Wm. Murray, manager of the Bank of Commerce, Vancouver; Alex. Ewen, New Westminster; Henry Doyle and G. I. Wilson, Vancouver.

"GOLD DUST."

The N. K. Fairbank Company have issued the initial number of a booklet which they intend to publish monthly, or perhaps oftener. It is published in the interest of the selling staff, and contains a lot of interesting matter which should be valuable to the company's employes. The name of it is "Gold Dust."

In this first number, Mr. H. A. Leak, the manager of the Montreal branch, contributes an article on "The Road," which contains many helpful hints, as well as some interesting experiences.

MONTREAL GROCERS MEET.

THE regular meeting of the Grocers' Association, of Montreal, was held in the Monument National on Thursday evening, May 15, Ald. R. Turner, the president, in the chair.

It was intended that the principal subject for discussion would be the selection of a place and date for the annual picnic; and this was not long in being decided upon, Highgate Springs, Vt., being chosen, and received the approval of all members present. The picnic will be held on July 16.

The Association has warned the public through the local papers that this year no advertisements will be allowed on the programme of the day's sports, and that anyone soliciting such will do so against the wishes of the Association.

A letter from the legal representative of the Association was read, in which he said that, although he had as yet made no material progress in the direction of having the trading stamps abolished by law, yet he felt convinced that there was some way in which the law could be brought to bear on this subject, toward which end he was constantly working.

The letter was followed by a discussion of the trading-stamp question. The remarks of the members showed that they felt strongly on the matter, and were determined to have the practice stopped.

Before the meeting adjourned it was decided to appoint a deputation to call on the Police Committee in regard to the proposed Sunday closing by-law. While some members would be willing to have a law for all city stores, there are many of the grocers who would prefer to allow the small stores to keep open, although they are opposed as a whole to the selling of groceries or other goods on that day. It was the opinion that many of these little places were conducted by poor persons who depended on their Sunday's trade for a living, and it would not be right to deprive them of this privilege.

Butchers' Annual Meeting—The Markets—Miscellaneous Notes.

BUTCHERS' ANNUAL MEETING.

At the annual meeting of the Montreal Butchers' Association, held on Tuesday, May 13, the election of officers for the ensuing year was the chief feature of interest. The president, Mr. Alfred Leduc, and treasurer, Mr. Hermas Poitras, was reelected. Following is the list of officers :

President—Alfred Leduc.
First Vice-President—J. Lamoureoux.
Second Vice-President—Joseph Courville.
Secretary—L. Trudeau.
Assistant Secretary—A. Toupin.
Corresponding Secretary—A. Blanchard.
Treasurer—Hermas Poitras.
Assistant Treasurer—Fred. Leroux.
Committee—Ald. Daunais, D. Belanger.
Auditors — Joseph Villeneuve, S. Jeannotte, Arthur Leduc.

The treasurer presented his report after the elections had been concluded, and was applauded when he announced that the association has $1,558.01 in the treasury.

New members admitted were C. Deslauriers and O. Nantel.

SELECTING HAMS.

A ham should never be selected simply because it is offered at a low price as the great probability is that this circumstance counts against it being of choice grade. To obtain the best hams, those of extreme leanness should not be selected, but rather those that are heavy and fat. The best hams are rounded and plump in distinction from hams which are thin and flat. The skin of choice hams is thin, soft and pliable.—National Provisioner.

A HIGH PRICE FOR CATTLE.

The prices of live cattle reached their highest point since 1879, when they sold at $7 per cwt., on Tuesday last, when a lot of 176 very choice exporters were sold by Whaley & McDonald to Halligan & Tuness for $6.75 per cwt. These were sold for P. B. McIlhargy, of Lindsay. In general, the cattle market is strong, with a limited visible supply and a good demand for all classes of cattle.

GOETTINGEN BLADDER SAUSAGE.

In reply to a request for a recipe for the above named sausage, The Butchers' Advocate, New York, prints the following :

If 100 lb. of the same are to be made it is necessary to have about 60 calves' bladders steeped in thyme ; 75 lb. of lean pork (soft fat and small sinews may be left in it) are simultaneously chopped with 25 lb. of solid fat pork until fat and pork appear in small cubes. Add 3 lb. of salt, 5¼ oz. of ground white pepper, 1½ oz. of saltpetre, 5¼ oz. of sugar and 1 1-5 oz. of ground cardamon seeds. Knead the mass thoroughly, and stuff tightly into calves' bladders, which first have been skewered, then bound and provided with loops. The sausages are previously dried, and then smoked. Bladders have to be handled cautiously in drying and smoking, that they do not get wrinkled, or defective in other ways, particularly that the meat does not sever from the bladder.

THE PRICE OF PORK IN GERMANY.

By J. F. Monaghan, U.S. Consul at Chemnitz, Germany.

During the past few months the organized butchers of Germany have been clamoring for the abolition of the prohibitive tariff on pork. This meat is an important article of food among the poorer classes of the Empire, and its steady rise in price has resulted in great hardship to them. Prices are higher now than they have been for 20 years, and if the present scarcity of pork continues, there will undoubtedly be a further advance.

The following table shows the wholesale price per 100 kilograms (220 lb) of the best quality of live hogs during 1901 and 1902 :

City.	1901.	1902.
Berlin	$13 24	$14 61
Breslau	12 65	13 63
Magdeburg	12 42	14 90
Dresden	13 72	14 99
Hamburg	12 88	14 55
Cologne	14 16	15 53
Frankfort	15 17	16 07
Stuttgart	14 49	16 25

In the retail trade, the increase is also very pronounced.

Price per kilogram (2 2 lb.)

City.	Cts.	Cts.
Berlin	29	31
Danzig	29	31
Chemniz	31	36
Leipzig	29	31
Stuttgart	33	36
Munich	30	31

In Chemnitz, where depression among the industrial branches has been very pronounced, the retail price of pork has increased 25 per cent.

AUSTRALIAN MEAT FOR MANILA.

The American transport Celtic left Australia for Manila in January with 2,640,000 lb. of frozen meat for our troops. The Glacier, another American Government transport, is now at an Australian port loading frozen meat for the Philippines.

The Australian frozen meat trade with Manila is becoming of so much importance that the China Navigation Company and another concern have combined to insulate ships for the Philippine and frozen meat trade.—National Provisioner, New York.

THE WHOLE HOG.

The young pig could reach the swill well enough by putting its snout over the side of the trough, but it was not satisfied with that. It proceeded to get all of its feet in the trough.

But the mother of the pigs thrust the greedy young monopolist to one side.

"Get out of that, you selfish, grasping thing!" she said. "You remind me so much of human beings."—Chicago Tribune.

THE PROVISION MARKETS.

TORONTO.

There has been a further advance of 25 to 50c. per 100 lb. in dressed hogs, and they continue scarce with a fair demand. Beef is unchanged and firm, and veal is steady. Lambs have declined ¼c. Live hogs are strong with a small visible supply, while export cattle are very high and firm, the ruling price this week being $6.30 per cwt. for export cattle. We quote : Dressed hogs, $9.50 to $9.75; beef carcasses, $7.50 to $8.50 per 100 lb.; hind quarters, $8.50 to $9.50 per 100 lb.; front quarters, $7.00 to $7.50 per 100 lb. Veal, 7 to 8c. per lb.; lambs, 10 to 10½c. Live hogs : Selects, $7.25, lights, $6.50 to $7.00 per 100 lb.; choice export cattle bring $5.75 to $6.50 per 100 lb.; lights sell at $5.00 to $5.50.

Stocks of provisions on hand are light, and the certainty of a good demand shortly springing up and the high prices at present obtained for fresh meats is having its effect in advancing the prices of provisions. This week long clear bacon has advanced ½c.; medium hams, ½c., and short cut, 50c. to $1, and further advances are not improbable. We quote : Long clear bacon, 11c. ; smoked breakfast bacon, 14 to 15c. ; rolls, 11½c. ; medium hams, 13½ to 14c. ; large hams, 12½ to 13c.; shoulder hams, 10½ to 11c., and backs, 14 to 14½c.; Canadian heavy mess pork, $21 to $21.50; short cut, $22.50 to $23 ; lard, in tierces, 11 to 11¼c. per lb.; tubs, 11¼ to 11½c., and pails, 11½ to 11¾c.

MONTREAL.

The market for all lines of provisions is still firm. The "Anchor" brand of compound lard of The Laing Packing and Provision Co. has been placed on the market again, and at an advance of 10c. The prices now are: Wooden pails, $1.92½ to $1 95; tin pails, $1.87½ to $1.90. The smaller tins sell for 9⅜ to 9⅞c., according to the size. Pure lard is now quoted at $2.32½ to $2.35 per pail; in tubs, 11⅝c.; in 10, 5 and 3-lb. tins, 12¼ to 12½c. Fairbank's Globe compound lard has been advanced 10c. per pail, making the price now $1.85.

The continued advance in hog lard during the past 12 or 15 months is said to have resulted in the use of good compound lard by many who have hitherto refused to buy it, and it is believed that these people will continue to take the compound lard even after the pure lard becomes cheaper. It is a fact that many dealers are more interested in compound lard than the other.

We are in a position to assure our readers that a further advance in compound lard will be made in the course of a few days.

The tone of the market for pork and live and dressed hogs continues firm. Western packing last week included only 390,000 hogs, as against 485,000 in the corresponding week of 1901, which is a decrease of about 20 per cent., and, as this is a fair instance of the scarcity of hogs and hog products, there is no prospect but of continued high prices.

On the local market a fair trade has been done in fresh-killed, abattoir-dressed hogs, in a jobbing way. The market is quite firm, the prices being $9.50 to $10 per 100 lb., an advance of 50c. over last week's quotations. We quote: Heavy Canadian short cut mess pork, $24.25 to $24.50; Chicago clear pork, $27.50 for heavy and $26.50 for medium; selected heavy short cut mess pork, boneless, $22.50 to $23.00; hams, 13c.; bacon, 15c.; lard, pure Canadian, $2.32½ to $2.35 per pail; refined lard compound (Fairbank's); $2.10 for 1 to 24 pails; $2.08 for 25 to 49 pails; $2.07 for 50 pails and over. Snow White and Globe compound, $1.85 per pail; Cottolene, 11¼c. for 20-lb. pails, and 11c. for 60-lb. tubs, for Quebec and Ontario.

ST. JOHN, N. B.

Some western barrelled pork and beef was received this week. The very high price causes even lighter business than usual at this season. Smoked meats are very high, a limited business being done. Lard is higher. There is a steady sale. In fresh meat, beef continues firm at the higher prices. Pork is very scarce. Little change in price. While lamb is still scarce, it is rather more freely received. All meats will be high this summer. We quote as follows: American clear pork, $24 to $25; domestic mess pork, $21.50; plate beef, Canadian, $14 to $15; mess pork, American, $22;

CATTLE FOR THE YUKON.

The Pacific Cold Storage Company, of Vancouver, have made arrangements with P. Burns & Co. for 1,500 head of cattle from their Calgary ranges and will ship them north to the Yukon where they will control to a large extent the beef supply of that district. It is further reported that the cold storage company will take all the cattle from P. Burns & Co. they can supply for shipment this season.

The Dashing Wave will be loaded at Vancouver with these cattle and towed up north with her cargo. This boat will make several trips between Vancouver and Dawson this summer but she will not be able to handle all these cattle. Some will be shipped on the regular liners.

DEATH OF HON. A. F. RANDOLPH.

It is with the deepest regret we report the death of the Hon. A. F. Randolph, of Fredericton, the head of the large wholesale grocery house of A. F. Randolph & Sons. The loss is not local to Fredericton nor even to the Province of New Brunswick.

Of great satisfaction to the family must be the expressions of deep sympathy and regard everywhere heard. Business in Fredericton was generally suspended the afternoon of the funeral. A special train from St. John accommodated the great number wishing to pay their last respects to an honored friend and citizen. Perhaps no business man in New Brunswick was so genuinely respected. His sympathy with all that meant the advancement of New Brunswick was practical. Our public institutions lose one whose place will not be easily filled. The business for some few years has been largely in the hands of his two sons who will doubtless continue it.

Hunter, general merchant, Durham, Ont., has removed his hardware stock from the main store into a room adjoining and placed it in charge of Mr. Theobald, late of Scott & Murphy, Mount Forest. He has a fine store, consisting of two flats and a basement, 25 x 90 feet. The grocery department is in the basement.

GOLD MEDALS AWARDED

Orders can be filled by any of the leading packing houses or jobbers in Canada, or direct.

Boar's Head Brand of Refined Lard Compound and COTTOLENE received the gold medals at the Charleston Exposition. Most every prominent concern manufacturing Compound Lard were represented. These awards again attest the superiority of BOAR'S HEAD Brand of Refined Lard Compound and COTTOLENE, and completely destroy the claim made by our competitors that they can produce compound lard as good as Fairbank's BOAR'S HEAD Brand, or make a cooking fat that is as good as COTTOLENE.

Boar's Head Brand is the only compound lard that would-be competitors praise by attempting to equal.

Boar's Head Brand is the only compound lard sold on a positive guarantee as to quality.

Boar's Head Brand is the only compound lard that the retailer and consumer are willing to pay more money for than they would for other brands.

Boar's Head Brand is the only compound lard that gives better satisfaction than hog lard as a frying and shortening medium.

FUTURE TOMATOES IN BALTIMORE.

PRIVATE advices from Baltimore on future tomatoes indicate that the market is fully 2½c. per doz. lower on standard 3s. than was the case several days ago. A fair business has been done for delivery in New York on the basis of 80c. net cash. Sales have been made as low as 77½c. regular f.o.b. country, and business is being solicited at 77½c. net cash there by several packers. Spot tomatoes are being cleaned up on orders for interior account at $1.30 delivered in New York, for Jersey 3s. and $1.27½, for Maryland 3s.

TEAS IN NEW YORK.

The local market was reported dull and featureless. Practically no interest was shown in spot supplies of teas in a large way, and the volume of distributing businesss transacted was limited, the consuming trade operating exclusively on a hand-to-mouth basis. Advices from the East continue to report firm and active markets for new crop Formosa and Japan teas, especially was this true of the latter.—New York Journal of Commerce.

SOCKEYE SALMON ON U. S. COAST.

San Francisco mail advices say of salmon: "Sockeyes are the only item that are heavy in stock, and of these the consumption at the prevailing low prices, 95c. to $1, is very large, in part on account of the high prices of meat. A short pack is looked for this year, as the same occurred in 1898, when the number of artifically raised fry liberated, which will be due to return this summer, was also unusually small. Probably no further prices will be made on the new season's pack till the result of this has been tested."

CANNED FRUITS IN CALIFORNIA.

Mail advices from San Francisco referring to canned fruits say: "Sales are reported to have been quite free, but at prices which indicate that sellers did not refuse any reasonable offer so as to clean up as close as possible. The quantity now in first hands is placed at about 500,000 cases; this does not include jellies, etc. It is stated on good authority that a combination similar, only more binding, to that of 1900 has been effected; if this is the case prices will be more stable next season, although they will unquestionably rule low."

FUTURE SALMON PRICES IN THE STATES.

According to private mail advices from the Coast it is intimated that opening prices on the 1902 pack of Alaska and sockeye salmon are being discussed by the several packing interests. It is expected in New York that the prices will be made on or about June 1 next, and, from advices received, the impression is that the basis on all descriptions will be as high, if not higher than last year. It is considered that the markets generally are in a fair shape for the reception of prices on the coming pack, as the bases of values on the 1901 pack have apparently reached a satisfactory level. Red Alaska is in particularly good shape, and few, if any, offerings available at less than $1.05 for talls, with some holders asking up to $1.07½. On sockeyes the ruling price is around $1.25 to $1.27½ for 1 lb. flats and 92 to 95c. for halves, and $1.12½ to $1.15 on 1-lb. talls. Distributers report a good consuming outlet, and the English markets are reported in better shape than has been the case in months.

CANNED TOMATOES IN BALTIMORE.

The market for canned goods remains about the same and quotations are also unchanged. Tomatoes continue in the lead at from $1.20 to $1.25 as the market for No. 3 standards; No. 2 are quoted at $1 to $1.05 for standards, and No. 2 seconds at 92½ to 95c.; No. 3 seconds at $1.07½ to $1.10; standard gallon sar equoted at $3 50. —The Trade, Baltimore, Md., May 16.

THE SITUATION IN SUGAR.

Czarnikow, MacDougall & Co., say of sugar: "The beet market shows great sensitiveness, hardening on the slightest improvement in demand and drooping whenever the demand eases off, but all the time exhibiting a very narrow range of fluctuations. There has been a speculative demand for new crop sugars, October-December and January-March deliveries, and considerable business has been done at 6s. 10½d. for the latter months. The inducement to make such forward purchases is found in the fact that the sowings next spring are likely to be curtailed and that the removal of the bounties will increase the cost of beet sugars of the crop 1893-4 to 8s. f.o.b. It is reported that the Belgian Chamber has ratified the agreement made at the Brussels conference, and that there is very little doubt that the agreement will be finally ratified by all the countries that participated in the conference. The factories' estimate of the decrease in beet sowing throughout Europe is 11 per cent. At present low prices there seems to be considerable disposition to carry sugars forward, and sufficient banking facilities in Europe to do so. For the same reasons that invite investment-buying and holding of beets such purchases may extend to Java and other cane sugars and the weight of the excess may in this way be so distributed as to remove all difficulty of carrying it until it is needed. No further sales have been made of Javas to this country, but we hear that of the expected crop of 800,000 tons fully one-fourth has already been sold by planters to shippers, by whom the greater portion has been placed in the east. Planters who are unwilling to accept current prices and are arranging to ship on their own account continue to charter sailers in preference to steamers. No further charters have been made to load sugars from the north side of Cuba and the total engagements on the south side will probably not exceed 25,000 tons for the balance of the month."

SHIPMENTS OF TEA FROM COLOMBO.

The shipments of tea from Colombo, Ceylon, from January 1 to April 14 were as follows, according to the figures furnished by the Chambers of Commerce:

	1902. lb.	1901. lb.
London	26,024,315	30,592,695
Germany	120,143	71,915
Russia	2,607,437	2,486,571
Other Countries in Europe	256,300	258,531
Australia	3,455,549	4,966,739
America	807,390	673,084
China	756,341	445,098

THE SITUATION IN CURRANTS.

Consequent on news of weather unfavorable to the growing crop, and the development of peronosperos in some of the larger growing districts, the price of Provincial and kindred growths of currants has experienced a sharp speculative advance, amounting in a single day to as much as 1s. to 1s. 6d. per cwt. Heavy business was not, however, transacted, in consequence of the unwillingness of many holders to sell even at the advance. So sudden and considerable an increase in price would appear to be just as unreasonable as the constant and persistent fall which has been in progress during the past four months. Although the London stock is smaller than two years ago—last year being so exceptional in character as to warrant it being left out of the calculation—still the total quantity of currants in the United Kingdom is larger than in 1900, and there are still some 15,000 tons left in Greece. Whatever the ultimate production of the growing crop may turn out, it is at present much too soon to form an opinion, and former experience only tends to show that the present time is far too early to reckon with any great probability on the reduction of the yield by disease. At the same time, it must be borne in mind that the consumption of the article is not much influenced by fluctuations in price, except of a much more pronounced character than those at present under discussion, and, if merchants can only make up their minds to maintain a steady market, without upward pressure, they may easily dispose of their holdings at satisfactory prices. Currants of better quality get scarcer daily, and are becoming dearer by a process of exhaustion.—Produce Markets' Review, May 3.

TEA SITUATION IN ENGLAND.

In their tea market report of May 6, Harrisons & Crosfield, London, Eng., say: "Since the declaration of the budget at the commencement of last month, there has been a quiet tone noticeable in every department of the tea market. Supplies have been upon a fairly-liberal scale, and, owing to a little forward buying in some quarters during March, with a view to protection in case of any possible increase in the duty, the demand has been somewhat slack, and prices, with few exceptions, have shown a corresponding decline. Imports for the next few months, following the usual course of things at this period of the year, will be considerably less than the deliveries, in consequence of which stocks between now and the end of August will be likely to show a large reduction. It may perhaps be interesting to compare the payments of duty in London for the first four months of this year with the corresponding months in last year and the year before last, as indicating the extent of the precautionary buying in each case:

	1902. lb.	1901. lb.	1900. lb.
January	27,299,121	29,525,697	37,072,918
February	19,368,566	41,373,550	17,784,137
March	19,829,915	17,426,251	32,399,719
April	22,580,765	14,981,415	10,661,737
	89,078,367	103,306,913	97,919,511

The monthly average for the whole of 1901 was rather over 20,500,000 lb., or, approximately, 82,750,000 lb. for four months; so that, after allowing for the normal increase in consumption, the surplus duty-paid stock now in the hands of the trade does not amount to more than one week's supply, as against five weeks' surplus supply this time last year, which should cause a better demand for the remainder of this season. It is necessary to bear in mind when considering the figures relating to stocks and deliveries that the abnormal clearances from bond last year caused the stock to appear very much lower than was really the case.

COLOMBO TEA AUCTION.

Dodwell & Co., Limited, Colombo, Ceylon, under date of April 16, advise: "13,903 pkgs. (1,230,146 lb.) were brought forward to-day, out of which 12,179 pkgs. (1,158,642 lb.) passed the hammer. There was a good inquiry, and last week's rates were fully maintained. Common kinds ruled slightly irregular. Fine teas were very well competed for, and in a few cases prices show a hardening tendency. The quality is gradually deteriorating. The average price of last week's sale was 36c., against 35c. for the previous auction."

NO DEBT—NO BUSINESS.

By Henry Clews.

"DEBT" is another term for "credit." If there were no debtors there would be no creditors, and if there were no such thing as credit the entire fabric of business enterprise would dwindle to infinitesimal proportions, and we would be carrying on a hand-to-mouth retail business, circumscribed in its possibilities and cumbersome in its manipulation.

Suppose, for example, business were done on the strict cash basis. A customer comes to me to purchase $5,000 worth of stock. He laboriously counts out his $5,000, which is recounted by my clerk or myself. I have to buy that stock and I have to count the money again when I present it to my seller, who, in turn, must go through the same process when he wishes to be a purchaser. We would soon have time for nothing but counting money, and our mercantile and financial transactions would dwindle until we had little, if any, money to count.

But see the process as it is in vogue to-day! One cheque pays 20 debts, and in its circuit from the maker to the seller and from one banking house to another it stands for the liquidation of a debt, and if these debts were not contracted business would wane and most of the Wall Street bankers and brokers would have to shut up shop.

Debt, instead of being a detriment, is a positive benefit to business. It is the spur for the honest man; it is the synonym for credit.

Credit means literally "belief." It is the belief—the credo of the business world. Once eliminate it from the equation and every commercial transaction will be the child of suspicion and mistrust. For if we can inspire no belief in our fellow-man we can obtain no credit. And it is who has the most credit who is deepest in debt.

Carelessness.

It is safe to estimate that fully one billion dollars of Merchandise is annually given away by kind hearted merchants who have formed the habit of Down Weight. At the same ratio we figure that the Money-Weight System now in use in over one hundred thousand stores is annually saving fifteen million one hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars.

Shouldn't this convince you of its usefulness and importance in every well regulated business?

LAST BIG FRUIT SALE.

THE fourth fruit auction of the season took place on Friday, May 16, when the cargo of the steamship Bellona, consisting of 25,000 boxes of Messina and Maiori lemons and Sorrento and Messina oranges, was offered. There were about the usual number of buyers from Canadian and United States cities, though not as much interest was displayed in the sale of the lemons as at previous auctions.

The fruit was in good condition. The reason given for the slow bidding on the lemons is that buyers were still pretty well loaded up from previous sales, the cool weather having decreased the demand, and, in consequence, were unwilling to add to their stocks. American buyers, however, bid fairly well on the lemons, and took by far the greater quantity. The prices brought by the lemons were the lowest yet this season, excepting in some cases in the Forest Holme's cargo, which, however, was a far poorer quality of fruit. Messina lemons sold at 40c. to $2.20 per box. The Maioris, at 75c. to $2.05 per box, made even a lower average than the previous sale.

But, whatever the fault with the sale of lemons, none could be found in the bidding for the oranges, which was as brisk as at any sale this season, and the prices realized were quite satisfactory. Messina oranges sold for $2.10 to $3 15 per box, and 85c. to $1.75 per half-box. Sorrentos brought $1.60 to $3.25 per box and $1.25 to $1.75 per half box. Montreal fruit men did most of the buying in oranges.

This was the last of the large sales of the season. The last of all was the Escalona's cargo; which, however, consisted of only about 1,000 packages of Messina and Valencia oranges and lemons. This was sold on Wednesday, May 21.

THE RECENT ADVANCE IN CURRANTS.

A COUPLE of weeks ago, it will be remembered, the currant market was greatly excited on account of cables from Greece announcing damage to the currant vines by peronosporos. Prices in the primary market advanced 2s. per cwt., and wholesalers in Canada marked their figures up ¼c. per lb.

Mail advices now coming to hand show that the excitement was rather more than the circumstances warranted. It is true that the weather was favorable to the development of the malady, but one of the best known shippers in Patras writes that the vines were so well sprayed with a solution of sulphur and copper that no damage was done to the growing crop. The weather, however, that was favorable to the peronosporos was also favorable to speculators, who, we are told, rushed prices up 2s. per cwt.

Advices received from another source estimate the crop of currants for the coming season at about 160,000 tons.

It is scarcely necessary to remark that the currant market continues to rule firm.

WISH THEY WERE IN CANADA.

The cables inform us that severe cold weather is being experienced in Great Britain, and that skating is going on in the north, while those who have visited England early for the Coronation are standing around shivering.

No doubt the many Canadians who are already in London for the purpose of taking part in or witnessing the Coronation proceedings are wishing they were back in the dry, balmy spring climate of their "old Canadian home."

THE BRITISH DUTIES ON FLOUR AND STARCH.

THE Chancellor of the Exchequer's Financial Bill was adopted a few days ago in the British House of Commons by a large majority, and an effort made by the leader of the Opposition to eliminate the clause regarding duties on corn and its products was defeated by a vote of 296 to 288. This is practically the final stage in the Bill which restores what are commonly called the old Corn Laws.

In a recent issue of THE CANADIAN GROCER we referred to the large number of articles which would be affected by this new duty. It is estimated that the duty on corn and starch will really affect about 50 kinds of the proprietary goods sold through grocers and druggists, while the various qualities of these goods exceed 150 in number.

As our readers are well aware, prices in Great Britain have been advanced on some of the articles immediately affected by the new duties. To advance prices, however, is by no means an easy matter, at least as far as a great many articles which are indirectly affected by the tax are concerned.

Of course, the advance in the price of the raw material from which the proprietary articles are manufactured may not be permanent. Of one thing, however, there is no doubt. The duty on these articles means an increase in the original cost, and must, to some extent, at all times affect the price of the more finished product.

But the farther away an article is from its finished product the more difficult it is to advance its price—at any rate, in proportion to the enhancement in the value of its raw material. This, manufacturers and merchants in England are finding to their cost.

It will evidently be some time before prices in a good many lines will adjust themselves to the new duties, in order that all interested may be satisfied.

HOPES AT LAST FOR A TRADE COMMISSIONER.

A JOINT deputation of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association and the Boards of Trade of Toronto and Ottawa waited upon the Dominion Government last week in regard to the appointment of a trade commissioner in Great Britain. The following memorial was presented :

That the Dominion Government be urged to secure a building in a suitable district of London for the purpose of exhibiting the food and other natural products and the manufactures of Canada ; that this building contain not only exhibits of Canadian goods, but that office facilities and sample-rooms be provided there, to be rented to Canadian firms ; that the whole building be under the control of a trade commissioner, appointed by the Dominion Government, who shall be thoroughly acquainted with the resources and manufactures of the Dominion ; that each Province be represented by a Provincial commissioner, who shall serve under the commissioner-in-chief, and shall be appointed and remunerated by the Provincial Government ; that the cost of the enterprise be defrayed by an annual appropriation from the Dominion Government, together with the rent derived from the various offices.

The demands of this memorial were pressed on the Ministers by Messrs. J. D. Allan, Hees, Ellis, Coats and Reid. Mr. J. D. Allan, of Toronto, was the chief speaker, and the fact that he has been making trips to Europe during the last 30 years eminenely fitted him for presenting the case of the petitioners.

The movement for the establishment of a trade commissioner in Great Britain, it is worthy of note, did not originate with any political organization, or party. It is purely a business movement and is the result of the visits of such business men as Mr. Allan to England. They have recognized time and again the necessity of such an official, but in spite of all their representations nothing has been done to carry out the views of the business men of this country.

Sir Richard Cartwright has persistently set his face against the requests of business men of this country in this particular. At any rate he has failed to do anything, notwithstanding the representations that have been repeatedly made to him. It is significant, therefore, that he was not present to meet the representatives of the boards of trade and The Canadian Manufacturers' Association in Ottawa last week. The Ministers present were : Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Hon. Wm. Mulock, and Hon. Wm. Paterson. Is Sir Richard so strongly opposed to the idea that he would not be one of the group of Ministers to meet the deputation of business men ?

It is gratifying to those who have been advocating the establishment of a trade commissionership in London to know that the deputation seems to have been more successful than any of its predecessors. At any rate, the reply of the Premier was more promising than anything yet experienced. He intimated that the Government was prepared to appoint a trade commissioner, and that $20,000 had been set apart for the purpose.

It is hoped that there will now be no futher delay in the matter, and that a suitable man will be appointed. It is to be hoped that whoever is appointed will receive the endorsation of the principal boards of trade and of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association. It would be an utter folly to appoint anyone to the position whose chief recommendation is political service. The man to represent Canada as trade commissioner must be a practical and able business man. Nothing else will suit the requirements of the case.

OPENING PRICES ON SALMON.

Prices are being named by a couple of the principal packers of canned salmon. The ruling price for good sockeye salmon of well-known standard brands is $4.50 f.o.b. the Coast. This price is 10c. lower than the opening figure last year. At this figure quite a little business has been done during the past week.

It is yet, of course, too early to predict definitely what the pack of salmon will be during the coming season, but it is thought that it will be a fair one.

ADVANCES IN JAPAN TEAS.

Cable advices this week from Japan are quite bullish on teas. The market in Yokohama, it appears, has advanced from 2 to 3c. per lb. since the opening of the season. The cables emphasize what has previously been said in regard to the crop shortage.

In sympathy with the firmer cables from Yokohama, local dealers are firmer in their views, and medium grades are held fully 1c. higher than a week ago, and some business has been done at the advance. The advance in the price of new teas in Japan has increased the demand for old teas on spot, stocks of which in first hands are practically nil.

AN APT ILLUSTRATION.

IT has been pointed out that the value of tourist travel to Southern California is about $25,000,000 annually.

This should stir up the merchants and others in all parts of Canada where tourist associations are not in existence to the importance of organizing in some way in order that ways and means may be devised to attract tourist travel.

There is no question about it, that the matter is an important one, and that it is scarcely of less importance to business men than to any other class.

We notice that an agitation has recently begun in Charlottetown, P.E.I., with the object of starting a tourist association there. Everyone who knows anything at all about the glorious summer climate and the scenery in Prince Edward Island must wonder why such an association was not in existence years ago. It is to be hoped that the movement will be successful, and that the business men of Charlottetown will do all they can to make it so.

The experience of Southern California is an apt illustration of the importance of tourist travel.

THE MARCH WESTWARD.

IT will be remembered that when, in 1890, the famous McKinley Bill imposed a prohibitive duty on Canadian barley, the intention was to stimulate the barley-growing industry in New York State. This did not succeed in its effort, notwithstanding that the Canadian barley trade was practically killed. It did, however, stimulate the growing of barley in the Western States, the result of which has been that many of the brewers in Oswego removed their quarters to that part of the United States, just as many cotton manufacturers have removed their mills to the Southern States.

Oswego is now likely to lose another industry, which is to move westward. It is none other than the large works of The Kingsford Starch Co. The latter is to remove to Chicago, in order to be in juxtaposition to the corn fields of the West, and a large factory is to be erected there. It will be remembered that a couple of years ago the starch manufacturers of the United States formed a combination and this removal may possibly be one of the results thereof.

CHAT WITH A SMYRNA FRUIT MAN.

MR. Charles A. Solari, of Smyrna, Turkey, is in Canada. He is a son of Mr. Antoine Solari, and is here in the interest of his father's business. He was in Toronto during the early part of the week, and left for the West on Wednesday.

"I have," he said, in reply to a question put by THE CANADIAN GROCER regarding the fruit crop. "to-day received a letter from my father. He says that the fig crop promises to be a large one, and equal to that of last year, or, at any rate, not more than 5 to 10 per cent. smaller. Slight damage has been done by frost. Some damage has also been done to the Sultana raisin vines in the districts of Magnesia and Axar. The crop is estimated at 27,000 to 30,000 tons. Last year the crop was 25,000 tons, besides which the stock carried over in Evrope from the previous season was 5,000 tons. This season, however, only 2,500 tons are in the markets of London, Liverpool and Hamburg, all told, from the crop of 1901. This small stock will be consumed before the opening of the next season, for there will be a large demand for Sultana raisins in London on account of the Coronation.

"My father writes that the currant crop of Greece is progressing favorably, and that the yield there is likely to be about 160,000 tons."

Gillespie & Co., Montreal, have been appointed Canadian representatives for A. Solari, and George Stanway & Co. will represent the firm in Toronto.

CANNED RABBITS FOR CANADA.

I had an interesting talk in Toronto this week with Mr. Sidney Wilcox, of the firm of Geo. Wilcox & Co., Sydney, Australia. Mr. Wilcox is on his way to Great Britain, but is spending a few weeks in Canada on business. His firm are export merchants in sheepskins, hides, kangaroo, wallaby, opossum and bear skins, besides which they have a rabbit canning and freezing factory. He spent some time in trying to introduce canned rabbits to the trade here, and obtained orders in Victoria, Vancouver, Winnipeg and Toronto. He was also successful in this respect in St. Paul, Minn., where he spent a few days.

Wilcox & Co. do a large business with Great Britain in both canned and frozen rabbits. Only immediately before Mr. Wilcox left Australia his firm received an order from Great Britain for 750,000 frozen rabbits. The capacity of the firm's rabbit canning factory is 800 to 1,000 cases of three dozen each per day. Ninety to 95 men are employed in the factory, while 200 are employed trapping rabbits.

The A. F. MacLaren Imperial Cheese Co., Limited, Toronto, have been appointed representatives in Canada for Geo. Wilcox & Co.

MARKETS AND MARKET NOTES

ONTARIO MARKETS.

Toronto, May 22, 1902.

GROCERIES.

THE situation in the wholesale grocery trade is much about the same as it was a week ago, and whatever change has taken place appears to be in the direction of an improvement in business. Probably the most striking feature is the continued improvement in the demand for canned vegetables, in which prices are steady to firm. In spices black pepper is a little easier, while white is a little firmer. Coffees are in fair demand locally and irregular on the outside markets. No further change has taken place in the local sugar market, but the outside markets have been slightly irregular. Business is only moderate in syrups and molasses. Rice and tapioca are meeting with a fair demand. The latter shows some easiness. The feature of the tea market is firmer according to cables from Japan, and quite an advance in prices has taken place. Currants, raisins and prunes are all meeting with a fairly good demand. The scarcity of Valencia raisins has become more pronounced in spite of the small shipment which came to hand early last week. Tapnet figs are now pretty well exhausted on spot.

CANNED GOODS.

The feature of the canned goods trade this week is the inquiries which have come to hand from buyers in the Northwest. There appears to have been quite a few of these inquiries, but the buyers want their orders filled at rock-bottom prices. Business, generally, in canned vegetables, is good and increasing in volume. Tomatoes are firm at 92½ to 95c. with 97½c. for certain brands. The high price of tomatoes is stimulating the demand for corn, the sale of which has increased quite perceptibly. Corn rules at from 65c. up for good brands. Beans are in moderate request at 70c. for good brands. There is a good demand for canned peaches and plums. From Northern Ontario there is a good demand for strawberries and raspberries. Gallon apples are getting scarce, and they are firm in price at $2.85 to $3. Three-pound tins are also scarce and firm at 90c. to $1. There is still a scarcity of canned haddies, but the packers of "Thistle" brand have a shipment on the way, which will arrive shortly. Although it is yet early to predict for the season, the run of haddies is so far fairly good. Canned meats are meeting with a good demand. In canned salmon business is fair and prices steady. A couple of the leading packers are quoting prices for next season's pack, and they are naming $1.50 f.o.b. the Coast. This is about 10c. per case less than the opening prices of last year. We quote: Fraser River sockeye, $1.42½ for five-case lots and over, and $1.45 for less quantities. Northern sockeye, $1.25 to $1.30; cohoes, $1.05 to $1.15, according to quality.

COFFEES.

The demand for green Rio coffees is fair, and the same may be said of business in roasted coffees. The outside markets have been somewhat irregular on Brazil coffees during the past week, although it was not perhaps as pronounced as it has been. At the time of writing the market is slighly lower on account of lower offers on Brazil. East-Indian descriptions are fairly steady in price in the outside market, according to our latest advices. Local quotations are unchanged. We quote: Green Rio, No. 7, 7¾c.; No. 6, 8c.; No. 5, 8¼c.; No. 4, 9c.; No. 3, 10 to 12c. per lb.

See pages 39 and 40 for Toronto, Montreal, St. John and Halifax prices current.

NUTS.

Latest advices report a slight advance in the price of filberts for prompt shipment. The cause of this advance is recent storms. Locally, trade is quiet and featureless in all kinds of nuts. Advices report that the old crop of Jordan shelled almonds is long since exhausted. The stock of Valencias is very much reduced, and, in the finest grades, exhausted. There has been some reported damage to the almond trees by frost.

SPICES.

Black pepper is rather weak, while white pepper, on the other hand, is rather stronger. Ginger rules firm. Locally, the spice trade is moderate.

SUGAR.

Locally the situation in sugar is much about the same as a week ago. There has been no further change in the price of refined sugars either here or in New York. Business is quiet. Raw sugar in New York remains at the same figure as a week ago, namely, 3⅝c. per lb. for centrifugals. The receipts of sugars at the four United States ports last week were 25,041 tons, while the meltings were 31,000 tons, there thus being a further reduction in stocks. The total stock in the four ports at the end of last week was 127,218 tons against 133,177 tons the week before, and 216,662 a year ago. The price of granulated sugar is still $3.78 in Toronto, for St. Lawrence and Redpath, and $3.73 for Acadia. Yellows run at $3.13 up.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

Business continues only fair in both syrups and molasses. There is still a scarcity of open kettle and fancy New Orleans molasses in the primary market, and prices rule firm. New crop New Orleans molasses is expected to begin to arrive in New York in ten days or two weeks hence more freely. We quote as follows: Corn syrup, 3½ to 3¾c. in barrels and kegs; sugar syrups, 30 to 32c. for medium, and 35 to 40c. for bright. Molasses, 24 to 26c. for open-kettle.

RICE AND TAPIOCA.

Advices from the primary market show that tapioca continues easy in price. We quote: B rice, 3¼c.; Japan, 5½ to 6c.; tapioca, 3½ to 3¾c., and sago, 3¾ to 4c. per lb.

TEAS.

Cable advices this week from Japan emphasize what has already been said in regard to shortness of the crop, and announce a sharp advance of 2 to 3c. per lb. in prices since the opening of the market. The situation, locally, is much stronger in sympathy, and dealers have advanced their prices about 1c. per lb. on medium grades. Further samples of new season's Japan teas have come to hand this week, and some shipments are expected in a few days. It is worthy to note that a letter mailed in Yokohama May 1, by one of the tea houses to its representatives in Toronto, was in the hands of the latter on Monday morning, the 19th inst. The demand for Indian and Ceylon teas is rather light. As far as prices are concerned, however, the situation is more satisfactory than it has been for a few weeks past. According to mail advices from London, Eng., the bidding at the auction for Indian tea was better, and there was more disposition to purchase at the current low rates. Good and tippy teas continue to attract the chief attention. At the auction of Ceylon teas the quantity offered was heavy, and, in consequence, the market was weak, especially for common descriptions, but in spite of this there was no further actual fall in prices, and anything with good quality continues to attract attention. It is worthy of note that the Ceylon Government has passed an ordinance to increase the tea cess from 20 to 30c. per 100 lb.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS.—There has been quite a little business on importation account during the past week, and prices are firm. The local quotations are still 5¾ to 6c. for Filiatras, and 6½ to 7c. for Patras.

SULTANA RAISINS — Advice from leading Smyrna shippers is that the vines are doing exceedingly well, and present indications point to a good production for the coming season. The stock in Smyrna was practically exhausted two months ago.

VALENCIA RAISINS.—In spite of the small shipment of selected raisins which arrived on the Toronto market last week, the scarcity of this fruit is more pronounced than ever. Wholesalers at outside trade centres have been trying to buy from local wholesale houses, but as far as we can learn they failed absolutely. There are some small lots on the way, but they are not due until the first week in June. In the meantime prices are firm at 7c. for selected and 7¼ to 7½c. for layers. Advices from Denia are that vines commenced sprouting early in April, the season being very much advanced, and that prospects for the crop are favorable. The old crop is exhausted in New York, London, and on the continent. Last prices ranged from 26s. to 29s., and very few obtainable even at that.

FIGS.—The demand for tapnet figs has fallen off somewhat, but stocks are light and prices firm at 3½c. Advices from New York say that 400 bags of layer figs arrived there early this week. This description of figs is rather scarce in New York at present. Advices from the primary market say that the indications are for a good crop of Eleme figs.

DATES.—There is a poor demand and prices are unchanged at 4½c. for bulk dates, and 6¼ to 6½c. for package dates.

PRUNES.—Locally the demand is fair and prices unchanged. Advices from New York say that there are large quantities of old prunes in stock and that efforts to move them are causing prices to be weak and irregular. We quote: Californian prunes, 100-110's, 5c.; 90-100's, 5½ to 6¼c.; 80-90's, 6½ to 7c.; 70-80's, 6¾ to 7¼c.; 60-70's, 7½ to 8c.; 50-60's, 8 to 8½c.; 40-50's, 8¾ to 10c.

GREEN FRUITS.

The holiday at the end of the week made the trade in fruits brisk, and the sales of oranges, lemons, strawberries, pineapples and tomatoes have been large. Bananas have been advanced 25c. per bunch owing to the extra heavy demand for them both in Canada and the United States. A trust is also keeping their prices high. The receipts of strawberries have been large, and the price of common stock is quoted at 12 to 12½c. per quart and fancy at 15 to 17c. We quote as follows: Oranges, Mexicans, $2.75 to $3.25 per box; Californian navels, $4.25 to $4.75 per box; Mediterranean sweets, $3.75 to $4.50; Valencias, $5.75 to $6.50 per small case, $6.50 to $7.50 per large case; Messina oranges, $3.50; grape fruit, $4 to $5.50 per box; bananas, $1.50 to $2.25 for firsts, and $1.25 for eight hands; pineapples, $3.50 to $4 per case; Southern cucumbers, $1.75 to $2.25 per doz.; Egyptian onions, $3 per sack; Messina lemons, $2.50 to $3.50; Palermo lemons, $2.25 to $2.75; Sorrento lemons, $2.50 to $3.50 per crate; Southern tomatoes, $3 to $3.75 per case of 6 baskets; strawberries, common, 12 to 12½c., and fancy, 15 to 17c. per quart.

VEGETABLES.

The market is steady with a good demand for rhubarb, lettuce and other green vegetables. Carrots are scarce and have advanced 50c. per bag. Radishes have declined 10c. per doz. We quote: Green onions, 7 to 8c. per doz.; rhubarb, 20 to 40c. per doz.; carrots, 90c. to $1 per bag; parsnips and beets, 40 to 50c. per bag; turnips, 25 to 35c. per bag; lettuce, 20 to 30c. per doz.; radishes, 25 to 30c.; mint and parsley, 20 to 25c.; cabbage, 50 to 70c. per doz.; dry Egyptian onions, $1.75 per bush; potatoes, 90c. to $1 per bag; asparagus, 50 to 75c. per doz.; Californian cabbage, $3 per crate; new potatoes, $8 per bbl.; spinach, 50c. per bush.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—The prices have settled around 13½c. per doz. and are firm. Large quantities are daily arriving, but the heavy demand from the produce merchants for pickling purposes keeps the market bare.

BEANS—Trade continues quiet and the prices are firm. We quote: Choice hand-picked, $1.30 per bush., and prime, $1.10 to $1.20.

HONEY — There is a quiet, steady demand, and prices are unchanged. We quote as follows: Clover, in 60-lb. tins, 9½ to 10c.; less quantities, 10 to 11c. per lb.; in combs, $2 to $3 per doz.; dark honey, 5 to 5½c. per lb.

MAPLE SYRUP AND SUGAR—Trade continues slack at steady prices. We quote: Maple syrup, in 10-lb. tins 90c., and 90c. to $1.10 per imperial gallon. Maple sugar is quoted at 9 to 10½c. per lb.

DRIED AND EVAPORATED APPLES—Dried apples are dull. There is a good demand for evaporated at 10½c. per lb. in carlots and 10¾ to 11c. in less quantities. The stocks of evaporated apples on hand are small. Dried apples are worth 5 to 6c. per lb.

HAY—There is a good demand for baled hay at $10.50 per ton in carlots.

POTATOES—A decline of 5c. per bag is noted this week. Potatoes are now worth 70 to 75c. per bag in car lots on the track.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—A decline of 1c. in dairy butter is noted, owing to the large arrivals thereof during the week. Choice prints and rolls continue in good demand, and the inferior stuff is hard to move. Creamery butter is also down 1c. We quote: Choice 1-lb. prints, 15 to 16c.; large rolls, 14 to 15c.; tubs, best quality, 13 to 15c.; tubs, medium grade, 12 to 13c., large rolls, medium grade, 12 to 13c. per lb.; bakers' lots, 10 to 12c. Creamery prints are worth from 19 to 20c., and creamery solids, 19 to 20c. per lb.

CHEESE—The old cheese has been nearly all cleared off the market and only fodder cheese is now being sold. The prices continue high for this kind of cheese, but large quantities will be placed on the market in a week or so and the prices will drop. We quote old cheese 12 to 12½c., and new cheese, 11 to 11½c.

FISH.

The demand for all kinds of fish is brisk and the prices remain unchanged. Herring and trout comprise the bulk of the sales. Some rock bass are on the market at 4c. per lb. We quote: Fresh fish—Lake Erie herring, 4 to 5c.; perch, 4 to 5c.; trout, 6½c.; pike, 4c.; British Columbian salmon, 20c.; whitefish, 7½ to 8c.; catfish, 10c. per doz.; blue fish, 9c. per lb.; mackerel, 12 to 15c.; rock bass, 4c.

GRAIN, FLOUR AND BREAKFAST FOODS.

GRAIN—As the decrease in the world's visible supply of wheat has not been as large as anticipated, and the weather in the grain-growing regions has also been favorable, the wheat market has weakened. Manitoba No. 1 hard has declined 1c. and No. 1 and No. 2 Northern 1½c. per bushel. They are quoted at 86c. for Manitoba hard, 82½c. for No. 1 and 80½c. for No. 2 Northern. There has been an increase in the receipts of grain on the local market

QUEBEC MARKETS.

Montreal, May 22, 1902.

GROCERIES.

TRADE in the grocery business has continued quite active all round. The observance of May 24, Saturday, as a holiday, has been objected to by some of the retail trade, who consider it to be an inopportune time, but the general impression is favorable to it. Jobbers, of course, prefer to have the holiday on Saturday than almost any day in the week as the business of the week is not then so broken into. The Laing Packing and Provision Co. have placed on the market again their "Anchor" brand compound lard, at an advance of 10c. Valencia raisins have been advanced on account of their continued scarcity. Cod liver oil has sustained a marked advance, the price now being $1.15 to $1.25, which is 25c. higher per gallon. Castor oil has declined somewhat, several large shipments having been received from England during the past week, and it is now quoted at 8¾ to 9¼c. Small cheese is also lower, as there is more being manufactured now and supplies are larger. The price is 11⅝ to 11¾c. Pure lard is about ¼c. higher. Evaporated apples are reported to be scarce, some jobbers who are out of them declaring that they have found it impossible to obtain any supplies whatever.

SUGAR.

Trade has been about the same in sugars, fair, considering the season. The price has not changed. The Canadian Sugar Refining Co. have again commenced to supply the market with the extra ground sugar. The raw sugar market is still unsettled and operators here decline to express an opinion as to the probable developments of the market either one way or the other. Montreal granulated is selling for $3.70, and yellows from $3.05 to $3.70.

TEAS.

The latest advices from Japan state that the first crop would be between 15 and 20 per cent. smaller than last year. The market opened at about 2 or 3c. higher than a year ago, and present indications do not give any warrant for expecting lower figures. Some dealers state that they will not be able to buy their grades at prices which they are offering them to-day. This applies only to the highest grades of teas. But the second crop, or the average grade, is what most of the business is done in in Canada, and so far there is no reason for believing that this will not be as large as last year's, and that the price will be any higher. Those who want the very best grades, however, will have to pay higher for them.

SYRUPS.

There is not much doing. We quote corn syrups as follows: 3½c. in bbls.; 3⅝c. in ½ bbls.; 3¾c. in ¼ bbls.; $1.60 in 38½-lb. and $1.20 in 25-lb. pails.

MOLASSES.

There has been no change for the better in this market, and prices are still variating and too low for any profit owing to competition from points in the Maritime Provinces and in Boston. Barbados are still quoted at 23 to 24c., though new molasses, in carlots, have been offered at 22½c. and even lower. Antigua molasses is quoted at 24c. and finest Porto Rico at 38c.

CANNED GOODS

The jobbers here were agreeably surprised to see the market for fall salmon open at unchanged prices, as it was the opinion that the combine of Montreal and Toronto capitalists in the British Columbian canneries would first show itself in an advance in the market. There is a good demand for salmon in this market. Tomatoes are still scarcer and stronger but prices are unchanged. Gallon apples are moving but slowly, the high price apparently having its effect on sales. Canned French peas are not yet quoted by the French canners. A cable of May 14 stated that the cold had been extreme in France, and it was feared that much damage would be done to some vegetables. There is an active inquiry for peas, and the trade is impatiently waiting for quotations on the new crop. The local market is completely bare. In sympathy with the fresh meat market canned meats are becoming firmer, and some manufacturers have already raised their prices which we pointed out a few weeks ago would have to be done. We quote as follows: Peas, 82½c. to $1.15; corn (ordinary), 80c.; tomatoes, 95 to 97½c.; gallon apples, $2.85 to $2.90; 3-lb. apples, $1.10; salmon, $1.00 to $1.05; for pink; $1.30 for spring; $1.32 for Rivers Inlet red sockeye; $1.45 for Fraser River red sockeye, and $1.42½ to $1.45 for "Clover Leaf" talls.

SPICES.

The market for spices is still firm and trade is quite active. We quote as follows: Nutmegs, 30 to 55c. per lb., as to size; penang mace, 45 to 50c. per lb.; as to quality; pimento, ground, 12½ to 15c.; cloves, 15 to 25c.; pepper, ground, black, 17 to 22c., according to grade; white, 25 to 27c.; ginger, whole, Cochin, 15 to 17c.; Japan, 13 to 14c.; Jamaica, 16 to 20c.; Afghan, 12 to 13c.; ground, Japan, 15c.; Cochin, 16 to 17c.; Jamaica, 20 to 22c., and Afghan, 13 to 14c.

RICE AND TAPIOCA.

Nothing new has transpired in this market since the decline of last week. There is a good demand, and our quotations are as follows: B rice, in bags, $3.02½; in ½ bags, $3.07½; in ¼ bags, $3.12½; in pockets, $3.17½. In 10-bag lots an allowance of 10c. is made. CC rice,, $2.92½ in bags; $2.97½ in ½ bags; $3.02½ in ¼ bags, and $3.07½ in pockets. In the open territory prices are about 10c. less. Patna rice is worth 4 to 5c. per lb., and tapioca, 3⅛ to 4c.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS.—There is a firm feeling in the foreign markets. Locally, the situation is unchanged. We quote as follows: Fine Filiatras, 5⅝c. in half cases; cleaned, 6c.; 1-lb. cartons, 8c.; finest Vostizzas, 7¾ to 8c. per lb.

VALENCIA RAISINS.—The market here is stronger and an advance has been made in four-crown layers, which are practically the only grade on the market. We quote: Finest off-stalk, 6¼c.; selected, 6⅝c.; layers, 7¼ to 7½c. per lb.

SULTANA RAISINS.—These are very scarce and prices are firm, but unchanged. We quote 9c. per lb.

CANDIED PEELS.—There is a moderate inquiry. Citron peels sell for 16½c.; orange, 11½c., and lemon, 10½c.

MALAGA RAISINS.—Malaga raisins of the lower grades are in active demand. There has been no change in the price. We quote: London layers, $1.50 to $1.60; "Connoisseur Clusters," $2.15 to $2.25; ¼'s, 65 to 70c.; "Royal Buckingham Clusters," $3.30 to $3.35; ¼'s, $1.05 to $1.10; "Excelsior Windsor Clusters," $4.50 to $4.60; ¼'s, $1.30 to $1.40.

DATES.—There is a fair demand. Hallowees are worth 4½c. per lb.

FIGS.—All jobbers report an active inquiry for figs which, however, are not plentiful. Tapnets sell for $1.20 and layers for $1.15.

CALIFORNIAN RAISINS.—The demand for these is now very good, and the market is steady at 9¼ to 9½c. per lb. for seeded.

PRUNES.—There is a good steady demand for prunes, and no change has occurred in prices, which are: 8½c. for 40-50's; 8c. for 50-60's; 7¾c. for 60-70's; 7½c. for 70-80's; 6¾c. for 80-90's; 6½c. for 90-100's.

CALIFORNIAN EVAPORATED FRUITS —A fair business is passing this week at unchanged prices. We quote: Apricots, 14½c.; peaches, 10½c., and pears, 10c.

NUTS.

No change is reported in price. The inquiry is light. We quote: Walnuts, 9¾ to 11c.; Tarragona almonds, 12 to 13c.; shelled walnuts, 16½ to 17½c.; shelled almonds, 26 to 27c.; Jordan shelled almonds, 42c.; filberts, 8¾ to 9¼c.; pecans, 15 to 16c.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER.—Butter is coming forward freely, though the demand being good, both on local and export account, the supply is not greater than can easily be disposed of. A slight advance in finest creamery has been made, and the feeling is firm. Although 19¼ to 19¾c. is quoted at the wharf, Montreal, the probability is that practically all the business was transacted at 19½c. For finest salted goods here 20c. is obtained, and we quote 19½ to 20c. There is no change in the price of dairy butter, which continues in fair demand at 17 to 18c.

CHEESE.—The offerings of cheese continue quite satisfactory and are fully up to those of past years. The market is steady and it is likely to remain around the present prices for some time, as it is generally conceded that any further advance would lessen the demand. Finest colored and white are still both quoted at 11 to 11¼c. per lb.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

The market has again advanced and is firm under present quotations, which are 13½ to 14c. for round lots. Sales have been effected as high as 15c. in small lots. Receipts continue good, though the demand is heavy enough for still larger supplies. Pickled eggs have been in fair demand for export account.

HONEY.—There has been no change in price. The market is dull. We quote as follows: Buckwheat honey in comb, 9 to 10c.; strained, 7 to 8c.; white clover comb, 13 to 14c.; white extracted, 9 to 10c. per lb.; slightly tinged, 10 to 11c.

ASHES.—There is very little doing in this market. Prices are: First pots, $4.30 to $4.35; seconds, $3.90, and pearls, $6 per 100 lb.

MAPLE PRODUCTS.—There is but a quiet market this week, the business being almost wholly in small lots. We quote syrups as follows: Large tins, 70 to 80c.; small tins, 50 to 60c. Sugar sells for 9 to 9½c.

BEANS.—The market is steady. Finest primes, in store, are quoted at $1.25 to $1.35 per bushel.

POTATOES.—The market has again advanced and a much stronger feeling prevails. Choice Quebec stock sells for 85 to 90c., in carlots; choice Ontarios, 75 to 80c.; common stock, 65 to 70c. per bag.

GREEN FRUITS.

Trade has not greatly improved, though the demand continues fair. Valencia oranges, 420's, jumbo, are 75c. higher, and 714's, $1 higher, due to the scarcity of this fruit. Pineapples have been offering freely, and have taken a considerable decline, amounting to 5 to 11c. We quote: Jamaica oranges, in bbls., $4.50 to $4.75; in boxes, $2.75; Valencia oranges, 420's, $5.00; 420's, Jumbo, $5.50; 714's, $6; Messina lemons, $2.00 to $3.00 per box; pineapples, 9 to 20c.; Canadian apples, $4.25 to $5.50 per bbl.; cocoanuts, $3.50 per bag of 100; bananas, No. 1, $1.25 to $2, and eight hands, $1 to $1.50; sweet potatoes, Vinelands, $5.50 to $6; Malaga grapes, $5.50 to $7 per keg; cranberries, $7.75 to $10.50; red onions, $3.50 per barrel; yellow $3.25; chestnuts, 10 to 11c.; Italian chestnuts, 12½c.; grape fruit, $4.25 to $5 per box; Florida tomatoes, $3 to $3.50 per crate; fine spies, $5.00 to $5.50; radishes, 45c. per doz.; spinach, $2 per bbl.; No. 1 cucumbers, $1.20 to $1.40 per doz.; strawberries, 13 to 15c. per box; asparagus, 40 cents per bunch; Boston lettuce, $1.00 per dozen; Canadian lettuce, 35c. per doz.; Canadian spinach, $2.00 per bbl.; Egyptian onions, 2¾c. per lb.

FISH.

All sorts of fresh fish are in good supply, and the demand is fair. The cold weather of a few days ago stimulated the demand for fish, which increase in trade was put down by some people to the rise in the price of meat. But this view receives little encouragement from the best authorities. Quotations follow: Haddies, 6c.; bloaters, 95c. per box; kippers, 90c. per box; smoked herrings, 9 to 10c. per box; fresh haddock and cod, 3½c. per lb.; whitefish, 6½c.; dore, 5½c.; pike, 4½c.; halibut, 8 to 9c.; salmon, 12½c.; trout, large and medium, 7c.; No. 1 herrings, Nova Scotia, $4.75 to $5.25 per bbl.; No. 1 herrings, Nova Scotia, $2.80 per ½ bbl.; No. 1 Holland herrings, $6.50 per ½ bbl.; No. 1 Scotch herrings, $6.50 per ½ bbl.; No. 1 Scotch herrings, 98c. per keg; Holland herrings, 72c. per keg; salted eels, 6½c. per lb.; No. 1 green codfish, $6.00 to $6.25 per barrel; No. 2, $4.50 to $5.00 per barrel; large, $6.50; No. 1 green haddock, $4.25 per bbl.; No. 1 pickled sardines, $5.50 per bbl.; No. 2 mackerel, $12.50 per bbl.; No. 3 mackerel, $9.00 per bbl.; cod, 1 and 2-lb. blocks, 6c. per lb.; loose, boneless cod, 5c. per lb. in 40-lb. boxes; dressed codfish, $4.80 per case; dry codfish, $4.65 per 112-lb. bundle; No. 1 Labrador salmon, $17.50 in tierces; No. 1 Labrador salmon, $10 to $11 per bbl.; No. 1 Labrador salmon, $6 per ½ bbl.; No. 1 British Columbian salmon, $5 per ½ bbl. and $9 per bbl.; standard bulk oysters, $1.30 per gallon; select bulk oysters, $1.50 per gallon; Malpeque, Blue Point and other shelled oysters, $6 per bbl.; clams, in shell, $4.50 per bbl.; Marshall's kippered herrings, and same with tomato sauce, $1.45 per dozen; Canadian kippered, $1 per dozen; Canadian ¼ sardines, $3.75 per 100; canned Cove oysters, No. 1 size, $1.30 per dozen; canned Cove oysters, No. 2 size, $2.20 per dozen.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

FLOUR.—There has been an active trade in flour during the week, and higher prices now rule in Manitoba spring wheat patents, winter wheat patents, and strong bakers'. We quote: Manitoba spring wheat patents, $4 to $4.30; winter wheat patents, $3.75 to $4; strong bakers', $3.80 to $4; straight rollers, $3.50 to $3.60.

GRAIN.—There has not been much change in the position of grains. A recent advance in oats of 1½c. was followed by a firmer feeling in that line. The demand for export has been quiet, prices being considered too high. Peas are dull and lower in price. Quotations are as follows: Ontario No. 1 spring wheat afloat May, 78c.; No. 2 spring wheat, 76c.; peas, 86½ to 87c.; rye, 62½c.; oats, 49c., ex-store; corn, 72c.; buckwheat, 68½ to 69c., middle freights; barley, 57c.

OATMEAL.—The continued advance in oats has created a firmer feeling in the oatmeal market, but no advance in price has been made. Rolled oats are quoted as follows: $4.90 to $5 in barrels, and $2.40 to $2.50 in bags.

FEED.—Owing to the light offerings feed has become somewhat scarce, and the market is firm. Manitoba bran is now quoted as high as $20. We quote: Ontario bran, in carlots, $19 per ton; shorts, $21.50; Manitoba bran, $19 to $20; shorts, $22 per ton, including bags.

BALED HAY.—Light receipts were followed by a scarcity which caused an advance of 50c. per ton all round. The market under the advance is still firm. We quote: No. 1 timothy, $9.50 to $10; No. 2, $8.50 to $9; clover, mixed, $7.50 to $8; clover, $7.50 to $8 per ton, in carlots.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

St. John, N.B., May 17, 1902.

THERE are, in general, good reports from all the trade. The markets are quite firm. This not only means increased profits but increased volume of business, at least, if the values do not become too high. The great need of increased facilities to handle the growing winter-port business is a matter of continued concern. Seldom, if ever, has a city spent so much money without Government aid, particularly on what is a national port. We have contributed toward the very large amounts which have been spent by the Government on canals and harbors, particularly in Ontario. Expenditures of not greater importance to Canada, as a whole, than those we full figures. Eggs are in but fair supply, and prices are well maintained.

SUGAR.—The low prices are causing a very large sale, particularly for granulated. Dealers find it difficult to keep up stocks. The foreign is still received. It is very largely used for manufacturing. Yellows have a good sale. Nice sugars are offered.

MOLASSES.—A cargo of Porto Rico is to hand this week. Prices are rather firmer. This is the grade which sells here. While it is going out freely it is doubtful if outside buyers are buying as largely at this season as they formerly did. Quite a quantity of Barbados is expected, and prices quoted are low.

FISH.—The catch of gaspereaux is still light. The chief demand for this fish, fresh, is for bait, and this demand is hard to fill, so the pack of alewives will be light. Quite a few shad are received. These are chiefly sold fresh. The spring run is not as good to pack as the fall fish. It is yet too early for salmon. Dry codfish and pollock and pickled herring are rather dull. Smoked herring continue very low. We quote: Haddies, 4 to 5c.; smoked herring, 5 to 6c.; fresh haddock and cod, 2 to 2½c.; boneless fish, 4 to 5c.; pollock, $1.50 to $1.60 per 100 lb.; pickled herring, $1.50 to $1.75 per ½ bbl.; Canso herring, $5.75 per bbl.; kippered gaspereaux, $1.10 per box; Shelburne, $2.50 per ½ bbl.; dry cod, $3.50 to $3.65; fresh gaspereaux, 65c.; smoked, do., $1; halibut, 10c.; shad, 14c.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL.—Flour is firmer and rather higher prices are quoted. There has been a rather freer movement. Cornmeal is held at rather higher prices. There is a good sale. Oatmeal and oats are quite firm at full figures. Beans are a light stock. There is but a slow movement. They are held firm at the higher prices. Barley is quoted a little lower. Sale is slow. Peas are scarce and high. Seeds have shown a large sale, even at the very high figures. We quote: Manitoba flour, $4.80 to $4.90; best Ontario, $4.10 to $4.25; medium, $3.70 to $3.80; oatmeal, $5 to $5.10; cornmeal, $3.15 to $3.25; middlings, $26 to $28; oats, 52 to 54c.; handpicked beans, $1.50 to $1.60; prime, $1.40 to $1.50; yellow eye beans, $2.80 to $3.00; split peas, $5.15 to $5.25; barley, $1.5 to $1.55; hay, $12 to $14.

ST JOHN NOTES

Cheese box stuff is scarce.

Beans are firm at 15c. advance.

Cream of tartar has advanced 1c.

MANITOBA MARKETS.

Winnipeg, Man., May 19, 1902.

WEATHER, on the whole, has been finer this week, and seeding operations have made fairly good progress, while all seed already in the ground is germinating rapidly. There is now no doubt that the acreage sown in wheat will be smaller than was anticipated earlier in the season, but there will be a largely increased acreage of barley and oats.

Business in the city is keeping up well considering the depressing effect of bad weather and a fair volume of trade is shown for the week. The produce markets are suffering owing to the farmers being so absorbed in seeding as to pay no attention to creameries or cheese factories, or the sale of their cattle. This is, however, a matter that a couple of weeks of fine weather will adjust.

There are very few changes of price to record for the week.

SUGAR.—Business has been fair and the market without change in price. It looks as if bottom prices had been reached. There is no question but that the Canadian market is too low in comparison with the American. This is attributable to the low price of raw material and the importation of more or less Austrian and American sugars. Granulated is worth $4.40 and bright yellows, $3.80.

CANNED GOODS.—Vegetables, generally, look weaker, and corn, peas and beans are slightly lower in price, and offering very freely. We quote : Corn, $1.70 to $1.75 ; beans, $1.85 for crystal wax and string beans ; peas, $1.90 to $2.10, according to size and pack. Tomatoes are steady at $2.35 to $2.40, but it is questionable if steady would mean firm in this instance.

EVAPORATED DRIED FRUITS.—The prices of all lines of evaporated fruits are without change of any kind, and the demand continues good. Evaporated apples are very scarce and are in good demand. We quote : Evaporated apples, 11¾ to 11⅞c.; dried, 8 to 8½c.; Californian evaporated fruits, peaches, 11 to 11½c.; apricots, 13 to 13½c. for choice and 14 to 14½c. for the fancy grades. Prunes are very firm at 5 to 8½c. per lb.

COFFEE.—The market is normal and without change in prices.

SALT.—There has been a decline of 25c. per barrel in salt ; this is usual being merely the adjustment of prices to the lake and rail rates.

GREEN FRUITS.—There has been an active demand all week and oranges have again advanced slightly. We quote as follows : Mediterranean sweets, 176 to 250, $5, 288 to 360, $4 ; St. Michael, 150 to 250, $5.25, 288 to 300, $4.50, 360 to 420, $4 ; car of box apples, $2.75 ; strawberries, $5 ; cherries, $3 ; pines, $3.50.

VEGETABLES.—The first new potatoes of the season arrived by express this week and sold at $3.75 per bushel. The active American demand for Manitoba potatoes has slackened again, but stocks here are materially reduced. The present prices of vegetables are : Potatoes, 30 to 35c.; turnips, 75c. per bushel ; carrots, $1.30 ; Egyptian onions, 5c. per lb. Green vegetables—Lettuce, radishes and cress, 30c. per doz.; green onions, 15c.; green herbs, 30c.; tomatoes, $5 for six-basket crate ; Californian cabbage, 5½c. per lb.: Minneapolis cabbage, 5c. per lb.; rhubarb, 5c. per lb.; asparagus, $1 per doz. Butter beans are being brought in in small quantities by the retail trade and sell at 20c. per lb.

CEREALS.—No change has taken place in this market for the week with the exception of white beans. All lines of cereals are in fairly active demand. We quote : Rolled oats, 80's, $2.20 ; 40's, $1.10 ; 20's, 55c. Granulated and standard oatmeal, $2.75 ; split peas, $2.85 : cornmeal, $1.75. Barleys—Pot, $2.35. White beans are again lower and are quoted at $1.60. Package goods—Quaker Oats, $4 per case of 3 doz.; Pettijohn's Wheat, $2.85 per case of 2 doz.; Cream of Wheat, $5.50 per case of 3 doz.; Malt Breakfast Food, $3.35 per case of 2 doz.; Swiss Breakfast Food, $3.50 per case of 3 doz.; Grape Nuts, $2 per case of 2 doz.; Postum Cereal, $2.25 per case of 2 doz.

FLOUR.—There is a very strong trade in flour and Ogilvie's have again advanced their prices 5c. The Lake of the Woods are selling at the figures quoted a week ago. There are no very heavy stocks in the city. We quote : Ogilvie's Hungarian Patent, $2.15 ; Glenora Patent, $2 ; Alberta, $1.85 ; Manitoba, $1.70 ; Imperial, XXXX, $1.25 ; Nestor, $1.15 ; Lake of the Woods Milling Company, Five Roses, $2.05 ; Red Patent, $1.95 ; Medora, $1.65 ; XXXX, $1.25 ; Hudson's Bay Hungarian Patent, $2.05 ; Strong Bakers', $1.90 ; Leader, $1.50 ; XXXX, $1.25 ; Gladstone Sweet Home Hungarian, $2.05 ; Home Rule, $1.90 ; Headingly Hungarian, $2.05 ; Favorite Family Patent, $1.80 ; Strong Bakers', $1.60 ; Pansy, $1.25.

DRESSED MEATS.—The supply coming in is light in all lines and beef is especially firm. Prices for the week are : Beef, 8 to 9c. for the best grades, 9c. being the top of the market. Veal, 10c.; mutton, 13c.; lambs, $3.40 to $4.

POULTRY.—The supplies are limited and unsatisfactory. Chickens, fresh killed, 65c. per pair.

CURED MEATS.—The market is very firm and with an active demand in nearly all lines ; in fact, dealers are experiencing some difficulty in getting all they require. Prices are unchanged. We quote : Hams, 15c.; shoulders, 10⅜c.; breakfast bellies, 15c.; backs, 13¾c.; spiced rolls, short, 11½c., long, 12c.; dry salt, long clear, 11¾c.; backs, 12¼c. smoked long clear, 13c. Tierces, 11⅞c.; 50-lb. tubs, $6.05 ; 20-lb. pails, $2.50 ; 10-lb. pails, in cases, $7.60 ; 5-lb. ditto, $7.70 ; 3-lb. ditto, $7.75.

FREAK ADVERTISING.

THERE is no city in the world where more diversfied methods of advertising are to be seen than in New York, says New England Grocer. A walk the length of Broadway or Fifth Avenue will instantly demonstrate it.

A novelty in this line appeared in a clothing house down town this week. Behind a big plate-glass window is a lamb about three weeks old. A sign behind it reads : "This is not to remind you of 'Mary,' but to show you the stuff our cheviot serge suits are made of." The lamb attracted a crowd all day long.

A seed house has the window show space planted with turf, and a dummy figure with a lawn mower stands in one corner. A sign attached to the lawn mower reads : "This grass was sown three weeks ago, ——'s seed being used." This also attracted the passers by in big crowds.

On Fifth Avenue a florist has an ideal display representing a landscape. Japanese dwarf trees, plants and flowers have been tastefully arranged ; artificial hills with close-cropped turf, a miniature river, and a stately old oak, not more than 14 inches high, make up the centre. The only things artificial about this entire display are some miniature animals drinking from the stream.

A man leading two goats down Wall street attracted considerable attention Thursday morning. A banner over the back of each goat announced that "——'s real estate office had desirable flats to rent in Harlem."

A restaurant on a side street had a sandwichman out a day or two ago dressed like a butcher. He carried a model of a frying pan on which was inscribed : "We have the bulge on the 'beef' trust and raise our own stock. Prices just the same at ——'s."

A wholesale salt house had a wagon on the street a few days ago in which sat a man and two boys giving away miniature sacks of salt on which was printed : "The spring birds are here. This is to sprinkle on your chicken. ——— Salt Company."

Pretty girls with pretty teeth are in several store windows advertising dental articles, and long-haired maidens do the same for the hair tonics. A miniature "gusher" in a window advertises an oil well company's stock, and gives ocular demonstration that the company has at least one derrick in operation. Kites, supporting banners, float over numerous buildings, and the newspapers have rivals who post bulletins of the news of the world in front of their places of business.

NOVA SCOTIA MARKETS.

Halifax, N.S., May 19, 1902.

WEATHER conditions have been very favorable to a continuance of the unusual activity of both the wholesale and retail grocery trade. The presence here of the regiments of the Fourth Contingent has also been an enlivening factor, especially in the retail and jobbing lines. The wholesale houses are kept busy sending out orders which are still coming in freely from the travellers on the road, and as last reported, everything points to a continuance of the heavy business already done this season.

Though without any material advance from that given last week, flour, meal and the various feeds are very firm with a strong advance tendency. Flour is now quoted at $4.65 to $4.75 for Hungarian Patent, Manitoba; $4.10 to $4.30 for Manitoba Strong Bakers'; and the various grades in proportion down to Straight and Extra, from $3.20 to $3.60. Cornmeal, Ontario, is quoted at $3.10 to $3.20; Halifax ground, $3.05 to $3.15. Oatmeal and rolled oats are also firm at $5 to $5.10; Middlings, $26 to $27, and bran, $23 to $24.50.

Farm produce is firm and in some cases advancing. Hay is still firm at $12 to $12.50, and there is very little coming in, the farmers being busy seeding. This has reduced the available quantity somewhat in this market, as has also the supplies needed at the concentration camp and for use on the transports going to South Africa. The total required for this purpose is considerable, as over 2,000 horses are being shipped and a supply taken for over 40 days. Oats are still firm and comparatively scarce in the market. Some dealers advanced the price slightly last week, but the old price, 54 to 56c., fairly represents the market.

Butter is coming in now more freely and the price has declined all round to the extent of 1c. per lb. The pound flats, best creamery, are still retailing at 27c. Some very fine butter, fresh made, is coming in from the Annapolis Valley in 5-lb. boxes, which retails at about 23c. for finest, and 20 to 21c. for medium. From this on the butter situation should be very much relieved and prices should decline within the next week or two by 2 to 3 cents.

Eggs are still remarkably high for the season, and are retailing at 20c. for strictly fresh, though in the country towns throughout the Province we understand that the retail price is only 12 to 15c. All eggs coming in now may be considered fresh. Potatoes are very scarce on account of the large quantities lately exported, and have advanced 10c. wholesale, or in a jobbing way, to 60c. Seed potatoes bring 20c. higher than this. Turnips have advanced to 90c. per barrel; beets to $1; parsnips to $1.50, and carrots to $1.50.

Fresh meats are all firm at late advances, and neither the quality nor quantity are up to the requirements of the local market. Lamb is coming in now in small quantities, but the carcasses are like the quantity—small also. Fowls and chicken bring 10c. and turkeys, 14c. wholesale. No ducks or geese are available. Veal is in good supply with a good demand.

There is very little to report in the fish business as nearly all last season's stock has been marketed. A fairly good supply of fresh fish is in the market, and the first mackerel have been taken on the coast. As this fish has been reported at Alberton, P.E.I., it is feared that the large schools have gone by the coast 15 to 20 miles to sea, and that our coast fishermen may only strike small scattered schools. Lobsters are being taken on the coast quite freely and are retailing in the market at 10c.

WHY TWO YOUNG MEN OBTAINED GOOD POSITIONS.

"THERE is no dodging it any longer. We must have help. We could keep three men comfortably at work and where they are coming from I don't know. I'm sick and tired of these fellows with recommendations written by people who will write anything to get rid of a nuisance, and it seems to me I can stand a run of fever better than I can endure being besieged by the riffraff that the advertisement brings. I don't see any other way out of it. So here goes for the advertisement. We want three, but we'd better say one and take our pick. There'll be an army of them."

The junior member, on the well-established theory that silence gives consent, turned to his desk, wrote the advertisement and had it in the newspaper office in due time and came down in the morning braced for the dreaded task by an unusually good breakfast. He was not early enough to do any waiting for two applicants were there before him. A glance told him that these were not of his kind and after a brief exchange of questions and answers he found himself alone. At 9 o'clock a shadow fell upon the floor and, looking up, his glance took in a young man of something more than medium height, a good enough face, a bright eye and well dressed.

There was a simultaneous "Good morning" and the caller slipped into the chair by the desk, pushed his hat back from his forehead, crossed his legs, put his right elbow on the leaf which separated him from the man at the desk and began :

"Saw your advertisement in the morning paper and thought I'd drop in and see 'f there was anything in it. Live over 'n Belchertown. Good place enough, but no place for business. Pretty town, laid out fine, but don't grow any. Old Abner Belcher, way back, bought it from the Injuns and set up blacksmith's shop and set up business shoeing grasshoppers."

"May I ask what particular work you been dolng."

"Well, I was coming to that. 'Tain't a great ways ahead and I'm one of these men that have to do things just so if I'm going to do 'em' at all. I've got it and my father's got it and I'm told my grandfather had it, so I guess you can put it down as a family trait. I had it dinged into me ever since I can remember : 'Boy, learn to do things your own way and then stick to it.' —Well, old Abner Belcher—"

At this moment the man at the desk was well aware that his suffering had begun, and, with the spirit of a martyr, had turned to his desk under the pretense of giving attention to some letters that were lying there, with the intention of ending the interview at the earliest possible moment. To his great relief another shadow darkened his office door, and a man of about the same age of the talker advanced, hat in hand, to the desk, where, after a respectful bow, he stood and waited for the man with his hat on to finish his sentence. It wasn't finished. By a series of "ands" and "buts," with no end of dashes, accompanied by numberless gestures of the elbow-resting arm, the narrative went on until Abner Belcher's story was told. Long before the tale was ended the office added to its number of callers, all of whom were barred back by the respectful but determined young fellow who, with his hat in hand, waited for his turn.

It is no exaggeration to say that a good half hour was wasted by the irrelevant nonsense. When it was well on its way there was a bustle at the door as if someone was going to have a look in, if it cost a leg, and then another bustle to get out if he had to sacrifice the other.

This done, he begged a sheet of paper and envelope of the bookkeeper, asked for the privilege of using a corner of his desk, wrote a few words, and, placing the note in the envelope, elbowed his way through the crowd now in the office, with a "Beg pardon for interrupting you, sir, but may I ask you to read this at your earliest opportunity?" and then, with a bow, elbowed his way out.

The story finished, the applicant came down to business :

"Now about this posish. I'd like to start in in the morning. You see, I haint got nothing to do and—"

"We sha'n't want you—allow this gentleman to take your chair. Good morning. Have a seat, sir ;" and the willing crowd gave way to the rejected candidate.

It is pleasant to say that the interview with the second man was short.

"I came to apply for the advertised position. My name is John Gray and I am at present with Coolidge & Blair. I have charge of the linen department."

There was a good look that took him all in, aided materially by the long study the man at the desk had been forced to give him, and then, with those few words that said enough and no more, came the following : "Call to-morrow at 9—I think I may engage you."

The rest of the morning passed drearily to the over-tasked merchant and when noon came he hurried to his luncheon, giving the office boy permission to murder any applicants that should come during his absence. He took with him the note that had been given to him and, having given his order, took it out to have the whole disagreeabie morning's work finished and off his hands. This is what he read, in a plain and neat handwriting :

"Dear Sir—I came to see about the place. The office is full and I can't afford to wait. I have been with Willis & Coleman for five years and want to find a more responsible place where there is more work and more pay. Should you want to know more of me please call me over the Willis & Coleman phone and I will come at once.

"Respectfully,

"CALVIN WINTERS."

The junior member of the firm opened wide his eyes and mouth at the letter and beckoned to a waiter.

"Find Willis & Coleman's phone number and ask for Calvin Winters. Tell him I'm here and want him to come right over."

In five minutes the clerk who couldn't afford to wait was seated at the junior member's right and was answering questions at the rate of 60 miles an hour. The result was a good luncheon and an engagement where there was "more work and more pay." The next day at 9 o'clock sharp the young man who knew enough to take off his hat, to state directly and concisely what he wanted, and above all things to stop when he had got through, came in and in less than five minutes left with the understanding that his place would be ready for him the following Monday morning. He came and found the note-writer's hat-peg next his own. The two hats are hanging side by side to this day.

It is getting to be more and more the custom to probe successful salesmen and men of mark to find from them to what leading trait they attribute their prosperity and when these two men, now in middle life, were asked to answer the question the man who wrote the note replied : "How is it, Jack? Don't you think that knowing what you want and stating it and stopping your noise when you get through will cover the ground?" and "Jack" answered : "I guess, Cal., that's the size of it" ; and that is exactly what did the business.—RICHARD MALCOLM STRONG, in Michigan Tradesman.

THE ST. LAWRENCE WATERWAY.

PARLIAMENT at its last session voted an appropriation for the proposed deep - water accommodation at Quebec, and tenders will be immediately called for the work. The site was last week inspected by the Minister of Public Works, Hon. J. Israel Tarte, and he is determined to rush the undertaking through in anticipation of its being used by the fast Atlantic line. The basin will probably be formed by adding 470 feet to the present breakwater and constructing in the form of a square 1,200 feet of cribwork, thus giving sufficient depth and mooring for steamers of the largest class.

The Minister also visited the Government shipyard at Sorel where the big suction dredge was built. It is now ready to go into commission and will be put to work dredging the channel in Lake St. Peter. This channel will be deepened to 27 feet at low water and will have at present a width of 300 feet. It will finally be extended to a width of 500 feet and a depth of 30 feet. There is at extreme low tide a depth of only 24 feet in that part of the channel. Work in improving the channels and aids to navigation on the St. Lawrence will be pushed forward with vigor this summer.

CLERKS POSTPONE THEIR PICNIC.

The Grocery Clerks' Association have doubts in their mind whether May 24 will be much celebrated in Toronto this year as it falls upon a Saturday. So they have postponed their picnic from that date to either Coronation or Dominion Day and a meeting of the Association will be held on Saturday to decide on which of these days they will hold it.

BEET-SUGAR INFORMATION.

This week THE CANADIAN GROCER is in receipt of a copy of The Grand Valley special edition of The Investors' Review, of Denver, Colorado. This periodical is printed on fine paper, handsomely illustrated, and contains a good deal of information regarding the beet-sugar industry. As may be expected, mining news is a feature of this paper. Descriptions also are given of the Grand Valley of Colorado and of mining in Old Mexico.

A CURIOUS WILL.

The will of William Horseman Coo, grocer, Toronto, who died last August, was evidently drawn up by himself. It is headed "In the name of God, Amen," and leaves the whole estate to his wife. The value of the estate is about $1,825.

GROCERS' SECTION TORONTO BRANCH RETAIL MERCHANTS' ASSOCIATION.

Many Matters of Importance Discussed.

THE Grocers' Section of the Toronto Branch of the Retail Merchants' Association of Canada held their regular monthly meeting at their headquarters, at the corner of Bay and Richmond streets, Toronto, on Monday evening, May 19. Chairman F. C. Higgins, presided.

From the grocers' section of the Hamilton branch of the Association a communication was received enclosing a resolution regarding the price restrictive agreement. This resolution endorsed and strongly favored this plan.

The price restrictive committee recommended that as many manufacturers as possible be requested to adopt this scheme. They had one or two meetings with the Wholesale Grocers' Guild and found the wholesale grocers both of Toronto and Hamilton in sympathy with the movement, and willing to support actively their endeavors to place the grocery trade upon a better footing.

The quality of the vinegar supplied many of the grocers is at present unsatisfactory. This affair came up for discussion before the meeting, and a committee, consisting of Messrs. Coulter, Doyle and Higgins, was appointed to go more fully into the matter and report at the next meeting.

Similar to the trading-stamp scheme is the new Merchants' Exchange ticket. It had engaged the attention of the central executive of the Association, who had ordered that immmediate action be taken against all those operating it. This proceeding was approved by all present.

The Fruiterers' Section of the Association were to confer with the wholesale fruit merchants on Wednesday evening, May 21, and endeavor to bring about better conditions in the selling of fruit for the season. The committee from the Grocers' Section appointed to act with the Fruiterers' Section brought in this report, and were instructed to be present at this conference.

A committee reported on the operation of a proposed "surplus stock register" very favorably, and the members were all in favor of this scheme, so plans and descriptions of it are being prepared for presentation at the next meeting, and it will go at once into effect.

The central secretary, Mr. E. M. Trowern, addressed those present, urging upon them the necessity of active work during the balance of the year. He expressed the hope that the Grocers' Section would be largely represented and much good accomplished for the trade throughout the Province at the coming convention of grocers to be held in Toronto next August.

Several new members were admitted to the section, and the meeting closed.

CANADIAN MANUFACTURERS DISCUSS THE WEST INDIES.

THE banquet of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, held at McConkey's, Toronto, on Thursday evening, May 15, was attended by over 100 members, representing the different branches of industry. The vice-president of the Association, Mr. Birge, of Hamilton, presided. After the banquet was over a number of patriotic toasts were given and responded to, and the chairman, in a brief address, referred to the growth of the Association, and referred to Mr. Munro and Mr. Stewart in terms of praise concerning their recent visit to the West Indies on behalf of the Association.

Mr. Munro mentioned the importance of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association to the business world and said its membership had increased from 130 to 900 during Mr. Russell's term of office.

At this stage of the proceedings Mr. T. A. Russell, former secretary of the Association, was presented with a gold watch, chain and locket as a mark of appreciation for his services.

Mr. Russell pleasantly replied to this presentation and told some stories as to his career since his graduating from the university.

J. M. F. Stewart, assistant secretary of the Association, told of his trip to the West Indies. They had visited ten places: Bermuda, St. Lucia, Antigua, St. Kitts, Dominica, Montserrat, St. Vincent, Barbados, Trinidad, British Guiana, Turk's Island and Jamaica. These colonies have areas varying from 20 square miles in Bermuda to 109,000 in British Guiana, and populations varying from 2,400 in Turk's Island to 750,000 in Jamaica. Their total area is 116,000 square miles and they have a population of 1,600,000. Their total importations amount to £9,000,000, of which Trinidad, the most important business centre, imports to the value of £2.500,000, or £45 per capita.

The merchants of Trinidad are prosperous, although the imports exceed by three or four times the value of the exports, which consist principally of lilies, onions, and potatoes. The United States takes nearly all these exports and supplies five-eights of the imports, leaving one-quarter to be supplied by the United Kingdom and one-twelfth by Canada. The principal items supplied by Canada in 1901 were 38 tons of butter, as against 124 tons from the United States, 30 tons of cheese, as against 51 from the Republic, and the balance including box material, oats, fish and potatoes.

The objects of the Association were strongly favored by the importers in Bermuda, and the greater part of the business done outside of Great Britain can on even terms be obtained by the Canadian manufacturers if they are in earnest about it.

The Canadian preferential tariff of 33⅓ per cent. applied to West-Indian sugars comes short of the countervailing duty of the United States by a few cents. This enables the West-Indian sugar to find a better market in the United States than in Canada, but the market of the Republic cannot be depended upon as permanent.

Last year the sugar consumption of the United States was 2,372,000 tons. The home production was 493,000 tons, the Cuban production 656,000 tons, and that of their insular possessions 476,000 tons. The production of Cuba and the insular possessions can be increased by two-thirds or perhaps doubled. In a few years the United States will be able to produce at home all the sugar she can use. Canada is, therefore, looked upon as the future market for West-Indian sugars.

Better transportation between Canada and the West Indies must be provided to facilitate trade, and opportunity should be given to let their merchants know what our manufacturers turn out in textiles, leather goods, boots and shoes.

Canadian cheese is liked better than the Dutch cheese that at present supplies their market, but ours is too large. They want a cheese weighing from 9 to 12 lb.

A committee in Kingston, Jamaica, met himself and Mr. Munro, and submitted these recommendations:

That the Canadian Manufacturers' Association should investigate the freight, primage and wharfage rates on steamers from Canadian ports, compared with those from United States ports, and if found that Canada is in any measure handicapped the Association should at once take steps to have the matter adjusted.

That the Canadian Manufacturers' Association shall also take steps to procure through freight rates to and from Canadian principal centres via Canadian ports, comparing these with rates through the United States.

That the Canadian Manufacturers' Association shall also be requested to recommend all their members to name quotations for their goods f.o.b. at port of shipment. The want of this hitherto has been found to militate against business.

This committee would add that the natural conditions of the respective colonies are all in favor of mutual trade; each country is the complement of the other in natural products, and it is high time that the feeling which has so long existed in favor of improved trade relations should bear good results.

Speeches were made by several others before the meeting dispersed with singing "God Save The King."

OBTAINED THE HIGHEST AWARD.

Walter Baker & Co., Limited, Dorchester, Mass., have received from the Jury on Awards at the Charleston, S.C., Exposition the highest prize, a gold medal, for the superiority of their breakfast cocoa and their plain and sweet chocolates. This makes the 39th highest award received by this company from the great industrial and food expositions in Europe and America.

STUFFED BUTTER.

A sample of butter made in the way butter should not be made is in the hands of High Constable Merewether, of Guelph. The butter was made by a Maryborough woman, and two rolls are shown as samples of several lots of the same style sold by her. The rolls have an outer layer of genuine butter of a thickness of about an inch, and inside are stuffed such things as old newspapers, bacon rinds, eggs of doubtful freshness, binder twine and other truck.

A NEW BOARD OF TRADE.

A board of trade has been organized at Deseronto, Ont., and an application has been made for a charter. The officers are as follows:

President—P. Slavin.
Vice-President—Geo. E. Snider
Secretary—W. J. Malley.
Treasurer—A. G. Bogart.
Executive Committee—E. W. Rathbun, F. B. Gaylord, John Dalton, W. Woodcock, W. H. Stafford, Robt Lawson, C. J. Adams, James Fairbairn, John Harvey, W. J. McMicking, W. G. Egar, Robert Miller and J. Marshall Oliver.

The drawing up of a set of rules and by-laws was left to a committee of three, and it was decided not to take up any new business until these were adopted.

Probably no manufacturing house in any trade is enjoying a greater rush of orders this season than The United Factories, Limited. This goes to prove what can be done by close application to details of business in the various lines turned out by these three large factories. Each has studied closely the wishes and requirements of the dealers, and each has endeavored to fill their needs exactly. This has been well appreciated by the trade generally, and dealers are showing their appreciation by the immense number of orders placed.

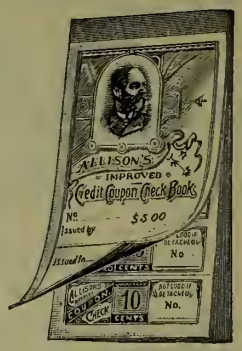
A Safety Buoy



For your guidance, should be the experience of others. Bright business fellows usually regard these signals—THEY PROFIT BY THEM. Merchants doing business in the old way—by use of pass books, will assure you that their losses are no inconsiderable sum, that in the rush and hurry of selling many items are omitted, and very often throughout the year such losses are occasioned that the results measureably affect the profits. Perhaps this very leak may have occasioned the shrinkage in YOUR profits last year.

With Allison's Coupon Books mistakes are impossible. There are never any losses through failure to charge goods—THEY EFFECTUALLY BLOCK THE LEAKS. Easy to use, and like this:

IF A MAN WANTS CREDIT

For $10, give him a $10 ALLISON COUPON BOOK, charge him with $10 and there you are. No trouble at all. If he buys a plug of tobacco for 10 cents, just tear off a ten-cent coupon—that's all, and so on for all his purchases up to limit of the book. No Pass Book. No Writing. No Time Lost. No Kicking. There are other Coupon Books, of course, but why not have the best? Let us send you a free sample.

THE FOOD SUPPLY OF CANADA.

ITS EXTENT AND ITS POSSIBILITIES.

JUST what the annual value of the food supply of Canada is it is not possible with any degree of certainty to say. The value of the farm products of the country was a year or two ago estimated to be $600,000,000. If these figures were correct, then they must certainly be below the actual value of to-day, for, in the industrial development of the country, agriculture has kept well in step with the manufacturing arts since then. And the food product branch of it has by no means been the least progressive.

Large as may be the supply of food products which Canada already annually produces, there are relatively few people who have given time to the consideration of the possibilities of the country.

OUR ENORMOUS FOOD BELT.

Prof. James W. Robertson, in his evidence a year ago before the Parliamentary Committee on Agriculture and Colonization, said: "Our country stretches one-sixth of the way around the globe at this latitude, and we have a belt known to be suitable for the production of foods, not less, on an average, than 250 miles wide."

Just imagine if you can what that means! A stretch of territory 3,500 miles long by 250 broad! And yet a population insignificant in comparison therewith.

On that food belt we last year produced something like 280,000,000 to

by far the greater part of which consisted of raw material from which the food of man is manufactured.

Then we have taken no account of the live stock that graze on the farms east of Lake Superior and on the ranches of the Far West. Nor have we considered the surplus certain gentlemen in Ontario send to the ranches of Dakota. The success of Canadian live stock, cattle, sheep and hogs at the Pan-American Exhibition is too recent to be forgotten.

CANADIAN FRUITS.

The fruits of our orchards have a reputation unsurpassed anywhere, and at the Pan-American Exhibition high honors were obtained. While the State of New York secured more awards than Ontario, that Province's list was exceeded by that of no other State, Territory, or country. But even in general quality Ontario surpassed New York, winning the gold medal for its "general display of fruits of superior excellence." Ontario fruit secured 20 gold medals, 32 silver medals, 38 bronze medals, and 89 honorable mentions Such well-known fruit-producing States as Florida, California, and Deleware were away below Ontario in the list of awards obtained.

FOOD FISHES.

Besides the product of the field and farm, there is the enormous value of the food supply which the lake and the river annually yield, whose value cannot be computed to the full. According to the report of the Fisheries Department, the catch of fish in Canada in 1900 was over $21,500,000. But in this no account is, of course, taken of the catch annually made by the desciples of Isaak Walton. At any rate, the yield as shown by the official figures is of such importance that it is not necessary for one to run the risk of being charged with telling fish stories in order to establish a case for the fish-food supply of Canada.

$69,000,000 OF EXPORTS.

While, at any rate, until the census gives some light upon the matter, it is practically impossible to give even an approximate value of the products of Canada grown and made for the food of man, the conditions are more favorable in regard to the export trade in the same. The value of that trade is nearly $69,000,000. As will be seen from the accompanying table, this is an increase of over 119 per cent. in 10 years.

Compared with the total export trade of the country, that which is exported in the shape of human food is 39.16 per cent. of the whole.

OUR BEST CUSTOMERS IN FISH.

Our chief customer for cod fish is the British West Indies. Next in order comes the United States, followed by Brazil, Porto Rico, and Cuba. Indeed, if we count Porto Rico a part of the United States, which it is politically, the latter country is our chief customer, Porto Rico and the United States taking last year between them $915,840 worth, against $749,958 worth to the British West Indies. Of pickled mackerel, the bulk of it goes to the United States. The same is to be said of fresh halibut. But of pickled herring the British West Indies take the largest quantity, with the United States next, and other countries nowhere in comparison. More than half the smoked herrings go to the United States. The latter country also ranks first among our customers in canned lobster, the exports last year to the three largest purchasers being as follows: United States, $840,237; Great Britain, $697,743, and France, $608,343. Fresh salmon goes nearly altogether to the United States. When, however, it comes to canned salmon Great Britain is preeminently our best customer, the exports to that country last year being 28,107,945 lb., while the next best customer, the United States, took but 4,510,848 lb. Our three best customers for fish, according to last year's returns, were: United States, $4,129,385; Great Britain, $3,101,198; West Indies, $961,306.

OUR DAIRY EXPORTS.

Of all our food exports the most important is that of dairy products. Cheese and butter alone contribute one-third of the total. Great Britain, as our readers are aware, takes nearly the whole of the cheese we export, of a total of 195,926,397 lb., 195,125,317 lb. going to that country. In butter, the proportion is almost as great, 15,602,445 lb. being shipped to Great Britain out of a total exportation of 16,335,528 lb. The same thing is to be said of eggs, for of our exports of 11,363,064 dozen, all but 89,612 dozen went to Great Britain. And yet, in 1890, the year the McKinley tariff went into force, putting eggs from the free list to the dutiable list at 5c. per dozen, Great Britain only took 3,600 dozen.

ASTONISHING GROWTH OF HOG PRODUCT TRADE.

Of all our food products, none have developed in such an astonishing manner as hog products. During the past year, owing to the scarcity of hogs, the output was not so large as in 1899 and 1900. Of bacon and hams alone, however, 105,549,505 lb. were exported in 1901, while in the preceding year the quantity was 135,031,874 lb. In 1891 the total was only 7,554,237 lb., showing an increase of 1,400 per cent. during the 10-year period. And all this increase has been due to the development of the trade with Great Britain, the quantity taken by that country in 1891 being 7,529,529 lb., and in 1901 105,130,008 lb.

RELATIVE POSITION OF GREAT BRITAIN AS A CUSTOMER.

Great Britain is by far the most important customer we have in food products generally, only in a few lines being she exceeded by any other country. In the following table is given the value of the chief food products exported to Great Britain, the United States, as well as the total to all countries:

VALUE OF THE CHIEF ARTICLES OF FOOD EXPORTED TO GREAT BRITAIN AND THE UNITED STATES IN 1901.

	To Great Britain.	To United States.	Total to all countries.

Oatmeal	453,326	330	467,807
	$54,642,608	$4,952,234	$76,689,978

This is quite a change since 1891, when the total export trade with Great Britain in the articles enumerated was only $17,781,176, against $54,642,608 10 years later. In spite of the 10 years that had elapsed, our exports to the United States in the same food products were nearly $1,000,000 less in 1901 than in 1891, the year after the McKinley tariff was trained against the food products of the Dominion. A comparison of the following table with that given immediately above clearly shows this:

VALUE OF THE CHIEF ARTICLES OF FOOD EXPORTED TO GREAT BRITAIN AND THE UNITED STATES IN 1891.

	To Great Britain.	To United States.	Total to all countries.
Fish	$2,260,569	$2,825 468	$9,157,508
Butter	440,060	10,054	602,175
Cheese	9,481,373	13,485	9,508,800
Eggs	83,589	1,071,247	1,160,359
Bacon	589,599	118	590,852
Beef	740	699	16,051

Fruits	1,255,197	288,741	1,566,133
Beans	....	493,486	495,768
Peas (whole)	1,439,747	358,267	1,858,319
Rye	68,444	95,131	226,470
Wheat	969,134	613,690	1,583,084
Flour	851,912	55,249	1,388,578
Oatmeal	35,455	1,900	45,195
	$17,781,176	$5,833,747	$28,508,093

In 1891, the proportion to the total of the food products enumerated in the above tables that went to Great Britain was 62.40 per cent. Last year it was 71.50. To the United States the proportion was 20.45 per cent. in 1891, and only 6.40 per cent. in 1901.

That the McKinley tariff accomplished to some extent its purpose is only too evident. But the aggregate foreign trade of Canada in food products is over 119¼ per cent. larger notwithstanding.

And while the growth of our export trade with Great Britain has been so large, there is no reason to believe that it has reached its limit. In wheat, flour, oatmeal, peas, cheese, butter, pork, bacon, hams, eggs, and apples Great Britain imports about $405,000,000 annually. There is, consequently, every encouragement for us to persevere.

PRESERVATIVES IN FOOD.

A circular issued by the Federation of Grocers' Associations of Great Britain has the following in regard to preservatives in food:

"Will you please call the attention of the members of your Association to the following recommendations of the parliamentary committee upon this subject:

The committee considered at some length the report of the Government Committee on Preservatives, and it was resolved to recommend the general purpose committee to authorize a circular to be sent to the associations urging them to ask their local members of Parliament to support Government permission for the using of 0.5 per cent. of boracic acid in butter and cream, this being justified by the experiments of Professor Tunnicliffe, the member of the Government committee who made experiments on behalf of that committee. It was also recommended that associations should call the attention of their local members of Parliament to the anomalous position of the report in relation to the presence of sulphate of copper in preserved vegetables. The parliamentary committee note that the only member of the Government committee who made experiments on the subject of copper has absolutely declared in favor of the permission to use such an article, and has presented a minority report upon the subject; whilst the other members of the committee, who do not appear to have made any practical experiments, and, therefore, cannot be said to have reported upon personal knowledge, have recommended the abolition of copper in the preservation of vegetables. The remarkable result is that, though the scientific member of the committee, Professor Tunnicliffe, has declared in favor of copper, the proposed abolition has resulted in prosecutions being brought, followed by convictions, in cases where less than the amount of copper admitted by the Government expert was found in the vegetables. The committee have already approached the president of the Local Government Board upon this matter, and they recommend the general purpose committee to authorize the issue of a circular to all the affiliated associations calling their attention to this anomalous position.

GROCERY WINDOW DISPLAYS.

SUGGESTIONS BY AN EXPERT.

An Attractive Display.

A NEAT window idea for grocers was noticed by the writer in a prominent grocery store. The bottom or floor of the window was covered with floor oilcloth, the pattern of which was a mosaic effect in pale blue and white. This is easily washed and looked clean and nice. The window was about 12 ft. long and 4 or 5 ft. wide. Towards the front of the window, about 1 ft from the glass, square upright stands (permanent) were placed. The tops were made of glass, and the uprights supporting them were made of nickel. The stands were screwed to the floor. Behind this was another row of stands about 6 in. higher than those in front, and behind this row still another row 6 in. higher than the second row. On these were shown bottled goods, squares of honey, etc. On the floor were shown fancy groceries of different kinds. Each line was ticketed. A nickel rod was arranged across the back of the window, on which was hung a curtain of green plush or velour. This curtain was about 4 ft. in width. The display certainly looked neat and clean and dignified, and anyone contemplating the purchase of groceries could not help feeling inclined to buy in this place. A window opposite was fitted up in the same way, and in it were shown meats and fancy vegetables only, everything bearing a price card. The stands as described were, no doubt, costly, but the same idea could be carried out in a less expensive way by having them made of hardwood and varnished.

Fancy Soap Display.

The illustration No. 1 gives an idea of how an attractive and business-bringing display can be made out of fancy toilet soaps in boxes. The different brands of soaps are always put up in attractive boxes, and this affords pretty color schemes in decorating with them. In order to keep the soaps from falling out, small rubber bands can be stretched across the boxes.

A framework is first placed in position and covered with some bright-colored paper or cambric. The boxes of soap are just tacked on with pins which are easily removed without injury to the boxes. The lids of the boxes could be used to cover the framework and the soaps could be used on the floor. Notice how each line of soaps is ticketed. This is a most important factor in inducing sales through the window. At a first glance one would think there was an immense stock of soaps in this window, when, in reality, there is not. The lids of the boxes form the best part of the circular design in the centre. The pyramids for displaying fruits, as described elsewhere on this page, would serve nicely to display soaps on.

Crepe Paper Backgrounds.

Very pretty backing for displays of groceries can be made with crepe paper. It comes in all colors, and the cost of it is very small. It can be cut in widths of about two inches and twisted in corkscrew effect down the back and sides of the window from the ceiling to the floor. It also makes good floor-coverings for displays of fancy groceries.

Design For Sectional Display.

A window design which is suited to almost any size of floor is in the following: It is begun by making a chalk line on the floor after the design (see sketch) No. 2. The lines can then be covered over with loaf sugar, packages of gelatine or any kind of small stuffs. Each section of the design is filled in with a different kind of goods. For instance, the star in the centre could be filled in with, say, prunes; the square outside the star could be filled in with apricots or dried apples; in another section could be shown figs, dates, raisins, peels, nuts, cranberries, etc.

For Pyramids of Fruit, etc.

A neat display of apples, oranges or lemons may be made by nailing together four boards so as to form a square pillar, 3, 4 or 5 feet in height. For a medium-sized window, five or six of these in different heights would be sufficient. Set them so the corners face the window pane, the smaller ones in front, and the taller ones in the rear. Drive long pins into these uprights, as indicated in drawing No. 3, and cut off the heads with a pair of snips. Cover the pillars entirely with the fruit, and on top of each stand a glass bowl or jar filled with the same fruits as on the pillars. A palm or two placed on top of the pyramids would set the display off. Place a price ticket on each pyramid. The small hole will not hurt the fruit in the slightest, and a display of this kind will be very attractive and out of the "everyday style" of showing these goods. The floor could be filled in solidly with same goods.

Spring Time Window Displays.

The spring windows should, next to the holiday shows, be the finest exhibitions of the year. It is the beginning of a new season, the merchandise now in hand is bright, fresh and new, the styles are radical departures, and so, too, your window settings should be something different, something far better than you have ever done before.

Imagine, remarks Dry Goods Economist, a person who has a beautiful painting, a new and master effort of some great artist, putting it into an old, dusty, dingy frame. Would he do it? Rather would the frame be something that would, if possible, add new beauties and bring out every perfect line of the painting. As with the painting so with the master creations of the garment makers' and milliners' art you are now called on to display.

BEGIN AT THE ROOT.

Begin your spring efforts, too, at the root. Is the window carpet old and threadbare? If so, get a new one. Are the window casings scarred and full of pin holes? If so, putty up the pin holes and scars and give the casing a new coat of paint and varnish.

Is the window curtain ragged, frayed and dirt begrimmed? If so, get a new one. Are the nickel fixtures tarnished and green for want of the polishing cloth? If so, have the porter spend a couple of days in bringing back their shine and glitter.

INVENT SOMETHING NEW.

Having seen that your windows and fixtures are in spick and span condition, start the machinery of your brain working toward something bright, fresh and new in the window-setting line, something that will reflect credit on your decorative ability.

Do not rest content with the idea which seems to satisfy so many window-decorators, that all the changes have been rung and there is nothing new. There are fertile fields of window display as yet untilled.

METHODS OF WORK.

It is the custom with many decorators—and these men claim it the best method of work—to enter a window with their brain barren of ideas, to take a piece of goods and pin it up, another piece in another section of the window and so on letting the form of the window exhibition work itself out, as it were. Now, while this method of work has many able advocates, we believe it to be radically wrong, one of the prime causes why we do not have finer windows and a tremendous bar to progress in the art.

Suppose an artist in painting a picture were to start with no formulated plan, but were to place a house here on the canvas, a tree on the other side to balance the house, a group of cattle in the foreground to break that up, and so on until the canvas was full, would the result be creditable? Hardly, and no artist ever thinks of going about his work in that manner. Before he touches the brush to canvas the perfect picture is in his mind's eye and his labors with paint and brushes are but the mere mechanical transference of that mental picture to the surface of the canvas.

So, too, the window artist should imagine the completed display before he drives a pin or places a single piece of merchandise. Better even than this is to sketch with paper and pencil your plan of the window.

Make Displays Interesting.

The merchandise on display along the busy retail streets seems specially interesting considering the crowds of people in front of the well-dressed windows, remarks an exchange. How about your windows? Do they do justice to the character of the merchandise on sale in your store? You know that during these pleasant out-door days people give less time to reading newspaper advertising and more to rambling along the streets. Your window ads. will be responsible to a large degree for the results of the season's business from now on. If you neglect this important branch of your advertising and later find yourself loaded with a lot of merchandise that you bought because it was so attractive you thought people could not pass it by, you will have the satisfaction of knowing somebody was negligent and not up to possibilities. It will be too late to mend matters then, except by merciless price cutting and wiping out of profits.

CLEAN, ATTRACTIVE FRONT.

Possibly the entire front of the store needs a cleaning up and a coat or two of fresh paint. Times are so good now and everybody feels so liberal that it is almost a disgrace to allow the store front to appear shabby for the want of a little paint. Possibly you have grown accustomed to looking at the front of your store, which may be shabby and you not take special notice of it. It is better to figure it out yourself than to wait until your next door neighbor treats his front with a new coat and have your customers tell you to do likewise. Only recently the writer was walking along a big retail street with a friend where one entire block with the exception of two store fronts had just been treated with a double coat of white paint from sidewalk to roof, and these two dull, grimy fronts presented rather a back number appearance and caused our friend to remark, "Those two fellows look pretty seedy; they better get in line and do a little painting." Step out on the sidewalk and take a look at the store front and see if a little painting is needed in your case. The store front which presents a fresh, clean, appearance carries considerable influence with the average mind. May be a new, attractive sign would improve your chances of getting the lion's share of the season's business. Look into these matters; it pays and pays well.

THE SEAL AND FISH INDUSTRIES OF.... NEWFOUNDLAND..

An Interesting Sketch

SEAL CATCHING is one of Newfoundland's chief industries. How this industry is carried on is told in an interesting manner by the St. John's correspondent of The Halifax Chronicle. When successful, the sealers' return is the occasion of a demonstration. Hundreds of the population gather at the docks and greet the inward-bound vessels with the cheers due conquering heroes, and answering cheers come from the crowded decks of the sealers.

The seal catch is one of burning interest at St. John's. The men make their $40 or $50 for a three or four-weeks' trip at a time of the year when they are doing nothing else. One-half or three-quarters of a million dollars are divided between the owners and the men. About 4,000 men are employed. The young seals are born on the ice from February 15 to 20. They grow in size with great rapidity, and by the first of April they are able to take care of themselves, and then they take to the water. Before this occurs it is necessary for the sealers to push up north and meet the floating fields of ice coming down.

HUNTING THE SEALS.

When they are reached, the hunters land on the ice and the carnage commences. A blow on the nose kills a young seal. A knife at once detaches the skin with 2 or 3 in. of fat from the carcass, which is left on the ice. If a fog or storm prevents the pelts being gathered in, they are panned — that is, gathered in heaps on the ice, with a flag denoting the ship planted in the centre. Sometimes the flag is not respected, and a rival vessel surreptitiously seizes the pans.

Some of the sealers complain of robbery this last trip. When a vessel is loaded down she leaves for St. John's, entering the harbor bedecked with bunting and receiving and answering cheers. She is a brave and gay spectacle. But close inspection dispels the illusion—it is contrary to the unwritten code for seal hunters to wash from the time they leave until they return. One can well believe this law is never violated. Their clothes and boots, their skin, hair and ears are so begrimed and filled with fish oil that if they were not animate one could readily believe them to be merely trunks of fat.

When the pelts are landed, the skins are ripped from the fat, which is tried out by steam heat and run into barrels. The skins are salted and sent to Europe, where they are manufactured into leather. Occasionally, a heavily-coated skin is dressed, dyed and made into a coat. The pelt of a hood (that is, an old seal that has grown a covering much like a hood) weighs, ordinarily, 80 lb.; a harp (a young seal) weighs 40 lb., and a white coat (a still-born one) may weigh 10 lb.

THE COLONY'S EXPORTS.

The colony exports annually about 5,000 tons of seal oil, valued at about $450,000, and 350,000 sealskins, valued at $300,000. Last year's figures fell slightly below these, the total exports of both being $707,527. The sealing fleet consists of 18 steamers having an aggregate tonnage of 6,000. There are two whaling companies—The Cabot Co., doing business at Notre Dame and Hermitage Bays, and The Newfoundland Co., at Rencoutre. Both are prosperous.

The lobster business along the Newfoundland coasts, as along the Gulf shores, is overdone. Lobsters have been fished to death. They have not only grown small, but scarce. Last year, there were 1,440 factories, having an approximate catch of 33,000 cases. The Government has provided artificial incubators. Spawn is collected from the factories and artificially propagated. This is considered an economical and effective method of keeping up the supply. This plan of propagation has been extended to cod. A hatchery at Dildo is in successful operation.

The herring fishery at Labrador has ceased to exist. The catch in Placentia Bay last season was a failure. At Fortune Bay, it was also a failure. It was very successful at Bay of Islands and Bonne Bay on the West Coast. Herring are now cured for the United States market after the Scottish method with greater profit to the fishermen, while the product finds a much more ready sale among our cousins, who are excellent judges of everything that is good in the shape of table delicacies. The Newfoundland herring stands at the head of the list and an ever-widening market is provided for all the fish that Britain's oldest colony can supply.

To protect the fisheries, the colonies employ 50 wardens, 2 steamers, 1 schooner, 3 yachts and one boat. By this means the illegal selling of bait to French fishermen is prevented. As a result, the French cod fishery has been greatly hampered and the catch reduced.

The fishermen complain that while Newfoundland is put to much expence in protecting her fisheries and preventing bait being shipped to St. Pierre, the French bankers were able to obtain herring bait at Sydney and Magdalen Islands. Every French vessel calling for bait would leave at these places $100.

St. John's, Newfoundland, and its Land-Locked Harbor.

THE COD FISHERIES.

The seal fishery over, the owners and men are next preparing for the cod fisheries, which are prosecuted either along the coasts or off on the Banks. There is good shore cod fishing all around the Island.

Cod is the great staple. Three-quarters of the population is interested in it. It forms five-eighths of the exports. The following are the exports for the past year:

THE FRENCH SHORE.

Very little expansion to the cod fishery can reasonably be expected until the French Shore difficulty is ended. The chief market for this fish is in Brazil, Portugal, Gibraltar, Spain, etc., where competition with French bounty fish is most nearly met. The bounty paid on fish sold to other countries is almost equal to the prime cost, so that the French fishermen can export at almost any price. This condition of things most seriously affects the value and profits of the Newfoundlander. But little advance has been made in the shipment of fresh fish—not over $7,000 worth per annum finds its way to the Canadian or American markets, and yet the continental cities ought to afford an almost illimitable demand.

This is a business for the future to develop. At the present rate of progress and development, it may be confidently predicted that within a few years the capital and skill will be forthcoming to create those quick transportation facilities that will place the great fish-producing waters of Newfoundland in close contact with the teeming continental populations. When fresh salmon, cod and lobsters from these waters are placed on the breakfast tables in New York and Montreal, a new era of prosperity will have set in for the fisherman.

MOST EXTENSIVE FISHERIES IN THE WORLD.

THE fisheries of Canada are the most extensive in the world, comprising an immense seacoast line, besides innumerable lakes and rivers. The eastern sea-coast of the Maritime Provinces from Bay of Fundy to the Straits of Belle Isle exceeds 5,600 miles, while the western coast of British Columbia is given at 7,180 miles, that is more than double that of Great Britain and Ireland.

While the salt water in-shore area, not including minor indentations, cover more than 1,500 square miles, the fresh water area of the part of the great lakes within Canada is reckoned at 72,700 square miles, not including the numerous lakes of Manitoba and the Northwest Territories all stocked with excellent species of food fishes.

Over 80,000 men were engaged during the season of 1900 in our fishing industry, using boats, nets and other implements, aggregating a value of $10,990,125. About 1,200 schooners, manned by over 9,200 sailors, besides 71,859 other fishermen, using 38,930 boats and 6,295,000 fathoms of nets, all found employment in this vast industry.

The lobster plant alone is valued at $1,419,100, comprising 919 canneries, dispersed on the seaboard of the Maritime Provinces. No less than 18,200 persons were engaged in this preserving branch of the industry.

The salmon-canning industry of British Columbia in 1900, comprising 71 establishments, valued at $1,420,000, gave employment to 19,787 persons.

The sealing fleet in the same Province for the year 1900 consisted of 37 schooners, 114 boats and 316 canoes, valued at $147,200, and manned by 1,052 sailors and hunters.

For the season of 1900, the sum of $158,802 was paid as fishing bounties to the deep sea fishermen of the Maritime Provinces. Of this amount $68,721 was divided amongst the crews of 802 fishing schooners and the balance shared by 22,031 boat fishermen. These different amounts entailed the payment of 13,776 claims.

For the last year, Nova Scotia received about two-thirds of the bounty fund, amounting to $101,448; Quebec, $33,203; New Brunswick, $13,462, and Prince Edward Island, $10,589.

For the last 19 years the distribution of the fishing bonnties to the deep sea fishermen of the Maritime Provinces would aggregate a sum of over $3,000,000.

LOBSTER FISHING IN CHILI.

The Island of Juan Fernandez, lying 600 miles west of Valparaiso (made famous by the story of Robinson Crusoe), promises, according to an exchange, soon to develop industrial interests.

The island belongs to Chili, and the Government is now arranging to make it a part of one of the provinces and establish a local civil government. The island is about 15 miles long and 8 miles in width. There is a good harbor on one side, where large ships can anchor with safety.

A large canning factory has been established on Juan Fernandez, and the fishing industries are attracting the attention of capitalists. There are good quantities of lobsters, crabs and excellent food fishes in the waters. The lobsters are large, of excellent flavor and especially suited for canning. They are easily caught, the supply seems inexhaustible, and the cost of securing them is nominal. There are also large numbers of fur seals on Fernandez and other islands near by, the taking of which might be profitably included in the lobster and fish business. The laws of Chili permit the killing of seals from March 1 to November 1. There is a ready market for the sealskins in Fernandez, whence they are shipped to Europe.

There is plenty of fresh water on the island; land can be acquired by settlers without cost; fruit and vegetables grow wild and are easily cultivated, which makes the cost of living comparatively low. The company now engaged in business is enlarging its plant and increasing its output. An American company could engage in this trade with reasonable assurance of securing large profits on the investment.

FISHING WITH A JUG LINE.

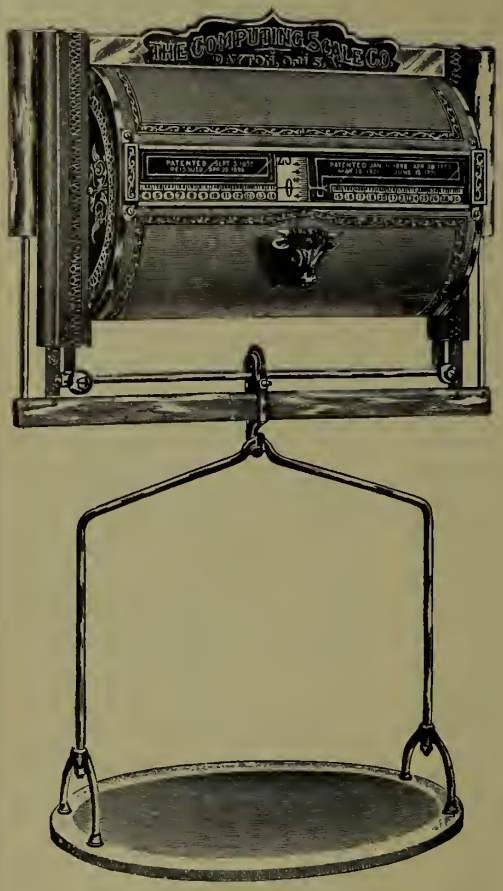
An interesting method of catching fish is in vogue on the Lower Mississippi River. The operator, says an exchange, secures as many empty gallon jugs as he can and corks them tightly. Then he fastens the jugs to a strong line at intervals of about 30 ft. To the jug line are attached numerous short fish lines about 10 ft. long, at the end of which are the usual lead sinkers and baited hooks. This done, the outfit is put in the water, and, taking one end of the jug line, he rows out into the middle of the stream. The jugs float down stream taking the bait lines along, and thus several hundred feet of river are fished at one time. When a jug goes down the boatman rows to the place and pulls in the fish. The river fisherman frequently floats several miles in this manner, or until he has caught a good boat load.

TAGGED CODFISH.

A report of the United States Fish Commission recently issued shows that during the last four winters 4,019 codfish were tagged, and that 140 were subsequently captured by commercial fishermen up to December 31, 1901. This experiment has proved very beneficial, for it shows that the captured fish range over a large section from New Jersey to Nova Scotia.

A brilliantly written ad. sometimes falls short of the mark while one that is a plain statement of attractive facts reaches the goal. Brilliancy appeals to the fancy, but attractive values always find the way to the pocketbook.—The Ad.-Writer.

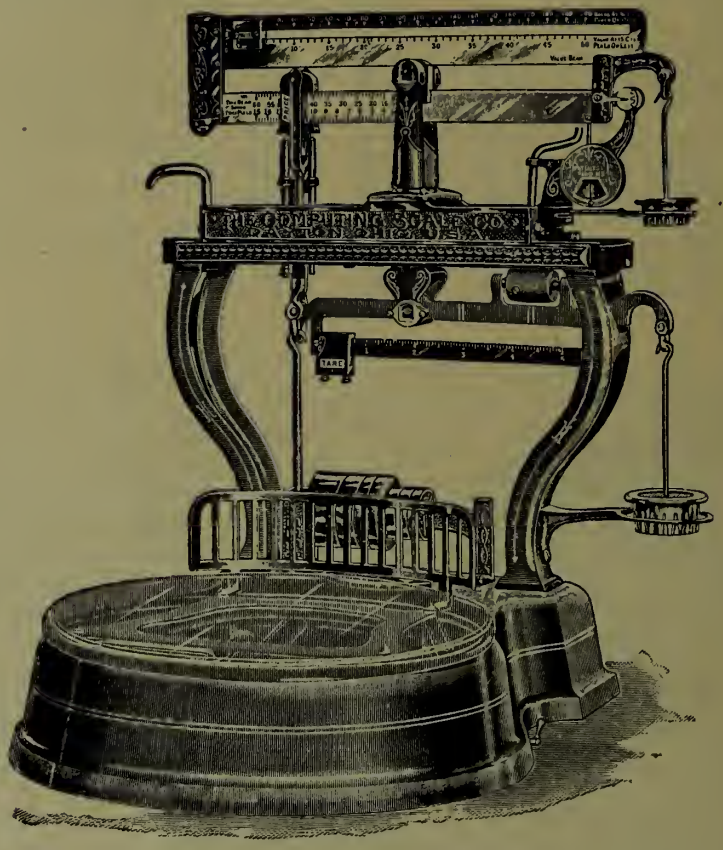
THE MONEY-MAKER



Down Through the Ages

For nearly eighteen hundred years the similarity in principle and construction in weighing devices remained almost unchanged.

Not until the last decade have these old heirlooms of the dark ages begun to disappear. It was a hard battle to fight down a custom established and in vogue for so many centuries. Only the most positive proof that these old relics were eating away millions in profits ever convinced the merchants that something must be done.



The Computing Scale Co. finally came to the rescue, and hundreds and thousands of up-to-date merchants are now using the Money-weight System with the highest degree of satisfaction and saving

The Cheese Export Trade of Montreal.

ITS IMPORTANCE, AND HOW IT IS CONDUCTED.

IF the export trade in all other branches of commerce were withdrawn from the port of Montreal, leaving it nothing but its immense business in cheese, it would still remain an important point of export, furnishing, as it does at present, the standards in quality, weight and price in cheese for the great markets of the world.

A HEALTHY GROWTH.

The cheese business in Montreal has had, on the whole, a very healthy growth since its commencement, and has steadily made progress under all sorts of conditions, sometimes favorable, and at other times very much the opposite, until it now stands preeminent among lines of export in that city. The building up of the city's cheese trade has not, of course, been all plain sailing. Those engaged in it have had many a hard struggle with natural difficulties and with municipal, provincial and national lawmakers to bring it up to its present basis. The great dairying country surrounding Montreal for miles and miles and the situation of the city as the natural seaport for all the smaller points of shipping have been powerful factors in favor of making its cheese trade what it is to-day. But to take advantage of these conditions required the work of the energetic and determined business men engaged in the export trade of Montreal, and to them largely belongs the credit.

CHEESE SOLD ON THE C.I.F. BASIS.

Cheese in Montreal is handled on a c.i.f. basis; that is, it is sold outright at a price which includes cost, insurance and freight, delivered at the point for which it was sold. The exporters are in reality handling cheese as brokers between the farmers in Canada and the distributors to consumers in England, for so great is the proportion of our cheese which goes to the Mother Country, that beside it all other export business is insignificant and scarcely worth taking into account when one speaks generally of the export trade. During the five or six months which constitute the busy season of the year in this trade, immense quantities of cheese are shipped from Montreal; and these transactions are completed on a very small margin for the operators in Montreal, owing to the exceedingly keen competition, the ownership of the cheese being thrown on the shoulders of the English merchant, whether the goods are for storage here or for immediate shipment.

THE INSPECTION OF CHEESE.

It must be admitted that a great deal of the success of the export cheese business in Montreal—or, for that matter, in Canada—has also been owing to the excellent system of inspection through which the goods must go before they are permitted to be sent into a foreign market to stand as representatives of the Canadian product. This business of inspection has been one of the matters of great interest to operators in the cheese market, which frequent representations to the authorities were necessary in order to bring about.

Formerly cheese was purchased and inspected then and there at the factory by the buyers, but for obvious reasons there were many objections to this method. More recently boards have been established at every point of collection throughout the country for this purpose, and now the principal portion of the cheese sold for export is subject to inspection at the port of Montreal. In order to facilitate the workings of the export business, there is a Government inspector at Montreal who acts as a sort of referee between the factorymen and the dealers. This system has nothing in it to be objected to by any in the trade, and the inspection of cheese now runs as smoothly as could be desired.

SUBJECT TO MONTREAL WEIGHTS.

All cheese is subject to Montreal weights, under a weigher appointed by the Butter and Cheese Association. This rule places all the factories in the Dominion on one common level when their makes are consigned to that city, and the competition in quality, weights and price is in this way all centralized in Montreal. The importance which the city has thus derived in the cheese trade now places that market in a position to practically govern the price of cheese for the world; and London and Liverpool merchants, as well as those in New York and other smaller markets, take their cue in this regard from the Canadian metropolis.

COLD STORAGE AND REFRIGERATION.

The system of cold storage in the city and refrigeration on board the transatlantic steamers has been continually improved upon until it has reached a degree of excellence that only perfection can surpass. There are complaints, of course, now and then, but they come in every case from those who expect too much from the cold storage operation. There are three opinions in regard to cold storage. One is held by those who do not know half the benefits to be derived from such; another by those who are fully aware of the value of cold storage as well as of what it will not do for goods, while a third opinion comes from a certain class which appears to be under the impression that the products placed in cold storage came out fresher and better than when they went in. It is from this last class of persons that the "kicks" come; and when, after goods have been kept in good condition for months, and are then taken out, and begin to depreciate in value as rapidly, or a little more so, than they would have before, these gentlemen fail to see the use of cold storage.

SUMMER AND AUTUMN CHEESE.

Some years ago, owing to the lack of proper protection for the cheese by cold storage, to keep it from deteriorating from the exposure to the heat, there was always a difference in the price of summer cheese, and cool weather, or autumn make. The former could not be relied upon to withstand the heat on board the steamer, and in many cases reached the purchaser in anything but a good condition. This, however, has all been remedied, and the great improvements in the construction of cheese factories, in the kind of cars used by the railways for conveying cheese and other perishable products, in the cold storage system at the port of Montreal and in the refrigerating chambers in the steamships, have revolutionized the trade; and when all parties handling the cheese, from the factory men to the steamship companies, do so under the most favorable conditions, the quality of the goods consumed in England or other place of import is practically the same all year around.

COLD STORAGE CAPACITY.

Besides many smaller and private ones, there are three large public cold storage warehouses in Montreal, all fitted with the most improved machinery and working under the latest and best methods. In these cheese form an important portion of the goods in storage. They have an average capacity of about 15,000 boxes, though there is nearly always much less than this carried. Very often cheese is allowed to remain in the warehouse for a long period, it being not at all uncommon to keep such goods from June till the following March. Transactions between dealers and shippers take place often in the warehouse where the goods are kept, and at such times quite an active market exists within the walls of the building, both for butter and cheese.

A MATTER OF TEMPERATURE.

There are improvements continually being brought forward in cold storage methods, though it is not likely that the duration of time which goods can be kept in good condition can be very much extended. Indeed, at present, a well-appointed storage can keep perishable products for almost any length of time—certainly longer than anyone would require them to be preserved—and in excellent condition as well. Great care must be exercised to keep the air fresh and pure; and this can only be accomplished when the refrigerating rooms, where the goods are stored, are kept perfectly clean. The slightest variation in the temperature of such rooms makes a good deal of difference, though not as much in the case of cheese as with more delicate articles, such as butter, fruit, etc. Cheese is preserved at a temperature of about 35 degrees.

Not only have the goods to be protected from the heat in summer, but the cold of winter is also harmful with certain commodities, and in these rooms, where the goods most susceptible to a varying temperature are stored hot water coils are installed to keep up a sufficient warmth

DESCRIPTION OF REFRIGERATION SYSTEM.

The system of refrigeration in general use in Montreal is that known as the Linde System of cold-air circulation. This has been found to answer all purposes satisfactorily, and it is doubtful if any improvements in other methods make up for the excellencies of this. Huge fans are used to clear away the gases and warm, foul air, always given off by goods in store, drawing them over coils of iron pipe filled with ammonia gas. This is kept at a very low temperature, and a sprayiug of brine is continually turned on them, producing such an extreme cold that all the foul air from the goods is quickly absorbed. The flow of the cold air current can be regulated by valves, so that it is a very simple thing to secure the exact temperature required.

HANDLING FACILITIES.

The arrangement of everything about an up-to-date cold storage warehouse is designed with a view to handling the goods in the shortest possible time, as well as with the greatest convenience. When large consignments are to be received or sent out, it would be a serious matter to keep the more delicate products standing in a temperature wholly unsuited to them for any length of time. To prevent anything like this most storages have large recciving rooms, usually extending almost the whole length of the building, situated so that the very least time may be spent in getting the goods in or out of the warehouse. In one or two storages a long slide inclines from the upper floors, and down this the cheese is run very rapidly and loaded on the wagons for conveying to the steamers, thus saving a good deal of time.

From the warehouse to the wharves is usually but a short distance, it being an important item in the cold storage business to be located as near to the shipping points as possible. At almost any time, after the opening of the St. Lawrence route from Montreal to the sea, one may see strings of wagons laden with cheese from all over the country, take their way to the wharves, where the steamers are ready to receive the goods.

PUTTING CHEESE ON BOARD SHIP.

From the wagon to the trucks, up the gang-planks and down the slide into the vessel's hold makes a rapid advance and equally sudden drop in cheese, and, if it is firm when it reaches the bottom, the fault doesn't lie with the muscular gentleman who rams it down the slide. But if he were as sparing of his brawn as of his regard for the feelings of the cheese it would take a very long time to get the cargo on board. The slide is just wide enough for a box with room to spare for a very thin board along the side, which is pressed against the box to keep it from going down too fast. But very often a box is slightly wider than others, and it gets stuck half way down. Then another is sent banging against it from the top of the slide, which usually has the effect of loosening it. If not, a third box is sent down. Three forms the limit to the patience of the man at the top, and, if all stick, he takes his weight and a load of strong language down and presses the whole of it against the boxes. He always succeeds; but it is no fun for the cheese, and many boxes have to be tied up with twine when they reach the bottom of the hold. They are then packed in tiers as high as the hold of the ship will permit of, and the cool chambers, with which every well-appointed steamship which engages in such work is provided, keep the cheese in the best of condition until it reaches the British market.

LARGE EXPORTERS OF CANADIAN PRODUCE.

Scott, Ashton & Co., Montreal, are large buyers, handlers and exporters of all kinds of Canadian produce, making a specialty of chilled and frozen poultry, and last year they were one of the heaviest exporters from Canada of both turkeys and chickens.

This business was started by Mr. Ashton in a small way some years ago; in fact, he was one of the pioneers in the business, and finding it very successful he went into it more extensively, after entering into partnership with Mr. Scott.

Last year the firm's dealings were very extensive, something like $35,000 to $40,000 worth of turkeys and chickens being bought and packed in their London, Ont., packing house alone; besides having several large orders which it was quite impossible to fill.

The firm are also extensive handlers of apples, butter, cheese and eggs, and have first-class connections in these lines in the United Kingdom, being Canadian representatives of some of the best known and oldest-established houses there.

Last year, with a greatly restricted apple crop, the business in this article was not very large; but with an expected large crop this coming season, they are making arrangements to handle greatly increased quantities.

THE JONES, MARSHALL, RUTHERFORD CO., LIMITED.

The above firm, whose advertisement appears elsewhere in our advertising columns, opened up business in Montreal last year. The operations of the gentlemen identified with it were up to this time confined to Toronto and the Province of Ontario. The results of the new venture have been satisfactory, and it has demonstrated beyond a shadow of a doubt that for an export business you require to be established at the seaboard, to insure your products leaving the country in the very best possible condition by supervising their departure on shipboard, and establishing agents in all the Provinces.

The president of the company is the Hon. Charles Drury, who for a great number of years was Minister of Agriculture for the Province of Ontario; vice-president, Mr. John Stark, the well-known financier and stock broker of Toronto; managing-director, Mr. Arthur Jones, who, previous to identifying with the above company, was manager of a large produce firm in Toronto for a great number of years, and is thoroughly acquainted with the requirements of the export business. The local manager is Mr. W. J. Marshall, member of the firm of Rutherford, Marshall & Co., of Toronto (with which this company is identified) who has been connected with the produce business for 25 years, and has a thorough knowledge of the export as well as the local requirements. The secretary, Mr. W. A. Rutherford, has also been in the produce business for a number of years, and helps to form a strong combination.

As all the gentlemen connected with the Jones, Marshall, Rutherford Co., Limited, are thoroughly experienced, we can prophesy for this firm a successful career. We learn that they have an important clientele in Great Britain, and sell to some of the best houses there. The Toronto house of Rutherford, Marshall & Co. is confined to the local business exclusively, and do one of the largest local trades in that city. This business was established in 1892, and has made steady progress ever since.

The Jones, Marshall, Rutherford Co., Limited, have added mechanical cold storage to their premises at Toronto, and leased a cold storage for their egg business at Belleville, so as to insure their pickled eggs being equal to the best stock marketed from this side. Intending purchasers might do well to put themselves in communication with this firm, as they can rely upon everything done by them being straightforward and upon the best and most economical lines.

Butter-Making Methods.

IMPROVEMENTS NEEDED.

THE butter business in Canada has a great future. But better methods of butter-making must be adopted, especially in the sections of Western Ontario where creamery butter is manufactured by the gathered-cream system. Instead of the milk being collected from the farmers and the cream separated at the factory, only the cream is received at a central station ready for churning.

GATHERED CREAM NOT REGULAR.

The butter produced from this cream is neither as regular nor as satisfactory in other ways as that produced by the separation of the cream from the milk at the factories. So well known has this irregularity of Western butter come to be that at certain seasons of the year, and when the market is dull, buyers for it are found with difficulty and sales are only effected on an active market.

NO REGULAR BUYERS.

There are no regular buyers, in fact, for the butter made by the so-called gathered-cream factories, but each buyer in turn seems to experiment with it. He then decides not to touch it again and only does so when the demand is brisk and the supplies of butter on hand are short.

This cream-gathered system is, of course, the cheaper way of producing butter, but so marked is the difference in prices all the year around between butter made at these factories and that produced by the other system, that it remains a mystery why a change is not made.

Sometimes in this way there can be made butter of as good a quality as that made from but to get it uniform and regular is difficult. No two days' churning seems to be alike. But in butter made from separated cream, a uniform quality can be had throughout the season. And once a customer gets a sample of this butter he knows what he is going to have all the year around.

BETTER METHODS IN BUTTER-MAKING.

Better methods also will have to be adopted in Canada in the making of dairy butter. The loss to the Canadian trade has been large, owing to the inferior qualities of dairy butter produced and the want of care in packing.

An improvement adding to the value of the butter would be the adoption of

A UNIFORM PACKAGE.

For this the Australian square box is preferable. These boxes are now in use at the creameries, and just as much care should be exercised in the packing of dairy as of creamery butter. Parchment paper ought to be used. Its cost is nominal, while it often adds ½c. to 1c. per lb. to the value of the butter.

Indeed, Canadian dairy butter has been in disrepute on the British market for some years past, and until the quality and methods are improved it cannot regain its favor. It is fast being supplemented on the English market by which is being imported in large quantities and is giving good satisfaction. The Russian Government has undertaken to look after the making of this Siberian butter, and is giving encouragment to the establishment of creameries. This oversight is having a beneficial effect.

Elaborate instructions are being distributed broadcast by the Russian Finance Minister. Three dairy schools are being formed; a number of instructors are being engaged to teach the farmers how to prepare butter for long distance transit; labratories are being established in Siberia for scientific research in all matters concerning dairy produce, and steamers, cars and all the principal stations on the Siberian railways are being equipped with cold storage appliances. An extra number of fast trains will be run from Siberia to the harbors of the Baltic Sea for the carriage of butter, and credit with the Russian Government Bank will be opened up for the buttermen; not only for their working capital, but also as loans upon their implements and upon the invoices of their butter consignments.

A line of steamships is also being put on the route from Riga to Hull, to make one trip a week. This is in addition to the provision made in 1901 for the carriage of butter and other perishable products from Siberia to Riga and from Riga to London by fast trains and steamship lines. No less than $100,000 will be spent at once by the Russian Government, and a permanent credit of $35,000 per annum established for the furtherance of that industry.

BUTTER TRADE REQUIREMENTS.

To the Editor of The Canadian Grocer:

TWO years ago merchants and producers were asking themselves the question "Have we not reached the outside limit possible as regards the quantity of cheese we can profitably produce and export to Great Britain?" and there were many who answered in the affiermative; but what are the facts in the light of today? Our market is about cleared of stock and the quantity in Great Britain is very light. It is a question if there is sufficient to meet the requirements until the new make comes in. This is the result of having a somewhat reduced make and the fact that there has been very little falling off from the demand in Great Britain; which country we depend upon to take our cheese, a comparatively small portion being consumed at home. The quality, owing to the higher standard for export goods, is steadily improving. Our system of education along these lines through our Dominion and Provincial Dairy Schools, and Butter and Cheese Special Circulars giving the results of numerous experiments, is steadily educating our makers, so that they are able to overcome all natural and artificial conditions that militated against their producing the fine, silky, meaty, clean flavored cheese demanded by the best trade in the Old Country centres.

Whilst these are the days of specialties, there is an old proverb which says that it is "never wise to put all your eggs into one basket," which is true even as regards the dairy industry. Our country is preeminently adapted for dairying, and we can manufacture butter as well as cheese, and, whilst we contribute nearly three-quarters of the total imports of cheese into Great Britain, we only contribute a little over 5 per cent. of their imports of butter. Now, the by-products from the creamery are much more valuable than those from the cheese factory, and the improved condition of manufacture from our creameries, and the uniformity of make has resulted in a very much larger demand for this article at enhanced prices, so that it is as profitable, and sometimes more profitable, to manufacture butter rather than cheese, and, in consequence of this, the value of our exports last year was the greatest in the history of our Dominion, and next year there is a possibility of the quantity manufactured being still further augmented.

The trade badly needs more cold storage steamers, and we are convinced that our Government cannot be indifferent or lukewarm on this question. It is a shame that butter from the antipodes can command a higher average price than our goods; due, we believe, to the better cold storage facilities and the Government's personal supervision, inspection and grading; not that we advocate this. All we desire from our Government is to see that we have the facilities of the very best to enable us to market our goods in the very best condition possible. We wish the Government to influence our factorymen, either by legislation or education, into using a uniform package, and producing a uniform article of the very best quality possible, and, instead of Canada contributing about 5 per cent. of the imports of butter into Great Britain, she will contribute 50 per cent. and not reduce the quantity of cheese she sends either.

Dairying is one of the most profitable industries we have, therefore, let us give it special attention, and let the Britisher aid the Imperial idea by giving our goods preference, and our country will be both prosperous and happy.

Opportunities for Canadian Trade in the West Indies.

By . . .
W. D. Taunton, of Halifax.

THE visit of the delegation from the Canadian Manufacturers' Association to Demerara and the West Indies was one of the best "moves" yet made by Canada in the direction of improving trade relations between the countries mentioned. It was my good fortune to follow in their wake, and as my mission was specially among the mercantile community, I had a good opportunity to judge. To Mr. Munro and Mr. Stewart especially do we Canadians owe a debt of gratitude. They succeeded in interesting the people of the Islands and South America in things Canadian, and I have no doubt they were not only interested in turn, but secured a lot of information which will be of value as trade between both parties increases.

And the West-Indian trade is bound to increase. For matter of convenience I include British Guiana under the heading of West Indies. It is true the great market for West-Indian products is in the United States, and it is true the Americans have been nursing the West-Indian markets for years. But the people are British and they want to trade with Canada if they can. And we can. But we must buy more from them and when they order goods from us remember that they are the best judges of their own markets.

British Guiana.

I had a very interesting interview with Smith Bros., Demerara. They conduct a large departmental store which has few equals in Canada, if, indeed, any. They complained that our flour barrels were

NOT FILLED AND HOOPED PROPERLY.

They want a barrel of regular size and they want it filled. This, I found, to be a standing complaint everywhere. There is a preference for a round hoop and a full barrel—though smaller than the present size—and this they are bound to get. It may be laudable on our part to educate them up to the fact that our barrel, though there may be room for a few more lb. of flour in it, contains the regulation weight and that a flat hoop is as strong as a round one. While we are teaching, the Americans are doing the business.

SAMPLE SHIPMENTS WANTED.

The manager of Smith Bros. said : " We would like to deal with Canada. But, in order to introduce her products, Canada should send sample shipments, in small lots, and if the goods are satisfactory and the prices right large orders will follow. The Canadian manufacturer should do the business direct. I cannot emphasize this too strongly."

PREJUDICE PASSING AWAY.

J. I. Chapman & Co., large wholesale and retail merchants, said the prejudice against Canadian flour was passing away, and that the prospects for an extension of trade were very bright.

CANADA AND DEMERARA SUGAR.

Another gentleman whom I conversed with, and who seems to take a lively interest in trade matters between Canada and Demerara, was J. H. De Jonge, of De Jonge & Smith, consignees. Mr. De Jonge said: "Careful attention to the wants of the Islands and Demerara, prompt despatch and the sending of exactly what is ordered will do wonders. Canada must do better with our sugar. The preference is still five cents under the American and as Demerara buys and sells in the best markets the United States has the advantage. This desire to expand trade on the part of Canada is hopeful. There is a big market in the West Indies and there is no reason why Canada should not secure it entirely. At present our imports from Canada mainly consist of potatoes, fish, lumber, butter, some flour and a few other things. There is no reason why nearly every article of manufacture should not come from Canada. A few years may see wonders in this respect if the Canadian producers and manufacturers are careful what they send us."

DEMERARA AUTUMN EXHIBITION.

Sandbach, Parker & Co., steamship agents, expressed themselves in very hopeful terms as to the future trade relations between the two countries. They are greatly interested in the West-Indian exhibit for the Toronto Fair this autumn, and, as there is to be a Canadian exhibit of machinery for making cotton at the Demerara autumn exhibition, they thought Canada might profitably send some other lines and make a general exhibit.

The total population of British Guiana is 278,328, including Georgetown, Demerara, which has 48,192. The colony is about 100,000 sq. miles in extent.

The revenue for 1900-1901 was £509,950, and the expenditure £505,492.

CANADA AS A CUSTOMER FOR BRITISH GUIANA GOODS.

It will be seen by the above that, while the United Kingdom is the colony's best purchaser, the United States is not far behind. The amount taken by Canada (British colonies) is very small, nothing in comparison with what the colony takes from us. In fact, Canada's trade with the colony for the year was only about 7.30 per cent. During last year the United States took 76,216 tons of sugar.

UNITED STATES WINNING TRADE.

D. G. Garraway, Comptroller of Customs, says that larger quantities of sugar, rum and cocoa were exported to Canada last year than during any previous year. With regard to rum, a good deal of it was shipped to the United Kingdom via Canada (Halifax), as it was discovered that freight charges were more advantageous by that route. He further says that the United States are slowly winning the sugar, rum and molasses trade from the Mother Country; that the quantity and value of sugar sent to Canada made a big jump in the last financial year, and stood higher than in either of the previous four years, owing to the fact that sugar was supplied under engagement to a Canadian refinery. The Comptroller points out that imports of butter decreased 66,490 lb., owing to oleo, tallow, cotton seed oil and lard being more largely used.

Trinidad.

Now, let me pay some attention to the most prosperous of the West-Indian Islands —Trinidad. This island has a superficial area of 1,754 square miles and a population of 270,000. The capital, Port-of-Spain, a beautiful up-to date city, has a population of 40,000.

THE TRADE OF TRINIDAD.

R. H. McCarthy, collector of customs, a gentleman who has done much to foster a good commercial feeling between the Island and Canada, was kind enough to furnish me with all the information I desired. The yearly value of imports is about £2,500,-000 and exports about the same figure. He reports a large increase in the consumption of flour over previous years and also of butter. Trade with the United States shows a falling off, both in imports and exports. Regarding imports, he says the most striking feature of the trade with the United States is the steady increase in manufactured goods. The United States takes annually about 24,000 tons of sugar and 59,000 tons of cocoa; while Great Britain takes about 149,000 tons of sugar and 86,608 tons of cocoa. Canadians are beginning to use more cocoa. He says that Canadian imports partly recovered from the loss sustained in 1899, gaining last year £4,000. Potatoes gained £3,700 and flour £1,900. The exports to Canada were the largest for three years, cocoa contributing £3,000 to the increase.

WANT TO TRADE WITH CANADA.

I may say that the merchants with whom I conversed all expressed a desire to trade with Canada, and as the Island is in a prosperous condition the outlook is bright. Port-of-Spain enjoys the trade of the great and rich Oronoco country and its stores and the methods of doing business are up-to-date.

Barbadoes.

Space will only permit a passing reference to Barbadoes. This Island has a population of 182,306, of this 15,613 are white, 43,975 colored and 122,717 blacks. The revenue amounts to about £185,000 and expenditure about the same. In the early years the chief products consisted of tobacco, cotton, indigo, ginger and aloes. But after 1640 sugar cane cultivation was found to be more lucrative and the other industries eventually went to the wall. Its Street Scene, Montserrat.

PRINCIPAL EXPORTS

now are sugar, molasses and rum. Two vessels were loading with molasses for Montreal while I was there. The principal imports are rice, salted meats, corn, oats and American breadstuffs. Most of the imports come from the United States and there is a chance for Canada to capture a good share of the market.

I visited Nevis, St. Lucia, St. Vincent, St. Kitts, Montserrat, Grenada, Dominica, Antigua and Bermuda where the conditions are much the same—a desire to be in closer touch with Canada.

I can only add in conclusion that if the manufacturers and producers of Canada would organize excursion parties and visit the land of the Southern Cross they would find the trip a delightful one, full of interest and full of profit.

St. John, N.B., and the West-Indian Trade

By J. H.W.
St. John, N.B.

FOR a long time St. John was called the Liverpool of Canada, even before any large western export business was done here. This was chiefly because of our very large lumber shipments, our splendid geographical position, and the large number of wooden vessels which at that time were built here.

To make St. John really the Liverpool of America has been the great ambition of her citizens. No expense or labor has been considered too great. The immense business this year has fully justified the effort made. The first step of real importance was the building of the "Short Line" to Montreal by the Canadian Pacific Railway. This fully established our splendid geographical position as the best Canadian port for western export business, after the closing each season of the St. Lawrence River by ice, as ours is an open port all the year, and the distance to our city is the

to any Canadian port.

The next step of great importance was the withdrawal by the Government of subsidies from Atlantic steamers using other than Canadian ports. This firmly established our position as the winter port of Canada.

There are two steps yet to be taken by the Government before we can occupy fully our right place. First, they should supplement and extend the facilities which the city has established. It is to all Canada's advantage that Canadian business should be done at a Canadian port. Secondly, they should only allow the preferential tariff on goods imported through a Canadian port. Our American friends are very quick to legislate in this way when their own interests are at stake.

THE WEST-INDIAN TRADE.

St. John is not only a winter port, but a summer port, and, though Quebec and Montreal must get the large share of the summer Atlantic business, we are situated as the natural port for business with the West Indies all the year. For years we have had one line of steamers making regular trips every two weeks, stopping at Bermuda, St. Kitts, Antigua, Montserrat, Dominica, St. Lucia, Barbadoes, St. Vincent, Grenada, Tobago, Trinidad and Demerara. We are also having at present a direct service to Jamaica, a steamer sailing every three weeks. In regard to the first service referred to, it has been a success, though not all what it should have been.

APATHY OF WESTERN MILLERS AND MANUFACTURERS.

The fault has been chiefly with our Western people, particularly the millers, though the manufacturers are also largely to blame. If the fault is largely theirs, so is the loss. They have allowed the United States to do the business which is theirs by right and which they are in a position to do. But it will never come to them of free-will. They must push for it, and, particularly, they must be prepared to give the people what they want and in the way they want it. An immense business with an immense profit is lost to Canada just because in the matter of packages she will not conform to the ideas of those with whom she wants to trade.

DEPENDENCE ON THE WEST.

A steamship service, to be successful, must get a large part of her cargo from the West. The steamers are prepared to give as low a freight as from New York, and the Canadian Pacific Railway can be depended on to do their part. We need a better class of steamers to complete the success of the service. And these will be forthcoming at once if the manufacturers of Canada are prepared to take up this business in earnest and get some of that business which brings so large a volume of trade to United States manufacturers.

Not only is St. John the best port for export Canadian business, both Western and local, for in produce and fish a large part of each cargo can be made up here, but because of the short rail haul to Western Canada we are the best port for the import business. To this, more attention is being paid. Last season, a large part of the Barbadoes molasses for Western Canada was shipped via St. John. In fruit, this same advantage rules. The Jamaican service is giving much attention to this particular branch of the business.

THE SHORT HAUL

is of the greatest advantage in handling bananas, and it is thought there will be no difficulty in placing them in Montreal in first-class condition. It can be easily seen that if St. John is situated so as to give the best and cheapest service to the shippers of Ontario and the West—where the largest shipments from Canada to the West Indies must come from, and where they will come from, once the millers and manufacturers wake up to the fact that they are letting a remunerative trade slip through their fingers—it is the duty of the Government to provide, by properly-applied subsidies, direct service from this port by fast steamers correctly fitted up for this business. It is this way that the best results will accrue to all Canada.

St. Pierre, Martinique, French West Indies, recently destroyed by Volcanic Eruption.

HALIFAX, AND THE WEST-INDIAN TRADE

BY
R. C. HAMILTON

THE history of the West-Indian trade is a varied and interesting one—interesting to the many who in the "good old times" made their little fortunes, sometimes by special streaks of luck—and varied as to its growth, its decline for a time, and its present increasing growth under new and better conditions. The interest, however, is not now alone confined to the merchants of Halifax, or even of the Maritime Provinces, but it is of interest to the whole Dominion.

THE SAILING VESSEL TRADE.

In the early days of the trade there were some 25 to 30 firms in Halifax engaged in the West-Indian trade, which then consisted chiefly in lumber and fish. At that time the shipments were all made by clipper schooners, brigs, and brigantines—a fleet of some 40 to 50 sail—and many, no doubt, were the exciting races of these to strike some port which was "short," when much better prices could be obtained. As the "early bird catches the worm" so the first vessel in port disposed of her cargo to advantage. In these days there was no cable communication between the Islands, and the market that was "short" remained so until the arrival of a cargo. This had the usual tendency, at times, to keep up prices. Now, all this is changed; communication between the Islands is established and prices are maintained at an even basis; the profits may be less, but on the whole conditions are more satisfactory—to both producer and consumer.

HALIFAX THE DISTRIBUTING CENTRE.

Halifax was then the distributing centre for the Maritime Provinces, and the trade brought about by this merchant fleet meant much to the city. Other parts of the Province built many of the vessels, but this port provided the some 400 sailors employed, the stevedores, the sail-makers, the riggers, and the many other artisans employed. Now this fleet, like the merchants who were early engaged in this trade, has almost disappeared, and a new and more progressive order of things has taken its place, but not without much opposition on the part of those who were selfishly opposed to modern ideas. The vessel owners thought that the handsome profits of early days would be cut down; that the profitable industry of shipbuilding would be a thing of the past, and that the many artisans employed would be left without employment. This looked to them like ruin, but new and progressive ideas prevailed; steam and electricity have revolutionized the trade, and whatever profits they may have cut down have been offset by the greater conveniences of modern trade. The "world do move," and the conditions of the West-Indian trade have moved with it—and we believe for its enlargement.

QUESTION FOR WHOLE DOMINION.

Though until of late years the trade with the West Indies and South America only materially affected the Maritime Provinces, it has now become a question of supreme importance to the whole of Canada, and there is not a Province within our borders, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, but may with profit become interested in it. Our country is growing, her manufactures are increasing, her agricultural products are year by year of greater importance, and in the race for new markets or the extension of old ones, Canada should not lag behind. Here is a market at our very doors, with large sections peopled by our own race, and willing—very anxious to do business with us if the Canadian manufacturers and producers will but interest themselves to study what these markets require, and send them—not what we have of surplus supplies, but what these markets are willing and ready to purchase. The trade must be catered to, not made a dumping ground.

OUR STRONGEST COMPETITOR.

The United States has been and is our strongest competitor for the West-Indian trade, and no doubt this is largely due to the favorable terms on which that country has admitted West-Indian sugars and sugar products to their markets. As a consequence, these Islands buy most where they sell the most, and to the greatest advantage. This is very clearly shown by the fact that in 1900 Canada's exports to the British West Indies and British Guiana only amounted to two and three quarter millions, whereas the United States exported $25,000,000. A judicious study of the prevailing conditions, both by the people and by the Government, will largely change this state of affairs.

From statistics lately furnished by Mr. George Johnson, Dominion Statistican, we quote the following figures, denoting Canadian trade, which show the imperative necessity that something should speedily be done, even to hold what southern trade we have, as the history of the last 30 years indicates a decline rather than an increase. For the last 10 years we have barely held our own. After giving the imports and exports in three seven-year periods—1873 to 1879, 1883 to 1889, 1895 to 1901—specifying separately British West Indies, Spanish West Indies, French West Indies, other West Indies, and South-American countries, Mr. Johnson gives the summary for the whole southern trade combined. His figures are:

Seven Years.	Exports.	Imports.
1873 to 1879..... ..	$32,111,632	$13,303,153
1883 to 1889.....	28,056,311	31,987,709
1895 to 1901..... ..	30,939,243	20,237,256

TWO IMPORTANT FACTS.

From this two very important facts may be learned: That our trade with these countries was declining in the central period, but that the subsidizing of a line of steamers by the Dominion Government has stayed the falling trade, though it has not yet brought it back to the figures of the earlier period. Again, that at present the advantage is all with Canada, as it leaves a balance of trade against the West Indies of over $10,000,000.

A QUESTION OF THE FUTURE.

What can be done to remedy both of these conditions is the question. The late visit of the president and the assistant-secretary of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, besides a number of Canadian manufacturers, to the West Indies, will no doubt be productive of much good in this direction. It is not merely a matter of what our trade may be to-day, or what it may be next year, but a question of the future. Thirty years more may see the population of Canada doubled, and her need of double the market for her products, and, if Canada is wise, the state of our southern trade indicated above will not be passed over without an effort to act on the British principle of "What We Have We'll Hold." If we hold this trade it will grow, if properly fostered. Canadian manufacturers and producers are now learning what exports may be profitably sent to the West Indies; we have a good steamship service at present, fully equal to and probably ahead of the volume of exports, and this, with increased trade, will be developed as it has been in the past to meet all requirements. In this connection it may be noted, by the advertisement of sailings, or to the records in the New York Maritime Register, that the P. and B. steamers are fully up to, if not faster than the American lines. Clearly, then, the present necessity is not one of a faster service.

CANADA MUST BUY MORE WEST-INDIAN PRODUCTS.

Another fact is apparent. We must buy more largely of the West Indies, and no time is more opportune than the present for Government action to enable Canada to do so. At present Canada buys largely bounty-fed sugars, and it now becomes a question whether the Government should not inaugurate a differential duty that would tend largely to transfer this trade to the West Indies to equalize the situation. These and other questions will, no doubt, be fully con-

THE STEAMSHIP SERVICE.

The present effective steamship service to the West Indies was established in 1890. Early in that year a company of enterprising business men in St. John, N.B., established a service, but for some reason it was not a paying venture. In December of that year Messrs. Pickford & Black, who then had an established service to Jamaica, took over the line, and with the aid of a Government subsidy, have successfully maintained it, greatly to the advantage of a trade, but for which might have been wiped out. At first the business was by no means a paying one. Steamer after steamer sailed from Halifax with only one-sixth of a cargo, and so much so was this the case that the steamers were able to carry enough bunker coal for the round trip. Many difficulties had to be overcome, not the least of which was the absurd prejudice of local merchants in favor of a continuation of the old-time service by sailing vessels. At this time only monthly sailings were made. Messrs. Pickford & Black were, however, not discouraged. They had faith in this "Canada of Ours" to compete with our American neighbors for the West-Indian trade, and their faith was well grounded, for by 1894 the outward cargoes had so increased that the carrying of bunker coal for the return trip was abandoned, and the steamers coaled at St. Lucia.

Town Square, St. Kitts.

AN IMPROVED SERVICE.

The service of that time has been much improved. In 1900 a new contract was made with the Imperial and the Dominion Governments, by which larger and better steamers were put on the route and a fortnightly service was established by the steamers Dahome, 3,000 tons; the Orinoco, 3,000 tons; the Ocamo and the Oruro, each 2,000 tons. The capacity of these boats is 75,000 barrels as compared with 25,000 barrels under the old service. It is only a matter of time—and the energy and enterprise of our business men and manufacturers — when a weekly service will be required.

These steamers, which are admirably adapted for the service, and at present are giving the greatest satisfaction, call at all the principal ports between here and Trinidad, including in their itinerary Bermuda, St. Kitts, Antigua, Montserrat, Dominica, St. Lucia, Barbados, St. Vincent, Grenada, Trinidad and Demerara.

UPPER CANADIAN EXPORTS.

At present, besides carrying the imports and exports for Halifax and St. John, these steamers carry considerable goods for the Upper Provinces, special freight rates being granted over the I. C. R., C. P. R. and other railway lines from these points. There is, however, considerable Upper Canadian freight going via New York, which might very profitably for all concerned come this way.

Besides freight accommodations, these steamers are also fitted up for carrying passengers, and those who have travelled by them—especially on the Dahome—speak in highest praise of their seaworthiness and their accommodations. Every year more of our people visit the "Sunny Islands of the South," and even this will help largely to increase our trade there as our people see and note the wants of the various Islands.

POSSIBILITIES OF TRADE.

Originally, the principal volume of exports was lumber and fish, but of late years quite a trade has been done in flour, oats, potatoes, butter, cheese, and various manufactured goods, and it is to the latter list that our producers and manufacturers must attend to increase the trade. Year by year the export of these is increasing, but there is still a very large market open. For example: In 1899 the export of flour was 2,737 bbls.; of oats, 924 bags; of butter, 992 pkgs.; of cheese, 940 pkgs. In 1900 there was a most gratifying increase—flour, 5,591 bbls.; oats, 1,760 bags; butter, 1,367 pkgs.; cheese, 687 pkgs. In 1901 there was a still further increase—flour, 16,399 bbls.; oats, 7,852 bags; butter, 2,389 pkgs.; cheese, 1,585 pkgs.

WHAT THE ISLANDS IMPORT.

As illustrating the possibilities of trade development, it may be interesting to note the requirements of some of the principal islands and groups.

The latest figures available show that the Leeward Islands import 37,000 bbls. flour, 3,000 bush. peas, 95,000 lb. butter, 40,000 lb. cheese.

The Windward Islands: 15,000 bbls. flour, 9,000 bush. oats, 400 tons hay, 29,000 lb. cheese, 53,000 lb. butter, 280,000 lb. soap, 7,000 lb. tea, 1,560 bbls. biscuits, 15,000 lb. fancy biscuits.

Barbados: 85,000 lb. cheese; 300,000 lb. butter, 4,150,000 lb. biscuits, 3,000,000 lb. bran, 400,000 lb. lard.

Trinidad imports of flour alone 180,000 bbls., and British Guiana the same quantity of flour and 120,000 lb. of cheese.

Many of the islands import large quantities of Danish and Italian butter, which may easily be replaced by Canadian.

THE PRESENT EXPORTS.

The following is a classified list of the principal exports, covering shipments from January 1, 1902, to date, kindly furnished by Messrs. Pickford & Black, namely:—8,874 casks dry fish—a cask weighs 450 lb. and is worth about $20; 3,568 drums dry fish—112 lb., about $6; 2,271 boxes fish—

Besides the above list, which may be considered the present standard exports, a good trade is being worked up in paper, medicines, boots and shoes, electrical machinery, canned goods, preserved goods, glassware, soaps and soap powders; hardware, such as paints, nails, putty, glass, shot, bar iron, varnish, metallic roofing and cordage; turnips, parsnips and some other vegetables are exported to some of the islands in limited quantities.

CUBA AND PORTO RICO.

None of the figures already given cover the export trade to Cuba and Porto Rico, as the steamers do not call at ports in these islands. In fish, the exports there would increase the totals 20 to 25 per cent. These exports are either carried by sailing vessels direct from this port, some 10 to 15 cargoes being sent out in the run of a year, according to the state of the markets, or shipment is made to New York and from thence forward by the direct line. The exports for Brazil also follow the same course. Havana, Cuba, takes a proportionally large share of exports, such as potatoes, oats, hay and other farm produce. There is, however, not so great an opportunity of increasing Canada's trade with Cuba and Porto Rico as with the other islands, from the fact that they are under the suzerainty of the United States, and trade conditions with the United States are more favorable. This fact also opens up the way for greater Canadian trade in the other islands, as the United States, now having sugar islands—virtually her own—will favor these in that line of trade. Much depends on Canada's ability to buy as well as to sell.

THE LUMBER TRADE.

The lumber trade with the West Indies is an extensive one, but there is no considerable quantity shipped from Halifax. The greater portion is still forwarded by sailing vessels from Lunenburg, Shelburne, Liverpool, Yarmouth and many other Nova Scotian and New Brunswick ports. Many of these vessels also carry large quantities of fish, especially from the southern shore of Nova Scotia, and bring back return cargoes of sugar and molasses, either direct to Halifax or to their home ports, with which, as yet, there is no rail communication with Halifax. As an example of the extent of the South Shore fisheries, Lunenburg may be mentioned as being most extensively engaged. In 1901, that county sent out 173 vessels, employing 2,768 men. The fish taken in that year was valued at $1,563,071.15. Much of this was sold to exporters in Halifax and brought here by vessel; the balance was exported as indicated above.

HALIFAX GENERAL EXPORTS.

The total export trade of Halifax to all countries may be summarized as follows: For the first six months of the fiscal year, September 1, 1901, to the end of February, 1902, $5,427,051, as against $4,890,543 for the corresponding period in the previous year, representing a gain of $536,508 for that period.

For the first seven weeks of the second half year, to April 17, the total exports amounted to $1,007,745, classified as follows: West Indies, $482,757: United Kingdom, $344,182; United States, $114,864; Newfoundland and St. Pierre, $91,339; samples to France, Germany, Italy, etc., $5,163. This does not include considerable quantities of goods reshipped in bond.

TRADE IS INCREASING.

The general opinion prevails among all those who have been most largely connected with the West-Indian trade, that the way is open for a very large increase, and we have no doubt but that the full consideration of all the conditions by the Manufacturers' Association will bring about the most desirable end. Canada has many good friends in these Islands—Canadians themselves—who will readily lend their assistance in making Canadian products more widely known there. That there is a feeling in this direction may be shown by the following quotation from a letter by T. Geddes Grant, of Port-of-Spain, Trinidad. After referring to some of the difficulties in the way of trade enlargement, he says:

"The business between Trinidad and Canada is increasing, and I have had to enlarge my premises in order to take care of the growth. Every month it is getting easier to sell Canadian goods; the people who know them best are my best customers. I expect to add many new ones to the list before the end of the present half year." R. C. HAMILTON.

IDEAL DOOR, SASH AND BOX FACTORY.

At the mouth of the Trent, one of the finest and steadiest rivers in North America, and of which the waterflow is remarkably constant and unvarying, Gilmour & Co., Limited, of Trenton, Canada, have established one of the most complete and up-to-date manufacturing plants in the world.

Their different factories, covering an area of over 100,000 sq. ft., are equipped in all departments with the latest and most approved machinery that provides them with appliances sufficient to cut up 25,000,000 ft. of lumber per year, of which lumber a great portion is brought in the log from the company's own limits and driven by them to their mills at Trenton, to be there sawed into the sizes required for the manufacture of hardwood and pine veneered and solid doors, sash, boxes, dressed lumber, lath, shingles, flooring, and, in fact, every species of wood goods required for the building trades, including their famous patent lumber doors, which, during the past year, have been meeting with such success in the large markets of New York and Chicago, and which they are at the present time shipping to all parts of the world.

In view of the fact that this firm enjoys large connections in Canada and the United States, they have also at their command the finest procurable assortment of hardwoods and veneers, which they use principally in the manufacture of patent lumber doors and finish. The capacity of their door factory is about 300,000 doors per annum, which is equal to about 10,000,000 ft. of lumber, and of their box factory, 15,000,000 ft.

Very recently they have expended upwards of $100,000 in the enlargement of their factories, in the construction of a new power-house fitted with waterwheels of the latest and most powerful design, and in the installation of a complete and extensive system of dry kilns.

Situated as they are in the midst of a region most favorable for the manufacture and exportation of wood goods, having under their control almost unlimited waterpower from a river in which thousands of horse-power are daily going to waste, and assisted in their shipping operations by the Grand Trunk, Canadian Pacific and Central Ontario Railways, and the lake steamers, which call regularly at the port of Trenton, this large concern has obtained and will continue to hold a prominent position among firms in the woodworking business, and at the present time they are open to compete in their lines with any manufacturer in the world.

Besides the recent fitting-up of the Canadian Pacific Depot at Montreal and the completion of other large contracts, this firm has but recently secured a contract for the supplying of 1,200 patent lumber birch (mahogany finish) doors, with the casings and moldings to the new King Edward Hotel, Toronto, Ont.

Gilmour & Co., Limited, have expressed a strong desire that, should any of our readers wish prices of or information regarding any of their products, they should at once communicate with the firm through their head office, Trenton, Canada, and they state that they will be most happy to give close attention to all such inquiries.

The advertisement of Gilmour & Co., on page 7 of this issue, can be consulted with profit by anyone interested.

CHANGES IN A WEST-INDIAN FIRM.

In March last C. H. Grell, of Roseau, Leeward Islands, took over the provision and dry goods business of R. H. Gordon & Co., of the same place. On April 9 Mr. Grell took into partnership Mr. Simon Didier, for several years a partner of D. O. Riviere & Co., of Roseau, the style of the firm becoming Grell & Didier.

A DEPARTMENT FOR MILLERS AND STOREKEEPERS.

CANADIAN FLOUR IN TRINIDAD.

By Gordon, Grant & Co., Port of Spain, Trinidad.

WE are pleased to note that your paper is taking such an interest in the development of trade between the Dominion and the British West-Indian Islands.

With special reference to flour, we may state that our firm was the first to receive consignments from the Dominion, about 10 years ago, and, with a struggle, we succeeded in getting our dealers to give it a fair trial.

Unfortunately, the first shipments were far from fresh, and very soon went bad in this hot climate, and the result was a very severe setback to the Canadian flour trade. Dealers and consumers refused to touch it, stating that the flour would not keep, and could not in any way compare with the American article.

During the last two or three years, however, the Canadian millers have taken up this trade in earnest, supplying our market with fresh flour of good color and keeping quality. It is steadily gaining in the favor of consumers, especially the cheaper grades of flour, and, in time, they will secure an ever-increasing share of the trade, provided the quality is carefully maintained.

We are sometimes told by our dealers that the Canadian millers have as yet failed to produce a fine blended flour that will compare with the New York No. 1 extras, and being capable of being baked by itself. Undoubtedly the market conditions require careful attention on the part of your manufacturers, as it has taken years for the United States millers to grasp the requirements of the trade here, and which they now so fully understand.

Our attention has been repeatedly drawn to the fact that one of your largest millers, and the producer of one of your finest flours, has given the control of his flour for the West-Indian market to a New York commission house. This, we think, is a mistake, as the flour will be regarded practically as a United States flour, and it is to the advantage of all that the British colonies should deal with their brother colonials direct.

Permit us in closing to refer to our unfortunate sugar industry, which is threatened with extinctiou, on account of the unfair competition with bounty-fed beet. The Home Government tell us that bounties will be abolished in 1903, and, in the budget speech, it is said, provision will be made for a miserable "dole" to keep planters afloat until then. At the present time planters estimate that they are making sugar at an absolute loss of £1 10s. per ton, and the proposed "dole," so far as this Island is concerned, is said to be 15s. per ton. In the event of the "dole" being accepted, the United States will at once impose an equivalent bounty on our sugars, and thus the benefit will be lost. If your refiners would only come to our assistance and take British cane sugar, instead of bounty-fed beet, for the next 18 months, it would greatly help us to tide over our difficulties, and make us independent of the New York market.

ANALYSIS OF THE BRITISH DUTY ON FLOUR.

Anton Kufeke & Co., flour merchants, Liverpool, have issued the following circular regarding the British import duty on flour :

According to the budget proposals of the Chancellor of the Exchequer, the duty to be paid on 60 lb. of flour is the same as the duty to be paid on 100 lb. of wheat, viz., 2 19-28d.

Now 100 lb. of wheat contain 70 lb. of flour and 30 lb. of feeding stuffs. This 30 per cent. of feeding stuffs would have to pay the full duty if it were imported in the form of, say, pollards, bran, etc., whilst competing feeding stuffs, such as Indian corn, barley, rye, peas, beans, etc., have to pay the full duty.

Why should the British miller be the only one in the community protected by a discrimination tax allowing him to import 10 per cent. of flour and 30 per cent. of feeding stuffs free of duty?

This tax, if insisted upon, cannot be called a revenue tax; it is a protective tax in favor of the British miller, of 40 per cent., or 5d. per sack, or 3s. 4d. per ton on flour.

Most of the flour used in Ireland is imported from foreign sources, as Irish buyers take a better and dearer class of flour than English buyers, therefore the tax will fall more heavily on Ireland than on the other kingdoms.

IMPORT FLOUR TRADE OF WESTERN NORWAY.

THE United States Consul at Bergen, Norway, has sent a report to his Government at Washington showing the quantity of flour imported in 1901 by the towns of Bergen, Stavanger and Drontheim ; also the chief importers of flour in these different towns. From this report we extract the following :

At present, Canada exports no flour to either Norway or Sweden. Since 1898 we have not exported any kind of breadstuffs to either of these countries. In that year we shipped 400 lb. of oatmeal and 200 lb. of other breadstuffs, and, in 1897, 5,913 lb. of oatmeal.

The Canadian Export Flour Trade.

ITS CONDITIONS AND PROSPECTS.

CONDITIONS for the export trade in flour have not been altogether favorable during the past season. This is chiefly due to the price of wheat in Ontario being above an export basis. The latest figures for the present fiscal year only deal with the exports up to the end of February. These show a decline of nearly 13 per cent. compared with the same period in 1891, and the decrease appears to have extended to all countries except the United States. This will be gathered from the following table:

EXPORTS OF FLOUR FOR EIGHT MONTHS.

	1901. Barrels.	1902. Barrels.
Great Britain	541,082	417,715
United States	5,042	14,064
British West Indies	.....	6,760
Newfoundland	167,241	164,296
Australia	.....	37,259
Other countries	51,228	24,692
	764,593	664,786

These figures are taken from the monthly returns. In 1901 the exports to the British West Indies and Australia were not given separately, being included in "other countries." This year they appear seperately as in the regular yearly returns. It is to be regretted that South Africa does not also appear, as it would be interesting to trace month by month the course of our trade with that part of the world, especially when it is to be remembered that we have to wait several months after the fiscal year is closed before the returns for the 12 months are to hand. And recently Canadian millers have received much larger orders than usual on South-African account.

THE SOUTH-AFRICAN TRADE.

These orders from South Africa promise to make the total export flour trade for the fiscal year ending June 30 next equal to if not in excess of any previous year. At present, however, or rather up to the period covered by the above table, the average rate per month is not equal to 1,000,000 barrels per annum, or below that of both 1898 and 1901. It would perhaps be well in this connection to show the exports for the last ten years, showing what went to Great Britain and to the United States as well as the total to all countries:

FLOUR EXPORTS FOR TEN YEARS.

	Great Britain. bbl.	United States. bbl.	Other Countries. bbl.	Totals. bbl.
1892.....	240,329	3,998	136,669	380,996
1893.....	204,687	2,412	203,086	410,185
1894.....	203,467	3,862	221,281	428,610
1895.....	104,501	2,818	115,656	222,975
1896.....	89,425	2,430	94,861	186,716
1897.....	246,754	4,270	170,734	421 758
1898.....	908,399	5,392	335 647	1,249,438

1901.....	770,714	14,682	333,304	1,118,700

While the export trade in flour during the last few years has remained somewhat stationary, the average of the last four years is over 600,000 bbl. per annum in excess of the previous four years.

LIGHT STOCKS OF ONTARIO WHEAT.

Recently the export demand for flour has been large, but it has not been possible in Ontario to take full advantage of it, exporters, owing to the light stocks of wheat in the hands of dealers and millers, being unable to fill all their orders, this lightness in the stocks of wheat being due in part at least to the fact that the farmers have been busy with their spring work and have not been making deliveries.

A few days ago I had a short conversation with a well-known exporter of flour. Speaking of Manitoba flour, he said:

FREIGHT RATES ON WHEAT AND FLOUR.

"Exporters in the east, as far as Manitoba flours are concerned, find it difficult to do business, owing to the relatively higher freight rates on flour compared with wheat. The large mills in Manitoba are, however, no doubt doing considerable business in an export way, particularly on South-African account."

"Do you think the South-African trade will be permanent?"

"I do; and think it should grow as the country develops. The flour made from Manitoba wheat will stand the climate of South Africa better than the flour made from Ontario winter wheat. The demand for winter wheat flours in South Africa can probably be better supplied from Australia than from Canada. There is a risk of our Ontario winter wheat flour turning sour, having to cross the equator."

"What do you think of the outlook for the general export trade in flour?"

"It yet remains to be seen what the effect of the new duty on flour in Great Britain will be. As you know, the duty on flour is relatively higher than on wheat, which will tend to make our exportable surplus go to Great Britain in the shape of wheat instead of in flour."

THE BRITISH TAX ON FLOUR.

Great Britain being our chief customer it is only natural that we should view with some concern the Customs duty of 5d. per cwt. on flour which the British Government imposed last month. One thing is certain, it will not help our export trade in flour. Next to Great Britain our chief customer is Newfoundland. And it is gratifying to be able to say that our trade in flour with that colony is growing. Our third best customer for flour is the British West Indies. This trade has been one of many ups and downs, but the prospect for the future now appears to be more promising than ever. The following table shows the different countries to which we exported flour in 1891, 1896 and 1901:

While the British duty on flour is likely to increase the difficulty of doing business with Great Britain, it is scarcely likely to destroy it. And there is, no doubt, sufficient enterprise in our millers and exporters to devise ways and means of pushing trade with not only Great Britain, but with other countries as well.

ERECTING A MODERN MILL.

From a 75-barrel mill in 1885 to a 1,000-barrel most modern milling plant in 1902, is the satisfactory record of The T. H. Taylor Co., Limited, of Chatham, Ont. This progressive and enterprising firm of millers and manufacturers have, by careful attention to all the details and by studying the wants of their customers, increased the capacity of their mill until now they are compelled for want of space to abandon their old mill, and are erecting what is to be the most modern winter wheat mill in Canada.

The plans of the building, placing of machinery and the flow-sheet of the mill are prepared by the most popular flour mill builders of America, Messrs. Nordyke & Marmon, of Indianapolis, Ind. The mill will have a capacity of 1,000 barrels per day, but machinery will be installed in the the meantime for 600 barrels. The latest and most improved milling machinery will be used, and The T. H. Taylor Co. expect when the mill is completed to turn out the best flour in the market.

The company will continue to run the "Daisy" mill as well, which is a modern plansifter mill of 150 barrels capacity.

The company do not confine themselves to the manufacture of flour only, but have large woollen mills, which are run to their full capacity the year around. Any dealers wishing to open up new business would do well to correspond with the firm, whose reputation stands high in the commercial world of the Dominion.

KERR MILLING CO.

Flour and Cereals in the Retail Store.

IN THE flour and in the feed business the rule always is small margins and quick sales. In no other business does this rule probably apply with more force, for by carrying large stocks nothing is gained and much risk of losing money through fluctuations of the market is incurred. The market for grains is always uncertain as everyone knows and is as liable to drop as to rise. And a decline of 1c. a bushel would mean a considerable loss on a carload of oats or barley. Wheat also fluctuates much and flour changes in price accordingly, so to have too heavy a stock of flour on hand is a thing to be avoided.

THE MARGIN OF PROFITS.

The profits are small in this business and hardly over five per cent. is realized in a good many cases. A larger margin than this is made on flour and oatmeal, but any downward change in price soon takes away the profit and leaves the dealer out of pocket.

Beware, therefore, of having extra large stocks of flour, feed, and similar goods on hand. In the spring the heaviest stocks are carried, as the farmers then cannot get away from their seeding to deliver grain. In the fall the demand is generally the heaviest for all foods, and then the most extensive purchases are made.

THE BEST SELLING GRADES.

For flour the demand is steady all the year. As this article is always wanted by the housewife a steady trade may be expected and all that is necessary is to know what grades sell best in the locality. Medium grades, known as family flour, generally comprise the bulk of the sales, so the heaviest stocks of these are kept on hand.

METHODS OF PUSHING FLOUR.

To push their flour merchants usually adopt the plan of selling some of their standard brands at reduced prices for a day or so. By selling cheaply certain flour is introduced into the homes of people that have never tried it before, and when they find it give good satisfaction they try it again. An advertisement is inserted in the newspapers stating that a certain brand of flour will be sold at a low figure at a certain store and inviting the public to give it a trial.

WINDOW DISPLAY OF FLOUR.

A window is also dressed with this brand and cards placed therein bearing the selling price of it. People being induced to buy, will come again if they find it to give good satisfaction, and will be turned into regular customers.

BREAKFAST FOODS.

In breakfast foods a thing to be noted is the number of new goods that are being placed on the market this last year or so. A few years ago such things as prepared breakfast cereals were almost unknown, but now efforts are being made by their manufacturers to introduce them to the public by extensively advertising their merits. The merchant has, therefore, to be ready to sell any of these novelties that his customers may ask for, but it is better for him not to be too eager to buy them at first. Wait and see if there are any inquiries for them and then place a sample order with the wholesaler. Some of these have come to stay, and some, of course, have not. Only the best will survive.

In oatmeal and rolled oats the heavy demand is in the fall and winter. Keep these goods fresh by buying often and in small lots and only sell the best. Moderate prices should be charged, and if any new brands are being placed on the market, if they are worthy, give them a trial. Advertise and push your oatmeal similar to the way you do your flour.

The flour and cereal business does not give much opportunity for window dressing, but yet something can be done that will benefit the merchant. He can arrange sacks of flour, boxes of prepared breakfast foods, or samples of grain or seeds in his window so as to make it look attractive. It is well to change the window often and not let the dust accumulate. Everything should be kept as neat as possible and things should be always gotten up attractively. By keeping well-dressed windows and a neat store many new customers are gained.

PRICE TICKETS.

A good plan to sell these goods is to have prices of what you have, such as oats, corn, barley, flour, posted up in the windows of the store or on a bulletin board outside the door. This helps to bring trade.

The aim of a flour and feed merchant, as that of every other trade, should be to have regular customers. By giving them good value for their money and contenting himself with small profits the merchant may do this.

SOMETHING NEW.

He should always keep his goods fresh and have something new to introduce to his customers if possible. New brands of flour, new prepared foods, new process oatmeal and rolled oats are always being placed on the market, and so it should not be hard for a trader to introduce a new line or brand of goods by way of a change.

TRY AND DISCOVER CAUSES OF FALLING TRADE.

If you find the demand for flour or some kind of breakfast food falling off, find out what is the matter and set to work to remedy it. And, if the fault is in the goods you sell, get something to take their place.

HANDLING SEEDS.

In connection with their flour and feed business, many feed and flour merchants carry stocks of seeds, such as clover, timothy and cereals, besides garden seeds; to sell to the farmers in the spring for seeding purposes, and have found this to pay. An advertisement in the local papers and a number of circulars sent to regular customers and others likely to buy works wonders in the matter of building up a trade in seeds, as in other lines. Salt and fertilizers may also be handled with profit in a locality where there is a demand for them at all.

THE HURON AND MANITOBA MILLING COMPANY.

Among the modern mills of Ontario is that of the Huron and Manitoba Milling Company at Goderich. The mill is 60x50 ft. and has a capacity of 1,200 bbl. a day. The engine room is 21x72 ft. and the boiler room 60x50 ft. The elevator in connection with the mill is 110x50 ft. and has a capacity of 200,000 bush. of wheat. The machinery employed in the mill and elevator is of the latest improved type and the premises are fitted throughout with electric light. Mr. McGaw, who has had much experience in the large milling concerns is manager.

A MODERN FLOUR MILL.

The Valley City Flour Mills, of Dundas, Ont., built entirely new about two years ago, were purchased in 1901 by Robt. Kerr, sr., and his son, J. W. Kerr, who are operating them under the firm name of Kerr Milling Co.

They bring into the business a ripe experience in milling, Mr. Robert Kerr having commenced his milling career in Scotland over 55 years ago, while his son has also spent a good many years in the business.

The mill is said to be one of the best in Canada, and its product is selling in the world's market and giving the best of satisfaction. An electric motor has been installed for use when water-power is deficient, which brings the plant up to a modern standard.

THE MODERN MILLER.

THE miller used to be one of the most picturesque figures of boyhood days, writes Stewart Lyon from Winnipeg to The Toronto Globe. He was represented in the school books as a worthy successor of that miller,

> Who worked and sang from morn till night,
> No lark more blithe than he.

With his flour-coated smock, his ruddy face and hearty greeting, the miller was almost as fascinating to the youngsters who watched the big stones go whirling around as was the blacksmith at his forge. It was a different sort of miller that I was told to see to get information about the crop of last year. The office floor was of mosaic tiling, costly and beautiful, the fittings were like those of a bank, and there was a big staff of clerks behind the row of desks. The miller, a hugely-proportioned man, with placid features, could be seen behind a glass partition, and by-and-bye he was got at. He was hard at work on the plans of new elevators, and the problem of locating them to the best advantage, but in one respect at least he was still the miller of the Dee, and good-naturedly dropped his work to make things pleasant for his caller.

What explanation is there, he was asked, for the failure to move last year's crop out rapidly, and how much truth is there in the statement that the grain men and millers took advantage of the necessities of the farmer to buy the best wheat for the price of the second and third grades?

HEARD THAT BEFORE.

The miller smiled grimly. The question was evidently not new. "As to the failure to move out the crop," said he, "you will have to get the railway men to explain, but come with me and we'll look into this question of wheat grading." Into a back room went the miller—a large room, supplied with a prodigious number of drawers, row upon row, and maps that hung from the walls.

"There is a common impression," said the miller, "that No. 1 hard wheat is grown in every corner of the Province and the Territories. I am going to prove how very marked the difference in grade is even at points a dozen miles apart, and occupying exactly the same position as regards altitude, moisture and general climate. But first you might like to see the grades under a glass." At this the wheat expert who stood by produced a powerful microscope, and from one of the drawers took out a handful of wheat. A few kernels were placed in the range of vision, and stood out, although shrunken and hard to the naked eye, plump, well filled and of a satiny texture, with a tuft of tiny white hairs at either end of the kernel, like some old man's beard. The wheat was the famous No. 1 hard, and even a novice would know that it was an aristocrat among grain. Next was presented No. 1 Northern, a plump and well-filled berry, but lacking the peculiar golden brightness of the finer grade, and, as experience has shown, not so rare a grain for milling. Next came a sample of smutty wheat, a quantity of dirt probably of parasitical origin being mixed in with the beard on the kernel. This smut can be washed out by careful cleansing of the wheat before milling, but its presence considerably reduces the value. The last sample put under the misroscope was one of frosted wheat, good for little else than mixing up into feed for animals. The berry of this is emaciated and shrunken, and beneath the surface one can see the blotches of dark grey where the milk of the wheat before its maturity into a dry substance had been frozen. It is of course only while growing that the frost can destroy wheat. After it has been cut and the moisture has dried up in the berry wheat is as impervious to frost as a lump of coal is.

DIFFERENT SOIL, DIFFERENT RESULTS.

Having grounded me in the rudiments of grading, the miller pulled down a map of Manitoba and the Territories, and, like a patient schoolmaster teaching a backward pupil, began my lesson. I shall never forget it. Here was a map showing a stretch of over 1,000 miles of wheat and ranching country with tens of thousands of farms. Yet this man sitting in his office in Winnipeg, by virtue of the completeness of his organization, could put his finger on this spot and that and say, "No No. 1 hard came out of that section last year," or "We got just two cars of No. 1 hard out of 50 cars." These were not mere assertions without proof. An indexed book was at hand showing the sort and quantity bought by the mill at every point, and the samples taken of these shipments were to be found by pulling out the corresponding drawer. One point on the map was shown where the bulk of the grain, almost all of it, indeed, was No. 1 hard, while at the next elevator east in precisely the same region No. 1 Northern was the general grade. This was accounted for by a difference in the soil. In the one case it was the black mucklike earth characteristic of Manitoba, while in the other, in which the result was a grade poorer wheat, the soil was more of a sandy clay.

"Might there not be something in the buying?" I asked the miller.

A TYPICAL COMPLAINT.

"No," he replied; "a change of buyers won't improve the wheat any. We sometimes get complaints that a man has teamed wheat to one buying point and got a No. 1 Northern grade, and has taken the next load from the same field to another buying point and got it graded by the buyer as No. 1 hard. The explanation, however, is quite simple, and does not at all mean that the first buyer was not honestly grading the wheat. It means rather that the second buyer has a large quantity of No. 1 hard in his elevator, and that, although the load in question does not come up to the standard, he can put it in with the No. 1 hard and merge it with the latter without destroying the grade. So he takes the load of No. 1 Northern, calls it No. 1 hard and pays for it on that basis. That is the real origin of not a few of the stories that we hear about the dishonest grading of wheat." The miller said many other things about the crop peculiarities of certain districts, but they were said in confidence and are not to be told here. I shall watch the map of the wheat-growing belt more closely hereafter to see how these prophecies turn out.

SCIENTIFIC WHEAT BLENDING.

Rather a curions thing was brought out by another miller on whom I called. In the great mills of the Old Country the mixing of wheat in the making of flour has become almost a science. As many as 10 varieties of wheat are used in some of the brands, Canada, the United States, the Argentine, India, Hungary, Austria and Southern Russia all contributing a portion. The idea is to secure the miller against a crop failure in any of these countries. If, for example, he were using all Canadian wheat and the Northwest crop should prove light, as in 1900, he would not be able to get wheat and supply his customers with the accustomed brand. The result would be the loss of reputation and loss of trade. But with Canadian wheat as a tenth part of the flour milled from a blend of 10 sorts of wheat the miller can, when Canadian is scarce, substitute something else without materially changing the composition of the flour. My respect for the Old Country miller is strengthened by this story. He, too, is evidently a 20th century improvement on the miller of the Dee.

CHANGE IN A BARBADOS FIRM.

W. L. Johnson & Co., Barbados, B.W.I., have been succeeded by W. L. Johnson & Co, Limited, who will continue the business as commission and general merchants and importers of English, United States and Canadian produce and provisions. A new partner, W. E. Metford, for 33 years with Da Costa & Co., of the same place, comes into the business with additional capital, and his aid is hoped to contribute much to the success of the new firm. The directors expect shortly to add one or two branches to the business with this added capital and experience.

The business has hitherto been conducted by trustees, as directed by the will of the late W. L. Johnson, and the directors of the new company are Messrs. H. L. Johnson, W. E. Medford and J. P. Shepherd.

GROWING AND . . . . . GATHERING VANILLA

By
A. M'Farlane,
Of Moorea,
Society Islands

AN article on "Vanilla-Gathering in Central America," by Mr. Rowland W Cater, in Chambers's (for 1901, p. 278) interested me greatly, as I have been for years a cultivator and curer of vanilla.

The white planter in the tropics, after he has been for some years subjected to the enervating effects of the climate, becomes averse to anything in the shape of labor more than is absolutely necessary for conducting whatever particular avocation his may be. So that residents of a northern clime have to depend upon the kind services of the "globe-trotters" for their information upon the various cultures; and, owing partly to the short time which they are enabled to devote to acquiring information, and often to misleading statements made by planters intentionally, sometimes this information is very incorrect. This stricture, however, does not refer to the article by Mr. Cater, and I must compliment him upon the care which he has evidently displayed in his study of vanilla. He has, however, made a few mistakes, and I thought it might perhaps interest your readers were I to correct them, and also describe the methods employed by us here in the South Sea Islands.

Although Tahiti is one of the largest vanilla-producing countries, ranking second or third, annually yielding nearly 100 tons of the dried product, ours is nearly the worst vanilla that reaches the European markets, commanding only about half the price which is paid for vanilla produced in Reunion or Seychelles, or one-quarter of that paid for the best Mexican. However, to offset this disadvantage, we have the advantage of the finest tropical climate in the world—no hurricanes (Tahiti being outside of the "hurricane belt," which only reaches the Raratonga or Cook Islands, 600 miles west), no malaria or fevers, no poisonous serpents, and but few noxious insects—and have a gentle, friendly race of natives to live among.

We have here in cultivation two varieties of vanilla: V. planifolia, grown only in very limited quantities, as, owing to the tendency of the bean to split when nearing maturity upon the vine, and afterwards during the process of curing, it does not appeal to the native grower, and the variety in common cultivation, which is that known in Mexico as pompona. Both varieties were originally brought here from Mexico. V. planifolia produces the true vanilla, while pompona yields what is known in Mexico as vanillon and in the London market as vanillos. V. pompona, although yielding such an inferior quality of fruit, has advantages which endear it to the Tahitian. The bean does not split; it can be cured by simply exposing it to the sun, not requiring to be dipped in hot water or subjected to a process of baking, as do the others, and it always gives two, and sometimes three or four, crops of flowers during the year, while planifolia gives but one, and that of short duration.

Most of the Tahiti vanilla is planted so as to climb upon the guava, which is about the worst tree that could possibly be obtained for the purpose, as the bark constantly peeling off causes the tendrils of the vanilla to lose their hold with it, and the vines have to be hung over any convenient branch to keep them from falling to the ground. The guava is an imported tree, but it has taken possession of large tracts of land, and to make a vanilla plantation requires the minimum of labor, usually only the cutting out of a few guavas where they may be growing too thickly and the planting of vanilla vines at the roots of the remaining ones. Upon hillsides where the purao (a species of Broussonetia) grows, the vanilla is at home. In fact, it is a mistake to plant it upon level land, as, although the vine revels in moisture, the roots are very impatient of water lying stagnant about them. The puroa is, however, a rapid-growing tree, and considerable labor is required in pruning, in order to keep it within bounds and prevent it from overshading the vanilla, too much shade being even worse than too little.

The best situation for a vanilla plantation is on a hillside, preferably in a valley, not too near the sea; and the best system of planting for one who can afford to wait is to clear off all the trees which may be growing upon it, and to plant at regular intervals young trees or posts of varieties which will grow from cuttings. In my experience the best is a small tree known locally as pini, a species of Bauhinia, and which will grow in two years to a height of from 12 to 15 feet. The usual distance apart for the posts is 6 or 8 feet. When these posts are in place the vines are planted as Mr. Cater says; only that we usually use cuttings of 10 or 12 feet in length. When cuttings of this length are used a crop of beans is secured nine months or a year sooner than when short lengths are planted. We reckon on a small crop of cured beans 18 months after planting, and a full crop in two years and a half.

The flowers, which last but one day, open about 7 a.m. and close about 3 p.m., and have to be pollinated by hand during that time—that is, all those which open upon one day must be pollinated the same day. We use small, pointed sticks for this purpose; the pollen, which is a small compact mass, being transferred more rapidly by these than by any other method that has been tried. A very expert worker can pollinate 3,000 flowers in one day, but most are satisfied with from 1,500 to 2,000.

About nine months after the flowers appear the beans become mature. This stage is known by their changing in color from a dark to a light-yellowish green, or by their becoming brown at the lower or flower end, when they must be picked and taken to the house to undergo the process of curing, which should occupy about three months. They can be cured in a shorter time, but always at a sacrifice of quality. This is the most important work of the vanilla-planter, and entails constant care, as a few days' neglect may spoil the whole crop. This, I think, partly explains why Tahiti vanilla has such a bad name in the markets of the world. Most of the native planters cure their own crops, but they will not give the necessary attention to this work. There is no secret about the method of curing, although some pretend that there is. It consists in alternate exposures to the sun, always under dark-colored blankets, and sweating in the house in tight tins or boxes. Experience is the only teacher as to when the bean has arrived at the proper stage of dryness.

I have to differ from Mr. Cater regarding a few of his statements. For one thing, the vanilla is essentially a terrestrial orchid, and derives a large part of its sustenance from the soil. In proof of this, in any old, neglected plantation plants may be found which have been uprooted or broken off. When this happens, the part of the vine which is left at once takes on a sickly yellow hue and sends down long roots. I have seen some of these over 30 ft. long—which, on reaching the soil, take root, and the vine at once recovers. The small tendrils do not feed upon the trees; when the tendrils come upon a decayed branch, or when the tree upon which the vanilla is trained dies, they then change their character, becoming elongated and entering into the decayed places as proper roots, and evidently feed upon it.

In his estimate of the possible crop and probable profit I cannot agree with Mr. Cater. First, an estimate of four beans to a vine is ridiculously small. If a vine has only one bunch of flowers, that ought to give from 8 to 20 flowers—we usually have eight or ten beans to a bunch; but it is a very poor vine which does not give in the year over ten bunches of flowers. However, to be safely within the mark, let us say that each vine averages five bunches of flowers, giving six beans to the bunch, or 30 beans to the vine. This will give 3,000 beans to 100 vines. Taking these at 150 beans to the pound, the usual average, we have 20 lb. as the crop. This, at our average price of 6s. gives £6 sterling, or at the price mentioned by him—20s.—£20. Where he is wrong is in the weight. One thousand beans—and they must be the best—will weigh 50 lb.. but only when they are green; and in process of curing they lose at least three-quarters of their weight. Figures, however, are sometimes misleading, and I cannot do better than give as an example the results from a small plantation in which I am interested. A careful account of the expenditures and receipts has been kept. At the end of three years and a half from the time of planting the vines we have paid back all that has been expended upon them, and have a small balance in hand. A man here with three or four acres of vanilla has a competence; with ten or more he is rich; and for one who likes to potter around among flowers in the temperature of a greenhouse I cannot imagine a life more attractive.

By the way, although the fruit of the vanilla is in no sense a bean, it is invariably called by that name.

Our vanilla is one of the most speculative crops, rivalling hops in that respect. I have known it to sell for 2s. per lb.—that was ten years ago, and it has never gone below 4s. since—and again for 16s. The average price, however, is 6s.; and as we estimate that it costs 2s. per lb. to grow and cure, a fair margin of profit is left for the grower.

I will conclude with a little information for brother-planters. Vanilla posseses two irritant poisons, which, like some other vegetable poisons, act differently upon different individuals. To a few they are innocuous. The juice of the vine, or even the rain or dew from off the leaves, produces in some an itching sensation, somewhat resembling "prickly heat." The dry or partially dry beans produce small blisters on the hands of some of those constantly handling them, and in extreme cases sores come upon the arms and body, which all itch incessantly. I have suffered slightly for years from these, and have only lately found what seems to be a cure—in my case it has proved specific. This is carbolic acid. I use a mixture of equal parts of carbolic acid, glycerine, and rose-water, rubbed on upon going to bed. I have tried the same remedy upon a number of natives, and have cured them all. Washing with Calvert's 20 per cent. carbolic soap after handling the beans acts as a preventive.

FRUIT EXPORTING FIRM.

Attention is called to the advertisement in this issue of J. R. Clogg & Co., exporters of Canadian fruits, etc. This firm is of very old standing, with a record in the business excelled by none. Intending purchasers should make inquiries of them; for this year they will have an exceptionally large quantity of fruit to offer. They already supply a good list of buyers on the other side, to which other names are continually being added. It will be to the advantage of exporters to make connections with this firm.

A LEADING FRUIT FIRM.

IN March, 1898, a new firm of fruit dealers began business in Montreal. The members were Messrs. Wm. Bell, C. W. King and D. J. McLaren, all of whom had had a considerable experience in the fruit and commission business, and were all qualified to make the firm of Bell, King & McLaren a success. In this, the fifth year of its existence, the business has become one of the most important of its class in the great fruit centre of Montreal. As an example of what the firm is doing, it might be mentioned that they import over 2,000 bunches of bananas every week. In apples, which have always been made a prominent feature of the business, they handle between 14,000 and 18,000 barrels every season. They are heavy receivers of lemons from Mediterranean points all the year round; while in Canadian basket fruit the trade done in strawberries, raspberries, plums, cherries, grapes, etc., is very large. Some idea of it may be gained by the fact that in the season they have as many as six cars per day.

To conduct this trade, it is necessary to have a large staff of correspondents; and those of Bell, King & McLaren practically cover the world. They have already made shipments of fruit to Cape Town, South Africa, and look confidently forward to the time when the Canadian steamships going to that point will be fitted with refrigerating apparatus; under which conditions the fruit trade between the two points could be brought to important dimensions.

A PROGRESSIVE COMMISSION HOUSE.

One of the leading produce dealers and exporters of butter and eggs in Montreal is the firm of Loynachan-Scriver Co., Limited. Through constant and steady push, coupled with long years of experience in the line of trade in which they are engaged, this house has made rapid strides upwards, and have established for themselves a reputation second to none.

A visit to the commission house in question would immediately convince even a person entirely unacquainted with the handling of eggs and butter of the extensive business this firm is doing Mr. D. H. Loynachan is president; Mr. O. D. Casselman, vice-president; Mr. C. W. Scriver, secretary-treasurer; all of whom are possessed of a thorough knowledge of the business they are engaged in. Our foreign readers will find it to their advantage to communicate with this firm, whose advertisement appears in another part of this issue.

CLOTHESPINS.

The old-fashioned clothespin was in existence a long time before anyone thought of improving on it. But when once a new idea came out several others followed, and now there are many varieties of clothespins, each, no doubt, with merits of its own. Among the best is a pin manufactured by a Canadian concern, The Dominion Clothespin Co., of Danville, Que. This is also the cheapest, and as it never splits, and does not stick to the line with ice or snow, besides being always sure to hold the clothes firmly on the line, even in a very high wind, it soon became one of the most popular. Dealers in all parts of the country handle it now and the sale is enormous. It is a simple contrivance, and very strong. As it can be retailed for 10c. per doz., the price is no obstacle.

YORK METAL POLISH.

TRULY we live in an age of new discoveries, science and progress. New things are being invented and new discoveries perfected. Among the latter might be mentioned an article manufactured by The Dominion Butchers' Supply Co., 143 King street east, Toronto, known as York Metal Polish. Metal polishes are not new discoveries by any means, but in York Metal Polish you have an article that has been so perfected that into its manufacture no grit or acids whatever have been introduced. Therefore, no article, whether it be the finest piece of jewellery or the coarsest metal surface, can be injured after using this preparation. Metals polished by it do not turn a greenish hue a day or two after the operation, like they will where acids are used in the manufacture, but, instead, it gives a new lustre which remains until worn out by course of time. The ingredients composing the polish act in unison to that end.

York Metal Polish can be used indiscriminately upon any metal; it injures nothing. It is put up in attractive tins and in four different sizes, so as to retail from 10c. up. It is being introduced in Toronto, and is fast meeting with public favor.

Dealers everywhere are invited to write for samples, wholesale prices and full information, which will be cheerfully given by J. Lister Nichols, the manager of the above company. Their advertisement appears on another page.

MAKERS OF SUPERIOR SCALES.

C. Wilson & Son, scale manufacturers, 69 Esplanade street east, Toronto, are claiming the proud distinction of being the only maaufacturers of ball-bearing computing scales in the world. They claim that the advantage of ball-bearings over any other kind has become pretty generally acknowledged, and that their superiority with reference to the finely adjusted weigh scale is at once apparent. They are making some special offers of these scales to grocers at present.

Let the advertiser resolve that he will turn down all advertising grafts, no matter of what description or in whose interests—legitimate advertising in legitimate mediums will result in a better showing of profits at the year's close.—White's Sayings.

Export Trade in Canned Vegetables and Fruits.

A Symposium on its Present Condition and Possibilities for the Future.

DIFFICULTIES OF THE EXPORT TRADE.

I RECENTLY had an interesting though somewhat brief chat with Mr. T. E Owens, of The Bloomfield Packing Co., in regard to the possibilities of the export trade with Great Britain in canned goods. Since 1890 Mr. Owens has made almost yearly visits to Great Britain, more on pleasure bent than on business, it is true, but at the same time he keeps his eyes open when he is on the other side of the Atlantic, particularly in regard to canned goods. In reply to a question of mine, he said:

"I find we can buy canned goods from the retailer in Great Britain at even less than we packers often get from the wholesale trade here. For instance, I bought gallon apples at a price which in Canadian currency meant about 24c. Here we are selling them by the dozen at $2.70, or even slightly less. I bought tomatoes in London at equal to 9c. per tin. They were Italian and American tomatoes. It is possible that the dealers in England bought those tomatoes before the present high prices ruled."

"What kinds of canned goods seem to sell best in England? That is, in the way of canned vegetables or fruits?"

"The goods that appear to sell the best are canned tomatoes and gallon apples Corn, one seldom sees. The Americans have always been able to undersell us in English markets. Quinton, of New Jersey, does the largest business in tomatoes in England. His goods can be seen all over England in the retail grocery stores. They must sell large quantities of his goods. His tomatoes are put up in much the same way as we do ours.

"There have been some heavy shipments of gallon apples from Canada to England. I think in this particular line we do even more business in England than the United States packers."

"What, in your opinion, is the explanation of the fact that the United States packers are able to undersell us in the English market?"

"Well, in the first place, the packers in the United States pay much less for their ripe tomatoes than the packers do in this country. For instance, where we pay 23 to 25c. per bushel to the farmer they pay only about 15c., which gives them an advantage of 8 to 10c. per bushel. As far as quality is concerned, the Canadian tomatoes compare very favorably with those from the United States; in fact, I do not think there is a better tomato produced in the world. We in this country have our tin free, but, while in the United States tin is on the dutiable list, the packer gets a rebate of 99 per cent. when exporting.

"At any rate, the conditions in Great Britain and on this side of the Atlantic are not the same in regard to canned fruits and vegetables. They have not the variety that we have. Then they get fresh vegetables from the south of Europe almost all the year around Corn, of course, they do not grow in Europe, and, consequently, they practically know nothing about it; that is, the average Englishman does not."

"What do you consider the greatest difficulty in the way of the development of the canned goods trade with Great Britain?"

"As far as gallon apples are concerned, there should be no difficulty in Canada holding her trade. As far as tomatoes are concerned, we do not seem to be able to get the farmers to grow them as cheaply as they do in the United States and in Italy. We are, therefore, not on an equal footing in this respect. Then we have heavier freight rates to pay. Our inland local rates are very much heavier than they are in the United States."

"I understand that you have been going to Great Britain almost every year since 1890. Do you notice much change in the condition of the canned goods trade there since you first went over?"

"I cannot say that I do. Canned tomatoes, you could always see in the retail stores there; but the trouble is they are not used by the great mass of the people as they are in this country. Then, as I have already pointed out, they get fresh tomatoes for a greater part of the year. These fresh tomatoes are worth 4d. to 1s. per lb., according to the season. In regard to canned fruits and jams, I might say that prices there are low indeed. For instance, I bought a three-pound jar of plum jam in glass at 6d., and Singapore pineapple at 10d. per 3-lb. tin, and it was very fine stock. This shows you how cheap canned fruits are sold over there. When it comes to canned peaches, pears and apricots they are all of Californian production, and although Canadian peaches are of a much better quality than the Californian article, they have at present no place in the English market."

Mr. Owens was of the opinion that the export trade in canned vegetables and fruits could be developed more rapidly if the packers could be persuaded to work in unison.

CANNERS SHOULD SET PRICES FOR EXPORT.

By B. W. Fenton, of the Ontario Pure Food Co., Limited.

We do not know especially what could be done to increase export trade on canned fruits and vegetables in the Dominion, except that the canners would make more money if they would get together and set prices for export, particularly on gallon apples. As it is now, each little canner quotes independently to the different brokers abroad at low figures, and the result is many of them sell at very little above cost, whereas, by making a regular stated quotation on different brands and sticking to them, each party would get its usual run of the trade and a good deal more, for the reason that buyers on the other side would have more confidence in prices quoted and would buy more liberally.

We have sold our brands abroad for years, and have a reputation on them, and have always been able to sell all we can pack. Still, we are continually told about low prices quoted by some of our competitors.

As to canned fruits, you know California takes the lead on them, as they pack such fine looking fruit at a low cost and secure low steamer rates. Steamer rates, we believe, have been rather stiff the last few years and trade would be enhanced by a reduction in them, which would enable us to land the goods on the other side cheaper than we have been doing.

LOWER FREIGHT RATES OR A BONUS.

By Hugh Malcolmson, of The Kent Canning Co., Limited.

The canning business of Canada has reached such a point that, unless some safety-valve in the way of export business can be reached, it will be a very serious matter for many of those who are now engaged in the business. There would appear to be only two or three lines which find a market in Great Britain, and, of these, apples and tomatoes are the largest items. The Canadian exporter of canned tomatoes is confronted with two or three conditions which at present virtually preclude the possibility of any profit being made on the business. The heavy inland and ocean freight from Ontario points is a very serious handicap which the exporters from the United States Atlantic ports have not got to contend with, and which in itself would be a profit on the business.

Then, on the British market, we enter into direct competition with Jersey and Italian-packed tomatoes, which, while not as fine a flavor as the Canadian product, have the advantage of being more cheaply packed, owing to climatic conditions.

It would seem to us that the first step of importance is to obtain lower export rates, and, if this cannot be obtained directly from the railroads, then the Government might step in and, by exerting their influence on the carriers, or by the granting of a bonus on goods exported, place our canners on an equal footing with their competitors from the United States. We do not see why the Government should not extend their help to the canning industries as well as to the dairying and fruit-shipping industries.

EXPORT TRADE IN CANNED FRUITS INJURED BY BRITISH TARIFF.

By The Simcoe Canning Co.

We thank you for giving us an opportunity of expressing ourselves in your enterprising paper in regard to our views as to the best means to adopt for the purpose of promoting trade in Canadian canned goods with the United Kingdom.

On consideration, we would state that geographically and otherwise there are so many difficulties in the way that we hesitate to attempt to commit ourselves in print to any theory on the subject. The Governments (both Federal and Provincial) appear to be doing everything in their power to encourage and assist exporters, but since the Imperial Government commenced charging an extra duty on fruits, canned in sugar or syrup, there does not appear to be much prospect of a profitable business in exporting those lines.

TRYING TO EXPORT PEAS AND CORN.

By The Aylmer Canning Co., Limited.

We are rather discouraged with trying to work up trade in the Old Country for certain lines of goods we pack. We have been trying for some time to get corn and peas introduced in that market. We have partly succeeded with peas, but are not very much encouraged with corn.

The Canadian Packers' Association have been thinking seriously of contributing and sending a first-class man over, with samples of the different lines we are packing in this country, but have not yet decided whether they will make a move in that direction, on account of the expense, which would be considerable. We think that is the only way to get goods introduced in that market.

The matter of asking the Government to contribute in some way has been talked of pretty freely by the packers.

A 5C. EXPORT BONUS URGED.

By W. H. Ferguson, of The Delhi Canning Co., Limited.

THE time has evidently arrived when an export market must be opened up if the canning industry of Canada is to expand any further, as the home markets are now over supplied. That the industry is an important one to Canada there can be no two opinions about, as it gives a home market for many products of the farm too perishable for shipment to markets at any great distance, and gives employment to a large number of people, many of whom are unfit for other more laborious callings, and it is as deserving of fostering care and help from the Government of the day as any other industry in Canada.

There is no question but that a large export trade could be done if the canners of Canada were put in a position to compete with other countries in the way of freight. Our inland rate of freight appears to be the great drawback to doing business. I am not in a position to say whether the railroads are giving us as low a rate of freight as they should or not. I find they make lower rates on wheat, flour, hay and some other lines which would seem to the writer less desirable freight than canned goods. It would seem to the writer that this is a field for the Government Railroad Commissioners to explore. In any event, if the Government would undertake to give a bonus of, say, 5c. per doz. on all canned goods exported, and, at the same time, appoint a commissioner to examine canned goods and allow nothing to go forward but strictly first quality, I have no hesitation is saying that the export trade in canned goods would be doubled in three years.

We find that London, Eng., is now buying Italian tomatoes at 3s. 4d. c.i.f. London, which would only net us, based on a 35c. rate of freight, 66c. per doz. From this, broker's commission, insurance and exchange and other incidentals must be deducted, which would bring the price considerably less than our net cost, and this has been about the condition of affairs ever since we have been investigating the export markets.

ORGANIZATION THE REMEDY.

By Annonymous

In a general way, with regard to working up an export trade, I do not believe that this will be possible until the canners are organized as one body. Individually they will never succeed. Of course, I have strong views on the question of working up an export trade, but it would only be the opinion of one person.

EDUCATE THE BRITISH PUBLIC.

By S. P. Hagerman, of The Bellville Canning Co.

We think that owing to the English prejudice to Canadian canned goods there can be but little accomplished until our goods are distributed and tested throughout the Old Country.

We feel confident that when once this is accomplished, and the merits of our canned goods established, the growth of export trade will be rapid, when once the people are educated as to the quality of our goods.

We trust that the day is not far distant when the Canadian canners will acquire their share of the Old Country trade.

ASPARAGUS HIGHEST FOR YEARS.

Advices from Stockton, Cal., state that the local market shows the highest price for asparagus in years, this being the result of manipulations by the cannery managements at and near Bouldin Island. Last season growers received $1 to $1.25 a box for their grass, but now they are securing $2 to $2.50, and cannot begin to supply the demand. In trying to secure the material prices were run up. — California Fruit Grower.

CANNED GOODS PACK OF NEW JERSEY.

A REPORT has been issued by the United States Bureau of Statistics, dealing with the canned goods industry of New Jersey. Some reference to this report will no doubt interest many readers of THE CANADIAN GROCER. The report covers the year ending October 31, 1901. The total amount of capital invested in the industry in the 48 factories enumerated is $897,104. The total number of persons employed is 6,428, of whom 4,033 are females and 2,395 males. The total amount of wages paid was $286,832, and the selling value of the canned products for the year $1,480,751. Thirty-two establishments, or 66⅔ per cent. of the total number, report having worked from 11 to 60 days during the season; the average of each of these being 37 days, which, considering the perishable nature of the goods handled, may be accepted as a fair average for the entire industry.

Of fruits there were packed 400 doz. of 3-lb. cans of apples, 1,311 doz. No. 2 cans of blackberries and 900 doz. gallon cans of blackberries, only 20 No. 2 cans of raspberries and 1,170 doz. gallon cans of raspberries, 50 doz. gallon cans of gooseberries, 64,845 doz. No. 2 cans of strawberrics, 32,785 doz. gallon cans of strawberries, 100,000 doz. No. 2 cans of cherries, 406 doz. gallon cans of cherries, 50 doz. gallon currants, 50 doz. No. 3 peaches, 400 doz. No. 2 peaches, 400 doz. No. 3 pineapple, 20 doz. No. 2 pineapple, 20,604 doz. No. 3 pears, 8,142 doz. No. 2 pears, 5 doz. No. 3 plums and 100 doz. gallon plums, 50 doz. gallon currants and 600 doz. gallon rhubarb.

More tomatoes than anything else in the way of vegetables are, of course, packed in New Jersey. Of No. 3 cans, 1,624,291 doz. were packed; of No. 2 cans, 33,300 doz., and of gal. cans, 214,814 doz. The pack of corn was but 100 doz. Lima beans, 104,-

QUALITY IN CANNED GOODS.

If there is any one line of food products whose success depends upon quality it is canned goods. The Belleville Canning Co., of Belleville, Ont., recognize this. The result is that the products of their factory have a high reputation. And where the "Queen" brand goods are to be found quality is assured. Their jams and jellies are equal to those of British manufacture. In packing peas no coloring is used by the company. Dependence is wholly placed on the excellent peas, for which that part of Canada is peculiarly adapted, and on the skill in the canning process. The result is excellent quality and high reputation. The company also make a specialty of boneless chicken, turkey, duck, chicken soup, gallon apples, fruits, fruit pulps, tomato pulp, tomato catsup in glass or tin. Attention is drawn to the company's advertisement on page 9 for further information.

WHAT ENTERPRISE DID.

The Delhi Canning & Preserving Co., Limited, of Delhi, Ont., recently sent several samples of their goods to a firm in London, England. The latter was so pleased with them that it wrote congratulating the firm upon the quality of its goods, while enclosed in the letter was a substantial order.

This shows what enterprise will do, especially when there are goods of quality upon which to base it.

ORIGIN OF FINNAN-HADDIE.

A DISCUSSION on the merits of food fishes among a party of men, and the difference between the flavor of the Scotch and American finnan-haddie, brought out an exclamation from our friend Duncan Bissett, as fine a specimen of Americanized Scottish Highlander as you can find. "Mon! Mon!" he exclaimed, "but do you know how the Findon-haddie happened to be?" We admitted our ignorance. "Many years ago, at a seaport town on the English Channel, Port Lethen, a fire occurred in one of the fish-curing houses and partially burned the end of the structure, which was piled full of lightly-salted, freshly-caught haddock, which were lying on beds of dry kelp.

"After the flames were extinguished and the charred top and side of one of the piles of fish were removed, the maister pulled out one of the slightly smoked haddock, still warm from the heat. He smelt it, while the curious group of his men around him watched his every move; he tore off a piece of the fish, and tasting it, took another bit, sagely nodded his head, and passed it over to the foreman, Sandy, saying: 'Taste you it Sandy! It is nae so nasty.' This proved to be a great day in Port Lethen, for every fisherman in town, had a haddie given him free of cost, that had been cured by the smoke from the burning kelp, and from that time until the present, no one in Port Lethen or the greater fishing village a mile away, Findon, ever cured a haddock except by smoking them over the burning seaweed.

"The cleverness of the Findon fish dealers in being first to put this new cured haddie on the market, won for them the glory of the trade name 'Findon-haddie'; which was abbreviated later on into finnan-haddie."—Trade Press List.

POISONING FROM CANNED GOODS.

People who are particular regarding the freshness of food that has not been preserved will sometimes act very foolishly with canned goods that have been opened, says Merchants' Review. They act as though the canned food had lost the power of decaying, and, as a consequence, a number of so-called poisoning accidents are reported. Thus a case is mentioned in The West Coast Trade, as follows:

"Another instance where a young man, born in this city of good parents, was in the habit of buying occasionally canned salmon for his lunch. One day I found a half-full can and said to him, 'Why don't you throw your leaving away and not leave it here to smell the place?' He replied, 'I want that for lunch to-morrow.' When I told him the danger he ran he at first wouldn't believe me. He had never heard of ptomaine poisoning, and said that his mother always kept canned goods in the original cans until used."

It is a common occurrence, the leaving of canned food in the cans after they have been opened, but the very people who do that would never think of exposing fresh salmon or fresh meat in the same manner. Then, when the expected happens (unexpected of course to the victim), a great hullaballo is made in the papers and the grocer is condemned for selling food unfit to eat. Sometimes one person suffers, sometimes several; sometimes the papers make a big story of the incident, sometimes a medium story; but whichever or whatever is the outcome, the grocer is always condemned.

The Sardine Industry in Relation to the Canadian Herring Fisheries.

POSSIBLE EFFECT OF THE ONE UPON THE OTHER.

FOR some years the Canadian Department of Marine and Fisheries have been giving consideration as to the effect of the sardine industry of New Brunswick on the herring fisheries. It appears that there are on the New Brunswick shores between 700 and 800 sardine weirs or brush traps. And it is alleged by the fishermen that these weirs have caused a serious decrease in the supply of full-grown herring. Indeed, it is said that certain schools, which provided important fisheries in former years have totally disappeared.

VIEWS OF PROFESSOR PRINCE.

In 1895 Professor Prince, Dominion Commissioner of Fisheries, in a report dealing with the matter said:

"It is doubtful whether any fishery can withstand for long so serious a drain upon immature individuals. No doubt the hardy nature of the herring's eggs and fry help to keep up the numbers; but other species of fish in the sea would succumb were specimens that had never spawned captured in such vast quantities. All efforts to diminish the supply of herring here, as in Great Britain, have had apparently little effect. Some authorities have explained the non-appearance of the large winter herring in the Bay of Fundy, as for example in 1891, by the continued destruction of small fish for sardine purposes. The run of sardines also has shown at times a very marked diminution, but not more than may be attributed to the ordinary fluctuations of such a fishery. Indeed, it is a striking fact that in the years 1890-91 these small fishes were more abundant than they had been for 20 years previously.

"It cannot, therefore, be said that the capture annually of vast quantities of immature fish has had any serious effects. The possibility is suggested that a considerable proportion of these small fishes may belong to other clupeoids, though this is contrary to the common opinion of those engaged in the sardine industry.

"It is still an open question, therefore, whether this destruction, on a large and increasing scale is or is not calculated ultimately to endanger the supply of large herring. If schools of young are killed off before they have reached the spawning age, the general catch of the future must ere long be affected."

In a supplement to the Marine and Fisheries Departments report just issued, there is another contribution to the subject from B. Arthur Bensley, B.A., late fellow in biology, University of Toronto, and of the

OUR FACTORIES ARE LOCATED AT SIMCOE, HAMILTON, ST. CATHARINES, PORT ROWAN, TILLSONBURG, PROVINCE OF ONTARIO; AND MONTREAL, PROVINCE OF QUEBEC—IN THE HEART OF THE BEST FRUIT AND VEGETABLE GROWING DISTRICTS OF THE DOMINION OF CANADA.

Columbia University, New York. In this report, Mr. Bensley, in part, says :

CANADIAN FISH FOR MAINE SARDINE FACTORIES.

"The matter is one of great importance, as, on the one hand, the so-called 'sardine' fishermen, who form a considerable body on the Charlotte county shores, derive a large part of their income from the weir returns, and, it may be added, the United States sardine industry centred at Eastport and Lubeck, in the State of Maine, but also carried on at Millbridge, Jonesport and Machiasport, depends largely upon supplies of fish from the Canadian fishermen. As Professor Prince says: 'The United States canneries could not carry on their operations for a single day but for the ample supplies of fish obtained from our waters, and the sardine industry, so far as our fishermen are concerned, is confined to the capture of the fresh fish and their disposal to the Maine canneries. At least 95 per cent. of the so-called United States sardines are caught by our fishermen on Canadian shores, and these are, for the most part, packed in Eastport, Lubeck and other small towns in the State of Maine.'

"Of such importance is the supply of these small fishes that a large proportion of the population on the Maine coast, as well as the body of Canadian fishermen who pursue their calling amongst the islands of the Bay of Fundy and neighboring waters, may be said to be largely dependent upon the sardine industry. A failure in the supply of these fish to those engaged in cleaning, curing and packing, and who have capital invested in the canneries, and would, without doubt, seriously affect the Canadian fishermen who find lucrative employment in the capture of the sardines. That the small fish known as sardines in these waters were abundant on the shores of Charlotte county, N.B., was long known to our fishermen, but their value was not appreciated, and the only use to which they were turned was that of conversion into manure for the purpose of fertilizing the land.

"On the other hand, a considerable number of New Brunswick and Nova Scotian fishermen claim that they have suffered injury from the alleged capture of small fish, and, as the matter had never been systematically looked into, it was my object to examine as far as possible the catches from certain weirs, and to ascertain what species of fish were really captured for the purpose of the sardine canning industry.

"With this end in view, it was desirable to ascertain, in the first place, the character of the fish used as sardines; and, in the second, the extent to which these and other clupeoid fish are affected by the operation of the brush weirs. Accordingly, samples of the catch were obtained from fishermen in charge of the weirs, at different times during the month of August and under different conditions. All of the fish examined were taken from weirs in the immediate vicinity of the Canadian Marine Station then located at St. Andrews, N.B."

Mr. Bensley furnishes several tables with his reports, showing the results of his examination of the wiers. It is not, however, necessary to go into the details of these, the following from the continuation of the report being sufficient to give the readers of THE CANADIAN GROCER an idea of their import:

YOUNG HERRING IN BRUSH WEIRS.

"It is apparent from the above facts, limited though they undoubtedly were, that the bulk of the catch of the brush weirs consist of the 5 to 7-inch young of the common herring (Clupea harengus), and that these provide the material for the sardine industry. The young of other clupeoid fishes do not appear to be affected, if one may judge by the average selections sent to the Biological Station, by the operation of the weirs, and the adults of all only slightly. Further study is necessary, however, before a final decision could be finally rendered on this point, as there may be a variation in different seasons. A more lengthy investigation extending over several seasons would be more conclusive. As noticed above, all the specimens examined were taken in the immediate vicinity of St. Andrews and during the month of August alone, and it may be possible, therefore, that the character of the catch may vary considerably at different points on the coast and at different periods of the sardine season. It is clear, in the case of the common herring, that the removal of such enormous numbers of the young in the sardine industry must be a very considerable drain on the supply however rapid the rate of increase may be. Whether this is the essential factor in the decline of the herring fishery alleged to have occurred in certain parts of the Bay of Fundy must remain doubtful, however, until adequate causes of decline can be assigned in the case of other clupeoid fishes.

"An impression is stated to have, at one time, prevailed that the small fish used as sardines are not the young of any larger species, but a diminutive kind of herring, which never exceeds a size of 9 or 10 inches.

"The true sardine has, of course, never yet been recorded on our Atlantic coast, the so-called sardine in Florida being really an Atherine or kind of 'Silversides' scientifically known as Atherina stipes (laticeps). On the Pacific coast, moreover, a small clupeoid occurs, viz.: Clupanodon caeruleus, Girard, usually known as the Californian sardine. The anchovy (Engraulis mordax, Girard) also occurs and is canned in the United States under the name of sardine; but in British Columbia neither of these fishes has been turned to commercial account.

SARDINE INDUSTRY IN MAINE.

"The growth of the Maine sardine industry has been remarkable especially in view of the fact that the major part of the raw material comes from our Canadian waters. From 1875 to 1880 it is stated that there were only five sardine canneries in Maine; but in 1880 the number rose to 18. In 1886 27 more establishments began operations. This number (45) fell in 1889 to 37; but in 1892 increased to 46, while in 1898 there was no less than 62 of these canneries putting up so-called sardines. The value in 1898 was $2,727,781, and in 1899 The New York Fishing Gazette estimated it to be not less than $3,000,000, the factories being chiefly confined to the towns of Eastport and Lubeck, which practically maintain their existence as flourishing business centres through this one industry."

A NEW PROCESS OF PRESERVING BUTTER.

The researches of Fehling have established the fact that gum-arabic and its concentrated solutions are not fermentable. Emile de Meulemeester, Brussels, Belgium, has found by numerous experiments that, by mixing powdered gum-arabic with butter in the requisite proportions for absorbing the water, the butter can be kept for a long period without becoming rancid. If a small quantity of salt be added the butter will preserve its aroma. This method of procedure is objectionable because it requires too large a proportion of gum-arabic and because the gum should be free from impurities.

It is difficult to procure pure gum in large quantities, and its price would speedily become prohibitive if the consumption were large. In order to obviate these disadvantages M. de Meulemeester proceeds in the following manner: Raw gum-arabic is dissolved in water and the solution filtered to remove the impurities. The filtered solution is then mixed with the butter and the excess of liquid contained in the mixture is finally extracted.

COFFEE CROP OF NICARAGUA.

United States Consul C. Donaldson reports from Managua, March 25, 1902, that the crop of coffee now nearly gathered is the largest ever produced in Nicaragua. The greatest increase has been made in the Department of Matagalpa, where many planters from the United States have recently settled, whose young plantations are just beginning to bear a full crop. It is calculated that they will have about 50,000 sacks, which is over double the production of last year in that Department. The older plantations in the Department of Managua, Carazo, and Granada, adds the consul, are also giving a large crop, and it is estimated that, altogether, the whole country will produce about 300,000 sacks, equal to 30,000,000 pounds, valued at about $3,000,000.

Elevator Storage Capacity in the West.

Its Present Condition and What Is Being Done to Improve It.

TOURISTS from Eastern Canada and the Old World frequently complain of the ugliness of the tall, narrow, almost windowless buildings, sheeted with iron and painted a dull red, that are found at every station, however small, and often at bare sidings throughout the West. They are ugly, sure enough, and yet these buildings are the arsenals of the West. Here is stored that wonderful ammunition (No. 1 hard) with which she is fighting her battle for supremacy in the bread markets of the world.

The system of elevator storage is one that has been developed by the necessities of a new country, and, though looked upon by the people of the West as an everyday matter, is really a very wonderful system and one that permits of the cultivation of an enormous acreage by comparatively few men. Last season Manitoba and the Northwest Territories beat the world's record for the quantity of grain raised in proportion to the farming population, the total amount of wheat and other grains being close on 80,000,000 of bushels.

It would have been quite impossible for the individual farmer to store safely anything like his share of this great yield; in fact, the building of large barns and storehouses is not looked upon with favor in the West, where labor is high and building material expensive. The plan is to thresh in the open as soon after harvest as possible and send the grain to the nearest elevator, either for sale or storage. As a rule the wheat that pays the best is that which is sold as soon as threshed, and gets to the terminal elevators of the great lakes in time for transhipment before the close of navigation of the season in which it is grown. But as the amount of wheat raised is increasing greally every year, it is quite impossible to get all of the crop out between harvest and the freezing of the waterways, and hence the need of good elevator storage, sufficient in capacity to insure the safe carrying of the grain on hand through the winter. Another factor in the situation which has to be reckoned with is an apparent change of climate in the West. Formerly Westerners were accustomed to weeks of dry, clear, sunshiny weather, in which any kind of stacking or storing was sufficient, but within the last few years climatic conditions have changed materially, due, no doubt, to the very large area of the soil which has been broken up. Whatever the cause the fact remains that a great deal of rain has fallen during the latter part of, or immediately after, the harvest of the past two or three years, making the delay in threshing very considerable and consequently lessening the proportion of the crop which it is possible to get to the lakes before navigation closes. Last year was the most striking example of this, and one that will not soon be forgotten. The crop was enormous, far beyond the expectations of the most sanguine at the beginning of the season. It was a crop hard to handle, owing to the height and weight of the straw, and under the most favorable conditions it would not have been possible to get it out of the country between the close of harvest and the close of navigation, but in addition there was a delay of over three weeks of wet weather just when every threshing machine in the country should have been in full swing. When this period was passed the situation was further complicated by the shortage of cars to get the grain moving, and altogether the West learned that she was not fully equipped to handle what she was able to produce, and all through the past winter and spring plans have been laid by the farmer, individually, by the elevator companies and railroads, as far as possible, never to be caught in the same predicament again.

The elevator storage of the West is mainly owned by companies. Among these are The Winnipeg Elevator Co., The Dominion Elevator Co., The Northern Elevator Co., The Western Elevator Co., The Ogilvie Milling Co., The Lake of the Woods Milling Co., The Canadian Pacific and Canadian Northern Railway Cos. In addition to these there are quite a number of farmers' elevator companies, which own from one to two small elevators, and a few are matters of private enterprise and speculation.

At the present time, the elevator storage of Manitoba is 425 elvators and 69 flat warehouses, with a total storage capacity 12,179,000 bushels, and for the Northwest Territories 111 elevators and 18 flat warehouses with a capacity of 3,214,000 bushels, making a total storage capacity of 15,393,000 bushels. In addition to these elevators there are, at Fort William, three terminal elevators owned by the C. P. R., with a capacity of 5,500,000 bushels, and, at Port Arthur, the Canadian Northern elevator, with a capacty of 1,250,000 bushels, and King's elevator, with a capacity of 350,000 bushels, or terminal capacity at the head of the lakes of 7,100,000 bushels, making it possible to safely store over winter 22,493,000 bushels of grain.

The system of elevator storage is controlled, in a great measure, by the Government. When it was first established it was largely under the control of the C.P.R., and they forbade the erection of flat warehouses. A few years ago, the complaints as to this and the unsatisfactory running of elevators were so numerous that a Royal Commission was appointed to inquire into the whole matter, and, following this, an elevator commissioner was appointed who has his head office at Winnipeg. It is his business to "keep tab" on the whole situation and see that the Acts governing these matters are duly enforced. Since the appointing of this official the charges with reference to mixing grades, holding of shipments and the like have largely subsided. The size of elevators and flat warehouses is under strict control, and no elevator is allowed to be erected under 25,000 bushels capacity. The building of flat warehouses in permitted, but is not encouraged. It is never likely to be done extensively, as the farmers realize that the time occupied in loading a car from a flat warehouse is too long to be profitable.

Very extensive additions to elevator storage are planned for this season, and already many gangs are at work on new elevators. The new buildings are being erected at new stations, more particularly along new lines of railway, and, in some instances, elevators are being added at old stations. So far as can be learned at this date the following additional elevators will be erected:

Ogilvie Milling Co., 20, with average capacity of 30,000 bushels.

Lake of the Woods Milling Co., 15, with average capacity of 30,000 bushels.

The Winnipeg Elevator Co., 12, with an average capacity of 25,000 bushels.

The Western Elevator Co., 6, with an average capacity of 25 000 bushels.

These will give an additional capacity of 1,500,000 bushels, and, in addition, there are a number of farmers' elevators to be built, and 5 elevators by a syndicate of American capitalists will be erected along the Soo line. Their capacity is not known, but cannot be under 25,000 bushels, as that is the smallest capacity allowed to be erected.

The terminal elevator capacity is to be largely increased, and probably doubled. It will be seen from this that the West will be in a position to cope with any crop raised in the country this present season.

Two Standard Brands

The reason why I wish to include one or two hundred each of my "Pharaoh" 10c., and my "Pebble" 5c. Cigars in that "first or trial order," that I have been telling you about, is because, at the prices, they are the best sellers in all Canada.

The quality and workmanship in these two brands has set the standard by which many dealers make sales, claiming that their Cigars are just as good as the "Pharaoh" or the "Pebble." Of course this isn't so—nothing can possibly be as good as the original article.

TRADE IN COUNTRIES OTHER THAN OUR OWN

THE NEW YORK TEA MARKET.

BUSINESS locally was reported as flat, and the latest cable advices from the East indicate quieter conditions in primal markets. New crop North China Congous were reported offered at 8c. c. i. f. New York, and according to some reports the Formosa market showed a slight reactionary tendency from the recent advance. The line business in the local market was reported as dull.—New York Journal of Commerce, May 26.

THE UNITED STATES PEACH CROP.

According to press despatches the well-known authority on peaches, J. H. Hale, estimates the Connecticut peach crop this year at 1,000,000 bushels. The Georgia peach crop this year will be only about two-thirds of the average size, Mr. Hale states, although on his own 2,160-acre farm at Fort Valley, which is the largest peach orchard in the world, the yield will be approximately normal. He estimates his Fort Valley crop at 75,000 bushels, and the entire Gergia crop at 1,000,000 bushels, or 2,000 carloads. Georgia peaches will be placed on the Northern markets about June 15, and the season will last about seven weeks.

CANNED TOMATOES IN BALTIMORE.

Tomatoes continue strong and incline to firmer position, as the small amount of spot stock still held throughout the country is becoming very small in quantity, and we will soon be dependent upon the amount of fresh tomatoes brought from the South.

Tomatoes in this city for futures are quoted at 77½c. for No. 3 standards; No. 2 are quoted at 57½c.; No. 3 standards spot are considesed a bargain here at $1.22½; seconds, $1.10 for No. 3. The attention of the market appears to have been diverted altogether from spot goods to new pack, and peas, pineapples and berries are, therefore, matters of interest.—The Trade, Baltimore, Md.

BARBADOS SUGAR AND MOLASSES.

Mail advices from Barbados, of the date of May 10, say: "The reaping of our sugar crop is being pushed forward vigorously, the weather being favorable, and in another fortnight the majority of estates will have finished grinding. Our crop will not be as large as was at first expected. Large sales of molasses have been made during the fortnight at 7½c. and $4, and yesterday the market closed firm at that rate. Earlier in the fortnight, sales of muscovado refining sugar were made at $1.10 per 100 lb. and $5 for hogsheads, and $1.30 per 100 lb. for bags, basis 89 deg. Yesterday, buyers offered only $1.05 per 100 lb. for hogsheads and $1.25 for bags, but, owing to the interruption in the cable planters were without their usual New York advices, and therefore declined to sell. The weather had been very dry, but on the night of May 8 we had some showers, in some parts from 1 to 3 in., in others very little; however, good, soaking rains are much wanted. The following is a comparative statement of the shipment of produce for the seasons 1901-1902:

	Sugar.		Molasses.
	1901. hhds.	1902. hhds.	1901. hhds.	1902. hhds.
United Kingdom....	1,476	1,500	115	135
United States	26,823	13,600	799	1,243
British Provinces....	290	596	8,191	9,536
Newfoundland	1	3	7,829	8,815
Totals.....	28,590	15,700	16,933	19,729

THE SUGAR SITUATION.

Czarnikow, MacDougall & Co. say of sugar: "In spite of a further improvement in the local statistical position there has been no improvement in prices, but the tone of the market for raw sugars is somewhat better. The purchases of Cuba sugars included nearly all the cargoes loading at the south side ports. Four steamers only have been chartered to load about the end of this month and early in June, and these are still unsold. In all the sales made this week there are only two steamers to load at the principal northern ports, where, the storage and banking facilities being greater, there is not the same disposition to sell. The southern ports, particularly Manzanillo and Guantanamo, will soon complete their shipments. In British India, where countervailing duties against State bounties have existed since March, 1899, an additional duty has just been imposed as a set-off against kartel bounties, and the effect of this will be to shut out German and other Continental refined from India. Javas are being offered for June-July shipment at 8s. 4½d. to 8s. 6d. c. f. Considering that beets for same delivery here (say August) cannot be bought under 6s. 9d. c. f. Javas seem to be comparatively cheap, the difference in value, including the countervailing duty on beets, being reckoned at 2s. per cwt. Like all the other cane-producing countries Java is not hurrying sales, as present prices do not cover the cost of production. One cargo of Egyptian sugars has been shipped on consignment. The manufacture of Mauritius syrups has been suspended owing to the prevailing low prices."

CANNED PEAS IN BALTIMORE.

Green peas have at last begun to arrive in quantities heavy enough to induce some of the packing houses to begin operations, but the prices have been very high and are still quite unreasonable. They have, however, declined on the quotation of $1.25 for a carrier containing half a bushel at the close of last week to a value of $2.50 and $2.75 per bushel in the middle of this week, and at this date, May 23, they are quoted from $2.25 per bushel to $2.75 per barrel, according to quality. These are all steamboat peas from Norfolk and places in North Carolina. With the weather as warm as it is at present, however, we will soon have them here in quantities sufficient to start all the canning houses, and prices will decline proportionately. If the packers are to meet the quotations for canned peas now governing the market, they will have to get their peas at about 90c. to $1.25 per bushel, and until such quotations for green stock develop the bulk of the packing will have to be of fine selected hand-picked and hand-packed goods, such as have the market in competition with French peas.

It looks as if prices on new peas are about 85 to 90c. for early June standards; 70c. for seconds; 80c. for standard marrowfats, and 65c. for second marrowfats; for new pack sifted early June, $1; extra sifted, $1.15; extra small sifted, $1.30, and petit pois, $1.50. The extent of the crop may affect these quotations a little, but not much in any case.—The Trade, Baltimore, Md.

CURRANTS LOWER IN ENGLAND.

The advance in the price of Provincial currants which took place a week ago has not been maintained. It is evident that too much importance was attributed to the unfavorable news received from Greece with respect to the growing crop, and the operators who based their calculations upon it have repented their action more quickly than usual. That their repentance should have come so suddenly, however satisfactory to retailers, is not altogether a matter for congratulation amongst dealers, since legitimate traders, believing the information to be reliable, were to an extent constrained to follow their lead, and now find themselves burdened with stocks purchased at a price which turns out to be unduly enhanced. Looking at the matter from the lowest point of view, that of self-interest, the subsequent course adopted by the speculators has been unwise in the extreme; since universal stocks are of so moderate a character that the whole could have been easily disposed of, without detriment to anybody and with the result of avoiding considerable loss, which, by the course which has been adoped, will probably now be incurred. Violent fluctuations of the character referred to, taking place without any reason worthy of the name, have always a most unsatisfactory effect on the course of trade, and cannot be too strongly deprecated. The only good effect of the upheaval which has taken place has been to call attention in a marked manner to the rapidly-decreasing stocks of the better qualities of currants, and, in consequence, a much more satisfactory demand has been experienced. The total rise in the price of Provincial fruit was about 4s. per cwt., of which 1s. to 1s. 6d. has been lost, and again at the close of the week slightly recovered, while better sorts advanced about 2s., which rise is fully maintained. Some 300 tons of ordinary and medium qualities, per ss. Bathori, are now discharging, but shipments from Greece are likely to be of a meagre charcter up to the end of the season.—Produce Markets' Review, May 10.

SITUATION IN BRAZIL NUTS.

A considerable strength has been developed in Brazil nuts, and, notwithstanding several of the principal holders have been quoting and still quote 4½ to 4¾c. on medium and large nuts respectively, it has been generally understood that few lots could be purchased on that basis. As has been noted in these columns, there are buyers for round lots who have bid from 2 to 3c. above the quotations, and have been unable to secure goods. Several days ago it was currently reported on the street that a corner in the article was being worked by the principal holders here on the strength of adverse crop reports from Brazil, and the low range of prices were put out in order to "shake out" the small holders. It is still intimated that such a deal is in process of formation, although the strong situation is credited largely to the late advices from the primary markets. Touching on this it is learned from a reliable source that a cable was sent to Para on the first of last week asking for the condition of the crop. This cable brought the following reply: "Forty tons of medium size nuts were sold at 5c. per lb. f.o.b. Manaos. Prices are advancing, and the remainder is estimated to be not over 1,000 tons."

In cabling to Manaos, 800 miles up the Amazon, from which the bulk of the nuts this year have come, a reply has been received stating that the auction sales took place there last week at the equivalent of 5¼c. It is stated also that on the receipt of this information efforts were made to buy nuts in England or here, but without success. One of the largest receivers in the west, who had a parcel of about 250 tons on the last steamer, has wired here declining 6½c. in New York for the entire parcel. —New York Journal of Commerce.

OTTAWA TRADE GOSSIP.

LAST WEEK was a busy one at the Ottawa Fruit Exchange. Several carloads of berries were received and disposed of at good prices. On Friday, a full car was sold at one sale, and prices ranged from 12 to 13½c.

To-day, another car was received, and part of it sold from 13 to 14½c. One thousand bunches of bananas were put up this afternoon, and No. 1's sold from $1.40 to $1.75 and No. 2's from 80c. to $1.25. Lemons, 300 size, brought $2.25. G. W. Hunt is the only man in his line in Ottawa this year, and things promise to be lively at his saleroom. G.W.Langdon, the auctioneer, is without doubt the best man who ever held the position; he does his utmost to please all.

F. J. Castle received, a few days ago, a consignment of Alart & McGuire's, New York, olives. They are something new to be offered to the Ottawa trade.

The Geo. Matthews Co. are quoting advanced prices on nearly all their lines. They had to pay higher prices for hogs than ever before while in business here.

Bedingfield & McCusker, who were doing both a wholesale and retail trade in groceries and provisions, have disposed of the retail part of their business and moved to new premises on Nicholas street. They state that this month, which is their first since the change, has been a wonder; which goes to show that the trade generally will support a strictly wholesale house in preference to one with a retail attachment.

It is not long since a western spice firm sold a large lot of "pure cream of tartar" to a leading wholesale house here at a very low figure. Upon arrival of the goods they were analyzed and found to contain a small percentage of cream of tartar. Of course it turned out to be a mistake, but outside manufacturers should remember when selling anything not up to the mark that analysts are plentiful in Ottawa.

Park-Blackwell's representative, Frank Marlitt, was in the city last week and reports a big business in their meats. Frank is very popular with the grocery trade and always gets a big order when he calls.

OTTAWA MARKETS.

Business throughout the past week was very good with the retail merchants. The railroadmen receive their wages at this time every month, and it always makes trade rushing for a few days.

Green vegetables have been very scarce on the market since the heavy frost of two weeks ago, but, as we have had heavy rains the last few days and good growing weather, it is expected that stuff will be more plentiful.

In sugars, the price here is a slight advance on Montreal figures, about enough to cover freight. Although sugar is selling much better than a few weeks ago, it is lower in price than ever. The present price for Redpath or St. Lawrence granulated is $3.77, and for Woodside, $3.72. Yellows are $3.12.

Wholesalers are asking 2c. more for molasses than a couple of weeks ago. The price now is 24½ to 26c.

Although in last week's GROCER gallon apples were reported to be scarcer in Montreal, both wholesalers and retailers here have pretty good stocks on hand, which have not moved off as fast as they expected. Perhaps now, when green apples are about over, stocks will move faster.

Sago and tapioca are as low in price as they have been for some time, 3½c. being the quotations.

Butter has kept its price all spring, but the last week or so it looks as if it should come down. Most retailers have their refrigerators full and are asked to buy every day at the old prices, 15 to 19c. for pails and rolls, prints 20c. and creamery 21½c.

Flour is keeping the price set a couple of weeks ago. Previous to that there was a cut on with the flour men here which most of the bakers and grocers took advantage of, so that all kept pretty good stocks for some time.

LARGEST WAREHOUSE IN THE WORLD.

Liverpool has the largest warehouse in the world. It is built beside the docks, and is intended to house the imports of tobacco, which form so important a part of Liverpool's trade. The warehouse is 725½ ft. in length, 165 ft. wide and 124 ft. 10 in. high. The ground area is 13,300 sq. yds., and the area of the several floors 174,098 sq. yds. There are at present in bond in Liverpool some 93,000 hogsheads of tobacco, weighing 50,000 tons, which is equal, roughly estimated, to a Customs duty of £18,000,000.

THE NEW PLANT AT WORK.

The new plant which Meakins, Sons & Co., 59 St. Henry street, Montreal, installed last fall for the manufacture of corn brooms has worked satisfactorily, and the output is increasing every month. New machinery has been added for the manufacture of brushes, and the firm is now in a position to turn out brooms, whisks and brushes of talking that sells the most goods, but the all descriptions at the shortest possible notice. The "Empire" brand of brooms has been a great success from the start; so much so that since opening their new plant they have been unable to catch up with the orders.

The facilities this firm possesses for exporting to Great Britain and Ireland, by being able to load directly on the steamers, places them in a position to lay down brooms on the other side cheaper than most manufacturers. Correspondence is solicited from dealers handling any of these lines. They are always pleased to give prices and terms.

IN GOOD SHAPE.

The three large factories of Boeckh, Bryan and Cane, doing business under the name of United Factories, Limited, Toronto, are in splendid shape for business. With regard to grocers' sundries, they affirm that they are ready to ship at a moment's notice. Their large staff of representatives on the road has been materially increased. Every class of United Factories' output is most excellent, and this season has even a greater reputation among wide-awake dealers.

No one kind of advertising is always "best." For one purpose out-door display is most effective. For another, street-car cards. For a third, the newspaper is the best medium. Undoubtedly the last is the "best" for the greatest number of advertisers.

TORONTO, CANADA

RICE CROP OF INDIA AND BURMA.

By W. T. FEE, United States Consul at Bombay.

BENGAL is the rice field of India, but Burma is the granary. The former produces more than five times as much rice as the latter, yet Burma exports two and one-half times more than does Bengal. During the current year of 1901-2, the area of rice in India and Burma was in round numbers 50,000,000 acres, and produced 20,000,000 tons of cleaned rice, averaging about 900 lb. to the acre.

To the Statistical Department of the Government of India I am indebted for the following particulars and information in regard to the rice crop of India and Burma for the year 1901-2:

In Burma, the area under rice in the 14 principal rice-growing districts is estimated at 6,498,120 acres, which is about 3 per cent. more than the area reported last year. The yield is estimated at about 3,010,000 tons, which is a little larger than that of last year and greatly in excess of the average. The surplus available for export is stated at 2,260,000 tons of cargo rice—equivalent to 1,915,000 tons of cleaned rice. It is estimated that, out of this quantity available for export, about 80,000 tons may be required for consumption in Upper Burma.

In Madras it is estimated that, on the whole, on an area about equal to the average, the yield will be rather more than the average of recent years.

The figures below state the quantity of rice, husked and unhusked, exported to foreign countries in recent years:

Year.	Burma. Cwts.	Bengal. Cwts.	Madras, Bombay, and S nd. Cwts.	Total. Cwts.
1896-97	19,378,594	5,066,041	3,829,702	28,274,337
1897-93	18,170,512	4,970,536	3,605,613	26,746,661
1898-99	2 ,968,896	3,736,751	3,236,639	37,942,286
1899-1900	21,682,3)4	7,921,226	2,·67,863	32,271,393
1900-1901	21,4.6,9 0	8,153,017	1,762,861	31 342,788
1901-2 (10 months)	15,607,544	4,·38,333	2,858,525	21,004,402

Since 1896, with the exception of the one year 1898-99, the exports of rice have been comparatively restricted, owing to the high level of prices following bad seasons in India The conditions of the consuming markets in India are well illustrated by the subjoined figures of shipments of rice from Burma to Indian ports, Burma being an unfailing granary from which supplies were drawn for denuded stores in India. It will be noted that large shipments from Burma to India coincided with diminished exports from India to foreign countries:

THE MANUFACTURE OF WALL PAPER.

COLIN McARTHUR & CO., of Montreal, who were burned out last fall, have shown great energy and business adaptation by rebuilding their factory immediately on the extinction of the fire. They worked under great disadvantages, but we are glad to know that they are again established in thorough working order in their new factory, of which a very fine half-tone engraving appears on page 58.

We congratulate them on the increasing trade that has compelled them to make additions to their premises so frequently. The capacity of the new factory is increased very largely by the addition of one full storey, which will be utilized by their grounding machines.

The new factory has been fitted with all the new appliances known to the wall paper manufacturing trade. and their large equipment will be fully taxed in the coming season to meet all the demands of the business in this "growing time" in Canada.

They are now engaged in sampling their new line, which is even superior to the former high-class offerings of this progressive firm. Their showing of cheap and medium-priced goods has never been equalled, and, in the better grades, silks, moires, damasks, two-tone colorings and rich varnish gold effects are shown in great beauty and variety. Ingrains, with stylish and perfectly matched friezes and ceilings, are a marked feature of the productions of this firm.

Colin McArthur & Co. have not only studied the wants of the Canadian trade successfully and satisfied the tastes of the best buyers in Canada, but have also developed a satisfactory foreign trade, which bids fair to grow larger year by year.

Their new and enlarged factory, with its improved appliances, will insure to all customers promptitude in filling orders and ability to supply the largest accounts with all the goods required.

We note with much pleasure that Colin McArthur & Co. always rise equal to the occasion, and are prepared to uphold and sustain the good name which they have heretofore so worthily held among the best Canadian manufacturers.

INTERIOR OF AN ATTRACTIVE STORE.

FIFTEEN years ago, a grocery store was established at 224 Dundas street, London, Ont., by T. A. Rowat & Co., and it continues there to this day. Their courteous staff of clerks and the reputation they enjoy of handling only goods of the best grade have made their store popular with the housekeepers of that city and caused their business to grow so satisfactorily. They long have made a specialty of coffees, and as their coffees are of high grade, they have drawn custom from every part of the city, and particularly from the best classes of customers. Their practice of promptly filling orders received over the telephone has made that means of buying goods popular with their patrons, and they find that their business is being much built up in this way. The accompanying illustration is a view of the interior of their store.

INDIAN TEA ON THE AMERICAN CONTINENT.

A FEW weeks ago, reference was made in these columns to the fact that, since the Indian Government had discontinued advertising the tea of that country on the American continent, the direct export of same to this part of the world had greatly fallen off.

We have before us statistics issued by the Indian Tea Association giving the exports of Indian tea from Calcutta and Chittagong during the past seven years, ending March 31. These figures give a striking example of the results of discontinuing the special efforts that had been made to push Indian tea on the American market. In the years 1895-1996, the quantity of tea exported to America, which, of course, includes Canada and the United States, was 1,090,067 lb. By 1899-1900, the quantity had reached 6,249,729 lb. In that year, the special efforts were discontinued, and, by 1900-1901, the quantity was down to 4,229,236 lb., while, for the year ending March 31 last, it was only 2,166,589 lb.

The following table gives the direct exports of Indian tea to the American continent during the last seven years, ending March 31st:

DIRECT EXPORTS OF INDIAN TEA TO AMERICA.

	Quantity in Lb.
1896	1,090,067
1897	2,864,593
1898	2,486,191
1901	4,229,236

It is possible that our readers may be interested in knowing the condition of the total shipments—indirect as well as direct—of Indian tea to the United States and Canada during the last few years. These do not show a falling off to the same extent as direct shipments from India to this continent, but they show, however, a decrease. This will be gathered from a glance at the following table, showing the quantity of Indian tea taken by the United States and Canada from all sources during the last seven years:

INDIAN TEA TAKEN FROM ALL SOURCES BY UNITED STATES AND CANADA.

	Lb.
1897	5,663,244
1898	5,971,701
1899	8,487,770
1901	7,026,773

It is significant that while the shipments of Indian tea to the United States and Canada have fallen off during the last few years, that the increase in Ceylon tea has more than made up for the decrease in the former. The following table gives the total quantity of Ceylon tea taken by Canada and the United States during the last seven years:

CEYLON TEA TAKEN BY U. S. AND CANADA.

	Lb.
1895	3,744,736
1896	4,361,510
1899	8,289,376
1900	9,176,684

It will be seen that while the shipments of Indian tea to this continent have decreased the shipments of Ceylon have increased. But it will be remembered that the tea of Ceylon has been unremittingly pushed and advertised during that period.

Another thing that should not be overlooked is that the total quantity of tea taken by this country and the United States is annually increasing. This will be at once seen by an examination of the following table:

IMPORTS OF TEA INTO CANADA AND THE UNITED STATES.

	1898. Lb.	1899. Lb.	1900. Lb.	1901. Lb.
Canada	20,052,261	25,002,685	24,998,726	23,095,938
United States	70,936,759	74,088,153	84,843,490	90,381,270
Total	91,009,023	99,090,838	109,842,216	113,477,208

HOW THE GERMANS GOT THE TRADE.

AMONG the commercial nations of the world none have been more energetic and resourceful in developing their export trade than Germany. An interesting report recently sent to the United States Government at Washington by their Consul at Autofagasta, Chile, gives an interesting insight into the methods that have been employed by Germany in developing her trade with Peru, Chile and Bolivia.

It appears that about 30 years ago the trade that went to the Pacific ports of the South-American countries was monopolized by British and United States houses. The Germans at that time were only represented by jobbers and shopkeepers in the coast towns.

Not satisfied with this condition of affairs Germany carefully trained a number of young men, educating them in commercial affairs in the language of the South-American countries. These young men were then sent to South America to enter business houses as clerks, with a view to their mastering the details of the business. When these details had been mastered a number of German houses started branches in such countries as Chile, Bolivia and Peru, with these young men in charge. The result is that in many branches Germany has now a monopoly of the trade, and the British and United States houses no longer attempt competition.

There is a lesson in this for Canadian business men as well as for the business men of other countries. There is no question about it, the education of young men in this country is particularly deficient in regard to the languages of other countries. What Germany has done, Canada can do, if she only has the will.

IMPORTANT COMMERCIAL QUESTIONS.

THE convention of representatives of the different boards of trade throughout the country, which is to meet in the Parliament Buildings, Toronto, on Wednesday and Thursday next, has had a most important programme mapped out for its consideration. This programme is as follows :

Canadian Copyright.
Canadian Insolvency Law.
Commercial Depot in London, Eng.
Defence.
Establishment of Customs Union with Sister Colonies.
Fast Atlantic Service.
Importation of Canadian Cattle into Great Britain.
Metric System.
Newspaper Postage Between Canada and Great Britain.
Railway Commission.
Steamship Service for Exclusive Trade Between Great Britain and her Colonies.
State Cable from Canada to Australia.
Steel Shipbuilding in Canada.
Trade Relations within the Empire.
Trade Relations within the Colonies.
Postal and Telegraph Communication.
Winter Navigation of the St. Lawrence.

Here are in all some 17 subjects, all of which are more or less important to the welfare of the Dominion. If the Conference succeeds in getting through even half of them, it will have established for itself a record which it would take the Dominion Parliament or any other legislative body a long time to successfully emulate.

No doubt one of the first things the Conference will do when it meets will be to appoint a committee to revise the list of subjects and to bring up those first which are of the most importance. At any rate, this is what should be done.

The subject which will no doubt occupy the most attention, and around which the greatest discussion will centre, is that of preferential trade with the Mother Country. The Toronto Board of Trade has already prepared a resolution on this subject, which called upon the Prime Minister of Canada to urge at the coming Imperial Conference the securing of a Royal Commission composed of representatives of Great Britain and the colonies to investigate the trade conditions, and to suggest such preferential treatment of imports from the various parts of the Empire as shall be best calculated to insure the fullest benefits.

As we have already said, this will be the most important subject for discussion. It is one thing to desire a thing, but it is another to secure it, and especially when it is surrounded by intricate and conflicting interests.

Preferential trade between Canada and the Mother Country would, no doubt, be beneficial to all concerned if it were placed upon a sound economic basis. There are already some in Canada who find the preference irksome which Canada gives to the products of the Mother Country.

The difficulty is to secure a tariff arrangement between two countries which will prove satisfactory to these. They are asking for a higher tariff on the particular goods which they manufacture. How this can be done, and while at the same time induce the British Government to arrange its tariff in order that Canadian products will get a preference over those of the various countries, is an intricate question. If a preference means anything, it means that the parties to it must consent to such modifications in the tariff as shall allow the products of the contracting parties to enter with greater freedom than hitherto. This is a business proposition, and we can depend upon it that the Conference which is to meet next week in Toronto will consider it in a business-like way and devoid of party feeling.

The improvement of the steamship service between Canada and the United Kingdom is a question of scarcely less importance, particularly in view of the recent steamship amalgamation, engineered by Mr. Pierpont Morgan; in fact, the whole transportation question needs to be considered, for it is of more importance than even tariff arrangements. Canada is, at present, sadly handicapped, both in regard to railway and steamship transportation, and it is to be hoped that the Conferenee will be able to give this subject all the attention it deserves. Even if it meets and does nothing else but aid in the solution of the transportation question, it will have by no means met in vain.

In regard to a commercial agent in London with a depot there as well, Sir Wilfrid Laurier has already promised that something shall be done, but Governments move slowly, and it is to be hoped that the Conference will take such action as will hasten the consummation of this idea. It is several years since the agitation was started, but, thanks largely to the inaction of Sir Richard Cartwright, the appointment has not yet been made.

It is to be hoped that this conference of business men will not be the last of its kind, but that it may be the forerunner of annual similar gatherings. The business men of this country have not, in the past, exercised the influence in the commercial affairs of the State that they should have. It is to be hoped, therefore, that we are now on the dawn of a new era in this respect.

The looser a merchant is with his credit the tighter will his creditors be in their dealings with him.

CANADIAN - NEW ZEALAND TRADE.

A GENTLEMAN from New Zealand, who was in Toronto this week, expressed himself in favor of larger trade between Canada and his country. "We will favor trade with Canada, if it should cost us a little more," he said. This is a sentiment in which Canada no doubt reciprocates.

Our own official returns do not show the volume of business between Canada and New Zealand, our exports to that country being classified with those of Australia, under the name of Australasia, and the latest returns that we have, from a New Zealand source, are only up to 1900. These show that the aggregate trade of New Zealand with Canada was valued at $201,713. Of this $1,397 were exports to Canada and $200,336 were imports from Canada. It will thus be seen that the aggregate trade is not only small, but that our sales to New Zealand, small as they are, are a great deal in excess of our purchases from them.

The population of New Zealand, according to the last census, was about 823,000, while the total foreign trade of the country in 1900 was $116,275,651. Of this $64,464,651 were exports, and $51,811,000 imports.

New Zealand is one of the most progressive and enterprising of the British colonies, and it is to be hoped that trade between the two countries will develop a great deal more in the future than it has in the past.

Having its Armour on it will be no easy task to cope with the meat trust.

The Factory and Offices of Christie, Brown Co., Limited, Biscuit Manufacturers, Toronto, Canada.

A BISCUIT COMPANY'S BIG FACTORY.

Christie, Brown Co., Limited, of Toronto, have nearly completed the new addition to their factory. The addition is 70 x 130 ft. and five storeys high. The accompanying illustration shows the completed building, which covers an area of 270 x 130 ft., is five storeys high with basement, and has a total floor space of 210,600 ft. The number of employes is 460.

The history of the firm is an interesting one. It was originally formed by Mathers & Brown, with Mr. William Christie as assistant baker and travelling salesman. In 1850, Mr. Mathers retired and Mr. Christie became associated with Mr. Alex. Brown as partner. Three years later the latter retired, but in 1861 he was again back in the business, when the style of the firm became Christie, Brown & Co. In 1878 Mr. Brown finally retired from the firm, Mr. Christie continuing the business under the old firm name, until June, 1899, when it was merged into a joint stock company with a capital of $500,000. After Mr. Wm. Christie's death, in June, 1900, his son, Mr. Robert J. Christie became president, R. Harvey, vice-president, and C. E. Edmonds, secretary-treasurer.

The business was originally started on Yonge street. It was removed from there to Francis street in 1871, and from Francis street to the present site at Frederick and Duke streets in 1874. The original building on the present site was 60 x 90 ft., 10 ft. narrower and 40 ft. shallower than the latest addition, which is one of several since 1874.

Besides the Toronto factory, there is a branch warehouse on St. Charles Borromec street, Montreal, where, including the manager, there are 16 employes. There are also agencies in Halifax, St. John, Winnipeg, Victoria and Vancouver.

In all, Christie, Brown Co. employ 15 travellers, 10 having headquarters in Toronto and five headquarters in Montreal.

These travellers cover the Dominion from one end to the other.

The factory is scrupulously clean. The girls employed in packing biscuits are provided at the firm's expense with clean blouses and large white aprons, and the men with white suits and pocket handkerchiefs, while baths of modern style and finish are provided for all.

During the last few years the company has been paying some attention to the export trade, and it has met with a good deal of success. Christie's biscuits are now to be found in several leading cities of the United States, such as New York, Boston, Chicago, Cleveland and Detroit. Shipments are also made with more or less regularity to South Africa and the British West Indies, while unsolicited business has been received from Cuba, Hayti, India and New Zealand. The firm has export agents in Great Britain, South Africa and the West Indies.

The firm manufactures all kinds of sweetened and unsweetened biscuits. And, for the export trade, all its biscuits are put up in hermetically sealed tin boxes.

UP-TO-DATE SHOW CARDS.

The show-card painter is already a necessary adjunct to the advertising bureau of many big stores, but there are thousands of smaller stores that need show-cards and yet can't afford a show-card painter. This gives an opportunity to a young man with hustling qualities to make himself more valuable to the business, and also add to his earning capacity an accomplishment that's worth dollars and cents, besides giving him the chance to leave his place behind the counter for an hour or two at a time to paint some needed show-card, which is really a relaxation. It is with pleasure we call attention to the advertisement of W. Edwards, Carleton Place, Ont., Box 315, in this issue. We can heartily recommend his book of instruction teaching this art as being one of the best and most complete works of the kind yet published. It sells at $1, mailed postpaid, and you will find it worth a hundred.

THE PROVISION TRADE.

Comparative Value of Meat—The Markets—Miscellaneous Notes.

COMPARATIVE VALUE OF MEAT.

THE great thing that renders a steer valuable to the packer is that the animal possesses a class of meat that will command the best price upon the market, says The Drovers' Journal. The worth of the steer, other things being equal, depends on the proportion of the more valuable cuts to the inferior priced meats. It should be the aim of the breeder and feeder to choose those animals that give indications of producing the most valuable cuts. The former can regulate this by using bulls of good breeding and beef conformation which indicate strength in these desired sections. The feeder can secure the quality of stock he needs by selecting the type of young stock that gives indications of being able to put on flesh to good advantage and in the valuable sections. The man who picks out what is termed a "good feeder" will generally secure such an animal.

We can do no better to illustrate this point than to submit the accompanying illustration showing the probable cuts and the varying weights such as we can expect to secure in a first-class beef steer weighing about 1,200 lb. The weights given have been made up by men connected with the leading packing houses in Chicago, and are not only the results of long experience, but approximately correct. The prices attached are corrected to date by a leading dealer in meats, and are intended to be a fair representation of the prices for which meat is now being sold to the consumers.

Let us take this steer and divide him up into two classes of cuts, which we may term best quality and second quality. The first quality, with the name of section, cuts, weight, price per pound and value, will be indicated in the following table :

Name of section.	Weight of cut.	Price per lb., cts.	Total value.
Prime of rib	68	16	$10 88
Porterhouse	92	22	20 24
Sirloin	34	18	6 12
Rump	28	10	2 80
Round	124	8.5	10 54
Total	346		$50 58

Now, taking what we may consider as the secondary class of meat cuts, and classifying as above, we have the following :

Name of section.	Weight of cut.	Price per lb., cts.	Total value.
Neck	24	4	$0 96
Plate	112	4.5	4 04
Flank	22	5	1 10
Chuck	130	7.5	9 75
Shin	50	4	2 90
Shank	24	3	72
Total	362		$18 57

We do not know what more could be said than is indicated in the above table that would proclaim the necessity of the pure-bred or high-grade animal in beef production. He is necessary, since by his blood comes the only way by which these results can be accomplished. The pure-bred has been carefully improved along the lines of these valuable sections for generations, and his cutting-up proves to what ends he has been developed.

We believe that to Professor F. B. Mumford, of the University of Missouri, belongs the credit of devising this method of demonstrating the great utility of the beef steer. The first table indicates that the value of 346 lb. of meat cut from the valuable sections is worth $50.58, and, on the other hand, 362 lb. from inferior sections have only a fractional value of the former, being but $18.57.

There is one important point here that the farmer must take into consideration, and this is that it takes just as much corn or any other feed to produce the 362 lb. of $18.57 meat as it does to produce the 346 lb. of $50.58 meat. The more of the latter that a steer yields and the less of the former the greater will be the profit to the feeder. We are well aware of the fact, however, that this is a matter that must be limited to certain bounds, but the proportion of valuable cuts can be increased to the full limit by the breeding of the right sort of animals.

We will put this matter in a different manner still by the aid of a table just issued by the University of Missouri in a valuable pamphlet on "Factors in Profitable Beef Production," by Professor F. B. Mumford. This table is as follows :

Name of breed.	Weight of all cuts.	Weight of porterhouse and sirloin.	Per cent. porterhouse and sirloin to all cuts.
Shorthorn	1,046	127	12.1
Hereford	1,007	109	10.7
Angus	980	109	11.11
Scrub steer	824	82	9.1

The above table is valuable in that it shows something of the comparative difference between the porterhouse and sirloin steaks cut from the pure-bred and the scrub. We take these as they are given out from the Missouri station, based on experiments there. The relative positions of the pure-bred or high-grade animals might very possibly be reversed under another test, but the scrub's position would always be just where he is now.

The pure-bred animals have a somewhat greater weight than the scrub, but this is due largely to the fact that he has placed his feed to a better advantage all through his growing period. As it is, the Shorthorn has an advantage of 45 lb. of porterhouse and sirloin over the scrub, which means an added value at a good fair price of 21c. per lb., or $9.45. The Hereford and Angus have an advantage of 27 lb. of the same cuts, which at the same price shows an advantage of $5.67 over the inferior bred steer. It must be taken into consideration that these prices are for two cuts only, and that there must exist a similar proportion between the other cuts throughout the steer, though the difference must necessarily be of less money value, since the cuts are worth less.

NEW PACKING PLANT IN WORKING ORDER.

THE immense new abattoir and packing house recently erected by The Laing Packing and Provision Co., on Mill street, Point St. Charles, Montreal, is now in full working order. The construction of the plant has occupied quite a length of time, but considering its size and the completness of every detail in connection with it, this is not surprising. It is claimed that the new plant is not only the finest and most up-to-date in Canada, but that it surpasses those of the United States in many points of equipment and arrangements for shipping operations. Years of experience in the business were necessary to bring this about, and experience was supplemented by close observations of the systems and methods most approved of in the United States.

As before mentioned, the shipping facilities are perfect. A track passes through the grounds, and cars can be run right up to the cattle barn and shipping-rooms. On the north side are the stock yards. Here also there is an entrance for any cattle purchased in the open market.

From the cattle barn is a run to the main entrance of the plant. This is built of brick, as are all the runs leading to the main building, with cleats at short intervals, and pitch has been used between the spaces. Brick also composes the floors in the building, and pitch is used here too, the result being that it is easy to keep the place clean. They are flushed every day, and the whole building is kept in a perfectly clean and hygienic condition.

In the huge barn, the cattle are kept on the ground floor, smaller animals being sent up to the first floor. There is a good deal of vacant land not yet utilized by the plant, and here pens are to be built, where a great many more animals can be kept in the summer months. The capacity of the whole plant is placed between 100 and 200 cattle, and 2,000 to 3,000 hogs or other small animals, per day. The stalls and pens are kept as clean as possible, and the animals are always surrounded with the best conditions.

From the barn the hogs are driven into a receiving-room, finished in black pitch so that it may be easily and frequently cleaned. Here there are two pens, in each of which about a dozen hogs can be accommodated. Between the pens one comes upon the first of the machinery which is to convert the unsuspicious animals into pork. This is a large wheel, with short chains at intervals attached to its rim, and as it slowly turns around, a chain is unhooked, then hooked around the hind legs of one of the animals and finally hooked on to the wheel again. The hog is drawn up to the top, where a rod catches the chain, and the animal drops to a graded platform along which the "stickers" are placed. They make short work of the hog. The blood runs to the vats below, to be stored for future use. This platform is also heavily coated with pitch, and has water-tight plugs, so that after the day's work it comes in for the same flushing and cleansing as the other portions of the plant.

The dead animal is dropped into a vat of scalding water and automatically lifted to a bench, where it is scraped by a machine. The knives on this machine are on springs, and can cover the whole body. During the process, water is sprinkled on the hog and it is thoroughly scoured. It then passes to a table, where any scraping not done well by the machine is completed by hand.

A hook raises the hog to the trolleys running along the ceiling. If it is to be exported, it is sent off to the right of the room and singed by means of gas jets, until it has acquired the brown tint which is necessary for the foreign markets. This process is not required if the hog is for the local market. It is then sent off to the right and slit, the fat thrown into cold water, the casings through an opening in the floor, while the offal which can be used for fertilizing purposes is sent off for special treatment.

After another bath, the hog is sent to the weigh-scales. Thence it goes to the chilling-room, where it is hung up for a couple of hours to allow any gases to escape. After this comes the cooling-room, and the body is then in shape to be cut up and sent to the curing-rooms.

All the buildings connected with the plant are separated. Close to the packing-house is a steam and power plant, while refrigerating machines are numerous, in separate buildings for fire protection.

Near to the main building is the lard-rendering-room, in a separate building. This process takes place in immense tanks, below which are the lard-running-rooms, meat-pickling and curing-rooms.

In the matter of handling of the cattle there is little difference from the process used with the hogs, except in the killing.

All the rooms connected with the packing can be flooded with several inches of water if necessary, the floors being entirely waterproof. Electric lighting is used throughout.

MEATS AND GROCERIES.

By W. T. Robson.

Meats and groceries are a combination that is growing remarkably fast in Canada at the present time. In the larger towns, and even the country general stores, especially the larger general stores are adding meat departments to their business.

There is no line of trade that demands more attention to details, such as the careful watching of the weighing; the prevention of waste; absolute cleanliness of scales, knives, saws, block and slabs, and, most important, the personal cleanliness of the salesman. The arranging of the stock in order to make the most favorable impression on the buyer is of great importance. Any man who throws down in a careless manner a piece of meat, which he should always remember the customer intends to eat, will injure the trade of that business. This is something which butchers are so often given to forget. Nothing is more detrimental to a store doing a critical business in meats than dirty hands, bloody or soiled aprons, greasy cloths, unkempt appearances, and general untidiness on the part of salesmen. There is nothing more important than the observance of the fact that the goods they are selling are those which the customers expect to eat, therefore they must be handled and have the environment which suggests care and cleanliness. The dealer who forgets these important features of the business will find his better class of trade going to the stores whose employes are particular to please their customer's eye as well as his palate. Then, up-to-date appliances, such as the best scales, refrigerators, fans, and all that goes to make the goods and environment more attractive to the buyer, will prove a profitable investment.

Groceries and meats are a good combination, providing the arrangement of each is such that they in no way conflict. The meat department must not be cramped for room, must be clean, and at this, the warm season, the stock must be kept in a cool temperature under glass as much as possible. People must buy general groceries frequently, and, if they can secure at the same store their meats, there will be a saving of time and convenience, which must, if properly managed, result profitably to the merchant. The summer trade for cooked meats, pressed corned beef, boneless ham and other prepared and ready-to-use meats have increased wonderfully the last two seasons.

To the housekeeper these goods make it possible to have an attractive dinner without the use of heat in the house, and this great saving will always commend them, and insure their large sale. Grocers have a right to annex this trade, for cooked meats are easily handled and the danger of waste is small in comparison to the selling of fresh meats. In fresh meats the difficulty when the location is away from the centres is in getting a regular and satisfactory supply, for slaughtering is the most unpleasent part of the business. Arrangements for the purchasing of fresh meats have also grown enormously and refrigerator cars are constantly shipped from all parts of the country.

PRESERVALINE.

Wm. Nivin & Son, exporters of butter and cheese, Montreal, have been appointed agents for the Preservaline Mfg Co., New York, manufacturers of export butter Preservaline, an article now being largely used by exporters of butter. The manufacturers claim that this article keeps the butter perfect until consumed, prevents it from losing flavor or deteriorating in any manner, thus insuring better and quicker returns and readier sales. Another important factor about this article is that it is a good preventative against mold. Nivin & Son will be pleased to send interested parties descriptive matter concerning Preservaline, and doubtless it would be well worth the while of butter men to avail themselves of this offer.

A NEW CONCERN.

The Chas. A. Bull Produce Co., 115 King street, Montreal, with a subscribed capital of $50,000, have recently commenced an export and produce business. Butter, cheese and produce are the principal lines they intend to deal with. They are already doing a very extensive business and prospects for the future promise extremely well. This firm is open to receive correspondence from British buyers.

THE PROVISION MARKETS.

TORONTO.

Dressed hogs have declined 75c. per 100 lb. and the market continues weak. The liberal receipts last week and the weaker condition of the market for live hogs have effected this result. Live hogs have declined 25c., and the receipts have not been so liberal in consequence. The market for live cattle continues strong with a good demand for export. We quote: Dressed hogs, $8.75 to $9; beef carcasses, $7.50 to $8.50 per 100 lb.; hind quarters, $8.50 to $9.50 per 100 lb.; front quarters, $7 to $7.50 per 100 lb.; veal, 7 to 8c. per lb.; lambs, 10 to 10½c.; live hogs, selects, $7.25, lights, $6.50 to $7 per 100 lb.; choice export cattle bring $6 to $6.75 per 100 lb.; lights sell at $5 to $5.75.

The demand for provisions is improving and the prices are firm. There is a tendency to advance in nearly all lines of cured and smoked meats. We quote: Long clear bacon, 11c.; smoked breakfast bacon, 14 to 15c.; rolls, 11½c.; medium hams, 13½ to 14c.; large hams, 12½ to 13c.; shoulder hams, 10½ to 11c., and backs, 14 to 14½c.; Canadian heavy mess pork, $21.50; short cut, $22.50 to $23; lard, in tierces, 11 to 11¼c. per lb.; tubs, 11¼ to 11½c., and pails, 11½ to 11¾c.

MONTREAL.

The tone of the market for pork, both Canadian and American, has been a good deal easier during the past week, and a decline of 50c. all around took place. The demand for all lines of provisions continues fairly active, and the market is at present in a somewhat better condition.

The Laing Packing and Provision Co.'s "Anchor" brand of compound lard is reported by jobbers to have been cleared up again on the local markets, and the manufacturers have been unable to supply the trade. No date has been given as to when they will be able to do so.

The market for fresh-killed, abattoir-dressed hogs has continued quite firm at the advance of a few days ago, which was 25c. per 100 lb. The demand is fairly good. The price now is $9.75 to $10.25 per 100 lb.

We quote as follows: Heavy Canadian short cut mess pork, $23.75 to $24; Chicago clear pork, $27 for heavy and $26 for medium; selected heavy short cut mess pork, boneless, $22 to $22.50; hams, 13c.; bacon, 15c.; lard, pure Canadian, $2.32½ to $2.35 per pail; refined lard compound (Fairbank's), $2.10 for 1 to 24 pails, $2.08 for 25 to 49 pails, and $2.07 for 50 pails and over; Snow White and Globe compound, $1.85 per pail; Cottolene, 11¼c. for 20-lb. pails, and 11c. for 60-lb. tubs, for Quebec and Ontario.

ST. JOHN, N.B.

The very high price of pork and beef in barrels, particularly as this is the quiet season, very much affect sales. There is a fair sale of smoked meats, chiefly Ontario cured. Prices are high. In lard, full figures are asked and there is a fair sale. In fresh meats, mutton is rather lower. Lamb is unchanged, and quite good stock is now coming in. Pork is scarce and rather firmer. Veal is firm. Beef is held at the very high price. Sales are cut down one-third. We quote: American mess pork, $23 to $23.50; domestic mess pork, $21.50; plate beef, Canadian, $14 to $14.50; clear pork, American, $25.50; plate beef, American, $17 to $18.50; veal, 4 to 7c.; lamb, 4 to 5c.; mutton, 10 to 12c.; fresh beef, 8 to 10½c.; round hogs, 7½ to 8c.; pure lard, tubs, 12c.; pure lard, pails, 12¼c.; compound lard, tubs, 9½c.; compound lard, pails, 9¼c.; refined lard compound, Fairbank's, tubs, 10½c.; pails, 10¾c.; hams, 14 to 14½c.; rolls, 12 to 13c.

The Wm. Davies Co. is shipping fresh beef into this market.

Geo. E. Barbour has a large shipment Fairbank's standard "Boar's Head" lard just received.

Local curers of pork are practically out of business owing to scarcity of hogs.

WINNIPEG.

Dressed Meats—The demand is very good and supply of choice beeves is limited, 9c. has been paid for the best grades all week, and 8 to 8¾c. for all under the top of the market.

Veal—Supply is moderate and the quality better than for the past few weeks. Price, 8¾ to 9½c.

Lambs—The number of spring lambs received on this market for the week has been very small, and the price is $3.50 to $4.50.

HALIFAX.

Beef is scarce. The quotation of jobbers and wholesalers, which was advanced a dollar only a short time ago, is merely nominal. Money can hardly buy a carload of beef cattle in any part of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, or Prince Edward Island. Beefsteak is retailing at 15 to 16c. per lb., and some dealers say it should not be sold under 18c. The high price of feeds caused many of the farmers to kill off their cattle last autumn and early winter. It is said there is a good stock of young cattle in the country, not yet ready for the market, and that a little later prices will be easier. Veal is plentiful; lamb is coming in more abundantly; mutton is scarce and the price has advanced $1 per hundredweight. Fowls and chickens are fairly plentiful, but turkeys are scarce and are now quoted one cent per lb. advanced.

"The Road" and How to Make it a Success.

By . . .
H. A. Leak,
of Montreal.

THERE is at least one occupation not overdone, offering openings and opportunities; one line that expands with every new invention, every increase of population, offering many chances to young men possessing common, practical sense, honesty and energy, seeking employment. It is labor thoroughly organized, which never had a strike, and never as a body and rarely as individuals complains against employers; indeed, so allied are the interests of employer and employe that they work as one. I refer to the commercial travelers.

"The road" pays better average salaries than do most of the professions or trades. Over 300,000 men now earn salaries ranging from $800 to $10,000 a year as commercial travelers, and there is room for thousands more.

"The road" is a position of trust; travelmen represent millions of capital, and wield a significant, though apparently silent, moral, commercial and political influence.

It is a work that wins on merit alone, prohibiting favoritism; a firm may favor a relative or a friend for a soft berth in the office, but the man put on the road is employed, paid and advanced solely on the basis of ability. Among the patrons of the institution he represents, "the drummer" is "the house." He arbitrates differences, adjusts affairs of immediate concern that require quick decision, handles money and makes contracts. As a final course in a young man's education, "the road" gives a good finishing touch. It teaches him human nature, opens the way to higher positions, elevates and broadens. Many of the heads of the most successful mercantile and manufacturing concerns came from "the road." Books teach and imagination often leads conception astray, leaving learning frail as his theory until corrected and strengthened by fact and realism. Commercial travel is practical, and its routes include nearly all the territory of fact. In the Pullman, the waiting-room and the hotel discussions are open, introductions are rare, and mistaken assertions are quickly combated. "The road" is a school.

PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS.

How many take the interest in their work that they do in a game of chess or billiards? Those who do, succeed. When an occupation becomes labor, it is quite certain to be a failure. There is no more work about sawing wood than playing baseball; no more work about keeping books than in playing whist; it is just as easy to get interested in sawing wood or keeping books as in playing baseball or whist. There is an opposing force in all work as in all games, the antagonistic power that makes the game worth playing or the work worth doing. In the game of both work and play there are chances to win. Everyone does not enjoy the game of baseball; everyone does not enjoy the game of sawing wood; but nearly all can become interested in some game or work.

The field for work on the road is broad. The first subdivisions are mechanical, scientific, professional and literary, which are again subdivided and resubdivided minutely, offering many games of work to select from. There is room in any of the above-named branches of travel for those who will make their business a study.

At this day the great commerce of the United States is largely transacted through travelling representatives. Everything grown or produced requires salesmen at once or finally when it is hewn, woven, carved, cut, dried, boxed, canned, tanned, planed, molded or turned to make it marketable through the medium of the man on the road. Salesmen are wanted every day, everywhere. Hundreds of firms send out men unfamiliar with the business they represent because they cannot get trained talent. Remuneration is good, and there is no investment of capital. Expenses are paid and salaries can be profitably invested, thus increasing earnings. On trains there is ample time to take up some study that will afford profit and pleasure. A young man who, in the past three years, has acquired a fair knowledge of Spanish by studying between stations on trains, informs me that his employers will send him to Mexico, where they desire to extend their trade, and will handsomely advance his salary.

UNNECESSARY TALKING AND LYING.

The first merchant I ever called on was a druggist in a small Illinois village. I did a great deal of unnecessary talking and some unnecessary lying. I told of where I had travelled and of large orders I had taken, endeavoring to mask, if possible, the fact that I was then taking my first order. The druggist asked, now and then, some question that called out another lie as a protection to what I had said; I argued with myself that my deceptions were not harmful because they did not misrepresent the goods I offered, but, as I thought, covered my newness. After an hour, Mr. Merchant interrupted me by saying: "Young man, I am going to give you an order. I want to help you because this is your first trip. When you go to the next man tell him frankly that you have just started out, because, if he should not know the honor of your house as well as I, he might judge them by what you tell of your travels." His polite manner of telling me that I would better tell the truth at first nettled me; but, after collecting my thoughts, I admitted to him that I was not only making my "maiden trip," but that he was the first merchant I ever called on, and his was the first order I ever sold.

Since then I have had twelve years' experience as a drummer and know that even in insignificant utterances it pays to be honest.

TRUTH IS MONEY AT INTEREST.

There are times when money seems to be lost by telling the truth, but I believe it is only out drawing interest. Honesty is the most essential quality to build up a trade on the road. Imagine a merchant wanting to become the patron of a representative that misrepresents.

I had been a traveller more than two years before I knew that I was wasting much energy by superfluous talk. A Galveston, Texas, man one day gave me audience; I told him of the merit of my goods, the standing of my house. I talked and talked and talked, often repeating the points I had made. He listened calmly and not without apparent interest. Finally I could think of nothing else to say, but hesitated to cease my argument, for I seemed to be gradually bringing my man to the buying point; but there seemed to be an end to even such a plentiful article as talk, and I said: "Well, that's all; I don't know anything else to say."

"I have been waiting for thirty minutes," he replied, "to tell you that I can use some of your goods." He said this with a touch of sarcasm that taught me another lesson. It is not the salesman who does the most

"CANADIAN CLUB" WHISKY

—DISTILLED AND BOTTLED IN BOND BY—

HIRAM WALKER & SONS, LIMITED

WALKERVILLE, ONTARIO, CANADA.

LONDON. NEW YORK. CHICAGO. MEXICO CITY. VICTORIA, B.C.

The age and genuineness of every bottle is guaranteed by the stamp of the Canadian Excise Department over the capsule.

An absolutely pure and thoroughly matured spirit, of most delicate flavor and bouquet.

"CANADIAN CLUB" is highly popular with the medical profession, because of its uniformly high character, and its acceptability to persons of weak stomach.

The great merit of this whisky is attested by the fact that in the comparatively short space of twelve years it has forced its way into every part of the civilized world, and is now admitted to be more generally distributed than any other single brand of liquor.

on who studies all the good points in his line, knows them by heart, and says what he has to say briefly, and with an emphasis that is convincing. If it is only a simple "Yes, sir," or "No, sir," say it in capital letters.

APPEARANCE IS OF GREAT CONSEQUENCE.

Almost any man can be a gentleman, and a gentleman can sell goods. A dealer or buyer may be uncouth, but he respects a gentleman, and will give one both attention and patronage, in preference to the vulgar. Vulgarity is the lowest form of familiarity that a salesman can indulge in with his trade. The salesman who appeals to buyers by telling smutty stories under the delusion that he is on close terms with them, will find that some gentlemanly competitor who commands the respect of his customer, will slip in and get the order while he goes on with his questionable yarns, and will some day awake to find that he is telling the stories and the other fellow is doing the business

One of the most imprudent errors a salesman can make is to ask his customers to have a drink. A buyer knows that salesmen do not ask the hotel clerk, the barber or the banker they patronize to have a drink, and he can only judge that your treating in his particular case is to obligate him. A good buyer cannot be bought by a drink or a cigar, and it is often an insult to him. Tips should be confined to waiters and porters and paid in cash, not drinks; likewise a commercial traveller should decline drinks if not the more modest cigars, from his customers. Social favors are the beginning of familiarities that soon impress the merchant with the idea that he knows as much as the traveller about his wares; and, for the same reason that he would not engage a lawyer or a doctor that knew no more than himself, he will deal with commercial men who keep close to the business shore and who know the value of reserve.

Neatness in personal appearance must not be overlooked by the commercial man who would succeed. Clothes that [illegible] well, cuffs and collars that are clean, shoes well polished and hair well trimmed emphasize all the other necessary qualities that contribute to success. An honest man looks more honest, and a well put sentence seems better put when accompanied by proper clothes.

THE TRAVELLER SHOULD READ.

A travelling man should obtain works pertaining to the line he represents and post himself better than his trade. If possible, go through the fields where the raw goods are grown; the factories where made, and interview the laborer who helps to produce his stock, mastering the small matters and posting himself on the differences and details.

Many a sale has been lost because the salesman could not give the best freight rate or route for his goods at a moment's notice.

Salesmen are in demand. It is not difficult to sell goods. To begin, choose your line, put a value on your services, then go to some good company and sell them your ability. If you offer your services well, you will not go far before someone will conclude that you can offer your goods well also.

I watched my employer recently say "No," to a young man, an applicant for a position on the road. "No," said he, "we have applicants every day." The young man, calmly surveying a United States map on the wall, pointed to it and said: "Is there no place in all that territory where you want to extend your business or increase it?" "Oh, yes," replied my employer, "we always want to increase business." "That is why I called; I came to increase your business," the young man said, with a gentlemanly audacity by which he made his first sale. He sold his ability. Later, my employer remarked to me: "We have room for a dozen young fellows like that."

STRIKE OF CARTERS.

About 300 carters struck in Montreal for an increase of wages on Monday, and the wholesale houses have, as a result, been put to a good deal of inconvenience. As the large transportation companies do nearly all the carrying of goods to the trains and wharves, as well as much business in transferring goods from wholesale to retail hands, the business of the week has suffered. At this particular season, when so much perishable goods is being received and sent out, a strike of this kind is all the more annoying. Meanwhile the smaller carters are doing a rushing business, and charge the merchants 12½c. per load more than the former rate.

BUSINESS MEN OF PROMINENCE.

MR WM. DOBIE.

MR. WM. DOBIE, general manager and treasurer of E. W. Gillett Co., Limited, was born on the banks of the St. Lawrence, near Cornwall, about 45 years ago. After having been engaged, as a young man, in two or three commercial enterprises, he moved to Chicago in 1879 and became connected with Gillett's Chemical Works, and, between that time and 1886, filled responsible positions with that concern, at one time being manager of their branch in St. Louis, Mo.

In the spring of 1886, Mr. Dobie came to Toronto to establish a branch of the Chicago house, and he has had entire charge of the Canadian concern ever since. As our readers are aware, he recently formed a $300,000 company which took over the Canadian business of E. W. Gillett on May 1. From very small beginnings the business has grown to be one of the first manufacturing concerns in Canada to-day, and the limit, to all appearances, has not been reached, by any means. To Mr. Dobie's steadfast adherence to legitimate business principles and progressive ideas is largely due the success which has been attained by Gillett's business in Canada. Printers' ink, as an aid to business, has a strong champion in Mr. Dobie.

AGAINST SUNDAY BY-LAW.

The proposed by-law to prohibit the keeping open of stores on Sunday, which is to be brought up before the Montreal City Council shortly, will not be allowed to pass without strong opposition. A meeting of the smaller merchants, proprietors of candy and fruit stores, cigar stores, etc., was held on Monday night to discuss this question. It appointed a committee to call a larger meeting of all those interested in the subject. The committee were: E. L. Ethier, president; E. N. Cusson, secretary; A. Latreuil, Jas. Robillard, F. Lavoie, Ed. Beauchamp.

Ald. L. A. Lapointe and Ald. C. Robillard, who were present, explained that the by-law in force now prohibits the sale of everything on Sunday, with no exception whatever. The proposed amendments were to the effect that fruit, candy, cigar stores, etc., should not be included in this, and it was the privilege of those present to say at what size of store the line should be drawn, as determined by the value of stock, rental, etc.

The small dealers are very likely to have their way in the matter, as the council is inclined to view the question from a broad standpoint, and had even discussed the wisdom of allowing other stores, such as toy stores, the same latitude.

THE TEA TRADE—ITS CONDITION AND PROSPECTS.

An Interview With Mr. McEwan, of London, England.

MR. JOHN McEWAN, of McMeekin & Co., the well-known tea exporters of London, Eng., has been on this continent about a month, visiting the different trade centres in the United States and Canada. He was in Toronto last week, where he spent a few days. Just before his departure I had the pleasure of a short conversation with him in the office of the Toronto representatives of his firm, Messrs. Geo. Musson & Co. Our conversation naturally turned upon the tea trade, in regard to which Mr. McEwan is a well-known authority. In reply to a question, he said the profits in the tea trade were, as a rule, poor, and that if the same amount of intelligence and skill were put into almost any other commercial enterprise better results would be obtained. Few teamen were, as a rule, making money. "Lipton," said he, "made his money out of other lines and before he came into the tea trade. He began to make money retailing bacon and produce, which came to him first hands. The men in my memory in England who have made money out of selling goods have been those who had some novel idea to present to the public.

"We have had," said Mr. McEwan, referring to the tea trade, "a very bad time on account of overproduction."

"But is not the situation improving to some extent?"

"I don't think so, for the average price of all Indian and Ceylon tea sold by public auction in London during April last was 6¾d., the lowest on record. I am pointing this out to show that we have not yet passed the worst. During 1900 a large percentage of the tea estates paid no dividends whatever. My feeling last year was that 1901 would prove for the producers worse than 1900, and I have not the slightest doubt but that, with few exceptions, it was the worst. The situation in England has been very much complicated by the indirect results of the war. The direct results affecting the tea trade were the increase in duty on tea in 1900 to the extent of 50 per cent. That was, you remember, an advance of from 8 to 12c. per lb. in the rate. In addition to the increased duty, there was also the extra demand for capital for carrying on business, affecting every dealer in tea. We have to pay 50 per cent. more duty for the benefit of our customers, and then we have to give our customers longer terms of credit. This is a warning to the people of Canada who are in favor of putting a duty on tea.

"In addition to the direct effect of this increased duty and extra capital requirements, the retailers who distribute tea almost invariably handle sugar as well, and in many cases tobaccos, wines and spirits. For several years back there has been a tendency to enhance the duties on this class of goods. In certain cases the duties have been opposed. Prior to the advent of the previous budget, a very extensive speculation in sugar had taken place throughout the country, to a large extent based on the fact that the wholesale price of sugar had for about a year previously fallen almost as much in amount as the duty imposed on the article in the budget of 1901. Then the duty was anticipated by large importations of sugar to provide for practically a year's requirements. Sugars there, as here, being practically bought on a cash basis, the lock-up of capital in this direction seriously impaired the powers of distributors for buying tea, consequently the tea market has fallen back to the low level to which I have already referred. Should overproduction of tea continue, there is not much prospect of prices advancing materially from the basis upon which they now stand. Should, however, the production be checked by artificial restrictions, such as have been repeatedly proposed, or by natural causes, such as happened in 1901, the position would pretty clearly point to advancing prices. The consumption of tea is still increasing in the United Kingdom, not only in the aggregate but per capita, while in other large markets of consumption, such as Russia, Australia, Canada and the United States, more tea is being taken all the time."

A NEW MILLING FIRM.

The large oatmeal mills at Thornbury, Grey Co., formerly owned and operated by W. N. Andrews & Co., have recently been purchased by H. C. Parkinson. These mills, which are new, are fitted out with the best British and Canadian machinery. Mr. Parkinson has formed a new company known as The Parkinson Cereal Co. The new company expect to start operations this week.

THE BIGGEST FLOUR MILL.

The biggest flour mill in the Empire is at Rat Portage, Ont. It is the property of The Lake of the Woods Milling Co., and has a capacity of 4,000 bbls. per day, using in the production thereof over 18,000 bushels of wheat.

The company has also another mill at Portage la Prairie. This one is capable of turning out 1,000 bbls. of flour per day, and is at present working on some large orders for Australian delivery. The products of this mill are mostly for the Western markets.

This company has 56 elevators, ranging in size from 25,000 to 50,000 bushels capacity, scattered along various railway sidings in the great wheat belt of Canada, to the 250,000-bushel elevator at Portage la Prairie and the 450,000-bushel one at Keewatin. The company is increasing its grain-storage plant by building this summer 17 new elevators in Manitoba and the Territories of the West.

HINTS TO BUYERS.

Contributors are requested to send news only not puffs of goods they handle, or the arrival of standard goods that everyone has in stock, or that they are offering goods at close figures, or that they have had an unusually large sale this season.

E. D. Marceau has just received two lines of Ceylon teas, 32 and 24 chests, which will be found of extra good value, according to the prices ruling at present. Three fine lines of Ceylon greens are also offered.

A. P. Tippet & Co. report a good demand for "Maypole" soap and "Maypole" hat polish.

A large shipment of Stower's lime juice and other preparations arrived recently for Lucas, Steele & Bristol.

Several heavy deliveries of Macquahart's sauce are passing into the hands of the trade ex-steamer Loango.

L. Chaput, Fils & Cie have just received part of a carload of Campbell's soups, ketchups and salad dressings.

Henri Jonas & Co. report a heavy shipment of Spanish Queen olives and manganillas, the first arrivals of the season.

H. P. Eckardt & Co. are offering new pack canned lobsters for prompt shipment. Buyers of evaporated apricots and peaches should communicate with H. P. Eckardt & Co.

DEATH OF WILLIAM LUMBERS.

THE death occurred last Friday afternoon, May 23, of William Lumbers, eldest son of James Lumbers, wholesale grocer, Toronto, at his residence, 9 Selby street. Although he had been ailing for two years, his death was quite unexpected, as it was only about three weeks ago he became dangerously ill.

Mr. Lumbers was about thirty-three years of age. Born in Toronto, he was educated at McGill's private school on Simcoe street, and had been connected with his father's wholesale grocery business for about fifteen years. He was city traveller for the firm for three or four years and was well known to the trade in Toronto. For the last seven years he was head buyer and general manager of the firm.

He was a member of the Masonic order and leaves a widow. His father is at present on a European tour, which he will cut short owing to the death of his son, the eldest of six.

His funeral took place on Monday afternoon to St. James' Cemetery and was largely attended by members of the wholesale grocery trade.

This is a Special Number of "The Canadian Grocer," and the special article that we have to offer you is

"SALADA"

Ceylon Green Tea

We have been offering you "SALADA" Ceylon Black Tea for the last ten years, and you know with what success we have met. Now we predict that "SALADA" Ceylon Green Tea will have as large a sale in two years as "SALADA" Ceylon Black Tea has now. Why? Because Japan Tea Drinkers have been waiting for something equally as good to drink as we have been presenting to Black Tea drinkers for many years, and they are trying the Ceylon Green Tea, and trying it fast; and once they taste it they never go back to Japan Tea again. If you have any Japan Tea trade let us send you a single case of "SALADA" Green Tea as a trial order, and if it does not give you better satisfaction than any Japan Tea you have ever handled we will take it back from you, paying all expenses. What can be fairer than this? We have it to retail to the public for 25c. and 40c. per pound; full weight guaranteed to be inside the lead of each packet.

The advantage of handling "SALADA" Ceylon Green Tea is that there is no necessity for you to carry the old-fashioned big stock; there is no loss in weight, and no deterioration in quality; and you have a guarantee that we will take it back at any time if it does not give you, as we said, better satisfaction than Japan Tea. In return for a list of names of Japan Tea drinkers we will sample them with lead packet samples.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

Toronto, May 29, 1902.

GROCERIES.

THE wholesale grocery trade has not materially changed during the past week. The volume of business is, on the whole, fair. If anything, business is rather better in canned goods, except, perhaps, in the one line of fruits, which is quieter. Sugar remains in much about the same position as far as refined is concerned, but the outside markets are slightly lower than a week ago. Syrups and molasses are quiet. Trade in spices is steady. In rice and tapioca business is fairly good. In the tea trade the feature is a firmness of the Japan descriptions. In Indian and Ceylon teas the market is also firmer. Currants and Valencia raisins are in fair demand. In prunes and Californian evaporated apricots and peaches business has fallen off somewhat.

CANNED GOODS.

The situation as far as canned vegetables is concerned continues to improve, the demand being rather better all round for tomatoes, corn and peas. Prices remain in much the same position as they were a week ago, tomatoes being quoted at 92½c. up; corn at 65c., and peas at 80c. Canned fruits are rather quieter than they were a week ago. Further advices from the Coast confirm what was said last week in regard to the combination having been consummated. As a result, there is a somewhat firmer feeling, and although spot goods are unchanged, prices are higher on the Coast than they were a month ago, by 50c. for Fraser River sockeye, 25c. for Northern sockeye, and 20c. per case for pink salmon. Mail advices to hand this week say that most of the principal concerns, except The A. B. C. Co., have joined the combination, while the former will, it is understood, work harmoniously with the latter. All the Naas River canneries are understood to have joined the combination. The demand for canned salmon on the local market is good with prices unchanged. Our quotations follow: Fraser River sockeye, $1.42½ for five-case lots and over, and $1.45 for less quantities. Northern sockeye, $1.25 to $1.30; cohoes, $1.05 to $1.15, according to quality. A small shipment of canned haddies has arrived on the local market, and is quoted firm at $1 to $1.10. The demand for canned meats is keeping up well, and prices are firm.

COFFEES.

The outside markets continue unsettled on Brazilian coffee. On Tuesday the Brazilian market was firmer, but later reacted. The receipts in Rio and Santos were smaller, which led to the firmer feeling at the opening of the market. Locally, green Rios are in fair demand at unchanged prices. Green mild coffees are quiet, with the market somewhat flat. Roasted coffees are in fairly good demand. Our quotations are as follows: Green Rio, No. 7, 7¾c.; No. 6, 8c.; No. 5, 8¼c.; No. 4, 9c.; No. 3, 10 to 12c. per lb.

CREAM OF TARTAR.

Prices, which have been abnormally low for some time, are now showing an upward tendency.

SPICES.

There is just a fair trade doing, and local prices are steady and unchanged. Buyers in the outside markets are reported to be somewhat indifferent at the moment. On the whole, the spice market appears to be steady.

See pages 113 and 114 for Toronto, Montreal, St. John and Halifax prices current.

SUGAR.

The local market continues quiet with prices unchanged, and there is no special indication for the immediate future. In fact, it is difficult to find anyone who cares to prognosticate at all in view of the disappointment of the past and the prevailing uncertainty in regard to the future. The beet-sugar market has declined 3d. per cwt. for the week, and is now quoted at 6s. 1½d. This quotation is equal to $3.53 duty paid New York for 96 test centrifugals, which are now selling there at $3.44, or 1-16c. lower than a week ago. Muscavados remain unchanged at 2 7-16c., and molasses sugar at 2 11-16c. Considerable quantities of centrifugals have been purchased by refiners at current quotations, but at the moment offerings are very light and the market is not influenced either way. Holders are firm in their views and base their hopes on the probable favorable result in the United States Senate of the Cuban Reciprocity Bill, which will likely give a reduction of 20 to 25 per cent. on Cuban sugars. Tired of waiting for the Reciprocity Bill to pass the Senate some of the holders of sugar in the Southern ports of Cuba have been making shipments. Thirty factories in Cuba have closed down during the past week, and the stock of sugar now on the Island is 143,000 tons. Receipts of raw sugar at the four United States ports last week were 25,033 tons, while the meltings were 30,000 tons. Stocks of raw sugar have thus been reduced to 122,271 tons. The meltings so far for the year have been 55,000 tons less than during the same period of 1901.

NUTS.

Shelled walnuts are firmer in the primary market, prices being fully 15 francs per 100 kilos higher.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

There are no syrups offering and none are apparently wanted, and business in this line, as well as in molasses, is quiet. New Orleans advices report a firm market for blackstrap. Prices generally are firm. Our quotations are as follows: Corn syrup, 3½ to 3¾c. in barrels and kegs; sugar syrups, 30 to 32c. for medium, and 35 to 40c. for bright. Molasses, 24 to 26c. for open-kettle.

RICE AND TAPIOCA.

Trade is good in rice and fair in tapioca. We quote as follows: B rice, 3¼c.; Japan, 5½ to 6c.; tapioca, 3½ to 3¾c., and sago, 3¾ to 4c. per lb.

TEAS.

The Japan market is still the centre of attraction. A cable received in Toronto early this week indicated that the first crop of Japan would probably prove to be 40 per cent. less than last year. Prices, in consequence, are firm and 3 to 1c. per lb. higher for the same grade of tea, which is, of course, fancy descriptions, than at this date a year ago. This has naturally had a strengthening effect on the Japan tea market, and it is held that a firm market may be looked for during the balance of the season. Medium grades of Japan teas, such as are required on this market, will not be on the Japan market before the latter part of June.

The local market is quiet in regard to black teas as well as Japans. According to latest mail advices from London, Eng., the price of Indian tea showed a tendency to harden at the previous auction, especially in the better class of teas, while common grades were steady. The auction of Ceylon tea also passed with a better tone. Common grades remained steady, while teas of really good quality were distinctly dearer.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS.—Both locally and abroad the currant market is firm. Trade, locally, is good, and there has been some business doing on importation account. Quotations are: Filiatras, 5¾ to 6c., and Patras, 6½ to 7c.

VALENCIA RAISINS.—Prices are firmly held both here and in London, Eng. Stocks are low and there has been some business done between wholesale houses. We quote selected at 7c. and layers at 7¼ to 7½c.

DATES.—There is very little doing. We quote dates in bulk at 4½c. and in packages at 6¼ to 6½c.

PRUNES.—The demand has fallen off but prices remain as before. Our quotations are as follows: Californian prunes, 100-110's, 5c.; 90-100's, 5½ to 6¼c.; 80-90's, 6½ to 7c.; 70-80's, 6¾ to 7¼c.; 60-70's, 7½ to 8c.; 50-60's, 8 to 8½c.; 40-50's, 8¾ to 10c.

CALIFORNIAN EVAPORATED FRUITS —The demand has also fallen off for evaporated apricots and peaches, and prices are unchanged at 11 to 14c. per lb. for peaches and 13 to 17c. for apricots. Prices have been received on new Santa Clara apricots, and the figures f.o.b. the Coast are 7c. in 50-lb. boxes, and 7½c. in 25-lb. boxes in carload lots.

GREEN FRUITS.

The demand for green fruits is good. Bananas are still advancing, and 25c. per bunch more is paid for those of good quality than last week. The demand for them has been heavy both in the United States and Canada, and the approach of the holiday season will keep the prices up. Pineapples have declined 50c. per crate. They are arriving in large quantities and in excellent condition. The receipts of strawberries are large, and the demand for them is good. There has been a decline of $1 per dozen in cucumbers, and they are now on the market in abundance. Oranges continue scarce and the market for them is strong. We quote as follows: Oranges, Mexicans, $3 to $3.25 per box; Paper Rind, St. Michaels, $2 per ½ box; Mediterranean sweets, $3.75 to $4.50; Valencias, $5.75 to $6.50 per small case, $6.50 to $7.50 per large case; Messina oranges, $3.50; grape fruit, $4 to $5.50 per box; bananas, $1.50 to $2.50 for firsts, and $1.25 to $1.60 for eight hands; pineapples, $3 to $3.50 per case; Southern cucumbers, 75c. to $1.50 per doz.; Egyptian onions, $3.50 per sack; Messina lemons, $2.50 to $3.50; Palermo lemons, $2.25 to $2.75; Sorrento lemons, $2.50 to $3.50 per crate; Southern tomatoes, $3 to $3.75 per case of 6 baskets; strawberries, common, 12 to 12½c., and fancy, 15 to 17c. per quart.

VEGETABLES.

The cold weather is making the market quiet. There is some new cabbage being offered at $1 per dozen. Spinach has declined 10c. per bushel. We quote: Green onions, 7 to 8c. per doz.; rhubarb, 20 to 40c. per doz.; carrots, 90c. to $1 per bag; turnips, 25 to 35c. per bag; lettuce, 20 to 30c. per doz.; radishes, 25 to 30c.; mint and parsley, 20 to 25c.; cabbage, 50c. to $1 per doz.; dry Egyptian onions, $1.75 per bush; potatoes, 90c. to $1 per bag; asparagus, 50 to 75c. per doz.; Californian cabbage, $3 per crate; new potatoes, $8 per bbl.; spinach, 40c. per bushel; parsnips and beets, 40 to 50c. per bag.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS.—The arrivals are large, but the competition among the buyers keeps the prices firm at 13½ to 14c. Large quantities are being pickled this spring and the demand for home consumption is heavy.

BEANS.—The market is quiet. Choice handpicked beans are worth $1.30 per bushel, and prime, $1.10 to $1.20.

HONEY.—The market is featureless. We quote: Clover, in 60-lb. tins, 9½ to 10c.; less quantities, 10 to 11c. per lb.; in combs, $2 to $3 per doz.; dark honey, 5 to 5½c. per lb.

MAPLE SYRUP AND SUGAR.—Business is slow. We quote: Maple syrup, in 10-lb. tins, 90c., and 90c. to $1.10 per Imperial gallon. Maple sugar is quoted at 9 to 10½c. per lb.

DRIED AND EVAPORATED APPLES. —The market is almost cleaned out of evaporated apples, for which there is some demand from the wholesale houses. Dried apples are quiet at 5 to 6c. per lb. and evaporated are worth 10½ to 11c. per pound.

HAY.—There is a good demand for baled hay at $9.50 to $10.50 per ton in carlots, according to quality.

POTATOES.—The receipts are liberal and the prices steady at 70 to 75c. per bag on the track.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER.—The receipts of butter continue large and the prices are unchanged. There is a good demand for choice butter in tubs and pound-prints. The market is easy. We quote: Butter, choice, 1-lb. prints, 15 to 16c.; large rolls, 14 to 16c.; tubs, best quality, 15c.; large rolls, medium grade, 12 to 13c., and tubs, medium grade, 12 to 13c. per lb. Creamery prints are quoted at 19 to 21c., and creamery solids at 19 to 20c. per lb.

CHEESE.—There has been a decline in the prices of new cheese, and the market is so unsettled that it is difficult to quote prices with any certainty. The factories are holding out for 10⅛ to 10⅜c., but it is improbable they will obtain those prices. Here, new cheese is quoted at 10½c. The make, so far this season, has been large, but the demand from the Old Country is keeping up well and this has a tendency to make the factories hold out for high prices. Some old cheese is being offered at 12c.

FISH.

Trade in fish continues heavy and the prices are unchanged. Herring and white fish are scarce. Some speckled trout are on the market at 25c. per lb, and eastern salmon are now commencing to move. Halibut, trout and perch are plentiful, but the supply of British-Columbian salmon is not large, the season for them being about over. We quote: Fresh fish —Lake Erie herring, 4 to 5c.; perch, 4 to 5c.; trout, 6½c.; pike, 4c.; British-Columbian salmon, 20c.; whitefish, 7½ to 8c.; catfish, 10c. per doz.; blue fish, 9c. per lb.; mackerel, 12 to 15c.; rock bass, 4c.; eastern salmon, 25 to 30c.; speckled trout, 25c.; halibut, 15c.

GRAIN, FLOUR AND BREAKFAST FOODS.

During the week there has been a large decrease in the visible wheat supply of the world, and the market is much stronger. The prices quoted are the same as last week, being 86c. for Manitoba hard, 82½c. for No. 1, and 80½c. for No. 2 Northern. The prices of oats are strong, and 46c. is asked for them at outside points. Ontario fall wheat is scarce at 79c. at outside stations. On the local market the receipts of grain have been light. We quote prices paid on the street: Red and white Ontario wheat, 75 to 84c.; oats, 48 to 48½c.; barley, 50c., and rye 62c. per bushel.

FLOUR.—Trade is active and large quantities of flour have changed hands within the last ten days. The prospect of wheat advancing is stimulating the buyers to purchase heavily. We quote: Ontario patents, in bags, $3.60 to $3.75; Hungarian patents, $4 to $4.15; Manitoba bakers', $3.70 to $3.85; straight roller, $3.30 to $3.40 per barrel in Toronto.

BREAKFAST FOODS.—The oatmeal and rolled oats market is strong, the former having advanced 20c. and the latter 10c. per barrel during the week. But in barrels only 10c. more will be charged instead of 20c. as formerly. There is a fair demand for all classes of these foods. We quote: Oatmeal, standard and granulated, in carlots on track here, $5.20; standard rolled oats in carlots on track here, $4.90 per bbl.; in wood, 10c. more; broken lots are 20c. per bbl. extra; rolled wheat, $2.40 in 100-lb. bbl.; cornmeal, $3.60; split peas, $4.75; pot barley, $4.25 in 196-lb. bbls.

Cream of tartar is showing an upward tendency.

Shelled walnuts have advanced in the primary market.

It is estimated that the first crop of Japan tea is about 40 per cent. short of last year's crop.

Oatmeal, in sacks, has advanced 20c., and in wood, 10c. per bbl., and rolled oats, in sacks, have gone up 10c.

Good quality bananas have advanced 25c. per bunch; pineapples have declined 50c. per case, and cucumbers, $1 per doz.

The price of canned salmon on the Coast is 50c. per case higher than a month ago on Fraser River sockeye, 25c. on Northern sockeye, and 20c. on pink salmon.

MANUFACTURE OF ICE IN THE STATES.

The final census report on the manufacture of ice in the United States was issued a few days ago. It shows that the total manufacture for the 787 establishments reported throughout the country during the census year 1900 was 4,294,439 tons valued at $13,303,874. Pennsylvania led the States in ice manufacture, with 735,018 tons manufactured. New York led the cities with 26 establishments and 410,837 tons of ice valued at $868,239.

EXPORTS OF BUTTER FROM SIBERIA.

United States Consul Samuel Smith, of Moscow, says that, according to the Minister of Ways and Means of Communication, freight traffic on the Trans-Siberian Railway has grown immensely during the past few years. In 1899, the increase over the preceding year was 95.96 per cent.; in 1900, 115.63 per cent., of which 62.13 per cent., or 38,435,904 lb., was butter. In 1901, the shipments of butter had grown to 72,000,000 lb., and, during the latter part of the summer, the railroad authorities were obliged to despatch four special trains, each of 25 refrigerator cars, for the transportation of this product. The export of Siberian butter is increasing astonishingly.

QUEBEC MARKETS.

Montreal, May 29, 1902.

GROCERIES.

THE past week has not been one of unusual activity in groceries, although the regular trade has been of fair dimensions. The carters' strike has inconvenienced the wholesale houses to some extent in the matter of transportation to points in the city. The new pack of "Thistle" haddies is now being distributed to the wholesale trade, and the quality is said to be excellent. Glucose has been reduced, and is now quoted at 3⅜ to 3⅝c., according to the size of the package. The new fried smelts that appeared on the market a short time ago have been entirely sold up. Canned meats have advanced. On the basis of the actual price of the manufacturer Clark's corned beef should be sold by jobbers at $1.65 per doz. for 1-lb. and $3 for 2-lb. tins. Ready lunch beef in the same quantities, are quoted the same. Tapioca, pearl and seed, have weakened somewhat. Evaporated apples have become very scarce.

SUGAR.

There has been no change in the price. The market continues quiet. The price of Montreal granulated sugar is $3.70, and of yellows, $3.05 to $3.70.

TEAS.

It is known that the crop of Japan tea is about 33,000 piculs short, and prices are fully 3c. higher at present. The only house on the local market having any tea on hand has been ordered from Japan to stop offering. The second crop, it is not thought, will be as cheap as last year, although lower in comparison this year with the first crop. Ceylon reports state that the market remains firm for all teas with quality. At the auction of the week of April 23, the demand for tippy broken pekoes from medium to finest grades was very good. Common-leaf teas, however, were easier. The quality of teas has been steadily deteriorating, although the average price, 36c., was well kept up.

SYRUPS.

The market for corn syrups is dull and featureless, and no quotable change was made. Corn syrups are quoted as follows: 3½c. in bbls.; 3⅝c. in ½ bbls.; 3¾c. in ¼ bbls.; $1.60 in 38½-lb. and $1.20 in 25-lb. pails.

MOLASSES.

The molasses situation is unchanged. The price varies as much as 3c. The quoted price remains at between 23 to 24c. for Barbados. Antigua is worth 24c. and Porto Rico, 38c.

CANNED GOODS.

The situation in French peas is serious. The peas are in bloom, and no change for the better has been reported. It is very likely that great harm will be done to the crops. Canners have not yet quoted prices. We quote: Peas, 82½c. to $1.15; corn (ordinary), 80c.; tomatoes, 95 to 97½c.; gallon apples, $2.85 to $2.90; 3-lb. apples, $1.10; salmon, $1.00 to $1.05; for pink; $1.30 for spring; $1.32 for Rivers Inlet red sockeye; $1.45 for Fraser River red sockeye, and $1.42½ to $1.45 for "Clover Leaf" talls.

SPICES.

There is a good demand in almost all lines of spices. The firm feeling continues, and our quotations are as follows: Nutmegs, 30 to 55c. per lb., as to size; penang mace, 45 to 50c. per lb.; as to quality; pimento, ground, 12½ to 15c.; cloves, 15 to 25c.; pepper, ground, black, 17 to 22c., according to grade; white, 25 to 27c.; ginger, whole, Cochin, 15 to 17c.; Japan, 13 to 14c.; Jamaica, 16 to 20c.; Afghan, 12 to 13c.; ground, Japan, 15c.; Cochin, 16 to 17c.; Jamaica, 20 to 22c., and Afghan, 13 to 14c.

RICE AND TAPIOCA.

The market is still active on rice. Pearl and seed tapioca have weakened somewhat, and are quoted at a slight reduction. We quote: B rice in bags, $3.02½; in ½ bags, $3.07½; in ¼ bags, $3.12½; in pockets, $3.17½. In 10-bag lots an allowance of 10c. is made. CC rice,, $2.92½ in bags; $2.97½ in ½ bags; $3.02½ in ¼ bags, and $3.07½ in pockets. In the open territory prices are about 10c. less. Patna rice is worth 4 to 5c. per lb., and tapioca, 3⅛ to 3⅝c.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS.—The recent advance in the foreign market has not been well maintained. Considerable buying is reported at the slight reduction made. We quote: Fine Filiatras, 5⅝c. in half cases; cleaned, 6c.; 1-lb. cartons, 8c.; finest Vostizzas, 7¾ to 8c. per lb.

VALENCIA RAISINS.—The market is about bare of these. Some 1900-stock has arrived from New York, which is about all there is. We quote: Finest off-stalk, 6¼c.; selected, 6⅝c., and layers, 7¼ to 7½c. per lb.

SULTANA RAISINS.—The firm feeling continues. The price is 9c. per lb.

CANDIED PEELS.—Jobbers are taking advantage of the low price of sugar, which enters so largely into the cost of candied peels, to place their orders now, resulting in a good demand rather earlier than is usual. Citron peel is worth 16½c.; orange, 11½c., and lemon, 10½c.

MALAGA RAISINS.—There is a good demand at unchanged prices. We quote as follows: London layers, $1.50 to $1.60; "Connoisseur Clusters," $2.15 to $2.25; ¼'s, 65 to 70c.; "Royal Buckingham Clusters," $3.30 to $3.35; ¼'s, $1.05 to $1.10; "Excelsior Windsor Clusters," $4.50 to $4.60; ¼'s, $1.30 to $1.40.

DATES.—Trade is fair. Hallowee dates sell for 4½c. per lb.

FIGS.—There is an active market. We quote: Tapnets, $1.20 and layers, $1.15.

CALIFORNIAN RAISINS.—The absence of Valencia raisins has brought on a strong consumptive demand for seeded Californians. These are quoted at 9¼ to 9½c. per lb.

PRUNES.—The market is fairly active and steady. Quotations follow: 8½c. for 40-50's; 8c. for 50-60's; 7¾c. for 60-70's; 7½c. for 70-80's; 6¾c. for 80-90's; 6½c. for 90-100's.

CALIFORNIAN EVAPORATED FRUITS Trade is only moderate. Apricots are quoted at 14½c.; peaches, 10½c., and pears, 10c.

NUTS.

Local prices are unchanged. Shelled walnuts have become so small in quantity at primary sources that shellers are prepared to let New York undersell them for the present. We quote: Walnuts, 9¾ to 11c.; Tarragona almonds, 12 to 13c.; shelled walnuts, 16½ to 17½c.; shelled almonds, 26 to 27c.; Jordan shelled almonds, 42c.; filberts, 8¾ to 9¼c.; pecans, 15 to 16c.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER.—Our quotations are still 19½c., which, however, are for finest salted goods. The market is somewhat easier, and it is doubtful if more than this could be procured. Reports from the wharf quote 19c. as the ruling price for Quebec makes. Dairy is quoted at 17 to 18c. Trade in this line, however, is by no means active.

CHEESE.—The market took a sudden drop this week, and for a time considerable irregularity in prices was reported. As low as 9¼c. was said to have been paid at the wharf, while other firms quoted the price at 9¾c. Ontario new make is quoted at 10⅛ to 10¼c., and Quebec new make at 9¾ to 9⅞c. The market has now become quiet and English buyers have been doing little business since the decline, being apparently distrustful of the market.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS.—There has been no material change in this market, 13½ to 14c. being still quoted, and to obtain goods in a wholesale way in Montreal even higher than 14c. is paid. There is an active demand all round. Reports from the country points indicate an easier feeling.

HONEY.—There has been no change in the market, and prices are the same. We quote: Buckwheat honey in comb, 9 to 10c.; strained, 7 to 8c.; white clover comb, 13 to 14c.; white extracted, 9 to 10c. per lb.; slightly tinged, 10 to 11c.

ASHES.—The market is quiet and unchanged. We quote as follows: First pots, $4.30 to $4.35; seconds, $3.90, and pearls, $6 per 100 lb.

MAPLE PRODUCTS.—There is not much doing in this line. No change in the price is reported. Our quotations are as follows: Large tins, 70 to 80c.; small tins, 50 to 60c. Sugar sells for 9 to 9½c.

BEANS.—The market has been a little easier during the week and a lower price is quoted. At present, trade is fairly active. Finest primes are worth $1.25 to $1.35 per bushel.

POTATOES.—These have again advanced, and choice Quebec stock, in carloads, are worth $1; choice Ontarios, 85 to 90c. per bag. There is a good demand.

GREEN FRUITS.

The demand has been moderate in most lines of green fruits. Considering the backwardness of the season fruit dealers have little to complain of as regards the business done. The market has been fairly steady during the week. The only quotable change to be noted is in Egyptian onions, which have advanced slightly. They are in good demand and none too plentiful. Our quotations are as follows: Jamaica oranges, in barrels, $4.50 to $4.75; in boxes, $2.75; Valencia oranges, 420's, $5.00; 420's, Jumbo, $5.50; 714's, $6; Messina lemons, $2.00 to $3.00 per box; pineapples, 9 to 20c.; Canadian apples, $4.25 to $5.50 per bbl.; cocoanuts, $3.50 per bag of 100; bananas, No. 1, $1.25 to $2, and eight hands, $1 to $1.50; sweet potatoes, Vinelands, $5.50 to $6; Malaga grapes, $5.50 to $7 per keg; cranberries, $7.75 to $10.50; red onions, $3.50 per barrel; yellow $3.25; chestnuts, 10 to 11c.; Italian chestnuts, 12½c.; grape fruit, $4.25 to $5

FISH.

There has been no change in the market. Fish dealers report a fair demand for all sorts of fresh fish. The cold weather, which has prevailed, has kept the market in a more active state than is usual at this late period. The jobbing houses report being entirely out of fried smelts, and this is likely to last until September, when the new pack will be put up, as manufacturers are at present unable to supply them. We quote: Haddies, 6c.; bloaters, 95c. per box; kippers, 90c. per box; smoked herrings, 9 to 10c. per box; fresh haddock and cod, 3½c. per lb.; whitefish, 6½c.; dore, 5½c.; pike, 4½c.; halibut, 8 to 9c.; salmon, 12½c.; trout, large and medium, 7c.; No. 1 herrings, Nova Scotia, $4.75 to $5.25 per bbl.; No. 1 herrings, Nova Scotia, $2.80 per ½ bbl.; No. 1 Holland herrings, $6.50 per ½ bbl.; No. 1 Scotch herrings, $6.50 per ½ bbl.; No. 1 Scotch herrings, 98c. per keg; Holland herrings, 72c. per keg; salted eels, 6½c. per lb.; No. 1 green codfish, $6.00 to $6.25 per barrel; No. 2, $4.50 to $5.00 per barrel; large, $6.50; No. 1 green haddock, $4.25 per bbl.; No. 1 pickled sardines, $5.50 per bbl.; No. 2 mackerel, $12.50 per bbl.; No. 3 mackerel, $9.00 per bbl.; cod, 1 and 2-lb. blocks, 6c. per lb.; loose, boneless cod, 5c. per lb. in 40-lb. boxes; dressed codfish, $4.80 per case; dry codfish, $4.65 per 112-lb. bundle; No. 1 Labrador salmon, $17.50 in tierces; No. 1 Labrador salmon, $10 to $11 per bbl.; No. 1 Labrador salmon, $6 per ½ bbl.; No. 1 British Columbian salmon, $5 per ½ bbl. and $9 per bbl.; standard bulk oysters, $1.30 per gallon; select bulk oysters, $1.50 per gallon; Malpeque, Blue Point and other shelled oysters, $6 per bbl.; clams, in shell, $4.50 per bbl.; Marshall's kippered herrings, and same with tomato sauce, $1.45 per dozen; Canadian kippered, $1 per dozen; Canadian ¼ sardines, $3.75 per 100; canned Cove oysters, No. 1 size, $1.30 per dozen; canned Cove oysters, No. 2 size, $2.20 per dozen.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

FLOUR.—The flour market has continued firm, although owing to buyers having become pretty well stocked up, the demand is not large. Winter wheat patent and straight rollers have advanced, the former by 10 to 15c. and the latter by 15c. We quote: Manitoba spring wheat patents, $4 to $4.30; winter wheat patents, $3.90 to $4.10; strong bakers', $3.80 to $4; straight rollers, $3.65 to $3.70.

GRAIN.—The market is somewhat quiet. The inquiry for Manitoba wheat on export account was active, but not much business was done. Peas are quoted 1c. lower. We quote: Ontario No. 1 spring wheat afloat May, 78c.; No. 2 spring wheat, 76c.; peas, 85½ to 86c.; rye, 62½c.; oats, 49c., ex-store; corn, 72c.; buckwheat, 68½ to 69c., middle freights; barley, 57c.

OATMEAL.—In sympathy with the advance of 4c. per bushel in oats, the price of oatmeal and rolled oats has also advanced. Granulated, fine and standard oatmeal, in bags, are quoted at $2.95. Rolled oats have taken a big advance and are now quoted by jobbers at $5.65 in bbls., and $2.77½ in bags.

FEED.—The scarcity of feed continues, and the market is in consequence very firm. Ontario bran and shorts have advanced. We quote: Ontario bran, in carlots, $20 to $20.50 per ton; shorts, $22 to $22.50; Manitoba bran, $19 to $20; shorts, $22 per ton, including bags.

BALED HAY.—There is an active demand for baled hay for both local and export account. The market is still firm, but no quotable change has occurred. We quote: No. 1 timothy, $9.50 to $10; No. 2, $8.50 to $9; clover, mixed, $7.50 to $8; clover, $7.50 to $8 per ton, in carlots.

MONTREAL NOTES.

Pork is 50c. lower.

Cheese is 1½ to 1¾c. lower.

Egyptian onions have advanced ¼c. per pound.

Winter wheat patent flour is 10 to 15c. higher, and straight rollers, 15c.

Rolled oats are 65 to 75c. higher in barrels, and 27½ to 37½c. higher in bags.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

St. John, N.B., May 24, 1902.

THE holiday made the past week a very busy one, the more, being a Saturday. In markets there has been nothing of very particular interest. Quite a large cargo of coarse salt was landed. The high price of beef has cut the consumption down at least one-third. With our best fresh fish in season, and selling at low prices, we are peculiarly independent of beef. Five large cargoes of Porto Rico molasses and one of Barbados are due. In cream of tartar, for which there is a large sale here, the price is quite a little higher. Hops are also quoted higher. In these, during the past few years, sales have largely fallen off.

OILS.—This is the quiet season in burning oils. A good steady sale is reported. In lubricating oils the sale is large, and there is no change in prices, which are held quite firm. Paint oils have rather less demand, except in turpentine quite high prices rule. In fish oil the stock of cod oil is being well cleaned up. Prices are held at full figures. Seal oil is scarce. It is thought new will be held at quite high figures.

SALT.—Quite a quantity of Liverpool coarse salt was received this week by direct sailing ship, the first shipment since the close of the winter-port business. Prices are well maintained. There is an active sale at this season. There was also a quantity of rock salt received. In fine salt the market is largely supplied with Canadian. The cheese and butter factories in particular taking this salt. Quite a quantity of English fine is repacked here into wooden boxes. We quote: Liverpool coarse, 55 to 60c.; English factory-filled, 95c. to $1; Canadian fine, $1 per bag; cheese and butter salt, bulk, $2.40 per bbl.; 5-lb. bags, $2.85 to $2.90 per bbl.; 10-lb. bags, $2.70 to $2.75 per bbl.; 20-lb. wood boxes, 22c. each; 10-lb. wood boxes, 14c. each; cartons, $2 per case of 2 dozen; English bottled salt, $1.25 to $1.30 per dozen; mineral rock salt, 60c. per 100 lb. (Selected lumps.)

CANNED GOODS.—Meats are quoted higher this week. The market is chiefly supplied with Canadian meat; in fact, entirely, except in a retail way. Prices are very firm. Salmon are moving freely and prices are unchanged, but rule quite low, showing a wide range according to quality. In canned vegetables there is a good sale, peas showing improved demand. Stocks in corn and tomatoes are not large. In fruits, there is a fair sale. Blueberries and apples are scarce. In finnan haddies some new goods have been received. New domestic sardines are daily expected. There is a good sale for all domestic fish.

GREEN FRUITS.—The arrival of the direct Jamaica steamer has caused cheap bananas and oranges. In bananas, however, the large supply continues to come via Boston. There is a large sale for oranges. Valencia fruit is higher and is beginning to show considerable waste. Sorrentos are freely sold, but the quality is but fair. Lemons are low and have a fair sale. Considerable cheap fruit is offered. In prunes, there is a fair sale, and prices are low. Cucumbers are rather lower, but there is a fair business. Tomatoes have a limited sale. Strawberries are received freely and the quality is but fair. Prices are rather lower.

DRIED FRUITS.—There is little life. Prunes are still low, though rather firmer. The sale here is for Californian stock, 90-100's, in 25-lb. boxes. In seeded raisins there is a fair sale; stocks are not large and the price is rather more firmly held. Currants are unchanged at the rather higher figures. Loose muscatels are a light stock. The market is firmer. There is no business in Valencias or Malaga layers at this season. Peels are scarce. Dates have a fair sale at full figures. In evaporated apples the market is about bare and prices are very high. There is quite a movement in dried, but stocks are not large. A new line, flaked apples, is sold. Cocoanuts are rather firmer. Egyptian onions are higher, and there is a fair supply. Some nice Bermudas are to hand.

DAIRY PRODUCE.—In butter the market is firm and there is a good sale. Real good new butter is saleable at full figures. Eggs are rather higher, but the sale is good. Arrivals are not large. Cheese are scarce. New cheese come on a bare market. The sale is chiefly for twins. Domestic come in slowly and full prices are asked.

SUGAR.—In sugar the low prices continue. There is quite a large sale for the second grade granulated, which is packed in 100-lb. bags and sold 10c. under standard. Some nice foreign sugars are offered. In yellows, there is a fair sale. The quality of domestic yellows offered is good.

MOLASSES.—There is a tendency to rather firmer figures. A cargo of Porto Rico has just been landed and a cargo of Barbados is due, besides a quantity by steamer. These goods are offered quite low, and so far the quality has been good.

FISH.—Fresh fish find more active sale because of the very high price of beef. We are well supplied both with variety and quality. We have cod, haddock, gaspereaux, shad, halibut and salmon. The last four are particularly in season at son has opened up well, and also in the Bay of Fundy. Lobsters have also been freely taken and a large business has been done at the various canneries. Last week the first mackerel were taken along shore. The boat fishermen are getting them in small quantities, but the seiners have not apparently struck the large schools. What fish have been taken are very fine. The wholesalers are buying them at 2¾c., but they generally retail at three for a quarter—and they are worth it.

MANITOBA MARKETS.

Winnipeg, May 26, 1902.

THE weather has been broken and unsatisfactory all week with heavy rains. In all parts of the country the roads are in very bad condition. Business is seriously retarded, and at present there is no indication of settled weather. Fortunately, the great bulk of the seeding is done, and the crops are well up. There is still considerable barley and oats to be sown, but practically all wheat that will be sown in Manitoba is now in the ground. The acreage in the Red River Valley will be considerably less than was anticipated, owing to much of the low-lying land being too wet for seeding. There have been very few changes in prices for the week, and the volume, though light, has been steady.

SUGARS.—There is a steady consumptive demand, and prices are the same as last week. Granulated, $4.40; light yellows, $3.80, and lumps, hard, in barrels, $5.20.

TEAS.—Reports of the Japanese crop are very unsatisfactory; much rain has fallen, and there is a general shortage of crop. Present anticipations are for an advance of 2 to 3c. per lb. on this season's tea.

EVAPORATED AND DRIED FRUITS.—Reports have been received as to advances in primary markets for both raisins and currants. There is not much demand for either. At present we quote: Raisins, $1.85 to $1.90 for fine off-stalk, and $2.15 to $2.20 for layers. Evaporateh fruits are all firm and in good demand, more especially evaporated and dried apples. The latter, it seems, are almost impossible to obtain, several firms having failed to secure sufficient to fill their orders. Evaporated are quoted at 12 to 12½c., and dried at 7 to 7½c. Apricots are in good demand at 13½ to 14c. per lb. for the best grades.

CANNED GOODS.—The reports of damage to eastern crops has stiffened the tone of the market here as far as tomatoes are concerned. The price has not actually advanced, but it looks as if it might go higher. Corn is somewhat easier, present quotations being $1.80 to $1.85. The canned fruit market has not yet been affected by the reports of injury to the fruit crops, and the present demand is light.

CANNED MEATS.—The demand is increasing owing to the high price of fresh meat, and it is felt that there must be an advance before long, as the present price was made when all lines of fresh meat were from 2 to 3c. per lb. cheaper than they are at the present time.

CEREALS.—Trade is normal in all lines and prices are unchanged. We quote: Rolled oats, 80's, $2.20; 40's, FLOUR.—Trade is more active than it has been for a long time, and, in fact, the large mills are so busy with the home demand that they are not troubling much about export—although that trade also is good. We quote : Ogilvie's Hungarian Patent, $2.15 ; Glenora Patent, $2 ; Alberta, $1.85 ; Manitoba, $1.70 ; Imperial, XXXX, $1.25 ; Nestor, $1.15 ; Lake of the Woods Milling Company, Five Roses, $2.05 ; Red Patent, $1.95 ; Medora, $1.65 ; XXXX, $1.25 ; Hudson's Bay Hungarian Patent, $2.05 ; Strong Bakers', $1.90 ; Leader, $1.50 ; XXXX, $1.25 ; Gladstone Sweet Home Hungarian, $2.05 ; Home Rule, $1.90 : Headingly Hungarian, $2.05 ; Favorite Family Patent, $1.80 ; Strong Bakers', $1.60 ; Pansy, $1.25.

BUTTER.—The supply has increased and the market is slightly lower, 20c.. factories, being the present quotation. Dairy Butter.—The supply also has increased considerably, and 14 to 15c. is now offered for the best grades of rolls and tubs.

EGGS.—There has been an increase of receipts and the price has dropped in proportion ; 11c. Winnipeg is the highest figure now offering.

SEIZURE OF COCOA.

A great quantity of cocoa of different kinds was seized by the food inspectors at Montreal on Thursday, May 22, as it was considered unfit for food. The cocoa came from England on board the unfortunate steamship Lake Superior, and was badly damaged by the water. It was put up at auction at Montreal and sold in small lots. Since then it has partially dried, and is now being offered for sale to the public. The city analyist is making an examination of it, pending the report of which all those who have any of the cocoa in their possession are strictly ordered not to sell it.

NOW IN CANADA.

Thos. Wood & Co., of Boston, Mass., importers of teas and coffees, four months ago decided to open a branch in Montreal. They first opened an office at 393 St. Paul street, but their business has outgrown this establishment, and they found it necessary to seek a larger warehouse, which was found at 428 St. Paul street, and which premises were formerly occupied by Mann & Co. Their representative declares that they are well pleased with business in Canada, and that prospects for the future are very encouraging.

A GREAT FLOUR EXPORTING FIRM.

THE firm of John Magor & Son, Montreal, exporters of flour, etc., is not only one of the largest in Canada, but one of the oldest as well, having been established some thirty-five years ago. It was then known as that of Lord, Magor & Munn, but on the death of the first two gentlemen the style was changed to its present name, and Mr. W. A. Magor became the manager.

This firm, whose brands of flour are famous in almost all the flour importing countries of the world, are largely interested in the milling business in the best wheat-producing districts of Canada and the United States. The "Gold Seal" brand, which is looked upon as the leader, is of hard wheat flour. It is best known for its exceptional keeping qualities in tropical climates, and for its merits in bread-making and general family use. This flour is considered to be unexcelled in the world.

Perhaps a great deal of the firm's success in exporting has been due in a measure to the care with which the goods are packed. The bags and barrels used are of the very best material to be had, nothing but the best being sufficiently durable to withstand a long journey and the rough handling which is inevitable. The smaller packages are of great strength, and in their appearance, which is an important item, there is little to be desired.

Among the recommendations which the "Gold Seal" brand is continually receiving, one will be found of particular interest. It is a letter from F. E. Woods, one of the largest bread bakers of Bulawayo, South Africa, to the firm's agent there, and runs as follows :

DEAR SIR,—I have pleasure in stating that I have carefully tested John Magor's "Gold Seal" hard wheat patent flour and have to report as follows :

The flour has been thoroughly tested and baked as follows :

1. "Gold Seal" flour only. The color, flavor, and size of loaf, all that could be desired and the yield of bread per bag excellent.

2. In equal proportions of "Gold Seal" and soft "Colonial" (South-African) flour. Mixed this way I find that it makes an ideal loaf—better bread it would be impossible to get.

3. One-third "Colonial" and two-thirds "Gold Seal." Mixed this way I find it very profitable and the quality very good.

I consider "Gold Seal" to be first-class hard wheat flour, in every way suitable for mixing with our "Colonial" flours or Australian brands, or for using alone where trade requires quality with a big return. I am also of the opinion that it is superior to any brand of hard wheat flour I have yet tested in South Africa.

FIRE IN A GROCERY STORE.

Fire broke out in the Grand Marche grocery store of P. Massicotte & Cie, 1470 St. Catherine street, Montreal, on Wednesdar afternoon, May 21, and caused damage to the extent of $3,000. The store was completely gutted, and the fire might easily have been a much more serious one had it not been for the promptness of the firemen.

THE "SALADA" TEA CO.'S NEW BUILDING.

THE accompanying cut is an illustration of the new premises of The "Salada" Tea Co. which have just been completed. The growth of this business has been one of the wonders of the trade in America. When Mr. Larkin first started the brand, now so well known as "Salada" Ceylon tea, he occupied a small warehouse on Wellington street, Toronto. The gradual growth of the business led him to take part of the warehouse at 25 Front street east. In a year or two he occupied the whole of that building. Time passed and he took in a part of the adjoining warehouse. Then came the purchase of the premises at 32 Yonge street, which at that time was a four-storey building.

This prominent warehouse promised to be large enough for all time, but the business kept on expanding in Ontario, Manitoba and the Northwest Territories until the company needed the present structure to carry on the business properly.

In the meantime the business was extended in the Maritime Provinces and the Province of Quebec until a large warehouse in Montreal was needed to supply the demand there. Then the business extended to Buffalo, for there the first entry was made into the United States. A branch was shortly afterwards opened in Pittsburg and then the New England business was commenced by the opening of a branch in Boston under the supervision of Mr. James McGuane, late of Toronto. Next came the opening of the Detroit office under the supervision of Mr. Sutherland, late of Hamilton, and so the business has progressed in the United States until "Salada" Ceylon tea is as familiar a word in dozens of American cities as it is in Montreal and Toronto.

ago as to what he attributed the success of "Salada" he replied: "Quality, first, last and all the time"; and added "quality you must have, but, quality only does not mean success. Our efforts have been to give the tea-consuming public the very best article they can possibly buy for the money and then to tell them of it." "There is no use," he continued, "of having a first class article if the people do not know that you want to sell it. First you must have a good article, and secondly you must tell them of it. Following up these ideas we occupy space in practically every newspaper in the Dominion and many hundreds of newspapers throughout the United States. We have men on the road sampling with lead sample packets; we put up enamelled signs on the grocer's windows; any grocer sending us a list of his customers' names we sample them through the mail, and we do not do this spasmodically, but we continue it year in and year out. We serve the public well, and we give the public every opportunity to know that we do."

All this business has been built up with Ceylon teas, and Ceylon teas only. For many years the firm of P. C. Larkin & Co. have not handled a pound of any other tea but the products of Ceylon, "because," said Mr. Larkin, "there is no tea in the world its equal." The drawback to this has been the fact that up to 1898 Ceylon produced only black tea, and nearly half the tea consumed in Canada and three-quarters of that consumed in the United States is the green tea products of Japan and China.

Now, it is very hard to change a green-tea drinker into a black-tea drinker; still, slow progress in this direction has been made, but, in 1898, the Brunswick Estate, in Ceylon (which, strange to say, at that time was owned by a Canadian), produced the first lot of green tea and submitted it to The "Salada" Tea Co., and this tea received their warmest approval. A first order was given to this estate and the tea delivered in Canada in the month of April, 1898, and it was for 25 half-chests of Ceylon green tea to be delivered monthly. This was soon increased to 50 half-chests, then 100, then 200, and, in 1901, The "Salada" Tea Co. were getting over 400 half-chests per month from two estates in Ceylon and the quantity of Ceylon green tea they now handle is enormous. They now predict that these teas will displace the green teas of Japan and China, and in another year or two The "Salada" Tea Co. will be doing as large a business in Ceylon greens as they are now doing in blacks. This all goes to show that, with energy and push and a first-class article, Canadians are not limited to Canada only, but can do business in the United States just as freely as the Americans do in Canada.

Mr. Henri Jonas, of Henri Jonas & Co., will start on his annual tour to Europe in the course of three weeks or so. He will visit Germany, Belgium, France and Holland, and will be gone about 10 weeks.

EXPORT TRADE IN BUSY TIMES.

An Interview with Mr. R. Munro, President of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

IN conversation with a representative of THE CANADIAN GROCER, Mr. Robt. Munro, president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, dealt with the subject of trade with foreign markets in the following words:

"There are some men anong our manufacturers who say that we are too busy in Canada with our home trade to give attention to any business from abroad. It is quite true that the present feeling of expansion is bearing such good fruit that our factories ar all well employed. In fact, the growth of our factories has not been more rapid than the growth of our home trade. Now, any manufacturer who is so content with present conditions that he is indifferent to foreign business had better let the latter alone. Export business, to be done at all successfully, must be done carefully and well. The indifferent exporter, therefore, does only harm to the business expectation of his country with little or no correspond ing good to himself.

"The consideration remains, however, what of the trade of other British possessions who are willing to trade with us and whose trade we might indeed have by preference over foreign countries?

"In the West Indies, for example, the United States manufacturer is taking advantage of his more frequent shipping opportunities, and works these islands for all they are worth. United States goods are becoming strongly entrenched in these markets, and the longer we delay in asserting ourselves the more difficult will it be to obtain a footing, not to speak of superseding the other. The same is true in our own Yukon, in Australia, New Zealand and South Africa. Even in Great Britain are they not pressing the sale of lines which Canada should be equally able to supply?

"But you ask what need we care so long as we have enough to do at home? That's the main point I wish to suggest to our manufacturers. We look for good times, growing times even, for some years to come. But no man who has been long in business looks for perpetual activity, no matter how favorable the country's position is. The present is certainly a time to make the most of, but we must make up our minds that bad harvests, dull markets for our products abroad, and other causes will arise to make the home trade smaller in volume and less safe. How handy will it be then if we have our roots established in other markets which may be in better shape than our own, and where, being known, we will be sure of some business to help out the limited demands at home.

"Remember, Mr. Reporter, I am not advocating the example of Dickens' character, whose name I cannot recall, who was busy writing about the conversion of the heathen while her own children were running about torn and dirty. I advocate doing our home trade well. Keeping abreast of anything that competes with us, but I point out that other good markets are inviting us; that our Imperial connection gives us a priority in these markets; that while we linger others are pushing forward their exports, while of Canada it may be said, as Mr. Goodwillie said to me in Trinidad, 'We would most gladly deal with Canada. We are proud of Canada, but we do not know what she has to offer, as none of your travellers come this way.'"

A FRUIT FIRM'S DIARY

McWilliam & Everist, wholesale commission merchants, Toronto, have gotten out a handy little pocket diary for 1902-3 and are sending it out to their patrons. This book is useful not only as a diary but also in that it contains a copy of the Fruit Marks Act of 1901, and the amendment thereto of May 15, 1902, up to date in every particular. The forethought of this firm in providing a copy of the Act in this way will be much appreciated by their friends and customers.

A handsome poster has recently made its appearance designed to advertise Wheat Marrow. It is a very creditable production, unique and attractive. The demand for Wheat Marrow is constantly growing.

IN NEWFOUNDLAND.

The head of a large mercantile establishment recently said that the practice of keeping the stores open nightly in the spring is dying a natural death. This season, the expenses of running them will not have been received when they close, and he thinks it is questionable if they will open next spring. Purchasers all around, especially outport people, who work on cash and credit, are averse to selecting wares at night under artificial light, and not many city buyers of late years can be found willing to do so. This, he thinks, will be the means of keeping the stores closed in springtime after daytime.—Herald, St. John's, Nfld.

DEATH OF EX-ALD. RAYCROFT.

One who for many years conducted a successful grocery store in Hamilton passed away on May 22nd in the person of ex-Ald. Richard Raycroft, of that place, who died suddenly of heart trouble. He had lived in Hamilton for 35 years, and carried on business as a grocer for part of that time. He was elected to the city council in 1895, and was afterwards appointed to the board of health. He was a member of the A.O.U.W., was twice married, and leaves a widow, and one son, who is living in the United States.

"CANADIAN CLUB."

PERHAPS no other whisky in the world has won for itself such a universal reputation for its superior quality and as high a place on the markets of the globe as "Canadian Club" whisky, the product of the distilleries of Hiram Walker & Sons, Limited, Walkerville, Ont. It is now for sale in nearly every quarter of the civilized globe and has the distinction of being more widely distributed over the world than any other article of Canadian manufacture. Within the short space of 12 years this liquor has gained this wide reputation, and its makers confidently look forward to a wide extension of its sales in the future. Its fine flavor, maturity and purity make this spirit popular with everyone using it, and obtain for it praise from members of the medical profession. The advertisement of this firm is on another page of this issue.

CONDIMENTS-- Their Characteristics and Places of Growth.

By R. H. HUDSON, TORONTO.

First-prize essay in the competition of the Grocery Clerks' Association.

THE word condiment in good old Noah Webster's time, meant something which was used to give relish to food and to gratify the taste. Especially did it apply to such pungent and appetizing substances as pepper or mustard. To-day, however, the term means all that and much more; so that not only does it apply to all spices and seasonings, but to a long list of proprietary and other articles, such as pickles, relishes, etc., which are handled by us every day. Anything that will whet and stimulate the appetite of either old or young and give zest to the meal and be a tonic to the participant surely is worthy of the name of condiment.

INTERESTING TO CLERKS.

We shall find it interesting work dispensing such condiments to our customers, whether in bottle or package, or in bulk, or from whatever material prepared. And just in proportion as we are helpful in giving our customers ideas as to how this or that article might be used in making up some dainty dishes—just to that extent will we gain a firmer hold upon their trade, for they will realize that we take an interest in them. There is, probably, no branch of housekeeping which shows to better advantage a woman's skill than the variety of relishes she can prepare for the meal. Sometimes the salt, sometimes the sour, or the mustard, or the curry, or other spices may be made the most prominent feature as she shall choose; and frequently the grocery clerk can suggest to "her majesty the cook" (who so often is none other than "the lady of the house," herself) something new and seasonable.

The quiet trust of a customer in a grocer is worth its weight in gold; but his or her ignorance must not allow us to diminish our efforts to know perfectly the quality and history of what our shelves hold and bins contain. So I trust I have made quite clear the importance of this department of the grocery—the best, or about the best, paying department of the up-to-date store. True it is that one must read and promptly note the bearing of what he reads upon his own trade; and especially is it necessary to keep a careful memorandum of such data. Take a lesson from the politician if you will. How quickly and earnestly he jots down in notebook what will be of service during the campaign. And so ought we to jot down for reference what will be of value to us in our business campaign.

We might divide condiments into five classes, viz., spices, seasonings, sauces, catsups and pickles, and it will be best, I think, to make ourselves as fully acquainted as possible with these and their uses.

SPICES.

The largest class is that of spices, and the item which has the largest sale, undoubtedly, is pepper. Pepper, both black and white, is the product of the same tree, grown mostly in the East-Indian Islands. The is the ripe berry, small and rough, about the size of the pea. It possesses a strong flavor and aroma, and would be best when ground, if it were not for the adulterating in the grinding and after. The is the unripe berry, and, though not so strong, it is sought for more for table use, chiefly because of its brighter and more cleanly appearance. So much for looks, even in pepper.

R. H. Hudson, the Prize-Winner.

POD PEPPERS, OR CAPSICUMS, are a well-known spice. They are indispensable in the pickling season, because of their superior strength.

CAYENNE

is made from chillies principally. They grow generally in tropical countries. When thoroughly dried and compounded, they are passed through a handmill and sifted. England uses about 100 tons of these annually, coming mostly from Sierra Leone, Zanzibar.

TABASCO PEPPER

is nothing more than the pulp of the red pepper extracted by heavy pressure, then artificially dried and ground.

NEPAUL CAYENNE

pepper is made from a very small variety, and is remarkable for its violet odor. In color it is quite brown, but, like the other red peppers, it is very pungent.

MUSTARD

comes from the seeds of several kinds of plants. Some are strong, while some are mild; some are white and some are black; but all are good for medicine or condiment. Quite a large amount of ground in Santa Barbara County, Cal., is used for its cultivation, some 2,500 acres being devoted to the industry. Much water and dampness are necessary for its growth. The ground is sown with about four pounds of seed to the acre and is harvested about September, but left to cure till October. It is then gathered into a suitable place, where the pods, stalks and seed are separated. For centuries the English have been known as great mustard-eaters, the greatest in the world. They differ from the Southern races, such as the French, Spanish, Italians, etc., in that they use spices, and especially mustard more than sauces. There seems to be a reason for this. Sauces, though appetizing, are more or less disguised in their nature and have no really good effects. Mustard, on the contrary, strengthens the natural tone of the stomach, increases the flow of the gastric juice, and thereby promotes the general health. It is seldom pure. Test it this way. Moisten a small piece of washing-soda; rub it well on a portion of the mustard. If the mustard takes a reddish color, it is adulterated. Mustard is sold both dry and mixed with vinegar and other ingredients and called French mustard.

is the root of a kind of reed, grown both in the East and West Indies, China, Malabar and in all tropical countries. The best comes from Jamaica, where it is not only cultivated to perfection, but the details in its preparation, such as selecting, scraping and drying, are observed with great care. It comes to us in three forms—root ginger, ground ginger and preserved in the syrup as a confection. This latter brings a high price. There are two kinds of ginger—the black and the white. The former is the muddy-colored, which requires to be steeped in boiling water and then dried in the sun. White ginger consists of the choicest roots scraped clean and then dried carefully without being scalded, and these always bring a much higher price in the market. The bleached ginger is that which has received a coating of lime. Ginger has a pleasant odor and a pungent but not bitter taste. The ground ginger sought for mostly is a light yellow in color, the best looking and the best flavored.

ALLSPICE,

or Jamaica pepper, or pimento, as it is called, is something like our myrtle tree, and grown extensively on the Island of Jamaica. It is said to combine the flavors of cinnamon, cloves and nutmegs; hence its name. When the fruit has reached full size and while still green, the small twigs which bear it are broken off the tree in bunches. They are then spread out and dried by exposure to air and sun for several days. The little spice are then shaken from the stalks and packed in bags for shipment. It is described as a spice of a mildly pungent taste and agreeably aromatic.

CINNAMON

is an East-Indian spice ground or cut in small sticks from the inside barks of the several trees and shrubs sometimes called sweet trees, or cassia or cinnamomum. The coarser barks are known as cassia, sometimes worthless as spice. The inner bark is very delicate, and, being quickly influenced by the atmosphere, should be bought in small quantities and kept in air-tight tins.

THE NUTMEG TREE

is found in the East and West Indies; also in the Philippines, Singapore and Mauritius Islands. It bears all the year round, but most plentifully in May and December. When ripe the outer shell splits open on one side; the pod is removed, after which the mace is carefully stripped from the inner shell. The nutmegs are then dried for about two months with artificial heat. They are turned every day until dried, when the kernels will rattle in the shell. The shells are then cracked with wood mallets. The imperfect, or worm-eaten ones, are cast away, and the good ones rubbed in slacked lime to give them a better appearance. They are ready now for sale. The best nutmegs average 70 to 80 to the pound.

MACE,

which is the outside covering of the nutmeg shell, after being stripped from the shell is dried, packed, and pressed very hard while being packed.

CLOVES, OR SPICE-NAILS,

so named from their form resembling a nail, are a pungent, strong-scented spice. They are the little unexpanded buds of the clove tree. It is a native of the Molucca, or spice islands, in the East Indies, but now cultivated very extensively in Penang, Zanzibar and the West Indies. The choicest stock comes from Penang. They are large in body with yellow heads and very oily. Cloves ripen and are harvested between September and March. The average yield is about 75,000 bales, or about 10,000,000 pounds. The average tree yields about five pounds annually.

CURRIE POWDER.

is made up of cinnamon, mace, cloves, coriander seed, turmeric, garlic, pepper, cardamon and cayenne. It is used mostly in sauces and pickles; also in the preparation of certain dishes of meat, as curry of rabbit, chicken, etc. It is used considerably in Europe, and especially in India, but we in Canada have not taken to it very kindly.

CORIANDER SEEDS

are grown on a plant very much like our parsnip or carrot. The seeds have a strong smell and a spicy taste, and are used in medicine as well as in cookery.

TURMERIC

comes from the roots of an East-Indian plant belonging to the ginger family. The inside of the root is a lively yellow, or saffron color, and has a slightly aromatic smell and a bitter taste. It is used mostly for a dye, but to some extent as a condiment. Very little of it is used in Canada.

CARRAWAY SEEDS

are grown on a plant much like our parsley. The seeds have an aromatic smell, and a warm, pungent taste.

SEASONINGS, OR SWEET HERBS.

The next class is seasonings, or sweet herbs. Seasonings are used to give piquancy to relishes or whatever they are used with. There are quite a number of them; but those most commonly used are sweet marjoram, thyme, mint, sage, savory, parsley, celery seed and onions. All are extremely susceptible to moisture. Therefore they must be gathered when perfectly dry, cured dry, and kept where they will be dry both in the store and the home, or you would better be without them. Onions are the most important in this class; indeed, they are of more value than all the others put together. But it is as a food, rather than as a seasoning, that they are used mostly. They grow in every country and thrive. The sweet Italian or Bermuda onions are good for many things: They sweeten the breath after the local effects have passed away, are splendid as a blood purifier, and when eaten raw are highly recommended for sleeplessness.

SAGE

is used mostly for flavoring meats, and dressing for fowls would not be counted complete without it, so important is it considered.

SAVORY, called summer savory, is very aromatic and is used in cooking.

PARSLEY

is a pleasant smelling plant, but used chiefly in garnishing. Is used also for seasoning, stuffing rabbits, etc.

MARJORAM,

or, more correctly, sweet marjoram, is very aromatic and fragrant. It belongs to a genus of mint-like plants, comprising about twenty-five species.

THYME,

which means a sacrifice or an offering, has a very sweet smell; a warm, pungent aroma. It is much used to give a relish to soups and gravies.

MINT

is the name given to several labiate plants, such as horsemint, peppermint, spearmint and mountain mint or water mint. The leaves are used in making sauces, cooking, etc., but the plant is used more in the manufacture of essential oils. Celery seed, as well as celery itself, is used in cooking; the seed itself is used chiefly as a spice in pickling season. It is a very pungent seasoning, and generally used very sparingly.

SAUCES AND CATSUPS.

The next class is that of sauces and catsups. With these we enter the made-up class, and in connection with it the two former classes are very much in evidence. For what is sauce but a composition of spices and appetizing ingredients? True, such sauces as apple and cranberry are foods pure and simple; while the sauces that the grocer dispenses are used to stimulate the appetite to better work. I have not heard that any of the makers have graciously published their formulæ; but it is well known that sauce like Lea & Perrin's is made up of white wine vinegar, walnut and mushroom catsups, Maderia wine, Canton soy, table salt, allspice and coriander seed, mace and cinnamon, and assafœtida dissolved in brandy. I will give one other recipe which is interesting. Canton soy is made with haricot or kidney beans, bruised wheat, salt. This was originally brought from Japan and shipped largely to Canton.

CATSUPS

bear the names of the vegetable or fruit which forms the base. Tomato catsup is made principally from ripe tomatoes, with which are used vinegars and spices, as desired. Currant catsup, grape catsup and cucumber catsup are all prepared with vinegars and spices. Mushroom catsup is not made with vinegar, but plenty of salt and some spices.

PICKLES.

In pickles, our last class, we would say get the very best, whether it be mixed, chow-chow, gherkins, onions, piccalilli, cauliflower, cabbage, relishes, walnuts or olives. Keep also a medium-priced line, but push the best. We must not encourage the sale of the low-priced pickles, if for no other reason than that they are positively harmful, and that they drive away from it, instead of to it, the good trade you desire. The time was, in Canada, when we were forced to import to secure a really good pickle. A very few names were held up by connoisseurs as the only pickle worth mentioning. But what a difference now! Some of the very choicest on our shelves to-day are Canadian goods, and this is just as it ought to be.

THE PROVISION TRADE.

A Scarcity of Meat—The Markets—Miscellaneous Notes.

A SCARCITY OF MEAT.

THERE is a scarcity of meat in Chicago. The stockyards teamsters have been locked out and are backed up by the Teansters' National Union. Butchers buying of the packers fighting the strikers are having their supplies of ice cut off and many shops have closed down. The prices of meats are high, restaurants and hotels are unable to procure fresh meat and no meat is being hauled excepting by a few wagons that leave the yards under heavy police protection every morning.

The supplies of meat at the leading hotels and restaurants are about done, and if the strike is not over soon the managers know not what they will do.

The four packing concerns at the stockyards, at a conference recently held with union leaders from the striking teamsters, refused to grant the concessions demanded and were opposed to the recognition of union labor in the yards. This means the strike will continue.

REPRESENTATIVE BENTON ON CURING MEAT.

No one in the House takes a livelier interest in live stock than Representative Benton of Missouri. On all questions relating to cattle he is an authority. His farm in Missouri is well stocked with blooded cattle of different varieties.

The other day a party of members were discussing steaks and roasts when the member from the Fifteenth Missouri district said :

"Now, when you talk of meat there is nothing sweeter than a well-cured ham. You can't cure a small ham like you can one of 18 or 20 lb. I cure all my hams, and they are cured as hams should be.

"The hams I cure will average 20 lb. You salt the ham thoroughly, rubbing the salt over every particle of space, and on the bones rub saltpetre, to dry up the blood and thus prevent the flesh from getting sour. At the end of four weeks repeat the operation of salting.

"When this is over place it in the smokehouse and burn hickory chips and corn cobs. After having been thoroughly smoked wrap the ham in brown paper, place it in an ordinary sack, then bury it in a box packed with charcoal and let it remain a year.

"Then it is fit to eat, but if you keep it two years the meat will be that much sweeter. Talk about steaks and spring lamb! Why, they are not to be compared to a ham that has been cured as I've described. When you have eaten of my ham you will agree it's the most delicious meat in the world."

It is said that Representative Benton's hams are the finest cured in the State of Missouri.—Washington Times.

THE ARGENTINE FROZEN MEAT INDUSTRY.

The Belgian Legation at Buenos Ayres writes to The Bulletin Commercial that the total commercial movement of the saladeros of the Rio de la Plata and Rio Grande was as follows for 1901, compared with the two years preceding :

NUMBER OF ANIMALS SLAUGHTERED.

Establishments.	1901.	1900.	1899.
Buenos Ayres (Province)	73,300	39,000	19,500
Rivers of the Argentine Republic and Uruguay.	39,700	22,000	8,600
Montevideo	115,800	88,400	86,200
Rio Grande	50,000	.....	3,000
Total	278,800	150,100	117,300

As is shown by the above figures, it is especially in the Province of Buenos Ayres that the progress of the meat-packing industry is the most remarkable.

The Review of the River Plate, of the same city, published the following resume of the exports of frozen meat from the Argentine Republic during the last three years :

Year.	Sheep.	Quarters of beef.
1899	2,485,949	113,431
1900	2,385,214	265,965
1901	2,722,727	497,375

The large increase in the exports of beef is due especially to the prohibiting of the importation in England of Argentine live stock, on account of the foot-and-mouth disease which prevailed in the latter country in 1900 and which now seems to have completely disappeared.

THE HOG PACK.

The N. K. Fairbank Co. informs THE GROCER as follows, under date of June 2 : "The Cincinnati Price-Current, an acknowledged authority, reports packing in the West for the past week at 415,000, against 555,000 for the same week last year, a reduction of over 25 per cent. The total Western packing since March 1 amounts to 4,666,000, against 5,470,000 last year, a loss of 15 per cent. By these figures it is positive that the uniform and steady loss in packing is gradually increasing, a fact that must necessarily strengthen the basis of all provisions and kindred products. Purchasers of "Boar's Head" brand of refined lard compound may feel sure that prices are firm ; cheaper goods, however, manufactured from tallow may not be affected. There can be no permanent weakness in the market while stocks are depleted and fresh supplies diminishing."

THE PROVISION MARKETS.

TORONTO.

The arrivals of dressed hogs have been lighter this week and so the prices have taken an upward turn, the advance being 25c. per 100 lb. There has been a decline of 12½c. per 100 lb. in the price of live hogs owing to the weakness of the English market. The demand for beef continues good and the prices are firm. Veal is scarce. We quote as follows : Dressed hogs, $9 00 to $9.25; beef carcasses, $7.50 to $8.50 per 100 lb.; hind quarters, $8.50 to $9.50 per 100 lb.; front quarters, $7.00 to $7.50 per 100 lb. Veal, 7 to 8c. per lb.; lambs, 10 to 10½c. Live hogs: Selects, $6.87½, lights, $6.25 to $6 67½ per 100 lb.; choice export cattle bring $6 to $6.75 per 100 lb.; lights sell at $5 to $5.75.

The demand for smoked meats continues keen and the prices are firmer. No changes in prices are reported this week. We quote : Long clear bacon, 11c. ; smoked breakfast bacon, 14 to 15c. ; rolls, 11½c. ; medium hams, 13½ to 14c. ; large hams, 12½ to 13c.; shoulder hams, 10½ to 11c., and backs, 14 to 14½c.; Canadian heavy mess pork, $21.50; short cut, $22.50 to $23 ; lard, in tierces, 11 to 11¼c. per lb.; tubs, 11¼ to 11½c., and pails, 11½ to 11¾c.

MONTREAL.

The provision market continues weak, although no material change in prices has been produced, as the demand for cured meats of all kinds has been increasing, and is sufficient to keep down the supply to an average size.

In dressed hogs there has been no change. The demand for fresh-killed abattoir-dressed hogs has been fair, butchers taking a good many small lots. The price remains at $9.75 to $10.25 per 100 lb.

Last week, too late to be included in our report, "Boar's Head" refined lard compound was advanced ¼c. per lb., f.o.b., Montreal, and the price is now $2.15 for 1 to 24 wood pails, and $2.10 for tin pails. We quote : Heavy Canadian short cut mess pork, $23.75 to $24.00. Chicago clear pork, $27.00 for heavy and $26.00 for medium ; selected heavy short cut mess pork, boneless, $22.00 to $22.50 ; hams, 13c.; bacon, 15c.; lard, pure Canadian, $2.32½ to $2.35 per pail ; refined lard

ST. JOHN, N. B.

The high price of barrelled pork and beef leads to light business. It is thought prices are about at the top. Smoked meats are high and move but slowly. Lard has been advanced. Standard compound lard has a large sale. In fresh beef; in fact, in all fresh meats, sales are quiet. While beef is unchanged, it is thought the market is hardly as firm. Domestic beef is about as high as that from Ontario, which is unusual. Mutton is dull and rather lower. Lamb is unchanged. Receipts are small. Veal is quite high. We quote as follows: American clear pork, $24 to $25; domestic mess pork, $21.50; plate beef, Canadian, $14 to $15; mess pork, American, $22; plate beef, American, $15.50 to $16.00; fresh beef, 9 to 10c.; round hogs, 7½ to 8c.; pure lard, tubs, 12c¼.; pure lard, pails, 12¾c.; compound lard, tubs, 10¼c.; compound lard, pails, 10½c.; refined lard compound, Fairbank's, tubs, 10½ to 10¾c.; pails, 11 to 11¼c.

Mr. Potter, representing the N. K. Fairbank Co., was in the city this week and, in the face of the higher prices, did a nice business.

WINNIPEG.

DRESSED AND CURED MEATS—There has been no change of any kind in these lines, and demand is not very active at the moment.

BUTTER—Fair supplies of creamery are now reaching the city, for which 18 to 18½c. factories is being paid. In dairy butter, supplies are steadily increasing and prices are now 14 to 15c. commission basis.

CHEESE—There are practically no manitoba offerings as yet, but 11½c. Winnipeg, it is understood, will be the price offered for the first make. This market is hungry for cheese, and a few small lots brought in from Ontario have sold at 13½c.

EGGS—Market is weaker and quotations are as low as 10½c. delivered Winnipeg.

BULK AS WELL AS PACKAGE TEAS.

AN interesting development in the Canadian tea trade has been the successful extension of the business of T. H. Estabrooks, of St. John, N. B., in Ontario and the West.

Mr. Estabrooks has lately opened up new and larger offices at 25 Front street east, Toronto, as the headquarters of his Ontario business. He is now following up the successful introduction of his "Red Rose" tea with bulk teas in all grades. Package teas form only a portion of his business, his aim being to cater to the dealer by supplying him with any character or description of tea that the trade wants.

A year ago Mr. Estabrooks extended his trade from the Maritime Provinces to Ontario, and his six travellers have covered the territory pretty thoroughly.

As an introduction for the first year, he thought it best to confine the trade to "Red Rose" alone, a brand of package tea that had won great popularity in the Lower Provinces, where the people consume much more tea per head of population than in the west. This course gave our merchants an opportunity to become acquainted with Mr. Estabrooks' method of doing business, and the quality of teas he will offer in bulk, it is safe to say, will merit the same confidence that has been accorded to "Red Rose" in packages.

One of the chief features of his trade in bulk teas, and one that has been successful in the east, will be to supply standard blends of black teas which always run uniform in quality, so that if a dealer buys one to-day he can be sure of getting exactly the same a year hence. These teas are known as "Estabrooks' Blended Teas." Mr. Estabrooks says that he finds this method has not been followed in Ontario in the past, and as a result retailers complain that they are not able to match teas as closely as they would like, but have to change from one brand to another.

In addition to standard blends, he will have always in stock in Toronto a complete assortment of Indian and Ceylon teas, imported direct from the countries of growth. He will have the further advantage of having at St. John one of the largest stocks of teas in Canada, from which supplies can be brought forward in a very few days.

To aid the handling of this business in the best way possible, he has lately secured the services of Mr. David Clark, who grew up in the London, Eng., tea trade, and was for twelve years buyer for one of the oldest established London tea firms. Mr. Clark will look after the interests of the trade in bulk teas in Toronto.

Since last September Mr. Estabrooks' business in Manitoba and the Northwest has developed rapidly. He carries there a full stock of "Red Rose" and bulk teas, from which Western orders are filled. That field is looked after by Mr. Stephen Hustwitt, formerly one of the best known men in the Toronto tea trade.

In St. John he has one of the most modern equipped tea blending and packing plants in Canada.

The Toronto office is in charge of Mr. H. E. Sewell, who will be well remembered by the lacrosse players of a few years ago.

BREAD BY WEIGHT.

A deputation of the bakers of Montreal waited on the Police Committee of that city on Thursday, May 29, and requested to be allowed to sell bread by weight. After some discussion a motion was carried providing that the bread should be sold in weights of 2, 3 and 4 lb., and that each loaf should be labelled with its weight and the name of the baker. Fancy bread is excepted.

WHOLESALE IMPORTING and MANUFACTURING GROCERS TORONTO.

HIGHLY COLORED TOMATO CATSUP.

THE attention of the Montreal Board of Health has recently been drawn to the highly colored catsups manufactured by Canadian firms and offered for sale as pure tomato catsup. The city analyst, Mr. M. S. Hersey, made some tests with results not very flattering to the makers of these goods.

When the representative of THE GROCER called at Mr. Hersey's office he was shown several pieces of silk that had been soaked in these catsups, as well as others soaked in home-made catsup. The former were dyed in several shades, ranging from a delicate pink or salmon color to almost a rose red, while the home-made catsup produced scarcely any perceptible color in the silk. No chemicals whatever were used to make the dye take.

The coloring matter in most of the catsups was found to be anlline, which, although not injurious to a person taking it, is yet not what one has a right to expect in bottles with labels (as most of these had) of "pure tomato catsup," "guaranteed pure," etc. Around the bottoms of the bottles could be seen a light salmon-colored sediment, much lighter in color than the catsup. In some cases the coloring matter gave a darker shade to the catsup, but as a rule the result was a bright red.

In a few makes a little benzoic acid had been found, which was doubtless used as a preservative.

The small quantities of these colorings that had been used in the catsup could scarcely do any harm ; although in a factory where the mixing is not done by skilled chemists, but by ordinary workmen, the inclusion of such substances into food is anything but desirable.

The greatest objection that can be raised by the consumer is that such goods are sold to him as pure, and, if he believes the label, guaranteed pure. It would be hard to know where to draw the line if this practice were allowed to go on ; and, as a result, something really injurious might be used in the manufacture of catsup, for coloring or other purposes, which would soon bring all brands, whether pure or impure, into bad odor with the public.

The remedy, in the opinion of wholesalers, rests with the retail trade. "If you buy a 45c. catsup," said one, "you can't expect it to be as good or pure as a $1 brand. All the really superior makes of catsup or anything else cost the most. If grocers would refuse to handle the cheap grades, or warn their customers against them, it would soon be found not to pay to manufacture an article that had to have objectionable ingredients In it to bring it down to a low price. Of course there is a demand for these cheap brands, but it comes from people who don't trouble their heads to consider what makes them cheap, and it is the grocer's duty to inform them."

"Do you think the authorities should prohibit the sale of these catsups that have been analyzed and found to be impure?"

"Not unless they are proved to be harmful to those who use them, and I don't think these are. But it might be a good thing if they prohibited the makers from selling them as pure. That ought to be punishable."

Tests are still being made of different brands of catsup, and it is possible that the sale of some of them may be prohibited.

VIEWS OF TORONTO WHOLESALERS

A representative of THE GROCER also called on a number of the leading wholesale grocers in Toronto to ascertain their views.

The first gentleman interviewed had never handled any catsup like that mentioned above, but believed that stuff like it was on the market. Like nearly everything else, that article could be had at almost any price, and as long as there was a demand for inferior makes they would be sold. Some cheap stuff had been offered him recently, but he had refused to touch it.

"Inferior catsups," another wholesaler said, "were never dyed ; they were dark in color of themselves." In support of this statement he showed several bottles of different makes. The high quality goods were light in color and the cheaper grades were deep in hue.

It was stated by another one in the business that all catsups were dyed more or less. The tomato after it was boiled was brown in color, and not of the bright red hue of most of this class of goods on the market. Cochineal was what was used in coloring catsups. This color would not be injurious to the health of anyone and no reason existed, in his opinion, for using aniline, a poisonous dye. He had never come in contact with a catsup dyed with it.

THE LARD SITUATION.

The N. K. Fairbank Co., Chicago, advise THE CANADIAN GROCER as follows : "Our advices give the following estimates of the stock of lard held in Europe and afloat, on June 1, to which we add estimates of former years and stocks in cities named :

Carelessness.

It is safe to estimate that fully one billion dollars of Merchandise is annually given away by kind hearted merchants who have formed the habit of Down Weight. At the same ratio we figure that the Money-Weight System now in use in over one hundred thousand stores is annually saving fifteen million one hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars.

Shouldn't this convince you of its usefulness and importance in every well regulated business?

THE TRANSPORTATION QUESTION IN BRITISH COLUMBIA.

THE business men of Vancouver and Victoria have recently been somewhat agitated over the question of transportation of merchandise to the Yukon. For some time an arrangement has been in force whereby United States vessels from such ports as Seattle have been permitted to call at Vancouver and Victoria and carry freight between those ports and other Canadian ports via United States ports. The object of this was, of course, to give the merchants of Vancouver and Victoria the facilities to reach the Yukon with their merchandise.

The present agitation has for its object the discontinuance of these privileges, it being felt that the steamship companies on the Coast were injuriously affected.

Recently the Boards of Trade of Vancouver and Victoria held meetings to discuss this question, and in both instances resolutions were passed opposing any change in the present conditions, at any rate until such transportation facilities are assured that will permit of the carrying trade being confined to Canadian vessels without injury being done to the commercial interests of the Province.

In view of the fact that no similar courtesies are extended by the United States Government to Canadian vessels, it is distasteful to most Canadians to allow our neighbors privileges which they deny us. At the same time, however, it is no use our cutting off our nose to spite our face.

To allow the United States vessels continuance of the privileges in regard to the carrying of trade to the Yukon no doubt means some loss to the vessel owners on the Coast. But the question is, whether by removing what may be termed this disability, a still greater would not be imposed upon the merchants in British Columbia who are catering to the Yukon trade. Of this the merchants are, no doubt, the best judges.

Unquestionably anything that would interfere with the transportation service would interfere with business; in fact, some of the merchants in the Yukon have already intimated to wholesale houses in Vancouver and Victoria, that if the present movement to cut off United States steamers from the carrying trade was successful they would be compelled to place their orders for merchandise in Seattle and other cities to the south instead of Victoria and Vancouver.

It is to be hoped that the resolutions which have been passed by the Boards of Trade of Victoria and Vancouver will receive that respect from the Government which is due to them.

THE NEW YORK TRADING-STAMP LAW.

AS our readers are well aware, the question as to the legality of anti-trading stamp legislation has been a live one for some time, both in the United States and Canada. At times the judgments of the courts are in favor of the anti-trading stamp laws, while now and again the decisions are adverse. In Ontario a few weeks ago the court decided that the Act passed by the Ontario Legislature a year ago was quite within the powers of the Legislature. Now comes the report of a judgment by the Appellate Court of New York, which declares ultra vires an Act by the Legislature of that State. The ruling of the court was to the effect that the Legislature had no power to prohibit the giving of trading stamps in the manner customary.

Although the courts are not at all unanimous in their decisions in regard to the matter of anti-trading stamp legislation, one thing is certain, the use of trading stamps is gradually being discontinued, so that the objects that are being sought by anti-trading stamp legislation are being accomplished at any rate.

AN EXAMPLE FOR OUR MERCHANTS.

THE merchants of New York have an organization which is one of the most progressive of its kind, at any rate on this continent. In addition to devising schemes for attracting trade, the organization devotes a good deal of attention to the government of the city. The members of the organization realize that bad government affects the business of the city as well as its moral affairs. Among its latest efforts in regard to the government of the city is an investigation into the general administration of civic affairs, the result of which is shown in an interesting document that has recently been issued to the public. The report deals with the police service, fire service, lighting, etc. The cost of these different departments is not only given for New York, but for all other cities as well, while the figures supplied are made all the more interesting by diagrams showing the expenditure per capita, etc., in New York as compared with other cities enumerated.

The business men of New York have set an example in this respect which the merchants in many Canadian cities might do well to follow. We cannot expect to get good civic or good government in any other particular unless the business men take a lively interest in public affairs. If the administration of municipal, Provincial or Dominion affairs is left to the professional politicians, the business men of the country have only themselves to blame when the results are legislation inimical to the commercial interests of the country.

TRADE QUESTIONS AT THE BOARDS OF TRADE CONFERENCE.

THE Conference of the various Boards of Trade throughout Canada, which is being held in Toronto this week, has fulfilled all that was expected of it, at any rate as far as the first day's proceedings are concerned, which is all that we can take cognizance of in this week's issue, as the meetings are still being held as we go to press. There are about 100 delegates present, and the manner in which they have disposed of the business, which has so far come before the Conference, has been done in a way that only practical and intelligent business men could dispose of it. To members of Parliament who were present it must have been somewhat of a revelation. We have no hesitation in saying that scarcely one of the questions which were disposed of at Wednesday's session would have been disposed of by any parliamentary body, even if it had a whole session in which to do so.

Instead of picking each other to pieces and impugning motives, them embers of the Conference criticized only the questions which were up for discussion. While several questions were disposed of none were done so in a perfunctory manner, due attention being given to each.

Most of the time was, of course, naturally given to the question of trade relations between Canada and Great Britain; in fact, this subject occupied the greater part of the day. This important question was introduced by Mr. George E. Drummond, of the Montreal Board of Trade, and the resolution to which he spoke maintained that Great Britain could best serve the interests of the Empire by giving the products of her colonies a preference in her markets as against the products of foreign countries; it being believed that it would stimulate trade and develop colonial enterprise. He pointed out that at present Great Britain gets only 16⅔ per cent. of her food supplies from her colonies, and 83⅓ per cent. from foreign countries.

A number of gentlemen spoke to this resolution, and it was eventually carried with the clause added which was recently passed by the Toronto Board of Trade, asking for the British Government to appoint a commission, composed of representatives of Great Britain and the colonies, to investigate trade conditions and to suggest such preferential treatment of imports from the various parts of the Empire as would be calculated to insure the fullest benefits.

Another important trade question which came up was with regard to the relations between Germany and Canada. As our readers are well aware, Germany has denied Canada the privileges of the minimum tariff on account of her influence in securing the abrogation of the favored nation treaties in 1897. The subject was brought up by a representative of the Kingston Board of Trade and demanded that Canada impose a countervailing duty on imports from Germany.

In the discussion which followed it was thought that this motion was a little drastic, and might result in injury to Canadian firms who were doing a large business with Germany, and eventually a motion was carried asking the Dominion Government to make such alterations in the tariff upon imports from foreign countries not having reciprocal relations with this country as to secure the protection of the natural products of the manufacturers of Canada.

The question of allowing the preferential duty only on imports coming into Canada through our own ports led to a somewhat lengthy discussion. It was brought up by Mr. W. Frank Hatheway, of St. John, but finally this gentleman withdrew his motion in favor of one moved by Mr. Robt. Munro, president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, asking that the preference on goods arriving by United States ports be limited to 25 per cent.

Among the other resolutions passed was one asking for the removal of the embargo which now exists in Great Britain against Canadian cattle; another, asking for State owned cables from Australia to India, and South Africa, and from South Africa as well as Canada to England. Still another resolution, was one in regard to the appointment of a practical representative in London. Mr. J. D. Allan, who has given a great deal of attention to the subject, and Mr. M. C. Ellis introduced the motion which was carried without dissent. Thus is the question of the need of such an official again brought forcibly to the attention of the Dominion Government.

OUR TRADE WITH JAPAN.

IT is understood that the Hon. Sydney Fisher, Minister of Agriculture, is about to visit Japan for the purpose of studying trade matters in that country. It will be remembered that about five years ago Canada sent a commissioner to Japan for this very purpose. The work he did was well done, and a great deal of information was brought back which was helpful to business men in this country who desired to do business with that country. In some lines an increased trade has sprung up with Japan as a result. This is particularly true of salmon, both canned and cured.

It is to be hoped that the visit of the Minister of Agriculture will be productive of still greater results. For, although our trade with Japan has increased somewhat, it is still smaller than it should be.

Last year the export trade to Japan amounted to less than $189 000, but this is an increase of over $67,000 since Canada sent her last trade commissioner to that country. The chief articles in which the increases have taken place are flour, carriages and bicycles, cotton goods, fish and fish products. There are, no doubt, great openings for trade in the Orient, and it will not do for Canada to delay in devising ways and means of securing a share of it. The United States is aggressively pushing for trade in China and Japan, and if we are not to be left behind altogether it is time we were up and doing.

THE RECENT LOWER TEMPERATURE.

IN referring to the recent lower temperature, The Trade, Baltimore, Md., says: "One of the important points in respect to this is that the spot stock of tomatoes in cans will have to do duty for a little longer than might otherwise have been the case, for this recurrence of low temperatures interferes with the growing and transplanting of tomato plants, all of which tend to defer the season for tomato-packing. Thus, everything, with the passage of time, tends to make corn the most reliable of the canners' crops for this year. It will unquestionably be a good season for those who have planted sugar corn, but we fear that the prevailing conditions and those likely to develop from them will tend to a temptation to pack green field corn."

TRADE OPPORTUNITIES IN NEW ONTARIO.

By "Traveller."

IT seems marvelous that Canadians should have known so little a very few years ago of the value of the resources of their own country. It is true that the great development to the south of the line has brought about such a consumption of raw material that in relation to many substances the supply has grown short. Of pulp wood, for instance, and of all kinds of timber, of chrome iron and asbestos, this is eminently true. The creation of a new market for many of these substances has been the cause of many openings presenting themselves in the new districts of Canada, notably in New Ontario, the development of whose water-powers, and timber and mineral wealth, has already built up many small towns as well as such places of importance as Sault St. Marie and Sudbury.

One is struck by the great difference in prices that obtains between this New Ontario and Old Ontario. Take such a necessary article as bricks. They are difficult to get anywhere from Algoma Mills to Sault St. Marie for less than about $19 per 1,000, and yet there is plenty of clay, cheap fuel, sand and labor, although the latter costs a little more than in the east, but the difference in price of labor is nothing compared to the difference in price of bricks between that section and further east. The same can be said of poultry, vegetables, butter and many other articles, of which there is a large importation into the country. Lumber, too, in spite of the large local supply, is high in price.

There is a good opening for a sawmill on the Mississaga River at Dean Lake or Dayton Station, and another for a hardwood mill north of Desbarats.

Sault Ste. Marie, Bruce Mines, Victoria Mines and Sudbury are great markets for garden stuff of all kinds. The neighborhood of these mines is not fitted for gardening, owing to the fact that fumes from the blast furnaces and roasting heaps destroy all vegetation. One would have to go more than five miles away to be rid of the influence of the gases. Points 30 miles away from these centres are just as advantageously situated as those nearer, as the railway rates for milk and all products of the garden are less than it costs to drive five miles in a clay country with occasional very bad roads.

Both the Canadian Pacific Railway and the Algoma Central Railway have officials who attend to the developing of the country and are ready to give information about these openings. Our own knowledge leads us to class as among the best places offering good openings, North Bay, Sturgeon Falls, the country both north and south of Warren Station, particularly the French River valley, Massey, Webbwood, the country north of Dean Lake and Dayton, and Desbarats, and the country north of Echo Bay and Garden River. It would be well for the intending pioneer to correspond with the railway officials above mentioned before starting, so as to get some detailed information as to their particular requirements. Their addresses are "The Colonization Agent, Canadian Pacific Railway, Montreal," and "The Land and Labor Agent, Algoma Central Railway, Sault Ste. Marie, Ont."

There is an opening for a store and hotel combined at Dayton Station, a tinsmith would find an opening at Desbarats, and a saddler would also do well at the latter place.

It seems almost needless to say that the fisherman and hunter can find a territory after their own hearts' desire in this region.

The climate of the North Shore of Lake Huron is almost identically the same as that of Peterboro' or Montreal, but drier than Montreal, owing to a higher elevation.

MARKETS AND MARKET NOTES

ONTARIO MARKETS.

Toronto, June 5, 1902.

GROCERIES.

BUSINESS this week in wholesale groceries is still good, with, perhaps, a slight improvement over a week ago. No remarkable changes have occurred excepting a slight decline in sugars, in paris lumps and certain grades of yellows. Canned goods are moving fairly well, and a few salmon are selling to arrive. A few shipments of the new-pack jobsters and finnan haddies have arrived and are being bought up quickly. The demand in fruits has eased off somewhat. The demand for coffees has improved a little, and the prices are steady. The spice market, generally, is quiet, and tapioca in the primary market is quiet with prices low. The tea market in Colombo is easier, and in London, Eng., steadier, as noted last week. In Japan teas quite a few transactions between wholesale houses, locally, have taken place and there has been quite a demand for China congous, with a few offering. There is a good demand for raisins, and Valencias still continue scarce.

CANNED GOODS.

In canned goods business, generally, is good and prices are unchanged. A few sorting-up orders have been received for canned vegetables, principally for corn, peas and tomatoes. The last-named are held at very firm prices. A fair sorting-up trade is being transacted in fruits, but some houses report trade in them a little lighter this week. In canned fish trade is keeping up fairly well. A few small shipments of the new pack of lobsters have arrived and show extra good quality. There has also been received a quantity of this season's pack of canned finnan haddies that have been bought up quickly. Canned salmon are also meeting with an active demand just now, and low-grade fish especially are moving freely. The high prices on the Coast are still maintained, and on the local market no change has taken place. Our quotations are as follows: Fraser River sockeye, $1.42½ for five-case lots and over, and $1.45 for less quantities. Northern sockeye, $1.25 to $1.30; cohoes, $1.05 to $1.15, according to quality. Canned haddies are worth $1 to $1.10.

COFFEES

The demand for green Rio coffees has improved locally and the prices are steady. Roasted coffees are experiencing a somewhat similar increase in sales and the market is rather stronger therefor. Green mild coffees are still quiet and no marked improvement has taken place in the market. The prices, locally, are unchanged. Our quotations are now as follows: Green Rio, No. 7, 7⅞c.; No. 6, 8c.; No. 5, 8¼c.; No. 4, 9c.; No. 3, 10 to 12c. per lb.

NUTS.

In nuts there has been very little business transacted and the prices are about the same as last week. No new features have developed in the primary markets.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

The local market is without feature. There has been no demand for syrups or molasses, and the prices are firm and unchanged. We quote: Corn syrup, 3½ to 3⅝c. in barrels and kegs; sugar syrups, 30 to 32c. for medium, and 35 to 40c. for bright. Molasses, 24 to 26c. for open-kettle.

RICE AND TAPIOCA.

Tapioca, on the primary markets, is quiet with prices low. A decline in tapioca is expected when the new crop comes in. Trade in rice is fair. Our quotations are as follows: B rice, 3¼c.; Japan, 5½ to 6c.; tapioca, 3½ to 3¾c., and sago, 3¾ to 4c. per lb.

See pages 39 and 40 for Toronto, Montreal, St. John and Halifax prices current.

SPICES.

The spice market generally is quiet. Pepper is steady and ginger is firm with an indication of an advance.

SUGAR.

The feature of this week's sugar market is a slight decline in paris lumps and some lines of yellows. Paris lumps, in 50 and 100-lb. boxes, are 5c., bright coffee, 10c., bright yellows, 5c., and No. 2 yellow, 10c. lower. This change is owing to the quietness of the market and foreign competition. Despite the low prices prevalent buying is light and very little sugar is moving. Cane sugars are steady and unchanged. The European beet sugar market advanced slightly since our last issue and again reacted, and it is now the same as a week ago. At practically all the trade centres refined sugar is only being purchased on a hand to-mouth basis, and buyers show little inclination to depart from this method. Stocks have accumulated in the hands of the refiners, but a large business will lighten the supply when the warm weather comes. In raws, business has also been quiet and transactions have been made the same as last week for the principal grades in New York. In the latter city the prices are 3 7-16c. for 96 degree test centrifugals and 2⅞c. for 89 degree test muscavados. The selling price of molasses sugar, 2⅝c. for 89 degree test, was 1 1-16c. less than last week's quotations, but this grade has lately been irregular. In the United States, for the week, the total receipts of sugar were 54,847 tons and the meltings, 31,000 tons. The stocks in the Republic and Cuba together were 590,618 tons as against 565,271 tons last week and 413,439 tons for the same week last year. This is an increase of 177,179 tons over last year. The total stocks in Europe and America were 3,014,618 tons against 2,058,206 tons last year at the same uneven dates, and 3,324,520 tons at the even date of April 1, 1902. In Cuba there are 23 centrals grinding as against five last year. Some progress is expected to be made this week in the United States Senate on the Cuban Reciprocity Bill.

TEAS.

The Japan market is still keeping firm for first-class teas at the advance and the report is corroborated that the shortage there this year in the crop will be fully 30 per cent. This has affected the market for those teas of last season's crop remaining on hand, and their prices are much firmer. The demand here has been stimulated by the reports of damage to the crop there. On the spot there have been quite a few transactions between the wholesale houses. Quite a demand has sprung up for China Congous, of which only a few are offering. Locally, the improvement in the demand for Indians and Ceylons has been marked, but there are no changes in prices. The tea market in Colombo is easier, but, as noted last week, it is steadier in London, England. Ceylon greens are still somewhat scarce, and the demand is fairly good. Some orders for good round lots of Ceylon teas have been cabled to Colombo this week. One house has alone sent orders for a little over 2,000 chests. Some of the Japan tea houses are not offering at present owing to the high prices ruling. The settlements in Japan are about one-half of what they were this time last year.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS.—The market continues steady and trade is fair. There is still some business on importation account. The local quotations remain at 5¾ to 6c. for Filiatras, and 6½ to 7c. for Patras.

VALENCIA RAISINS.—The stocks of raisins on hand are light. There is a big demand for them from the steamboats for table use and cooking purposes. The markets in London, Eng., show no signs of declining. The prices are firm at 7c. for selected and 7¼ to 7½c. for layers.

DATES.—There is very little trade doing in dates, and the prices are unchanged. We quote dates in bulk at 4½c.; and in packages, at 6¼ to 6½c.

PRUNES.—There is a fair demand for prunes this week, and they are scarce with some houses. We quote: Californian prunes, 100-110's, 5c.; 90-100's, 5½ to 6¼c.; 80-90's, 6½ to 7c.; 70-80's, 6¾ to 7¼c.; 60-70's, 7½ to 8c.; 50-60's, 8 to 8½c.; 40-50's, 8¾ to 10c.

CALIFORNIAN EVAPORATED FRUITS.—There is not much trade doing in either Californian evaporated apricots or peaches. We quote 11 to 14c. per lb. for peaches and 13 to 17c. for apricots. New Santa Clara apricots are quoted f.o.b. the Coast at 7c. in 50-lb. boxes, and 7½c. in 25-lb. boxes in carload lots.

GREEN FRUITS.

There has been a big demand for bananas this spring from all quarters and the prices continue high. They are being imported in much larger quantities this year than before. Pineapples are plentiful, but the good demand for them keeps the market well cleaned. The crop this year has been large. The first Canadian strawberries were on the market this week, but it will be 10 days or more before any quantity will be offered for sale. There has been a scarcity of tomatoes and they have advanced 50c. per case. Messina oranges are higher. We quote as follows: Oranges, Mexicans, $3 to $3.25 per box; Paper Rind St. Michaels, $2 per ½-box; Mediterranean sweets, $3 75 to $4.50; Valencias, $5.75 to $6.50 per small case, $6 50 to $7.50 per large case; Messina oranges, $3 50 to $4; grape fruit, $4 to $5.50 per box; bananas, $1.50 to $2.50 for firsts, and $1.25 to $1.60 for eight hands; pineapples, $3 to $3.50 per case; Egyptian onions, $3.50 per sack; Messina lemons, $2.50 to $3.50; Palermo lemons, $2.25 to $2.75; Sorrento lemons, $2.50 to $3.50 per crate; Southern tomatoes, $3.50 to $4.50 per case of 6 baskets; strawberries, common, 12 to 12½c., and fancy, 15 to 17c. per quart; Southern cucumbers, $2.50 to $2.75 per bushel hamper, and $1.20 per doz.

VEGETABLES.

The vegetable market is quiet. The bulk of the trade is in green stuff and potatoes. The prices of carrots and turnips have advanced 50 and 15c. per bag respectively. We quote as follows: Green onions, 7 to 8c. per doz.; rhubarb, 20 to 40c. per doz.; carrots, $1.40 to $1.50 per bag; turnips, 40 to 50c. per bag; lettuce, 20 to 30c. per doz.; radishes, 20 to 30c.; mint and parsley, 20 to 25c.; cabbage, 75c. to $1 per doz.; dry Egyptian onions, $1.75 per bush; potatoes, 90c. to $1 per bag; asparagus, 50 to 75c. per doz.; Californian cabbage, $3 per crate; new potatoes, $8 per bbl.; spinach, 50c. per bush.; parsnips and beets, 40 to 50c. per bag.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—The quality of eggs arriving is not so good as it was owing to the hot weather, but prices have advanced ½c. per doz. Picklers will soon be through, and eggs are then expected to drop.

BEANS—There is but little trade doing. Quotations are $1.30 per bush. for choice hand-picked, and $1.10 to $1.20 for prime.

HONEY—The market continues quiet. We quote as follows: Clover, in 60-lb. tins, 9½ to 10c.; less quantities, 10 to 11c. per lb.; in combs, $2 to $3 per doz.; dark honey, 5 to 5½c. per lb.

MAPLE SYRUP AND SUGAR—Trade is quiet and the prices are unchanged. We quote: Maple syrup, in 10-lb. tins 90c., and 90c. to $1.10 per imperial gallon. Maple sugar is quoted at 9 to 10½c. per lb.

DRIED AND EVAPORATED APPLES—Trade in dried apples is dull and the stocks of evaporated on hand are very light. Our quotations are: Dried apples, 5 to 6c. per lb., and evaporated 10½ to 11c. per lb.

HAY—The receipts are liberal and the demand is fair. The prices range from $8 to $10.25 per ton according to quality.

POTATOES—The market is steady and the receipts are free. Potatoes are worth 70 to 75c. per bag on the track.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—The butter making season is now here, and the arrivals of dairy butter are heavy. The best demand is for choice dairy butter in tubs, and merchants say they cannot get enough of it. Creamery butter continues in fair demand. We quote: Choice 1-lb. prints, 15 to 16c.; large rolls, 14c.; tubs, best quality, 15c.; large rolls, medium grade, 12 to 13c., and tubs, medium grade, 12 to 13c. per lb. Creamery prints are quoted at 19 to 21c., and creamery solids, 19 to 20c. per lb.

CHEESE—The market keeps weakening with the advance of the season, and cheese is now being sold at the factories at prices ranging from 9 to 9 11-16c. But not much business is being transacted as the buyers are holding off in the expectation of their being lower prices shortly. Locally, quotations for new cheese of this year's make range from 10¼ to 10½c.

FISH.

Business is still brisk, and good sales of all kinds of fish are reported. The demand for trout, and especially for whitefish, is so heavy that fish dealers are unable to keep on hand sufficient stocks to supply their customers. The prices continue about the same. We quote: Fresh fish—Lake Erie herring, 4 to 5c.; perch, 4 to 5c.; trout, 6½c.; pike, 4c.; British Columbian salmon, 20c.; whitefish, 7½ to 8c.; catfish, 10c. per doz.; blue fish, 9c. per lb.; mackerel, 12 to 15c.; rock bass, 4c.; eastern salmon, 25 to 30c.; speckled trout, 25c.; halibut, 15c.

GRAIN, FLOUR AND BREAKFAST FOODS.

GRAIN—The wheat market remains steady at 86 for Manitoba No. 1 hard, and 82½ and 80½c. for No. 1 and No. 2 Northern. Oats still are advancing and they are now worth 48c. at outside stations, or 2c. more than they were a week ago. Red and white wheat is worth 80 to 85c.; barley, 52 to 57c., and rye, 60c. per bushel at outside points. On the St. Lawrence market the quotations are 80 to 84c. for red and white Ontario wheat, 68 to 69 for goose, 50 to 50½c. for oats, 50c. for barley and 62c. for rye per bushel.

FLOUR—Buying has slackened off during the week and the prices are easier. The buyers have now secured sufficient stock to supply current wants. The price of Ontario patents in bags is 15c. higher. We quote: Ontario patents, in bags, $3.60 to $3.75; Hungarian patents, $4 to $4.15; Manitoba bakers', $3.70 to $3.85; straight roller, $3.30 to $3.40 per bbl. in Toronto.

BREAKFAST FOODS—There has been no change during the week and the prices are steady. Trade is keeping up well for this time of year. We quote as follows: Oatmeal, standard and granulated, in carlots on track here, $5.20; standard rolled oats in carlots on track here, $4.90; per bbl.; in wood, 10c. more; broken lots are 20c. per bbl. extra; rolled wheat, $2.40 in 100-lb. bbl.; cornmeal, $3.60; split peas, $4.75; pot barley, $4.25, in 196-lb. bbls.

HIDES, SKINS AND WOOL.

HIDES—A weakness in the cured hide market has resulted in a drop of ¼ to ½c. per lb. The others are unchanged. We quote: No. 1 green, 7½c.; No. 2 green, 6½c.; No. 1 green, steers, 8½c.; No. 2 green, steers, 7½c.; cured, 8 to 8¼c.

"Our sales for Heinz pickling vinegar are double what they were a year ago," say H. P. Eckardt & Co.

Before buying, grocers would find it to their advantage to get the prices of T. Kinnear & Co. on prunes.

T. Kinnear are just in receipt of a shipment of "Phoenix" brand pineapples in 1½-lb. tins, and the price of these is low.

H. P. Eckardt & Co. report that they are selling Californian seeded muscatel raisins, in 12 and 16-oz. packages, at right prices.

The improvements in the Michel Lefebvre vinegar works now in progress will make that factory one of the largest on the continent in the near future.

QUEBEC MARKETS.

Montreal, June 5, 1902.

GROCERIES.

TRADE in general has improved this week, the grocery business being fairly active. Canned meats have been one of the interesting lines of the week, the price of Armour's having advanced in sympathy with the Canadian market. The advance is on a basis of 15c. for pound, and 25c. for 2-lb. tins. Cheese has gone down since, and jobbers are now quoting 11 to 11¼c. for small and 10¾ to 11c. for large. Manufacturers of clothespins have again placed their goods on the market in good supply, and the scarcity of the past couple of weeks has been relieved. Pastry flour has advanced about 25c. per bbl. Flaxseed is about ½c. higher, and is now quoted at 4¾ to 5¼c., according to the quality. Evaporated apples are still scarce. London cables report a higher price for cocoa, at the last auction an average of 1s. per cwt. being obtained.

SUGAR.

The market for sugar remains quiet. Granulated sells at $3.70. No. 1 yellow is still quoted at $3.05, but in some other grades there has been a decline, No. 2 selling at $3.15, bright, at $3.40, and cream, at $3.45, a decline of 5c. in bright, and 10c. in No. 2 and cream. According to a new understanding between wholesalers and refiners, extra ground, powdered and paris lump white sugars will be sold in future at 5c. less.

TEAS.

There is a good deal of tea changing hands among wholesalers at present, but the demand from retailers and business with country points is very quiet. All reports from Japan confirm the strength of that market and the higher prices. Green teas continue to be firm, and pingsneys are being quoted by some houses at an advance. The Hong Kong market for black teas opened easier, and this line is 1c. cheaper than last year. A London advice on the Indian and Ceylon markets reports a better tone throughout the market, prices showing a tendency to stiffen, with the exception of commonest.

SYRUPS.

There is nothing doing. We quote corn syrups as follows: 3½c. in bbls.; 3⅝c. in ½ bbls.; 3¾c. in ¼ bbls.; $1.60 in 38½ lb. and $1.20 in 25-lb. pails.

MOLASSES.

There is a fair amount of business passing in Barbados molasses, and though many prices are asked and obtained, the market stays around 23c. One house reports business in new molasses at 26c., but this is the only case. From 23 to 24c. would be the average price to the trade. For old molasses 20c. is taken. At the primary market the first cost is now 7½c., which would be about 22c. here. Antigua sells for 24c. and Porto Rico, 38c.

CANNED GOODS.

There is no change in the position of canned vegetable and fruit on this market. Canned meats have been advanced in the United States about 10 per cent. A much brighter prospect is reported in French peas, a cable of May 28 quoted the same prices as last year, which warrants the assumption that the expected damage to the crop by frost did not materialize, and that the new crop will be at least an average one. Quotations are as follows: Peas, 82½c. to $1.15; corn (ordinary), 80c.; tomatoes, 95 to 97½c.; gallon apples, $2.85 to $2.90; 3-lb. apples, $1.10; salmon, $1.00 to $1.05; for pink; $1.30 for spring; $1.32 for Rivers Inlet red sockeye; $1.45 for Fraser River red sockeye, and $1.42½ to $1.45 for "Clover Leaf" talls.

SPICES.

Spices of all sorts are still moving actively. Our quotations remain as follows: Nutmegs, 30 to 55c. per lb., as to size; penang mace, 45 to 50c. per lb.; as to quality; pimento, ground, 12½ to 15c.; cloves, 15 to 25c.; pepper, ground, black, 17 to 22c., according to grade; white, 25 to 27c.; ginger, whole, Cochin, 15 to 17c.; Japan, 13 to 14c.; Jamaica, 16 to 20c.; Afghan, 12 to 13c.; ground, Japan, 15c.; Cochin, 16 to 17c.; Jamaica, 20 to 22c., and Afghan, 13 to 14c.

RICE AND TAPIOCA.

There has been no change in this market. The demand is good, and a good trade is doing. Our quotations are as follows: B rice, in bags, $3.02½; in ½ bags, $3.07½; in ¼ bags, $3.12½; in pockets, $3.17½. In 10-bag lots an allowance of 10c. is made. CC rice,, $2.92½ in bags; $2.97½ in ½ bags; $3.02½ in ¼ bags, and $3.07½ in pockets. In the open territory prices are about 10c. less. Patna rice is worth 4 to 5c. per lb., and tapioca, 3⅛ to 3⅝c.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS.—It is reported that further damage to the crop in Greece has been done, and prices on the primary market are firmer. The largest holders in New York have advanced prices 1-16c. London operators refuse to believe that much damage has been done, although it is apparent that Greece, like many other Southern countries, is experiencing some unusually inclement weather. Locally, there is no change in the prices. We quote: Fine Filiatras, 5⅝c. in half cases; cleaned, 6c.; 1-lb. cartons, 8c.; finest Vostizzas, 7¾ to 8c. per lb.

VALENCIA RAISINS.—The inquiry for these keeps up, but there is practically none to offer. Medium grade fruit has advanced on the primary market from 1 to 2s., and the market is bare of finest fruit. We quote as follows: Finest offstalk, 6¼c.; selected, 6⅝c., and layers, 7¼ to 7½c. per lb.

SULTANA RAISINS.—The market is firm although the demand is not large. Medium and fine fruit are both scarce. The price is 9c. per lb.

CANDIED PEELS.—There is no change. We quote: Citron, 16½c.; orange, 11½c.; lemon, 10½c.

MALAGA RAISINS.—A fair business is doing, and our quotations are now as follows: London layers, $1.50 to $1.60; "Connoisseur Clusters," $2.15 to $2.25; ½'s, 65 to 70c.; "Royal Buckingham Clusters," $3.30 to $3.35; ¼'s, $1.05 to $1.10; "Excelsior Windsor Clusters," $4.50 to $4.60; ¼'s, $1.30 to $1.40.

DATES.—There is a moderate demand. Hallowees are quoted at 4½c. per lb.

FIGS.—A fairly good demand is experienced this week. Tapnets are quoted at $1.20 and layers, at $1.15.

CALIFORNIAN RAISINS.—Seeded Californians are in good demand. The price is 9¼ to 9½c. per lb.

PRUNES.—The demand keeps up at unchanged prices, and we quote 8½c. for 40-50's; 8c. for 50-60's; 7¾c. for 60-70's; 7½c. for 70-80's; 6¾c. for 80-90's; 6½c. for 90-100's.

CALIFORNIAN EVAPORATED FRUITS.—There is no change in this market. Trade is fair. Apricots sell for 14½c.; peaches, 10½c., and pears, 10c.

NUTS.

The market is quiet. Brazil nuts have advanced considerably and are now worth 11¾ to 12½c. We quote: Walnuts, 9¾ to 11c.; Tarragona almonds, 12 to 13c.; shelled walnuts, 16½ to 17½c.; shelled almonds, 26 to 27c.; Jordan shelled almonds, 42c.; filberts, 8¾ to 9¼c.; pecans, 15 to 16c.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER.—There is no change in the price of butter, which remains at 19½c. Deliveries have been active during the week, most of the factories now being engaged in making butter altogether, and it is thought that the market will become overstocked at the present rate of offering. Low prices would naturally follow, and a return of the factories to cheese making.

CHEESE.—At the wharf, Montreal, cheese sold this week at 9½c., which is an advance of ¼c. over last week's prices. One small lot brought 9⅝c., but this was the only exception. Offerings are not large, but may soon increase. The demand for export is fair. Ontario's new make is still selling at 10⅛ to 10¼c.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS.—The market has advanced ½c. on eggs, and 14 to 14½c. is now being paid for round lots. Receipts have increased, but the demand is good and quite sufficient to dispose of the present offerings. The market is firm. No. 2 eggs are quoted at 12½ to 13c.

HONEY.—The market is dull. We quote: Buckwheat honey in comb, 9 to 10c.; strained, 7 to 8c.; white clover comb, 13 to 14c.; white extracted, 9 to 10c. per lb.; slightly tinged, 10 to 11c.

ASHES.—The market has weakened and a decline in the price of first and second pots is quoted. Pearls are unchanged. Prices are: Firsts, $4.15 to $4.20; seconds, $3.70 to $3.75; pearls, $6 per 100 lb.

MAPLE PRODUCTS.—The market is still quiet. Sugar is quoted 2c. lower, but syrups are steady and unchanged. We quote: Syrups, 70 to 80c. in large tins, and 50 to 60c. in small tins. Sugar, 7 to 9c. per lb.

POTATOES.—The demand for potatoes is fairly good, and with light supplies throughout the country, the market is firm. In small lots, choice stock have sold at $1 to $1.10 per bag. Choice Quebec, in carlots, are quoted at 90c., and choice Ontarios, 75 to 80c. per bag.

BEANS.—These are quoted somewhat lower this week. The market has improved since the decline and a fair trade is doing at steady prices. Primes are now quoted at $1.25 to $1.30.

GREEN FRUITS.

The market for green fruits is still quiet. All lines, excepting one or two, are in fair supply. These are Florida tomatoes, which are scarce and have advanced $1 per crate, and Egyptian onions, which are ½c. per lb. higher. English and Canadian cucumbers are offering in good quantities. Green and wax beans have appeared on the market. Cabbage is $1 higher this week. FLOUR AND GRAIN.

FLOUR.—There has been no important change in the market. Straight rollers are quoted somewhat higher. The business doing is mostly in small lots. We quote as follows: Manitoba spring wheat patents, $4 to $4.30; winter wheat patents, $3.90 to $4.10; strong bakers', $3.80 to $4; straight rollers, $3.65 to $3.75.

GRAIN.—The local market is not active. A good inquiry for oats was experienced, but not much business resulted. Rye is ½c. higher, and barley is quoted at an advance of 2c. Corn is lower, and there is but a very light demand. We quote: Ontario No. 1 spring wheat afloat May, 78c.; No. 2 spring wheat, 76c.; peas, 85½ to 86c.; rye, 63c.; oats, 49c., ex-store; corn, 70 to 70½c.; buckwheat, 68½ to 69c., middle freights; barley, 59c.

OATMEAL.—There is no quotable change in this market. Rolled oats are quiet at last week's advance. The price is now $5.65 in bbls., and $2.77½ in bags. Other oatmeals are worth $2.95 per bag.

FEED.—The market remains very firm, under light supplies and a good inquiry. We quote as follows: Ontario bran, in carlots, $20 to $20.50 per ton; shorts, $22 to $22.50; Manitoba bran, $19 to $20; shorts, $22 per ton, including bags.

BALED HAY.—The market is still active. The demand for export to South Africa keeps up, notwithstanding the declaration of peace. No change has been made in the prices. We quote: No. 1 timothy, $9.50 to $10; No. 2, $8.50 to $9; clover, $7.50 to $8 per ton, in carlots.

MONTREAL NOTES.

Eggs are ½c. higher.

Pastry flour is 25c. per barrel higher.

Florida tomatoes have advanced $1 per crate.

Potash, firsts and second pots have declined.

No. 2, bright and cream yellow sugars have declined from 5 to 10c.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

St. John, N.B., June 2, 1902.

BUSINESS continues to be quite active. The markets do not show much change. The formation of the guild among the larger number of our wholesale grocers, having particular reference to sugar and binding its members not to import foreign sugar, has had two effects, at least two more noticeable than others. In the first place, some who did not give much attention previously to sugar are now importing the foreign, particularly granulated, and selling at rather under the guild prices. In the second place, manufacturers are largely using the foreign sugar. The guild, however, are well pleased with the working of the arrangement so far. They are selling large quantities of goods and making a moderate profit.

OILS.—In burning oils there continues to be a large demand; larger than usual for the season. Paint oils are still firm at the full prices. Turpentine is unchanged. In benzine, we quote a small advance. Gasoline is also very firm at rather higher figures. Lubricating oils are moving very freely. The demand is particularly large this year. For seal and cod oil full prices are asked. Supplies held are very light.

SALT.—The cargo of Liverpool coarse salt received last week was sold entirely out, importers not putting any into warehouse. Quite a large cargo shortly due is, it is said, fully sold to arrive. Prices are rather higher. Further direct supplies are uncertain. Other lines are unchanged, and our quotations are now as follows: Liverpool coarse, 55 to 60c.; English factory-filled, 95c. to $1; Canadian fine, $1 per bag; cheese and butter salt, bulk, $2.40 per bbl.; 5-lb. bags, $2.85 to $2.90 per bbl.; 10-lb. bags, $2.70 to $2.75 per bbl.; 20-lb. wood boxes, 22c. each; 10-lb. wood boxes, 14c. each; cartons, $2 per case of 2 dozen; English bottled salt, $1.25 to $1.30 per dozen; mineral rock salt, 60c. per 100 lb. (Selected lumps.)

CANNED GOODS.—Dealers report a good year. Nearly all lines have shown a good fair profit. Vegetables are firmly held. Corn, which was not so largely bought last year as usual, owing to considerable old stock being held, is now in light supply. Peas are not a large stock and tomatoes are short. Higher prices are being asked. In meats there is an active sale. Dealers who bought early are making a nice profit. at the advancing prices. In salmon, some spring fish are being sold for future delivery. Very little of the higher-grade sockeye fish now comes here. In domestic sardines, finnan haddies and herring there is considerable interest. There is an active demand. Prices are unchanged. In fruits, fair sales are reported. Gallon apples are about out of this market. There is improved inquiry for peaches. Yellows only are sold. Oysters are low and have an active demand.

GREEN FRUITS.—There is an active business. Strawberries come in more freely, but the sale is not large till the native berries are received. Native rhubarb is freely received and is low. Bananas are low and sell very freely. Oranges are being sold cheap, but for best stock quite full figures are still asked. Lemons show a wide range in price and are low. Sales are large. In pines there have been very free receipts. There is, however, no very active demand. There is but a limited sale for cucumbers at present prices.

DRIED FRUITS.—There is some movement in Californian seeded raisins. This is the only line of raisins selling, except a few loose muscatels. Currants have a steady sale at the rather higher figures. New York cleaned, in cartons, are chiefly sold. Prunes, which keep very low, have a fairly active demand. Evaporated peaches and apricots do not sell here. Evaporated apples are out of the market except a very few held for high figures. Flaked have quite a demand. Dates are offered at about last year's opening figures for futures. New peels, for later shipment, will be rather lower than last year. The market is bare. There are few figs and no sale. Quite a few Bermuda onions are held. Egyptian are higher and very firm.

DAIRY PRODUCE.—In eggs, while receipts are not very large, it is thought prices will be rather lower. There is but a fair sale. Butter is rather unsettled. But little first-class stock is being received, and this brings full figures, selling freely. There is too much dairy print butter being consigned. It quickly goes off in quality. Cheese are scarce, and full prices are still asked. Domestic come in but slowly. The sale is chiefly in twin cheese.

SUGAR.—The low prices still hold, but it is generally thought there will be no lower figures. The low price of granulated has caused it to have almost all the demand. A fair quantity of foreign granulated is still received.

MOLASSES.—A cargo of Porto Rico molasses to be forwarded to Fredericton arrived this week; also a cargo of Barbados. This is the first cargo to come by sailer for some time, that brought by steamer usually supplying the market. Prices are low.

FISH.—Fresh fish have practically all the business. In gaspereaux the catch has been better this week. In shad, there is a fair catch. The fish are large and they sell freely, fresh and smoked. Halibut are plentiful and low. This is a fine fish. They run very large. Salmon are being received. The supply is chiefly from the north of the Province. Harbor fish will soon be plentiful. Fresh cod and haddock are freely received, and the price is low. Dry cod and pollock are unchanged in price and dull. Pickled herring have little inquiry. Smoked herring continue very low. We quote: Haddies, 4½ to 5c.; smoked herring, 5 to 6c.; fresh haddock and cod, 2 to 2½c.; boneless fish, 4 to 5c.; pollock, $1.50 to $1.60 per 100 lb.; pickled herring, $1.50 to $1.75 per ½ bbl.; Canso herring, $5.75 per bbl.; kippered gaspereaux, $1.00 per box; Shelburne, $2.50 per ½ bbl.; dry cod, $3.50 to $3.65; fresh gaspereaux, 50c.; smoked, do., $1; halibut, 6 to 7c.; shad, 10 to 12c.; salmon, 15 to 18c.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL.—In flour prices are held firm at the advance. There is a fair business. The sharp advance in oatmeal finds a bare market here. The demand is not large. Oats are again higher. They have a fair sale. Cornmeal shows little change. Beans are dull and the market is hardly as firm. Split peas are scarce and high. Barley has a light sale. Quotations are as follows: Manitoba flour, $4.80 to $4.90; best Ontario, $4.20 to $4.35; medium, $3.75 to $4.00; oatmeal, $5.20 to $5.25; cornmeal, $3.10 to $3.15; middlings, $2[illegible] to $28; oats, 52 to 54c.; handpicked beans, $1.50 to $1.60; prime, $1.40 to $1.50; yellow eye beans, $2.80 to $3.00; split peas, $5.15 to $5.25; barley, $4.50 to $1.55; hay, $12 to $14.

ST JOHN NOTES.

Cream of tartar continues firm at the higher figures.

Hops are quoted rather higher. The local demand is not large.

L. G. Crosby received a cargo of Barbados molasses this week.

Mr. Ward, representing J. P. Mott & Co., Halifax, was in the city this week.

Orders have been freely booked during the past week for "Red Clover" salmon.

John Sealy is now daily receiving fresh salmon. These are our finest fresh fish. They are largely shipped to Boston.

Notice has been given that the two sons of the late Hon. A. F. Randolph, Fredericton, who were associated with him in business, have formed a new partnership and will continue the business under the old firm name of A. F. Randolph & Sons. They, this week, received a cargo of choice and fancy Porto Rico molasses.

MANITOBA MARKETS.

Winnipeg, Man., June 2, 1902.

THERE is very little that is new to be said of the business situation, except that the week has been one of almost unbroken fine and warm weather, and vegetation has been very rapid in consequence. All lines of business have been stimulated by the improvement. Jobbing houses have not done as heavy a sorting trade as they expected, but should the present weather continue there will be a very large trade right through the summer. There have been few changes in prices this week, and all lines seem to be holding steady.

SUGARS.—The demand is strong. Merchants seem all agreed that the price is as low as it will go, and they are anxious to secure lots at the present figures. Very many carlots have been disposed of here by the manufacturers' agents. Prices are unchanged at $4.40 for granulated, and $3.80 for bright yellows.

SALT.—There has been a strong demand ever since the season opened. This was caused by stocks last fall being very light, and the largely increased immigration this spring. Prices are without change since the opening of the season and are slightly lower than last year at the same period. Common fine, $1.80; common coarse, $1.80; dairy, 100—3, $3.25; dairy, 60—5, $3.15.

EVAPORATED AND DRIED FRUITS.—There is nothing new to report as to currants and raisins, but Californian evaporated fruits are all in good demand, and prices are firm and inclined to advance. Evaporated apples are so scarce that dealers here are experiencing difficulty in filling their requirements, and it is reported that it would be well nigh impossible to round up another car in Ontario. A car of Oregon prunes has been received and are very favorably spoken of, as they are large and fine in appearance and at the same time have more of the flavor of the genuine Bosnia fruit. Prices for the week are firm, We quote as follows: Evaporated apples, 11¼ to 11¾c.; dried, 8 to 8½c.; Californian evaporated fruits, peaches, 11 to 11½c.; apricots, 13 to 13½c. for choice and 14 to 14½c. for the fancy grades. Prunes are very firm at 5 to 8½c. per lb.

COFFEE.—The market is easier in tone and No. 5 Rios are now quoted at 9 to 9½c. per lb.

CANNED GOODS.—The situation does not appear to have developed any new features. Corn is offering very freely at $1.20 to $1.25 per case; tomatoes are firm also, and the demand seems to be increasing rather than diminishing in spite of the presence of large stocks of fresh tomatoes. The price remains at $2.40.

GREEN FRUITS.—The market is fairly well supplied in all lines with the exception of strawberries, but it is anticipated that the first shipment of Hood River berries will arrive this week. Cherries are $2.50 per 20-lb. box. Cucumbers have dropped to $1.95 per doz. Oranges are unchanged at the following prices: Mediterranean sweets, 176 to 250, $5, 288 to 360, $4, St. Michael, 150 to 250, $5.25, 288 to 300, $4.50, 360 to 420, $4; car of box apples, $2.75; strawberries, $5; cherries, $3; pines, $3.50.

FLOUR.—Trade is very good and the mills are being heavily taxed to meet the demands of home and export trade. The prices are unchanged, and our quotations are now as follows: Ogilvie's Hungarian Patent, $2.15; Glenora Patent, $2; Alberta, $1.85; Manitoba, $1.70; Imperial, XXXX, $1.25; Nestor, $1.15; Lake of the Woods Milling Company, Five Roses, $2.05; Red Patent, $1.95; Medora, $1.65; XXXX, $1.25; Hudson's Bay Hungarian Patent, $2.05; Strong Bakers', $1.90; Leader, $1.50; XXXX, $1.25; Gladstone Sweet Home Hungarian, $2.05; Home Rule, $1.90; Headingly Hungarian, $2.05; Favorite Family Patent, $1.80; Strong Bakers', $1.60; Pansy, $1.25.

CEREALS.—There is practically nothing new to report in this market beyond the fact that white beans are firmer. We quote: Rolled oats, 80's, $2.20; 40's, $1.10; 20's, 55c. Granulated and standard oatmeal, $2.75; split peas, $2.85; cornmeal, $1.75. Barley—Pot, $2.35. White beans, $1.65. Package goods—Quaker Oats, $4 per case of 3 doz.; Pettijohn's Wheat, $2.85 per case of 2 doz.; Cream of Wheat, $5.50 per case of 3 doz.; Malt Breakfast Food, $3.35 per case of 2 doz.; Swiss Breakfast Food, $3.50 per case of 3 doz.; Grape Nuts, $2 per case of 2 doz.; Postum Cereal, $2.25 per case of 2 doz.

NOVA SCOTIA MARKETS.

Halifax, June 2, 1902.

THE fine weather of last week was quite an incentive to trade, and many orders that were delayed the week previous were sent out, while at the same time the week's regular trade was attended to. There is still a continuation of activity in the grocery trade; all lines are kept busy and the outlook for a continuation of the same is very promising. Good reports continue to come in from all sections of the country, and the unusual activity developed in the city is a good index of conditions throughout the Province.

The retail and jobbing trade, though not so active since the departure of the fourth contingent, is in a fairly healthy state and considerable extra business is being done by the jobbers. Work is plentiful and the reatilers report weekly and monthly bills paid very promptly. This condition, which has previously been noted in the wholesale trade, still continues.

Flour prices remain firm at advance noted last week. The export of this article last week amounted to 2,037 barrels, principally to the West Indies and to Newfoundland. Oatmeal, cornmeal and rolled oats are all firm and have advanced slightly. The millers are asking much higher prices on all these than formerly. Feeds are in light stock, but at this season the demand is not so great as earlier in the season. Oats are scarce and the market firm and slightly advanced.

Farm produce, especially last year's crop, is becoming very scarce and is largely advancing. Potatoes, which had been selling at 45c. until two weeks ago, are now up to 60c. and in some cases 65c. per bushel. Remarkable in this connection is the fact that potatoes in Boston are now as cheap almost as they are here, whereas they are generally 35 to 50c. higher in Boston and New York than here, thus allowing a chance for export.

Butter is coming in now more plentifully from the country home dairies and the market is easier with one to two cents decrease in price quotations. Eggs are remarkably scarce for this season. They have never been below 12c., which is somewhat unusual, and they have lately advanced to 14c. The producers are evidently holding back supplies and pickling in hopes of higher prices later on, or else the hen has gone on strike.

The sugar and molasses market is still unchanged, and prices are firmly maintained. With the report of a few weeks ago that the primary market might probably be higher, those who were already noted as cutting prices have decided that this might turn out unprofitable, and the market all round has assumed a more even tone.

The fish market abroad is only slightly improved, and even though only small quantities of old fish are now held, the wholesalers here are not satisfied with the improvements noted. The Shore and Bank fishermen are all doing extremely well this season. Word has been received from the fleet that all vessels will average to date over 600 quintals. This will have a tendency to make the opening price for the season somewhat low, but the state of the foreign market will also warrant this.

Fresh fish are coming in abundantly just now, and the market is well stocked with lobsters, shad, salmon, haddock and mackerel. The fishermen are doing fairly well along shore with mackerel, which are very large this year.

NEW PEA PRICES IN THE STATES.

Several of the prominent Baltimore packers have opened prices on new pack peas as follows: Standard early Junes, 95c.; sifted early Junes, $1.10; extra sifted early Junes, $1.30; petit pois, $1.35 to $1.60, and seconds, 82 to 85c. Business on the spot has been booked at these figures today. Private advices from Baltimore state that the outlook is favorable for a good, active market there, with a fairly large pack. The quality of the goods packed so far, according to samples sent here, is reported as being finer than last year.

FIRE IN STARCH WORKS.

The works of The Brantford Starch Works Co., Limited, Brantford, Ont., were badly damaged by fire on Friday, May 29. The value of the property destroyed is said to amount to $65,000. The insurance is $50,000. The loss was confined to the main portion of the factory ; the office and warehouse with a heavy stock of manufactured goods were saved. There also escaped with slight damage the machine shop and the engine house with the power equipment.

The cause of the fire is unknown. It started about 12.30 p.m. and the few employes on the premises were able to do but little. The flames originated in one of the feed bins and were soon beyond control. The factory was outside city limits and fire protection could not be secured.

A number of men are thrown out of work by the fire for a short time until new premises can be secured. Two suitable vacant factories in Brantford have been offered for sale, and steps will at once be taken either to secure one of these or else build a thoroughly modern factory on the old site.

Fortunately, the company have a large and well-assorted stock of goods in their warehouse and distributed in various trade centres. Thus, they will be able to supply the wholesale trade as usual until, perhaps, their new factory is in running order.

FIRE IN A FLOUR MILL.

During the thunderstorm that broke over Lindsay, Ont., on Monday night, June 2, lightning set on fire a large storehouse on Lindsay street north, owned and occupied by The Flavelle Milling Co. The loss will amount to probably over $2,000 ; fully covered by insurance.

NON-PHOSPHORUS MATCHES.

The United States Consul at Brussels under date of May 5, writes : "In 1898, an international competition for a paste for matches not containing white sulphur was announced, and a prize of 50,000 francs ($9,650) was offered by the Belgian Government to the inventor. The commission appointed to judge results has now declared that, after four years of careful experiment and analysis, it has been found that none of the products so far submitted fill the required conditions, being defective in inflammability, igniting on all surfaces, or, in igniting, ejecting inflammable matter containing some poisonous substances. The sum already expended in the matter amounts to 8,178 francs ($1,578.35). This covers cost of printing, correspondence with foreign countries, purchase of material, analysis and experiments."

COLORED AND UNCOLORED GREEN TEAS.

From Indian Gardening and Planting, Calcutta.

THE green tea movement grows apace. India may now be fairly said to have joined in, and this year there will be weight behind the attempt to break into the green tea consumption of North America, a feature which the enterprise has hitherto lacked. Ceylon, working upon results and experience gained in the past three years, is appreciably increasing the manufacture of this description, and, with a smaller bonus per lb. than India grants, this is the best kind of testimony to the success the green tea-producing estates have met with since they commenced the manufacture of uncolored greens.

Some attempt has been made in Ceylon to show that the uncolored green teas, hitherto turned out, are not suitable to make progress on the North-American market, and some interested attempts have been made to show that they have not met with success, and that, therefore, a radical alteration in manufacture is necessary. We note, however, that since the "expert" who put forward this view left the island, The Ceylon Observer, the journal which originally supported his contentions, has found reason to withdraw from a position that the facts rendered untenable. We quote our contemporary in the paragraph which does justice to the uncolored greens on the Drummond Deane system hitherto produced by the Ceylon planters. After stating that it may be advisable also to make colored green teas, The Observer writes: "At the same time, let us do justice to the local enterprise in 'greens' so far as it has gone. In our editorial of the 7th instant, a mistake was certainly made when it was stated that 'the progress made has been slow and small.' Considering the circumstances, the figures work out very satisfactorily on the whole. In 1900, bonus was paid on 472,294 lb.; in 1901, on 1,589,929 lb.; and this year the prospect is of the latter figures being doubled." In passing we may remark that the manufacture of a full supply, so far from being a drawback, will remove one of the hindrances to the progress of the campaign, the difficulty of getting retailers to handle it when they were not sure of getting their repeat orders filled. In a previous issue The Observer, writing on Mr. Galt's biased information, had asked a question the necessity for which the above extract disposes of: "'Is it not folly to continue making green tea which can find no market, while there is a possibility of producing an article which is wanted and for which there is a good demand?' To which we cannot do better than quote The Times of Ceylon's reply. 'It most certainly is not folly to go on with the supply, to a country, of an article which has twelve times increased its popularity in one year, the demand for which at present exceeds the supply, and the price of which is improving.'"

The circumstance, that in the face of the solid facts, now admitted on all hands, that the uncolored green teas of Ceylon are making their way in America steadily, a section of the tea-producing community should have been startled by irresponsible statements and visionary figures into believing that no progress had been made where progress was plainly recorded, shows as might be expected that the general information as to what constitutes green tea is not yet very full. We have been treated to some very learned disquisitions on green teas, namounas, oolongs, etc., but the bed-rock facts as to what green tea is and what it is not do not seem yet to be public property. And yet it is very simple. A green is one in which all fermentation is arrested at the very earliest possible moment. After manufacture it may appear destitute of green appearance in the dry leaf, but it will draw the clear pale straw colored pungent liquor characteristic of green tea, and the color of the infused leaf will be bright green. The proof of the pudding is in the eating; that is the principle to which British tea makers have pinned their faith from the earliest times of British tea planting, and it is a principle which will go down in green as in black. The leaf may be, as in China and Japan, colored after manufacture, but this will not add to its consuming properties as a green tea; the cup will be the same, or if altered can only be altered for the worse. To call such teas "namounas," which are a semi fermented kind, merely because the dry leaf is not of the green appearance of an adulterated China, is not to display ignorance of what a green tea essentially is. In making green tea the most thoroughly efficient and instantaneous method of arresting the tendency in the leaf to ferment is by exposing it freshly plucked to the action of steam, and leaf so exposed can never make namouna, for which a partial fermentation is required.

We see no reason why, in this matter of green tea, the history of black tea should not repeat itself. To show what we mean we may quote from an article upon Mr. George White, the famous London broker, which we reproduce elsewhere. "For years many of the old firms looked rather askance at the Indian leaf and pooh-poohed the idea that it could ever compete with the China article. On the other hand, Mr. White's keen palate detected the real merits of Indian tea. He believed in it from the first and never hesitated in the expression of his opinion, publicly and privately, that India would ultimately oust China from the London market." We know how that opinion has been justified. To bring matters to the present, Mr. Larkin, the famous Canadian tea man, stands now in respect to green tea where Mr. George White stood with respect to black in the sixties. His expressed opinion as to the ultimate success of British greens is as sure and steadfast as Mr. White's in the case of black. The parallel works itself out in a remarkable manner. Compare the following dictum of Mr. George White with the sensible course Mr. Larkin has been preaching and practising. "Tell your planters," said Mr. White, "not to waste time and money in trying to produce an article like the best China leaf; preserve all the natural pungency of the leaf as they do in Assam." This was in reply to certain attempts in other districts to produce a close imitation of China black teas. The rest is history. The absurd prejudice in favor of China "appearance" died away as it became apparent that tea is a commodity to be consumed, not to be looked at, and that the appearance of the leaf is nothing once it is in the teapot, while the quality of the cup is everything. As it was in black so it will be in green; if the drinking quality of the tea is right, the tea will make its way, and before long its appearance will familiarize itself and even become a distinguishing mark in its favor.

We have thought it timely to recapitulate these facts in order to show that there is no need to adopt an attitude of slavish imitation. What we have done before by sheer merit of cup quality in black we can do again in green, but we do not altogether deprecate attempts to introduce our green teas in the guise of the more familiar article, if this course commends itself to individuals. What we do combat is such statements as those contained in the I.T.A. London Committee's rescript, that these absolutely-pure green teas are "namounas," and the similar absurd statements contained in a certain section of the Ceylon press, inspired by Mr. Galt. These mistakes would do infinite harm if they led to any ruling out of these pure uncolored green teas by the Associations or the discouragement of their manufacture by intimations that the expensive after process of coloring must be adopted. It cannot be too widely recognized that the Drummond Deane steamed teas contain the essential elements of green tea and that the coloring is a mere painting of the lily, so far as the consumer is concerned.

OTTAWA TRADE GOSSIP.

THE agitation in favor of closing stores on Saturday at 6 p.m. is gaining ground in one way. The ministers in nearly all the pulpits have asked their congregations to refrain from buying or asking for goods to be delivesed on Saturday night. It will no doubt be a hard proposition to get the grocery trade to close, but by cultivating the people it might come in time.

John Everett, of Christie, Brown & Co., Toronto, was here last week. He does Ottawa twice a month in the summer.

Quite a jolly affair took place last Friday morning at the Fruit Exchange. Mr. G. W. Hunt and Christy Brooks were the recipients of a silk hat each, being the lucky winners of a wager as to whether the Conservatives or Liberals would come out best in Ottawa. They looked like Forepaugh's advance agents.

The Executive Committee of the Grocers' Association are working hard to complete arrangements for their second annual excursion. Messrs. G. Provost and H. C. Ellis went to Valleyfield on Monday last to examine the excursion boat Valleyfield that the committee propose to get for that day. The excursion will be to Stanley Island on Dominion Day.

OTTAWA MARKETS.

Sugars are the same as last week: Granulated, $3.77; yellows, $3.12. The retailers are getting 5c. per lb. or 22 lb. for $1 except in a few instances, and it is hoped that these parties will soon see the folly of such cutting, sugar being an article that consumers think is cheap enough.

Flour, rolled oats and oatmeal remain the same as last week with a steady demand.

Canned meats are commencing to move faster as the hot weather is here. Prices advanced in corned beef a couple of weeks ago, owing to fresh meats being high.

Oats were very scarce last week and prices touched 52c. per bushel, but now there has been a drop and they are worth 48c. in carlots, 50c. in smalls.

Butter is down in price as anticipated. Round lots of pails and tubs are worth 14 to 16c; choice, 15 to 17c.; creamery, 21c.

In fruit the prices have been about the same as last week. Strawberries sold a shade less, but at pretty steady prices from 11 to 13½c. Bananas have been very plentiful and have been selling from $1 to $1.35 for medium size. Pineapples are very scarce here, but no doubt there will be a chance for merchants to buy soon, as prices are high, which ought to bring them in. A small lot of Spanish pines sold today at 16½c. for 24's and 13 to 14c. for 30's.

At the Cheese Board on Friday business was quite brisk, but the market was weak. It opened at 8¾c. and closed at 9¼c. About 890 boxes were boarded and sold.

THE BRITISH CORN DUTY.

"A Parliamentary return has been published giving the name of each article on which the proposed Customs import duties of 5d. and 3d. respectively will be charged, with the quantities in hundredweights imported during the financial year ended March 31, 1902, and the respective amounts which each article would have contributed to the revenue had the proposed duty then been in operation. The statement is chiefly interesting," says The London Economist, "as showing how far in the direction of petty taxation the proposed duties go. When we have to descend to a duty which, like that on malt, is calculated to yield only £4 per annum to the Exchequer, we have surely gone as far as is possible in the direction of petty imposts, and few before the budget was introduced would have imagined that such a fiscal descent was possible. The following is the statement:

SUNDAY CLOSING BY-LAW.

At a meeting of the city council of Montreal on Monday afternoon, the much-discussed Sunday closing by-law was adopted. By this, the prohibitory law which prevents any goods being sold on Sunday "shall not apply to persons selling on Sundays fruit, cigars, candies and temperance beverages, in the city as well as in St. Helen's Island Park. This exception shall apply only to persons selling by retail all such goods and carrying on such trade only, but not to grocers nor to other business establishments where only one or some of these articles are sold."

It is also stated that customers in these stores must not remain any longer than is necessary to make their purchases.

The effect of the by-law will be to close up some 35 per cent. of the stores that already have been doing business on Sunday, among them about 200 grocery stores. Nearly all the tobacco stores in the city were opened on Sunday, but under the new law this will not be permitted, unless they should add to their stock fruit, candy and temperance drinks, which they are not likely to do.

Several amendments were proposed, but the by-law was carried with very little modification.

CANADIAN EXHIBIT PRAISED.

(Daily Leader, Newcastle.)

BUT Canada bears away the bell or takes the palm—whichever figure of speech you deem the more suitable to the occasion. The fact is unquestionable. A visit to the Canadian Pavilion is, indeed, a liberal education in the characteristics, the extent and the capacity of our great colony of the West. The show is on such a scale, and so satisfactorily reflects the vast possibilities of the Dominion, that, for the first time in our lives, we have adequate impression of what the possession of Canada may mean to this right little, tight little, island. We learn how our Canadian cousins house us, clothe us, feed us, and the toothsome luxuries which they are preparing for us in the days when we are wise enough to ask for Dominion dainties and see that we get them. We are disposed to be envious of the Canadian Government, for, if the arrangement of this show be any criterion, it is obvious that the Dominion has a more efficient type of administrator than we are at present blessed with on this side of the herring pond. The Commissioner and his assistants have not studied the "shop window" art in vain. A more picturesque, exhilarating and appetizing display we have never seen in any show—which is saying a great deal. Cold storage is brought to a pitch of perfection which bids fair to constitute the term "perishable goods" a misnomer. Grain, butter, eggs, cheese, fruits, nuggets, furs, timber—Canada evidently aims at becoming the International Whiteley, the world's provider in the fullest sense of the term. The Dominion exibit alone would justify a trip to Wolverhampton, it is of such surpassing interest.

It is not good policy to offer substitutes for Royal Baking Powder, nor to sell the cheap alum powders under any circumstances.

The consumer whose trade is most valuable wants the best and purest goods, and in baking powder this is the "Royal." If he does not find the Royal at your store he will go elsewhere for it, and in so doing there is a liability that he will carry all his orders with him.

JAMAICAN-CANADIAN TRADE.

At a recent meeting of the Council of the Merchants' Exchange of Kingston, Jamaica, the question of trade with Canada came in for some consideration. The following, giving a report of the proceedings in that particular ,is from a Jamaican paper:

The committee appointed by the society to deal with the question of trade relations between Canada and Jamaica reported: 1. That the Canadian Manufacturers' Association should investigate the freight passage and wharfage rates onsteamers from Canadian ports, compared with those from United States ports, and if found that Canada is in any measure handicapped, the Association should at once take steps to have the matter adjusted. 2. That the Canadian Manufacturers' Association shall also take steps to procure through freight rates through and from Canadian principal centres via Canadian ports, comparing those with rates through the United States.

BANANAS — Our production of bananas in Jamaica is about 20 times what Canada consumes. The entire consumption at the present time in Canada is 600,000 bunches, of which only 12,600 bunches were shipped direct from Jamaica to Canadian ports during 12 months, ending March last, and as we look to bananas as a means for furnishing cargo for a line of steamships, we would suggest that the Canadian Government be asked to arrange the fiscal conditions so as to induce their importation from British possessions direct to Canadian ports. Six hundred thousand bunches of bananas per year represent two steamer loads of 25,000 each per month, being the equivalent of a fortnightly service all the year around. Such service, neceasarily rapid and first-class, would not only induce tourist travel, but would afford to Canadian shippers more frequent and more desirable shipping facilities than at present prevail. That the Canadian Manufacturers' Association be requested to recommend all their members to name quotations for their goods f.o.b. at port of shipment. The want of this hitherto has been found to mitigate against business.

ORANGES—Canada consumes about 40,000,000 oranges annually at the present time, of which only about 4,000,000 go direct from Jamaica out of a total available supply of nearly 100,000,000 oranges. In view of the circumstance that from September to April Jamaica can supply oranges that will compare favorably with those now consumed in Canada, with improved transportation facilities there should be no difficulty in establishing a large market for Jamaican oranges.

SUGAR—Statistics disclose the fact that Canada consumes about 150,000 tons of unrefined sugar per annum, being about eight times Jamaica's export. The preferential tariff has not been sufficient to attract our sugar, but in view of the pending abolition of the bounties, and in consequence the countervailing duties, we believe that Canada's efforts to better the trade relations with this Island will result in her being the best market and a great help to the Island.

COFFEE—Canada at the present time imports practically no coffee from Jamaica, there is no doubt that with more frequent intercourse our coffee would compete with other coffee on the Canadian market. The export of Jamaica is 100,861 cwt., of which Canada takes 2,721 cwt.

CANADIAN PRODUCTS—Your committee hesitate to suggest the possibility of any rebate of duty being granted by our Island in favor of any or all of Canada's products, and in view of the fact that Canada is not at the present time asking for such preference, your committee does not feel called upon to make any recommendation at this stage. This committee would add that the natural conditions of the respective colonies are all in favor of mutual trade, each country is the complement of the other in natural products, and it is high time that the fe ling which has so long existed in favor of improved trade relations should bear good results.

FLOUR—Your committee find that 148,816 barrels of flour are annually imported into this market, of which only 15,000 come from Canada, and they consider that, with proper facilities for shipping, and if Canadian merchants are willing to give the same business facilities, there is no reason why a large proportion of this trade should not be done with Canada.

The report was adopted.

A TEXTBOOK FOR MANUFACTURERS AND ACCOUNTANTS.

A TEXTBOOK for the use of manufacturers, merchants, accountants and bookkeepers, by Wilton C. Eddis, F.C.A., and William B. Tindall, A.C.A., is "Manufacturers' Accounts." It is a new work that endeavors to deal with this subject in a practical way. The results of several years' business experience by the authors is given, making this book a valuable aid to business men. To provide a system of cost accounts applicable to all factories, they are separated into two classes, with a different method of accounting for each. Specimen accounts of varied manufactories and approved forms for recording the cost of manufacturing have been worked out and illustrated, the forms and illustrations in many cases occupying a full page. The book is divided into three parts, the first dealing with revenue account, wages, material and factory expenses, the second with cost accounts for boiler and engine manufacturers, contracting engineers, candy and lumber manufacturers, and the third with forms of books and accounts. Besides the regular index, an index to the forms and books used is provided. The retail price of the book is $3, and by remitting that amount to the publishers, Messrs. Eddis & Tyndall, 23 Toronto street, Toronto, the book will be sent to the purchaser.

Interest on bonds, one year ($180,000), and sinking fund requirements, one year ($300,000), $480,000. Surplus applicable to dividends, $529,497.

Treasurer Frederick F. Carey in his report says in part :

"The company's authorized capitalization consists of : Bonds, $7,000,000; 7 per cent. cumulative preferred stock, $12,500,000 ; common stock, $12,500,000. The present issue is : Bonds, $3 000,000; preferred stock, $6,100,000; common stock, $6,150,000. DIFFICULTY OVER PURE FOOD LAWS.

Nineteen States across the border have pure food laws, and they also have 19 commissioners or boards to enforce them, wherefore there is a good deal of discord in legislation and in legal construction, and, as foods are largely produced in one State and shipped into many others, there is an inconvenience here which grocers feel, and which convinces the advocates of the Hepburn Bill in Washington that there is imperative need of national legislation. "Undoubtedly," says The New York Journal of Commerce, "there is a convenience in uniform laws, but our political institutions assume that it is more important that each community should govern itself than it is that all communities should be governed alike. Mr. Martindale, vice-president for Pennsylvania of the Pure Food Congress, has written to the secretary of the Philadelphia Retail Grocers' Association, saying: 'We are here exposed to prosecution and penalties for selling articles manufactured in other States and legally manufactured. In Pennsylvania benzoate of soda, salicilic acid and boracic acid cannot legally be used as preservatives. Other States allow their use.' Two years ago the matter of arsenic in French peas was investigated by Commissioner Wells, of Pennsylvania, and the Attorney-General, and the latter announced that there would be no prosecution for selling French peas while he was in office. 'Now Commissioner Cope makes a contrary ruling, and we are selling French peas with the sword of prosecution dangling over our heads.'"

THE GROCERY TRADE IN AMERICA.

By Wm. Kennedy, of Chicago, Late of Glasgow, in The Scottish Trader.

THE following article is interesting, not only on account of the information which it contains, but because it shows very frankly what well-informed foreigners think of us, our customs and institutions, our business houses and their methods of doing business, from the standpoint of an unbiased expert :

Along with the jobber proper, I must not overlook another more particular class of wholesalers—jobbers with specified limitations to the commodities they handle. There are several spice grinders, cereal millers, food and drink specialty manufacturers and packers (out with the stockyard's acceptance of the term), cracker or biscuit manufacturers, preserve makers, delicatessen dealers, cheese factors, fish canners, vinegar, sauce and pickle manufacturers, soap and candle manufacturers, producers of everything and anything consumable, digestable or usable, and the Yankee is generally a good liver and free with his money. Every want is anticipated, and I guess not a few things are anticipated that are never wanted, but let us to the headlights of the cuisine—teas and coffees. They generally go together, and take up the sole and complete attention of not a few jobbers of the best reputation. Sometimes you find an exclusive tea jobber or an exclusive coffee one, but they are not many.

THE BROKERS.

There is almost no end to the number of brokers whose accounts are in or near New York, or who simply make a business of finding a buyer, and then hunting around for samples, and thereby "fixing up a deal." These brokers as a class are well posted on market affairs, and, for the most part, are excellent business men, not a few of them experts of national repute and long-tried experience. Some of them handle fine accounts and fine customers as a natural consequence ; they hold on to their trade, and are always at hand. But let me take up the famed house of Chase & Sanborn, tea and coffee jobbers. They carry immense stocks ; they operate three distinct plants—headquarters in Boston, Mass.; branch houses in Montreal and Chicago. Chase & Sanborn's is an exceptionally fine house, enjoying an immense business, handling not less than a fortieth of the entire tea business of America—in other words, an average grand total of 2,250,000 lb. of tea per annum, at same time working on a gigantic multiple business in coffees (I have forgotten the exact figure), and shipping the same to all parts of America, North and South, even in coffees, though it does sound like carrying coals to Newcastle. This they do on the Cooper & Co. plan, going direct to the retailer with their special brands, aiding him by the most intelligent, painstaking, thoughtful and honest of advertising methods, and thus creating trade for him, mutually aduantageous and satisfactory to all concerned. Their "Seal" brand coffee is one of their specialties, brings a good price, and is recognized as a standard wherever good coffee is in demand, and such of a verity is strong in every city and township throughout the continent. Their teas are almost equally well known, and proportionately as the lesser demand for teas obtains against the greater demand for coffees, so are Chase & Sanborn's teas high in public favor. The British are great tea drinkers, and very poor coffee drinkers ; the opposite is the case in America. I used to explain this to myself in a way not complimentary to Yankeedom, but I have long since learned to do in Rome as the Romans do, and am now personally aiding the per capita consumption of some 10 lb. of coffee without attempting to increase the miserable 1¼ lb. per capita of tea.

A CHICAGO HOUSE.

This Chicago plant of Chase & Sanborn has grown so that three removals to larger premises have been resorted to to meet the needs of the great and growing West. To-day the Chicago branch in Lake street is a fine six-storey building, already put to its utmost capacity. The roasting-room is a most interesting spot for inspection, 15 great brick built, copper caissoned revolving gas-fired roasters, each with a capacity of 250 lb. of green (raw) coffee, going continuously and together from morning to night, and producing an average daily output of "the finished article" of no less a total than 40,000 lb. This, linked to what ls done every day at their older plants in Boston and Montreal, will give you a faint and bewildering idea of what one private firm engaged in the coffee business in America can do to meet the needs of the retail grocer. There are floors above and below the roasting-room even up to the storing of thousands of sacks, mats, and bales of coffee from every coffee-shipping point in the world ; floors, or sections of them, devoted to the cleaning, fanning, or mixing of the article ere it reaches the roasters ; other extensive parts of the factory busily engaged packing—all weighing done automatically—or shipping (i.e., despatching) to their thousands of customers at every point of the compass.

A DESCRIPTION OF TEAS.

There are in the tea section tiers on tiers of all kinds of packages, from the plebian half-pound to the highly-honored half-chests —tons on tons of teas that never seek recognition in your most enterprising Glasgow tea shops. Teas from sunny Japan—basket-fired, sun-cured or pan-fired — I never knew of them till I struck New York, and got a cup of "tea" that I could neither drink nor comprehend. . Had I seen the leaf I would have pronounced it a kind of Yankee "twist" or an extra nourished bunch of fir tree leaves. To-day I know better. Japan teas are deservedly popular "in the land of the free, and the home of the brave." They are of excellent flavor, a tea—the finer sorts, of course —to linger over. The best are called in jobbing "spider legs," and the name is not inappropriate, the other sun-cured is greenish and broken. Pan-fired is darker, but their sales do not begin to compare with the sales of the "spider leg." This is a digression, but I know it is of interest ; let us continue it. In this immense warehouse, which incites this lengthened treatise, you wlll find hundreds of chests of another tea hardly known in Glasgow, the name of it is Oolong. The finer of these are simply superb, and I no longer prate over the toasty Ceylons or the seductive Darjeelings, or your rich, black, pungent astringent Assams, either of which you so wantonly abuse by giving anywhere from 10 to 15 minutes to infuse. Oolongs are the flow'rets of fairy Formosa ; they are to me a delicious compromise between the "Overmasked hey brew twa shillin'y blend" of the bygone and the brew of the beautiful "spider leg" up-to-date American favoritism. In other words, a fine Oolong gives a fine, sherry like liquor, salubrious in flavor and most gratefully palatable. In the leaf it is not exactly a black tea, but a compromise, if you will permit my lack of versatility. Again, you'll see towers of "English Breakfast" teas, and, since I came to my present estate and sphere of influence, I have tried in my daily function as a tea buyer and advertiser to explode this gigantic misnomer. English Breakfast teas are simply Congous from any and every part of unhappy China. I hardly think that you or your brethern "over the border" make breakfast on China teas. They are highly popular, all the same, in America, because they were, as with you, the first to tempt the consumer. By and by, when Uncle Sam acquires tea-growing colonies, his Government, following up your wise example by subsidy or entreaty, will divert the habits of his chill'un and leave the cuffed Celestial in the lurch, then we will know no more of the misnomer of which I speak.

Again, you'll find other teas, not so much of them perhaps as of those enumerated, yet as many chests and half-chests as an aggregate half-dozen of Glasgow tea merchants can produce—these are the true English Breakfasts (dinners and suppers for that matter), and to all intents and purposes, so far as British tastes go, the only teas worth drinking—the Indians and Ceylons of the London Clearing House.

Yet, again, you'll get other distinctive tea growths in varied grades and many qualities. Pinhead Moyune Gunpowders, an old time "green tea," the very kind my revered granny preferred, "juist a suspeechun o't" in her Saturday night order of a quarter-pound. A Pinhead Moyune is a very fine tea to put with Oolong. Many people drink it straight, sugared only to taste, for milk is an abomination (hear it) in any kind of tea.

Young Hysons and Pingsuey Hysons you'll find in perhaps greater quantities and in dozens of qualities. I thought they were some kind of sea blue Ceylons when first my optics fell upon them. Many people drink these green uncured teas straight or blended in any old way to their order, for tea cranks are as common as any kind of cranks, and cranks are in transcendent plentitude "in the land of the free and the home of the brave." I thought when I struck these shores that I knew something of tea, if not of tea culture; then, and not till then, however, did I find I'd hardly begun to fathom the mysteries of the "cup that cheers." I know now, at least, "that there are more things in heaven and earth, Horatio, than are dreamt of in philosophy."

TEA TESTING METHODS.

One thing more on this fascinating topic. The methods of the tea expert, or, rather, the tea taster, for every old wife is a tea expert on this side as well as on yours. "Comparisons are odious." Your teaman's habits give proof of the truth. As teamen, we try teas in a natural, commonsense way. We use tiny cups in perfectly pure material, white, almost porcelain-like, without ornamentation, and minus any handle or lid; they are of the finest French ware and rather thin. We weigh the tea "gingerly" (fractionally), just a finger-pinch to each cup—more would make it "too tannin-like" ere it cooled sufficiently for tasting. The cups are set out in rows, and their identity denoted by tickets or stickers under them. They are interchanged upon the board and the freshly-boiled water brought into play. We are as careful—more careful, I think—to note the "agony" of the leaves as we are to watch the delicate liquoring, the bouquet or the flavor of the tea. These are our guides to the matching of values and the art of tasting teas, and they are unfailingly secure and sound. Your sloppy way of clapping a lid on your plunky little cup of equal diameter at base and top, of letting it stand five to seven minutes until you've nothing but tannin to taste, and thereafter separating the liquor from the leaves (all the paraphernalia of your laboring methods), these are as funny to the Melican man as they are to the heathen Chinee. Line up, Sandy, adopt Uncle Sam's plans and get your work done in the no-time of American despatch.

Now what of it? Enough on the trade for the present. There are other great tea and coffee jobbers besides Chase & Sanborn. There are Arbukle Bros., the bete noir (refiners themselves) of the great Havemeyer Sugar Trust; Sherman Bros. & Co.; Bell, Conrad & Co.; J. H. Bell & Co.; Smith, Baker & Co., immense tea importers with branch houses in Yokohama, Tamsui and Hankow, as well as head offices in New York, San Francisco and Chicago, and others also of reliability and excellence, although I have chosen Chase & Sanborn for my text. The fact is, I do not know a finer firm engaged in this fascinating business—teas and coffees. They are great importers, have an excellent corps of drummers and keep their own men on the gardens and plantations in season and out of season. Their Buffalo Chop teas are among the rarest and most uniform of imports, and their coffees may yet tempt your sleepy appetite some Glasgow foggy morning. Till then, and especially then, remember that "one you know" who loves to write to you, and who has no axe to grind in the matter, either in Glasgow, Boston or Chicago, has stamped them with the seal of his earnest approval and commendation.

MANITOBA MAY GROW FRUITS YET.

An interesting paper was read by Dr. Saunders, of Ottawa, before a session of the Royal Society in Toronto, on Thursday last, May 29. It dealt with a series of remarkable experiments made by him in his endeavors to produce a hardy apple, suitable for Manitoba and the Northwest. These experiments consisted of crossing hardy Canadian varieties with a dwarfed Siberian species and an apple of good size and flavor has been produced that appears as if it will thrive in Northern latitudes. With the same object in view experiments have also been made with cherries, gooseberries, black currants and plums. These all turned out more or less successful and from all of these Dr. Saunders was of the opinion that Manitoba and the Northwest might yet rank above other Provinces in fruit growing as they do in wheat growing at the present time.

we keep on telling you the story of the success of Tillson's "Pan-Dried Oats." We have produced evidence from grocers and grocers' customers that you cannot be serving your customers with the best Rolled Oats unless you serve them with "PAN-DRIED OATS," made only by Tillson. They are famous because they deserve it. Do you hesitate because some other kind don't bring any complaints? Hear what one man says when he determined to try them: "The shipment of Rolled Oats arrived safely and they are extra choice. I could not wish for nicer goods." If you think that statement is simply made up, we will send you the original Card if you wish it. Breezy, Grocer's Clerk, and his Revolutionary Methods.

By J. GEORGE FREDERICK.

WHEN the prosperous though unprogressive firm of Casper W. Leslie & Co., grocers, hired him they thought they had secured an ordinary clerk, and gave themselves no further concern. They already had a force of about a dozen clerks, besides half a dozen delivery teams. They had hired clerks for 20 years, and it was to them a troublesome and vexatious proceeding. They frowned at first at his slight frame, but when he put a prostrate sugar barrel on end with easy unconcern all objections were immediately withdrawn.

His surname was the leveling one of Smith, and his Christian name—highly Christian—Hezekiah. His mother called him "Zeke" and his companions, "Breezy."

Breezy entered upon his work whistling in supreme content. He was at the bottom of the commercial hill, and was preparing to run up to the top. He had no star-high ambitions to make him dream, no love affairs to make him forgetful, and no vices to keep him from doing his best. There wasn't a lazy tendon in his body. He was not tall. If he had been, he would have been lazy. He was short, thin, black-eyed, nervous, and muscular. Before his ponderous companions got an idea through their heads, Breezy was half-way done with the action. A few thought he was a genius; but they were mistaken. Breezy was innocent of the smallest spark. He just had a heavy capital of nervous energy that made him work while others were content to lounge.

They put him behind the fruit counter. His first act was to clean it up and "fix things" generally. "Such a rum way of doing business," he muttered, quite like an experienced grocer, scowling at the hideen waste and slipshod displays of his predecessor. When he was through with the counter there was absolutely no fault to find with it. But he was not satisfied. He went into the cellar and started to saw and nail some boxes to make receptacles for various things back of his counter.

"What are you doing here?" said the pompous and obese superintendent, finding him at work.

"Oh," said Breezy carelessly, "I'm just getting some boxes in shape to put dirt and tools in at my counter."

"We have got a carpenter to do that," said the superintendent, with displeasure; "get up where you belong and 'tend to your customers."

Breezy went up, and finished the boxes later while the superintendent was absent. He cleaned the fruit on his stand four times a day. "It gets so blamed mussed up," he said briskly to a fellow clerk who looked askance at the action.

"The other clerk didn't," replied his companion suggestively.

"Didn't he?" said Breezy coolly.

Of course the clerks laughed at him. His tie was awry and of objectionable hue, and his trousers lacked the proper cut and crease.

The fruit trade was slow, and Breezy was highly impatient. The superintendent compelled him to stay behind his counter, and he had to gaze impatiently over the bustling crowd of the store, which seemed to stop at every other counter but his. Twice, when the superintendent was not about, he made a personal canvass among the shoppers and secured a number of sales. The third time he was discovered and peremptorily ordered back.

After closing time, Breezy was absent-minded and restless. The noise of the overhead cash system; the aroma of freshly roasted coffee, of bacon, and of cheese; the click of the weighing scales; the scraping of the busy scoops; the shrill staccato of the register bells and opening drawers; the rustle of the wrapping paper; the shuffle of hurrying feet; the rumble of the drays on the cobbles outside; the incessant hum of voices, and the everchanging panorama of shoppers—all these had become to Breezy the breath of life, and he sighed for them longingly ere the evenings were over. He had a printing press, and he set type as a means of diversion—all matter concerning the grocery store.

He set up a card and embodied in it an idea that he had conceived. He printed 500 of them—all the cardboard he had. They were invitations to the public to have any and all sorts of fruit delivered at their homes at any time by telephone orders. He laid one on Mr. Leslie's desk the next morning.

"Thompson," Breezy heard Leslie call shortly afterwards to the superintendent, "this is a good idea. How many did you have printed?"

Thompson grew red. "I didn't have any printed," he replied in surprise. Leslie frowned, and called his partner, who also professed ignorance. Breezy watched them from behind the register, and then ventured forward.

"I printed them on my own press. Here are 500 more."

Leslie looked again at the card, and raised his eyebrows at Thompson, who nodded in return, seemingly signifying that this was the clerk mentioned in some previous conversation.

"You may hand in your bill for them to the bookkeeper," said Leslie evenly; "and, Thompson, you may have them properly distributed."

He was paid for his cards, and there was also an extra dollar in his weekly pay envelope that Saturday. He promptly bought the best seat in the theatre.

They found him the next week in the telephone booth, calling up successively from a list of over 100 residences. "Is this Mrs. Jones?" he would ask. "Pardon me, Mrs. Jones; this is Leslie's. We would like to sell you some groceries." And then he would enter into a conversation for an order. The other people on the line were indignant, and the exchange told him that he was not the only lung on the line. But in less than an hour Breezy had hurry orders aggregating $20, and Leslie himself closed Thompson's mouth of wrath at neglected customers by a word of commendation.

The firm's telephone trade had never been worked up, and Breezy printed announcements inviting customers to use the 'phone to send their orders. A 'phone was placed behind the fruit counter, and Breezy took the orders. He did more. "You're going to bake, aren't you?" he asked of the housewives when they ordered flour, lard, etc. "Isn't your baking powder all gone? Don't you need some new pans? We've got a splendid new pan here. Patented. Only eight cents, too." And so on.

"Here, Mr. Thompson," he called to the superintendent as he passed one day; "who makes these sign cards?"

"Tommy, the shipping clerk," replied Thompson shortly.

"I have just thought," said Breezy reflectively, "that I might make a nicer one for this counter. May I try one?"

"Yes; but don't neglect your counter."

Breezy had just received a large quantity of splendid figs that morning, which were selling at a really attractive price. But the firm had not even given him price cards to put on them, and had not mentioned them in the newspaper ads. "How in blazes do they expect to sell these?" he grumbled. "Nobody knows anything about them."

When, therefore, he had surprised the busy shipping clerk by asking for the card-marking tools, and had made a few simple price cards for other goods, it occurred to him that he might as well make a fig sign. It was prettily lettered, and it read: "These figs are good, clean figs, and you won't be able to buy them very many days." The clerks leered at him when he put it over his figs, rearranging the boxes artistically on the counter. Thompson didn't happen round any more that day, but in the evening Breezy sought him out. The figs were all gone.

"H'm," said the superintendent, "you must have had an extra run on figs today."

Over the new supply that he received the next morning, the clerks read from another card: "More good, clean figs at this price. They'll only last through the day, though." It seemed as if everybody that came into the store that day bought figs. Thompson came to the fruit counter out of curosity, attracted by the crowd there, which Breezy was waiting upon with a satisfied and dexterous alacrity. He elevated his eyebrows at the sign.

"Who made that sign?" he asked, when the crowd cleared off.

"Me," said Breezy, in a bustle at the cash register.

"H'm, h'm," said the superintendent, strolling off.

The next day it was raisins at a bargain, and Breezy' sign said: "We bought 50 boxes of these seedless raisins, and we are going to sell them at —— cents a pound until they are all gone."

"How many boxes of those seedless raisins went out to-day?" asked Thompson that evening, looking sourly at the sign. "I'm afraid they won't go very well."

"Twenty-five," answered Breezy.

"What!" said Thompson, staring over his spectacles.

"Twenty-five," repeated Breezy.

"H'm, h'm," said the superintendent, walking rapidly off.

The other twenty-five went the next day. "Could have sold more," said Breezy.

"H'm," said Thompson slowly; and after a minute: "Those signs are neatly lettered."

Breezy was vigorously cleaning up.

"You may take off the dull hours," continued Thompson cautiously, "and make the signs for the whole store. We'll get an assistant at your counter." Breezy was kicking some boxes under his counter.

"D'ye hear?" said Thompson.

"Yes, sir," said Breezy.

For the next six weeks the customers at Leslie's enjoyed daily treats from the signs. There were no less than 50 to be made on busy days. The language was simple; it told the truth about the goods, and it never disappointed, and quite often there was a bit of humor in it. The obese superintendent frowned at Breezy's efforts and looked as if he half regretted his venture.

"The old guy," mused Breezy one day, as he saw Thompson deliberately tear one of them up. It was an egg sign, and read: "If you wait until to-morrow to buy these at 15 cents a dozen, they may not be as good as they are to-day!" Promptly Breezy had another one up which read: "It's throwing these eggs at you to sell them for 15 cents the dozen. They're not bad, though."

Thompson stood before it for full two minutes before he decided to let it pass, and then walked away, murmuring, "H'm, h'm."

But Breezy ran to extremes, and one day, when Leslie paused before a cheese sign and read, "Hold your nose here. It only takes the clerk two minutes by the clock to wrap up half a pound at 30 cents," he decided that he would draw the limit, and he told Breezy to take it down, which Breezy did with a rather crestfallen air. He had been particularly proud of this effort, and had stood behind his register a dozen different times during the day, to watch customers stare and break out into laughter. A week later they made him take another one down, and Mr. Leslie called him aside.

"Don't try to be so funny on your cards," he frowned. "You make nice cards when you stick to fact, but when you get humorous you are as loud as a barrel of mackerel."

Breezy grunted ungracious acquiescence, while the corners of the grocer's mouth twitched at the recollection of some of the cards. But they continued to be as flagrant as ever. Thompson complained to Leslie about it, and the proprietor sat for a few moments in deep thought.

"That boy's got too much vitality," he said, "and we'll have to give him another outlet for it. Making cards and answering the telephone isn't enough for him to do. I believe that I will put Morris at the telephone, and let Smith do our important outside business down town." The change was accordingly made, and Breezy became a sort of confidential clerk, doing most of the firm's business with the banks and the down-town offices. Characteristically, he allowed no opportunity to escape to learn the firm's manner of doing business, and its needs. He was not chary with suggestions, either, and was told by the firm more than once that his advice had not been asked, and that it was therefore not very valuable. This logic Breezy utterly failed to comprehend.

His old friends smiled as he dashed by them daily on his bicycle, his hat crushed into his head and his face almost on the handle bars.

The firm sent him to the newspaper offices to take advertising copy. The advertisements which he carried he criticised freely on the road down town. Most of his criticisms were of a decidedly adverse nature, and his opinion of the man who wrote them, the head of the firm, grew more and more contemptuous. He had learned some lessons in advertising by his card making.

One morning they sent him to a down-town firm of producers with an order for 20 tubs of butter. With the order they gave him copy to take to all the morning papers, making commonplace and altogether unattractive mention — thought Breezy—of a proposed special sale of these 20 tubs of butter.

"That's the weakest thing yet," he soliloquized, as he sped down the empty avenue. "Butter'll go up three cents a pound one of these days."

As he stood in the office of the company, he heard a man say something confidentially to the produce man and a customer that made him wink hard. It was that butter would go up in a few days. The customer did not seem to take it very seriously, but Breezy construed it into a mighty tip.

"Just what I thought," he said to himself. "That slow firm buying only 2 tubs!" It occurred to him that he might telephone to the firm and give them the tip; but he immediately rejected the idea.

"They'd only laugh and tell me that I wasn't running their business."

Then was born a great idea. An instant later he was decided. The producer whistled when Breezy handed him an order for a hundred tubs.

"It'll take all we have," he said.

Breezy sat down at a desk and wrote something rapidly. The foreman at the newspaper composing rooms looked at him in surprise as he gave directions about border and type, technicalities which he had learned as editor of the school paper.

The tubs were all delivered in the afternoon. Thompson came out in the warehouse and looked at the first batch of twenty. "I wouldn't have ordered twenty!" he said, shaking his head. "I told Jim they wouldn't go." He wasn't in when the rest came. "Are they turning the store into a butter house?" said the shipping clerk, grumbling, as he helped the men bring them in.

"Great heavens!" ejaculated Thompson the next morning when he came into the warehouse. "Where does all this butter come from?"

The shipping clerk looked unintelligent, and made no answer. Thompson brought in the head of the firm, Mr. Leslie. He, in turn, stared dumbly at the tiers of tubs.

"What the ——!" he began excitedly.

"I told you to order twenty, didn't I?"

"You advised me not to buy more," said Thompson stiffly, "and I didn't."

"Can't you count?" exclaimed Leslie wrathfully, pointing to the tubs. There's a hundred there, if there's one ! "

When Breezy was finally called in, he faced both men easily.

" How many tubs of butter did you order ? " asked Leslie.

" One hundred."

" I told you twenty ! " roared Thompson.

Leslie did not answer, but made for the telephone. The produce people firmly refused to take back the tubs. " We've just refilled our refrigerators, and can't accommodate any more," they said. But they added something more in a telephone whisper.

" Mr. Leslie," said Breezy, when the proprietor rang off, without any visible allayment of his wrath, " I was ordered to get only twenty, but I made it a hundred, and——— "

" You did, did you ? " burst out Leslie, glaring at Breezy with unutterable derision. " You'll be advertising yourself as proprietor of this store shortly, won't you ? "

" But, Mr. Leslie," protested Breezy, " butter's going up in a few days ! "

" Great guns ! " roared Leslie, " are—are you running this firm, you—you impudent young fool ? You young barrel of gall ! I've a notion to break your head ! "

Breezy flushed angrily.

" Go out and draw your salary, and never set foot here again ! "

Breezy turned on his heel and walked out, without looking at the clerks who had assembled at the wareroom door, attracted by the loud voices.

" Fools ! fools ! " he muttered between his teeth, as he drove his bicycle along the street.

When he looked at copies of all the morning papers, in which appeared the advertisements he had prepared the day before, in lieu of the originals, he smiled in genuine artistic gratification.

" If that don't sell butter," he chuckled, " nothing ever will." The advertisement predicted that butter would go up very soon, and that Leslie & Co. had bought, in anticipation of this, 100 tubs, which they would sell at one cent below the market price.

" There will be a still awfuller row in that shanty when they see these. They might arrest me." But the spirit of Breezy rose hopefully to the possibility. " If they only wait till to-night."

He learned afterwards that the store was crowded with butter buyers from early morning until late in the afternoon, and that his advertisements had precipitated the coming rise in price, and an advance of one cent was already asked that same day.

It was during the afternoon of the next day that Breezy received a note asking him to call at the office of the grocery firm of Leslie & Co.

" See here, young man," said Leslie to him in his private office, " what you did on Tuesday was a thing that could have put you behind prison bars. Do you understand ? "

Privately, Breezy was skeptical, but he nodded doggedly, thinking that Leslie merely wished to abuse him, and regretting that he had come at all.

" It was pure malicious mischief in the eyes of the law," continued Leslie, " and an entirely unpardonable offence. But while this is undoubtedly so,"—he talked more moderately and less harshly—" it—well, to be frank, those ads.—" The remembrance of this part of Breezy's misdemeanor swelled his indignation, and he was again angry. " Those ads.", he continued, " that you dutched for us—well, it was worth six months at hard confinement itself ! " He glared impotently, while he got red in the face.

" Well," he began again, " as I was saying, those ads.—er—well, they drew the trade, in brief, and we sold the whole hundred tubs ! " He said this as though it was little short of miraculous. Breezy did not wink an eye. To him it was the natural result.

As Breezy still held his peace, Leslie resumed : " As a result we are—er—have cleared, well, some hundred dollars."

Breezy still remained silent, and Leslie put on a pompous frown.

" Understand, young man," he declaimed, " in giving you the position of superintendent and advertising manager of this store, we most certainly wish to express our vehement displeasure at your act of Tuesday, lucky as it happened to turn out, and solemnly warn you that a repetition of such a monstrous offence will mean instant discharge. To hold this position, you will have to confine yourself to reasonable and cautious methods of doing business. Your salary will be three times your former one. Get out now, and don't bother me, but show up ready for work Monday morning."

The only evidence Breezy gave of his satisfaction with this interview was that he rode madly up the full length of the steepest hill in the city on his way home, to rid himself of surplus nervous energy.

MONTREAL RETAIL GROCERS.

THE regular monthly meeting of the Montreal Retail Grocers' Association was held on Thursday night, June 5, the president, Ald. Turner, in the chair.

The secretary's report showed a satisfactory number of contributions, in money and kind, to the picnic, to be held on July 16 at Highgate Springs, Vt. The subscriptions are now being collected by the chairman of the subscription committee and three other members.

A letter was read from the Retail Merchants' Association, of Toronto, in regard to stating that, on the representations of several retail merchants, the Provincial Government of Ontario had passed a bill prohibiting their use in that Province. The secretary was ordered to communicate with the Toronto Association and secure a copy of this Bill. It was decided that at the coming session of the Quebec Legislature an effort to have a similar law brought about will be made by the grocers.

The Association sent a letter of condolence to the family of the late James R. Guest, 600 Wellington street, who had been one of the members of the Association.

PAPER MONEY.

A discussion arose over the $4 bill now in circulation. A good many of the members were found to be interested in this subject; and it was generally agreed that the present bill of that denomination was a nuisance, as it looked so much like a $1 bill that, in the hurry of waiting on customers, mistakes were often made, subjecting both merchant and customer to considerable annoyance. The need of a $4 bill was not disputed, but it was thought that the figure could be changed so as to look less like the figure 1.

The result of this discussion was that the secretary was instructed to write to the Minister of Finance, calling his attention to this objectionable feature and asking to have the present bill replaced by another which would give rise to fewer mistakes.

The photographs of the members of the Association, which it was decided to have taken a couple of months ago, will be made up into two large groups, one for the Association itself and the other to be presented to the Chambre de Commerce, Montreal.

MONTREAL WHOLESALE CLERKS.

The annual excursion of the Montreal Wholesale Clerks' Association will be held on Sundav, June 15. The trip this year is to Malone, N.Y. The party will leave Windsor Station at 8 a.m., by the N.Y.C. Ry. Special attention has been given to the programme, and a big crowd is expected.

WHERE ALLSPICE GROWS.

The island of Jamaica produces about all the allspice that is used. It is known also as pimento, or Jamaica pepper. The tree on which the berries grow is evergreen, and the flowers grow in dense clusters. These develop into small green aromatic berries, the size of black pepper. If allowed to ripen, they become pulpy and lose some of their pungency. For commercial purposes the berries are gathered when green, carefully dried in the sun and afterwards packed in bags holding 160 to 180 lb. and shipped. Pimento trees grow in many parts of tropical America, but nowhere do they thrive as in Jamaica. The trees are never planted by man and receive no cultivation worthy of name. The seeds are dropped by the birds and the rains and the tropical sun do the rest. Surplus trees are cut down and become walking sticks and umbrella handles. This spice is more mild and innocent than most other spices.

THE PROVISION TRADE.

Cold Storage in Orillia—The Markets—Miscellaneous Notes.

COLD STORAGE IN ORILLIA.

THE NORTHWAY CO. have just finished their brick cold-storage building at Orillia, Ont. The structure consists of a concrete cellar with an ice chamber above, a receiving-room with scales, and an egg-candling-room. There is also a quick-drop elevator to the basement. The trade this year will be principally in handling butter for export, and so the company is prepared to store 125,000 lb. of that commodity. The butter, when received, is washed and packed in square boxes of 56 lb. each and put in the storage cellar. There the temperature is constantly kept at 2 deg. above freezing point. Admittance is gained to this cellar by an underground passage, and things are so arranged as to permit of a quick and clean handling of the products.

AN ICE SHORTAGE.

There is at present a shortage in the supply of ice in Montreal, which later in the summer may cause inconvenience to many. The early opening of spring, and consequent breaking up of roads, rendered it very difficult to handle the ice by sleighs; and the impossibility of using wagons at that time of year for the purpose has resulted in many dealers having small stocks.

Ice is now from $1 to $1.50 higher in price than last year; but even at the advanced prices dealers are by no means anxious sellers. Some of the largest firms have refused to take orders from any but the heaviest consumers of ice, preferring, in the event of stocks becoming exhausted, not to lose these customers.

PRICE OF MEAT IN NEW YORK.

The meat supply of New York is at present controlled by a Beef Trust and the people there will likely have to pay high prices for their beef, or perhaps do without it entirely, if what The New York Daily News of recent date says is of any account.

An injunction has been granted against the Trust, but this can be evaded by them selling meat to the wholesale and retail dealers of New Jersey. They would, in this way, be able to still withhold meat from New York, urging as a reason for doing so its scarcity.

There is no doubt but that there is a shortage of meat on the market there owing to the strike in Chicago and this may make the situation more acute. However, some people expect a fall in the prices of meat in New York before long. There are executive offices of the agencies for a number of great western meat houses in New Jersey, principally in Hoboken, and there and in Newark are facilities for the handling of large quantities of meat. So the Trust will have to be on its guard against the coming of another combination into the field that would offer meat at lower prices. Thus a monopoly that it has taken several years to build up would run chances of being destroyed.

A NEW COLD STORAGE.

A new cold storage building is being erected by Lovell & Christmas, provision dealers, on King street, Montreal, which, when completed, will be one of the finest in Canada. It is being made as nearly fireproof as possible. The Linde system of cold air circulation, which is now considered the best for all purposes, will be used. It is expected that the new storage will be ready for use early in the fall.

ACCIDENT IN COLD-STORAGE PLANT.

An accident occurred on Friday night, June 6, in the building of The Canada Cold Storage and Freezing Co., Montreal, which only the excellent equipment of the plant prevented from being more serious. As it was the damage amounted to only about $250. The cap of one of the condensing pipes blew off, releasing about 1,200 lb. of ammonia gas. The building which contains the freezing apparatus is separated from the storage building, and no damage was done to the butter and cheese in store. The engine had to be stopped, but as another was in readiness to start almost immediately, there was little time for the temperature at which the goods were kept to vary more than a degree or two.

THE PROVISION MARKETS.

TORONTO.

The market continues steady and unchanged. There is a good demand for beef and lamb. Trade in dressed hogs is fair. In live hogs the market is weak and prospects are for lower prices. We quote as follows: Dressed hogs, $9.00 to $9.25; beef carcasses, $7.50 to $8.50 per 100 lb.; hind quarters, $8.50 to $9.50 per 100 lb.; front quarters, $7.00 to $7.50 per 100 lb. Veal, 7 to 8c. per lb.; lambs, 10 to 10½c. Live hogs: Selects, $7.00; lights, $6.62½ to $6 87½ per 100 lb.; choice export cattle bring $6 to $6.75 per 100 lb.; lights sell at $5 to $5.75.

In cured provisions the demand for smoked meats is brisk, and prices of smoked breakfast bacon, shoulder hams and backs are ½c. higher. The summer trade is well under way now and the market is likely to continue firm from this out. We quote: Long clear bacon, 11c.; smoked breakfast bacon, 14½ to 15c.; rolls, 11½ to 12c.; medium hams, 13½ to 14c.; large hams, 12½ to 13c.; shoulder hams, 11c., and backs, 14½ to 15c.; Canadian heavy mess pork, $21.50; short cut, $23; lard, in tierces, 11 to 11¼c. per lb.; tubs, 11¼ to 11½c., and pails, 11½ to 11¾c.

MONTREAL.

The market on most lines of provisions is active. Wholesalers have raised prices on hams and bacon, and the former are now quoted at 12½c. for large, 13½c. for medium and 14c. for small. Bacon is held at 15c. There was some scarcity in Jones' pork at the beginning of the week, but this has been relieved.

The market for dressed hogs has declined since our last report, and now country-killed are quoted at $9 to $9 50, and abattoir stock at $9.25 to $9 75 per 100 lb. The market has become steadier since the decline, and the demand is fair.

Lard has been moving well. The manufacturers of "Anchor" brand have managed to put their goods on the market again. It is quoted by jobbers at $1.95 for wood pails and $1.90 for tin pails. Fairbank's "Snow White" and "Globe" compound lard is now quoted at 10c. per pail higher.

Our quotations now are as follows: Heavy Canadian short cut mess pork, $23.75 to $24.00; Chicago clear pork, $27.00 for heavy and $26.00 for medium; selected heavy short cut mess pork, boneless, $22.00 to $22.50; hams, 13c.; bacon, 15c.; lard, pure Canadian, $2.32½ to $2.35 per pail; refined lard compound (Fairbank's); $2.15 for 1 to 24 pails; $2.13 for 25 to 49 pails; $2.12 for 50 pails and over. Snow White and Globe compound, $1.95 per pail; Cottolene, 11¼c. for 20-lb. pails, and 11c. for 60-lb. tubs, for Quebec and Ontario.

feeling, it is thought prices will be higher. Lard is rather higher, and there is a fair sale. In fresh beef, the very high price continues. Veal is quite plentiful. Mutton is reasonable, but lamb is quite scarce and high. Pork is in limited supply and keeps high. We quote: American mess pork, $23 to $23.50; domestic mess pork, $21.50; plate beef, Canadian, $14 to $14.50; clear pork, American, $25.50; plate beef, American, $17 to $18; veal, 4 to 7c.; lamb, 4 to 5c.; mutton, 10 to 12c.; fresh beef, 8 to 10½c.; round hogs, 7½ to 8c.; pure lard, tubs, 12c.; pure lard, pails, 12¼c.; compound lard, tubs, 9½c.; compound lard, pails, 9¼c.; refined lard compound, Fairbank's, tubs, 10½; pails, 10¾c.; hams, 14 to 14½c.; rolls, 12 to 13c.

HALIFAX.

Beef and pork remain remarkably high, and to recent advances may be added $1 per barrel on best Canadian beef. Fresh beef is also hard to obtain by the local dealers and prices remain high. Lamb is coming in more plentifully and is bringing from $2 to $3 per carcase. Veal is also plentiful. Fowls and chickens and turkeys are only in moderate supply, the former wholesaling at 10c. and the latter at 14 to 15c.

BOOKS FOR PROGRESSIVE GROCERS.

"LAW'S GROCERS' MANUAL." Illustrated. 1,185 pages. By Gilbert & Rivington, Limited, London, England. Price, 7s. 6d.

This is the most exhaustive and comprehensive work published for the guidance and general information of grocers. It gives the history and how best to handle the various lines of goods sold by grocers, together with dealing in a very practical manner with bookkeeping, commercial law and all kindred subjects of interest to the merchant. From the vast amount of information compiled on these subjects it will prove a most valuable book for any grocer to possess.

"TEA; HISTORY AND MYSTERY." By Jos. M. Walsh. Published by Henry T. Coates & Co., Philadelphia. Price, $2.

In this work the judging and testing of tea has a most careful consideration. The usual methods of valuing by appearance, feeling, smelling and infusing are described. The book is well bound and should have a place on the shelf of every dealer in teas.

"TEA BLENDING, AS A FINE ART." By Joseph M. Walsh. Published by Henry T. Coates & Co., Philadelphia. Price, $2.

Those engaged in any business should be posted on the goods they are selling. The average grocer can profit by reading over the formulæ and the scientific combination of the different varieties of tea. It is a work that many merchants will want, for the subject is one of great interest to the trade.

"COFFEE: ITS HISTORY, CLASSIFICATION AND DESCRIPTION." By Joseph M. Walsh. Published by Henry T. Coates & Co., Philadelphia. Price, $2.

A neat volume, well bound and brightly written. It deals with the cultivation of the berry and the preparation of the bean for market, by roasting, glazing and grinding. One of its most interesting chapters is that devoted to adulteration and detection. A good work to have for reference by all interested in the subject.

"WINDOW DRESSING FOR GROCERS." By E. N. & F. J. Root, New York. Price, $2.

A well-written work, with some new ideas on trimming grocery windows. There are often times in a grocery when in looking over the pages of a book like this help will be derived in arranging an attractive window display.

CHANGED CONDITIONS.

The first Sunday in Montreal under the new by-law restricting the keeping open of stores on that day passed off satisfactorily to the authorities. It was estimated by the police that out of the 500 and more stores which, previous to the by-law, kept open on Sunday, some 400 closed up on Sunday last. There are a number yet, of course, who manage to do business under the nose of the law and yet remain undetected, but the work of clearing these out will proceed rapidly and an entirely different state of affairs may be expected before long. Some cigar and tobacco stores attempted to evade the law by placing in stock a little fruit and candy and a few bottles of ginger ale, etc. Nothing could be done, of course, in these cases, but such stores are being kept under close surveillance and will be closed up if they are found to be undesirable.

MARRIAGE OF E. E. ROBSON.

At Lindsay, on June 4, Miss H. Wallace was united in marriage to Mr. E. E. Robson, manager of the grocery business of W. M. Robson. The groom was supported by Mr. W. Procter, of Dalton Bros., Toronto. The bridesmaid was Miss E. Lansing, of Huntsville.

THE CANADIAN GROCER joins with the many friends of the young couple in wishing them the heartiest congratulations.

OWEN SOUND GROCERS' PICNIC.

The third annual picnic of the Owen Sound Retail Grocers' Association will be held on Wednesday, June 18, at King's Royal Park, Owen Sound.

U. S. HATCHERIES ON THE FRASER.

A number of salmon canners of the State of Washington have obtained permission from the Canadian Government to build a salmon hatchery on the Fraser River, British Columbia. Their object is to perpetuate the salmon industry on Puget Sound, and they decided to put up the money for the hatchery and allow the Canadian combine to share its benefits rather than imperil the industry by fishing the ocean dry without restocking.

BRANTFORD WANTS SUGAR FACTORY.

Brantford, Ont., is considering the advisability of establishing there a beet-sugar refinery. At a meeting on Monday, June 9, a proposition was laid before a number of citizens by the representatives of a beet firm to build a factory having a daily capacity of 600 tons, with a capability of having it increased to 800 tons when required. The local capitalists would be expected to provide $150,000, the total cost being $700,000. The city would be asked to grant tax exemption and a bonus of $50,000. For five months of the year there would be employed 250 hands, and the annual expenditure would be about half a million dollars. To keep the factory running 5,000 acres would need to be placed under beet crop. The remarkable growth of the industry in Michigan was pointed out as an indication of what might be expected from it in Canada. Four years ago there were no factories in the former place; now there are thirteen.

REGARDING THE $4 NOTE.

In connection with the request of the Montreal Retail Grocers' Association that the $4 bills now issued by the Dominion Government be withdrawn from circulation, it is interesting to know that, according to the statement of the Finance Department, there was at the close of last April in circulation $9,487,345 in $1 and $2 notes, and, however this combination be obtained, only $526,923 in $4 notes. To as high as $892,273 has the circulation of the $4 note risen within a year, and at that time the value of the smaller notes in circulation reached nearly $10,500,000.

WISE ADVICE.

From Brooklyn comes this story. A lawyer there received this letter:

Dear Sir,—I sent my daughter the other day for vinegar, intending to put it on herrings for the lunch counter in my saloon. They gave her kerosene instead, and thereby $2 worth of herrings were spoiled. The grocer refuses to compensate me, and I want your advice to know what to do.

Yours, ————

The man of legal lore pondered the problem, and, after weighing all sides of the question, including the amount involved, replied: "Don't eat the herrings."

Nothing is said about this lawyer's fee for this very wise advice.

A HELP TO WINDOW ARTISTS.

A book which aims to interest those concerned in window decorating is advertised elsewhere in this issue by W. Edwards, Carleton Place, Ont., who has received expert training in the art of sign, showcard and ticket writing, and is thus able to impart it to others. It contains full instructions, so that a person may train himself in drawing figures, gold and silver lettering, frosting glass, bronzing, ornamenting, handling colors, etc. The book also contains 34 plates of model alphabets and figures, and 200 choice phrases for showcards. It sells at $1, mailed postpaid to any address.

TORONTO RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION.

Talk About Their Excursion—Will not Resume Early-Closing Campaign Until The Fall.

THE meeting of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association in St. George's Hall, Elm street, on Monday night, June 9, was characterized by no long discussions like the previous ones. The chief matter of importance was the consideration of the annual summer excursion to be held by the association.

President Sykes was in the chair, and the new secretary, E. B. Nettelfield, was present and instructed in his duties.

Those present were the president, the secretary, ex-secretary—Edw. Hawes, D. Bell, R. Bailey Snow, R. Robertson, A. R. Williamson, J. Butcher, J. T. Schoales, J. Bond, D. McLean, T. Dowswell, A. O. Robinson and F. Thorne.

THE ANNUAL EXCURSION.

The chief matter was the arranging for the annual excursion. This, it had been decided to hold at Niagara Falls and Buffalo on July 23, and the committees were appointed to look after the details in connection therewith. The fares will be $1.25 for adults and 65c. for children. The steamers of The Niagara Navigation Co. will convey the excursionists to the Falls and from there they will proceed to Buffalo by electric railway. An enjoyable trip is anticipated.

The committees having the arrangements in charge are the excursion, consisting of Messrs. Sykes, Dowswell, Bell, Robertson, Snow, Callander, D. W. Clark, Kelly, Johnston; the printing, made up of Messrs. Hawes, Dowswell, and Secretary Nettelfield; the amusement, comprising Messrs. Kelly, Snow and Clark, and the refreshment committee, F. W. Johnston.

These committees will report to the executive from time to time until the final details have been perfected.

The steamboat people, it seems, stipulate that the association is to be held responsible for the conduct of any person on the boat.

J. Bond took exception to this. He maintained it was unfair for the retail grocers to be held liable for the conduct of everyone going on board, when the association had not entire control of the vessel. The matter was dropped.

NEW MEMBERS.

Two new members were proposed, J. Pearson, by J. T. Schoales and Charles Contts, by Edw. Hawes. These were accepted by the association and their names were put on the list for admission at the next meeting.

THE ANNUAL FEES.

The question of raising the fees to $2 per year came up for consideration. Ed. Hawes explained that last year the expenditure was about $415, and the receipts $245. But expenses had been unusually heavy on account of the trading stamp fight and the early-closing campaign. This year the estimates were for an outlay of about $275; the income would be considerably less than this. But it was explained that the association could any time they wanted raise all the money required. Besides, they had a large special fund, and it was not thought that an association of this kind need accumulate any large surplus. On motion, the matter was indefinitely postponed.

EARLY CLOSING.

The association put off until the fruit season is over further action in reference to early closing. The matter has not yet been taken up by the city council, and it is not supposed they will do so until urged to action by another deputation of retail grocers.

WIARTON BEET SUGAR FACTORY.

The corner stone of the beet-sugar factory at Wiarton, Ont., was laid on June 5 by President Mills, of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, Ont. The opportunity was taken to have a big celebration, and cheap fares were given on all the railways bringing in a large number of visitors. A number of fraternal societies, carriages, bands and firemen formed a procession over three miles long and marched to the site of the factory to see Prof. Mills lay the stone in its place with a silver trowel. The ceremonies were continued in Driving Park, when speeches appropriate to the occasion were made by Prof. Mills and H. Cargill, M.P.

Prof. Mills said he had been investigating for some years the beet-sugar industry, as it applied to Canada, and found Ontario compared favorably with Michigan. In that State the beets averaged 12 per cent. of sugar, and in this Province the average was 15 per cent.

In the evening a banquet was held in the town hall, and was largely attended. Many visitors from the United States were there, and speeches were made by Prof. Mills, H. Cargill, M.P., G. M. Boyd, A. G. McKay, Dr. Horsey, M.P., O. R. Baldwin, D. W. Simons, of Detroit, and a number of others.

The factory is expected to be ready to handle the beet crop of this fall, of which 6,000 acres are now in cultivation.

AGAIN IN THE FRUIT TRADE.

Mr. Jos. Clearihue, late of the firm of I. & A. Champ, wholesale fruiterers and produce merchants, Victoria, B.C., who retired from business a few years ago, has again opened up in Victoria, in the same line of business.

ABREAST OF THE TIMES.

An immense increase of business in Western Ontario has shown The United Factories, Limited, the advisibility of greater shipping facilities. To meet the great and growing demand for its standard goods this firm (embracing Boeckh's Toronto factories, Bryan's London factories and Cane's Newmarket factories), has greatly enlarged and remodelled its London offices and warerooms. Dealers will be glad to know that prompt shipment of Bryan's brushes, Boeckh's brooms and Cane's woodenware can now be assured upon direct application to this branch, 65 Dundas street, London, Ont.

Tied Down?

Are you in a rut? Are you "tied down" by prejudice, or falling behind in the race for business? Are the chains of habit binding you tightly? You can break away if you will and throw off the chains—if you are in the rut of low prices let "quality" be your watchword from now on.

Windsor Salt is the Salt of highest quality. It is pure, white, dry, crystaline. It is as perfect as Salt can be, and that is saying much in these days when perfection is claimed for so many staple articles of trade. If you are "tied down" let Windsor Salt be one of the levers to help you break away from old-fashioned prejudice.

THE COFFEE SITUATION.

THE June circular on coffee from W. H. Crossman & Bro., New York, has just reached THE CANADIAN GROCER. It contains an interesting forecast of coffee conditions. According to statements, compiled officially by the Government of Sao Paulo, it is seen that the State of Sao Paulo, in which are 15 828 plantations, on which are employed about 265,500 people, is capable of producing sufficient coffee to meet the entire consumption of the world. Rios and Santos alone in one season were able to harvest a crop of upwards of 15,000,000 bags, and have found time to continue clearing and extending plantations up to and including this very year.

It was supposed that there was a loss in raising coffee for several years, in spite of which the crops have become larger and larger, instead of smaller.

While the Santos crop has developed a yield of 10,500,000 bags, and the State has enough suitable territory left to grow a crop large enough for the world's consumption, the Rio crop has also reached a new record. In 1882-3 the total Rio crop was 4,750,000 bags, against an average for the last three seasons of 3,100,000 bags.

The mild coffees, those outside Rio and Santos, have shown arrivals for 11 months, July to May inclusive, of about 3,900,000 bags, compared with 4,068,000 bags for the same period last season. It is expected, however, that the total quantity of mild coffees to arrive during the current crop will be about the same as last season, say 4,400,000 to 4,500,000 bags.

The three years (1898-1901) crop of Rio and Santos, and the world's visible supply shows nearly 1,500,000 bags increase during that period with Rio and Santos crop averaging 9,500,000 bags, clearly proving the world had not required as much as 9,000,000 bags of Rio and Santos coffee on an average in those three years, taking deliveries as consumption.

The world's visible supply, June 1, 1902, shows about 11,500,000 bags, to which should be added the stocks held in unlicensed stores in New York, not officially counted.

The actual supply in seaports and afloat, June 1, 1902, equals 12,750,000 bags. It is more than probable if dealers in the ports thought coffee low enough to stock up, those in the interior have shared in the same opinion. The speculative position of coffee has become worse from year to year. The crops have not given such an abundance of high grades as now for many years. and this is the first season that Rio, at the end of the crop, continues to sell large quantities New York Ex Standards Nos. 2 and 3, on which the premium is 200 to 250 points ; which coffee in large quantities could not be sold to the trade proper within 1c. per lb. compared with the premium paid for next December and March options.

All speculative attempts to sustain prices will only encourage further efforts for larger productions. The position cannot change until supplies are permanently reduced through a heavy decrease in the production itself since it is impossible to increase consumption even approximately according to the size of the crops.

The hopes of the vegetarians are by no means depressed by the high price of meat.

A WARNING NOTE FROM BANKERS.

THE general tone of the 84th annual meeting of the Bank of Montreal, held on June 2, 1902, was decidedly optimistic. Both the general manager, Mr. E. S. Clouston, and the Hon. George A. Drummond, chairman of the meeting, referred to the numerous features in Canadian industrial life, which seemed to portend great things for the future of the country. The marked increase in foreign trade, the development of home manufactories, the activity in the carrying trade, the increased immigration, were all made subjects of gratulation.

However, both these gentlemen sounded a note of warning, which finds visible expression in probably the most significant portion of the bank's statement for the past year. While circulation and deposits show a healthy increase, and the general business of the bank is in excellent condition, it is worthy of note that the rest has been increased by $1,000,000. As an act of prudence under existing circumstances this increase is commendable. Reference was made by Mr. Clouston to the dangers of excessive speculation, which at present seems to threaten Canadian stockholders, and he warned investors to look carefully into the intrinsic value of the securities they purchased. Mr. Drummond commented on the yet unknown effects of the present centralization of capital, which problem economic theory has not yet solved, and drew attention to the fact that four new banks had been incorporated. On the whole, caution seemed to be the watchword of the meeting.

GOOD TRADE SIGNS.

The bank clearing returns for the Dominion are of a most reassuring character, showing, as they do, an active business in the country. During May the total clearings were $212,593,555, against $169,651,783 the same month last year. This means that the clearings during May were 25.3 per cent. in excess of the same month last year, while for the five-month period they show an increase of 28.2 per cent.

As our readers are well aware, the bank clearing returns are one of the most reliable of our trade barometers.

It is also satisfactory to note that the failures in May were more satisfactory than for the same month a year ago, there being 20 per cent. less and the liabilities 37 per cent. smaller.

THE SECRET OF SUCCESS.

THE man who is to-day probably more in the public eye than any other is Lord Kitchener, who, as Commander-in-Chief of the British forces in South Africa, has brought about the much-desired peace.

The success of this man is due not to what might be termed genius. His predominating characteristic is common sense, backed up by a determined will which no obstacles can thwart. As a result of this common sense of his, Lord Kitchener is a determined opponent of red-tapeism, and he follows no set rule, but acts as emergencies demand.

A London journal a few days ago, in an article on this successful Commander-in-Chief in South Africa, said : "His usefulness lays in the faculty possessed in a remarkable degree of bringing an open mind unbiased by pre-conceived notions to the human problem before him. He will use the iron hand or the velvet glove exactly as the occasion requires. He was a Dervish to the Dervishes; he was a Frenchman to Major Marchand, and a Boer to the Boers."

Although a military man, Lord Kitchener has really been successful because he has employed what are practically business methods during the whole of his career.

A business man to be successful cannot afford to be prejudiced, neither can he allow himself to be influenced by traditions or by methods which might have been successfully employed by his father or grandfather. He must have the faculty of being able to act as emergencies demand. This is what Lord Kitchener did. And this is what business men do who are successful in their particular sphere.

OUR IMPORTS OF CHINA BLACK TEAS.

THE most significant feature in regard to Canada's import trade of tea this year is the enormous falling off in the quantity of China black teas which have passed the Customs.

Taking the ten months of the fiscal year, ending April 30 last, the decline was 2,500,000 lb., the actual figures being 3,415,561 lb. for the ten months of last year, and 945,425 lb. for the ten months of the present year, a decline of 72 per cent. for the period.

The quantity of Indian and Ceylon tea imported during that period aggregated 8,432,406 lb. a decline of about 200,000 lb. This falling off in British-grown tea is altogether in Indian tea, there being a decrease of about 900,000 lb., while in Ceylon tea there was an increase of over 750,000 lb.

The report on the China tea trade for 1901 shows that the shipments of black tea from that country declined about 665,489 piculs, the quantity shipped being the smallest on record.

The crop of China tea, it will be remembered, was short, and this led to an advance in prices, low grades appreciating something like 40 per cent. The report says urther that "Russia is taking less China tea and Canada and Australia are consuming next to nothing of the produce of Foochow which was once in such active demand."

The sale of black brick tea is said to be no more than half of the amount of five years ago.

GOOD FRUIT CROP PROMISED.

The latest reports from the fruit districts indicate favorable prospects. The yield in Western Ontario has suffered little damage from frost. The yield per acre will be average, but the acreage will be much larger.

All small fruits, especially strawberries and raspberries, owing to the late rains, promise an abundance. Currants promise a fair return.

From reports received from an area ranging from Bronte to St. Catharines, and on to Niagara, this year is expected to be a record one. The peach crop is especially promising ; if June does not furnish cold rains a large crop will be gathered. Every line of fruit will yield a good average, and there are excellent prospects of a fairly steady and remunerative market for the grower.

Increased acreage between Oakville and Hamilton has this year been given to strawberries, and peaches hereafter will be largely cultivated in that district. The dealers are optimistic regarding the outlook.

There is a snail ranch in Los Angeles. It must be a slow business.

THE JAPAN TEA SITUATION.

DURING the last few weeks we have from time to time noticed the strength which has developed on the Japan tea market. Mail advices now to hand give further information as to the cause.

Before the season actually opened the conditions for the growing crop were excellent on account of the favorable weather, the belief being generally that the crop itself would be five or six days earlier than usual. These expectations, however, were short-lived, for the weather suddenly took a cold turn on April 10, and the young shoots were withered by the frost. It is estimated that as a result of this damage there is likely to be a shortage in the first crop of from 20 to 30 per cent.

When it is known that out of last year's shipments of 36,000,000 lb. no less than 21,000,000 lb. were first crop teas some idea may be obtained of the importance of the damage.

Up to the time of the mail advices the advance in price in Japan was 5 yen per picul. The effect of the damage upon the shipments is evident from the statistics just to hand. The total quantity of tea exported up to May 18 was 314,941 lb. from Kobe and Yokohama, while up to the same date last year it was 1,370,381 lb., showing a decline so far this year of over 1,000,000 lb. The shipments to Canada up to May 18 were 27,780 lb., while for the corresponding period in 1901 the quantity was 182,192 lb.

On the Canadian market there is very little business doing at the moment in Japan teas, the high prices having deterred buying.

ROSS ESTATE PAYS 5 3-4 CENTS.

A first and final dividend of 5¾c. on the dollar has been declared by the estate of the Ross Tea Co., Toronto. The liabilities were $7,824.85 and the total receipts from the estate $500. It will be remembered that last autumn Mr. Ross sold the business to Mrs. Ross.

TRADE IN COUNTRIES OTHER THAN OUR OWN.

CABLE advices from Formosa reported the market for new crop Formosa tea higher, with good cargo at 13½ to 14c. c.i.f. New York; settlements to date, 150,000 half-chests.

VALENCIA RAISINS IN ENGLAND.

Valencia raisins are in good demand in England at improved prices, and the available supplies are limited.

OUTLOOK FOR HIGH SARDINE PRICES.

Mail advices from France on sardines state that the outlook is for high prices on the new packing, owing to the scarcity and high prices for codfish roe which is used for bait.

CANNED SALMON IN LONDON.

A good trade is doing in salmon, both on the market and in the country, and valuations in some instances are slightly higher. The cheapest class of salmon in the market at the present time is 1-lb. Fraser Flats, quotations being very little more than best talls. This package has always been a popular one with the consumer, and now that it is practically within reach of everyone, the sale should be a large one.—Produce Markets' Review, May 31.

THE PRUNE CROP ON THE COAST.

Portland, Ore., mail advices say of prunes: "A summary of the prune situation shows that there is no doubt that the prune crop of several Willamette Valley counties and of Clark county, Wash., have been badly damaged by the cold rains and frosts. The heaviest damage is to Italian prunes, which will not yield more than half a crop, but the fruit will be larger and of a better quality than last year. A report from Vancouver, Wash., says: The prune experts of the county estimate the yield at about 125 carloads of dried fruit, or about one-half of last year's yield. Some estimates run higher, but this is an average figure. A report from Dallas, Ore., says the prune crop will be about 80 per cent. of last year's output. A report from Independent says a crop of about 40 per cent. may be expected in that section. A report from Yamhill county says about 80 per cent. of a crop may be expected there. Around Corvallis the heaviest damage seems to have been done, as the prune men do not expect much over 20 per cent. of a crop. Most of the orchards in that section are on the low land. A report from Salem says the prune crop in that locality will not exceed 30 per cent. of last year's crop."

PEAS AND TOMATOES IN BALTIMORE.

There is a very active market for peas, which are being packed and distributed rapidly. The arrivals of green stock the past week have been of the favorite Anne Arundel growth, and the packers consider prices as reasonable. During the last two days of the past week prices got down to 70 to 85c. per bushel, but the considerable consumption of them rapidly advanced the price, and since June 3 they have been selling at 85c. to $1.05 per bushel. These figures allow the packers to make what is known as low prices. Quotations on early June standards are 85c. to $1; sifted, $1.10 to $1.20; extra sifted, $1.15 to $1.40; petit pois, $1.65 to $2. From these latter figures it can be seen that small peas are going to be scarce and high this year. Early June seconds are quoted at 70 to 85c., sifted at 90c. to $1, and extras at $1 to $1.10. Marrowfats, last year's stock, still offered at 90c. to $1 for standards, $1 to $1.10 for sifted, $1.20 to $1.35 for extra sifted, and $1.55 to $1.60 for petit pois.

Tomatoes are firmer and somewhat higher for No. 3 stock. Brokers quote standard No. 3 at $1.27½ to $1.32½; seconds, $1.15 to $1.20; No. 2, $1 to $1.05, and gallons, $3.75.—Trade, Baltimore, June 6.

SHIPMENTS OF CURRANTS.

In connection with currants, The Hills Bros. Co., New York, say: "The steamer Georgia has cleared from Greece with about 600 tons, or, say, the equivalent of about 5,000 barrels, a rather large cargo, considering the season of the year. The Greek market remains practically unchanged, or say at about the equivalent of ruling prices here. Mail advices from Patras, dated May 20, just received, indicate that the rainy weather was prevalent at that time all over Greece, but it was then too early to calculate the damage which might have been caused to the vines by peronosporos.

CANADA'S ARCH AT THE CORONATION.

The grand triumphal arch, emblematical of the agricultural resources of the Dominion, and at the same time a demonstration of loyalty, is in Whitehall, opposite the bronze statue of James II., and below the Horse Guards. It is designed on unconventional yet decorative lines. The height is 56 feet, and the width 60 feet; the arched opening in the centre being 25 feet, flanked on either side by open octagonal features draped and festooned, the whole structure being capped by an open lantern with roof of crown formation.

In the centre of the structure and under the lantern the word "Canada" appears in large letters, and immediately over the arched opening are inscribed the words, "The Future Granary of the Empire."

An illumination scheme has been designed whereby the main features of the structure, as well as the mottoes, will stand out in bold and effective manner after dark.

The design is by Messrs. Walker & Ramsay, of Glasgow, the architects for the Wolverhampton Exhibition.

PATES DE FOIE GRAS.

There has appeared in several United States journals the following statement: "It is somewhat of a surprise to find that even such a high-priced article as pates de foie gras, the traditional diseased goose livers, have been replaced by beef and pork."

The names of certain French packers are given who are charged with substituting beef suet and pork for the genuine goose livers. It is said in favor of beef suet that it will not become rancid as quickly as the fat of the goose when used to fill up the box after the solid liver has been placed in it. Another claim in favor of beef suet is that the strong green fat of the goose is repulsive to persons of weak stomachs, and that the modificatian described are prepared to reconcile the American taste to this foreign dainty. Though the primal purpose of the change of material was made, no doubt, to reduce the cost of production, and there will also be a reduction in price to the consumer. It appears the change in style and material will have the tendency to increase the sale of this dainty in the American market.

HINTS TO BUYERS.

Contributors are requested to send news only not puffs of goods they handle, or the arrival of standard goods that everyone has in stock, or that they are offering goods at close figures, or that they have had an unusually large sale this season.

LAPORTE, MARTIN & CIE have in stock some corn which they are offering to buyers at advantageous prices. This can be bought now cheaper than later in the season, and merchants should buy a little more than they need at present. The quality is excellent.

H. P. Eckardt & Co. report gallon fruits to be moving freely.

L. Chaput, Fils & Cie report a big demand for Easter & Griffin's brand of seeded raisins in 1-lb. cartons.

H. P. Eckardt & Co. announce that they are offering canned fruit of all kinds at low prices.

L. Chaput, Fils & Cie have received an immense lot of paper bags which they are offering at attractive prices.

Laporte, Martin & Cie report a cargo of new Barbados molasses on the wharf, of the finest quality, which they are selling at a very low price.

H. P. Eckardt & Co. are showing exceptionally fine samples of green Rio coffees.

A large consignment of green Rio coffee has just been received by H. P. Eckardt & Co.

Henri Jonas & Cie have received a few hundred cases of different brands of sardines from the Etablissements F. Delory. One special boneless sardine is especially recommended.

Special close prices on salmon, to arrive, are being given by H. P. Eckardt & Co.

MARKETS AND MARKET NOTES

ONTARIO MARKETS.

Toronto, June 12, 1902.

GROCERIES.

TRADE, generally, in wholesale groceries continues active this week, although the cold weather of the last few days has had a depressing effect. The chief interest is centred around the sugar market, where two changes have occurred during the week. The first was a decline of 10c. per 100 lb. all round, and the second was an advance of 5c. per 100 lb., leaving this week's prices of sugar 5c. lower than last week. The market now is firm and the demand has improved with the late increase in price. There is a continued scarcity in Valencia raisins, resulting in an advance of ½ to 1c. for selected and ½ to ¾c. for layers per lb. In canned goods the stocks of peas and tomatoes are becoming light with some jobbers, and an active inquiry has sprung up from wholesalers at outside points for the latter. The tea and coffee markets continue firm with a good local business being transacted.

CANNED GOODS.

There has been little change in the canned goods business. Some inquiries for canned tomatoes have been made by wholesalers at outside points, but so far we hear of no transactions being made. The stocks on hand are light with some houses, and when asked for prices, tomatoes were quoted as high as 97½c. The stocks of peas are getting light, and for them and corn there is an active demand. The local quotations are 92½c. up for tomatoes, 65c. for corn, and 80c. for peas. Canned fruits are fairly active, the principal business being transacted in peaches, pears, strawberries and plums, and the market is steady. The situation in canned salmon is still active with a number of orders coming in for future delivery, and a fair business in sardines is springing up. The coming on of the picnic season is increasing the sales of potted and dried meats, and for canned meats the demand is brisk. We quote: Fraser River sockeye, $1.42½ for five-case lots and over, and $1.45 for less quantities; Northern sockeye, $1.25 to $1.30; cohoes, $1.05 to $1.15, according to quality, and canned haddies, $1 to $1.10.

COFFEES.

The outside markets are steadier on Brazilian coffee, according to the latest cable advices, and this improvement is reported to be due to the smaller receipts at Rio and Santos. Locally, trade in all kinds of coffees continues steady, and no change has been noted in prices. There is not much doing in coffees in first hands. We quote: Green Rio, No. 7, 7¾c.; No. 6, 8c.; No. 5, 8¼c.; No. 4, 9c.; No. 3, 10 to 12c. per lb.

NUTS.

The situation in nuts continues about the same as it was a week ago, there being very little demand for them. The market is without feature, and the prices are unchanged.

RICE AND TAPIOCA.

Locally, trade continues fair in rice and tapioca, and nothing new has developed in the primary markets, excepting that tapioca continues weak. Our quotations are as follows: B rice, 3¼c.; Japan, 5½ to 6c.; tapioca, 3½ to 3¾c., and sago, 3¾ to 4c. per lb.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

The tone of the local market is quiet, both in syrups and molasses, and the prices are unchanged. Advices from New Orleans lately report a firm market for blackstrap, for which there had been a fair demand latterly. Our quotations are as follows: Corn syrup, 3½ to 3¾c. in barrels and kegs; sugar syrups, 30 to 32c. for medium, and 35 to 40c. for bright. Molasses, 24 to 26c. for open-kettle.

See pages 43 and 44 for Toronto, Montreal, St. John and Halifax prices current.

SPICES.

The spice trade locally is quiet and pepper is easier. The outside market is characterized by an absence of offerings of supplies for forward shipments from the East.

SUGAR.

The local sugar market has been rather unsettled lately. The slight decline in some lines of yellows, noted in last week's report, was followed almost immediately by a drop of 10c. per 100 lb. all round, caused by a similar change in the New York market. This week a firmer feeling in New York resulted in an appreciation there of 5c., followed by an advance here of that amount. This leaves the market 5c. lower than last week, but the prices are firm with a distinctly upward tendency. So buying, locally, has been stimulated the last day or so, and an active business is expected from this out as the fruit-preserving season is now coming on.

London cable advices report a firm market for beet sugar with a partial advance. Cane sugar there was unchanged. In the United States raw sugar still holds to the firmness noted last week, and The McCahan Sugar Refining Company, Philadelphia, paid an advance equivalent to over 1-16c. per lb. for a cargo of Egyptian crystals. The receipts of the week compared with those of the previous week showed a reduction of 28,538 tons, and the meltings continued at 31,000 tons, reducing the total stocks to 143,656 tons as against 146,118 tons last week, and 236,802 tons last year. Advices from Germany state the German Government officials are endeavoring to secure the ratification by the Reichstag of the Brussels agreement. The Government Bill was referred to the Sugar Committee, which has agreed on the following new rates: Consumption duty from September, 1903, 12 marks per 100 kilos (equal to 1.30c. per lb.); consumption duty from September, 1905, 10 marks per 100 kilos (equal to 1.08c. per lb.); surtax on raw sugar, 4.40 marks per 100 kilos (equal to .47c. per lb.); surtax on refined sugar, 4.80 marks per 100 kilos equal to .52c. per lb.) These rates have yet to be passed by the Reichstag as a whole. The present consumption duty is equivalent to 2.16c. per lb., and the present surtax also equals 2.16c. per lb. Should these rates go into force in September, 1903, the price of sugar in Germany, for the home trade, will be much reduced and the home consumption ought to largely increase.

TEAS.

From Formosa come cable advices reporting the new crop tea higher. Advices from Japan contain nothing new, and only confirm previous reports of the damage done the tea crops there and the likelihood of higher prices prevailing therefor for the next year. From China comes the news that the Shanghai market for new crop country teas is expected to open in a few days. From advices from London, England, the quantity of tea brought to auction from the 1st of June, 1901 to May 30, 1902, was 1,626,581 packages of Indian; 1,159,793 packages of Ceylon, and 80,470 packages of Java, as compared with 1,662,617 packages of Indian, 1,272,310 packages of Ceylon, and 63,682 packages of Java for the same period, 1900-01. It is also stated that, although the average price of Indian tea sold on garden account this season was about ½d. higher than that of the previous season, with this exception, these average prices were the lowest price ever obtained, and it is claimed the only way out of the present depression seems to be to reduce the output and make strenuous efforts in opening up new markets whether for black or green teas. The average price of 1,291,724 packages of Indian tea sold on garden account during 1901-1902 was 7.65d. as against 8.23d. for 1,313,554 packages in 1899-1900.

Locally there is an active demand for teas, especially for Japans, Ceylons and Indians, and the prices of the first-named are very firm, owing to reports of advances in the Japanese markets, but it is difficult to determine how much these amount to.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS.—Locally, currants are still in fair demand and the prices are unchanged. Advices from Greece state the market there is about steady. Local quotations follow: Filiatras, 5¾ to 6c.; Patras, 6½ to 7c.

VALENCIA RAISINS.—The continued lightness of the stocks of Valencia raisins has resulted in an advance of ½ to 1c. in selected, and ½ to ¾c. in layers. The latter are very scarce. The quotations are now 7½ to 8c. for selected, and 7½ to 8c. for layers.

DATES.—There has been a slight improvement in the local demand for dates, and the stocks on hand are light. We quote: 4½c. for dates in bulk, and 6¼ to 6½c. in packages.

PRUNES.—With some wholesale merchants prunes are scarce and they are selling well. We quote: Californian prunes, 100-110's, 5c.; 90-100's, 5½ to 6¼c.; 80-90's, 6½ to 7c.; 70-80's, 6¾ to 7¼c.; 60-70's, 7½ to 8c.; 50-60's, 8 to 8½c.; 40-50's, 8¾ to 10c.

CALIFORNIAN EVAPORATED FRUITS.—No new features have developed in the market for Californian evaporated fruits, and prices are unchanged. Our quotations are as follows: 11 to 14c. per lb. for peaches and 13 to 17c. for apricots. New Santa Clara apricots are quoted f.o.b. the Coast at 7c. in 50-lb. boxes, and 7½c. in 25-lb. boxes in carload lots.

GREEN FRUITS.

Trade in general has been quiet this week. Oranges are becoming scarce, but the demand for them is only fair. Bananas are selling freely and the high prices thereof are still maintained. Canadian strawberries are now coming on the market in increasing quantities and the prices are already weaker. Pineapples are selling freely. Tomatoes are still scarce, and a quantity of those on the market are from Texas. Lemons are quiet and unchanged. We quote prices as follows: Oranges, Mexicans, $3 to $3.25 per box; Paper Rind St. Michaels, $2 per ½-box; Mediterranean sweets, $3.75 to $4.50; Messinas, $3 50 to $4; Sorrentos, $4; grape fruit, $4; to $5.50 per box; bananas, $1.50 to $2.50 for firsts, and $1.25 to $1.60 for eight hands; pineapples, $3 to $3 50 per case; Egyptian onions, $3.50 per sack; Messina lemons, $2.50 to $3.50; Southern tomatoes, $3.50 to $4.50 per case of 6 baskets, and $2.50 per 4-basket case; strawberries, 12 to 17c. per quart; Southern cucumbers, $2.50 to $2.75 per bushel hamper, and $1.20 per doz.

VEGETABLES.

A quietness prevails in the vegetable market, and green stuff is scarce. There has been no change in prices, and things are about the same as last week. We quote as follows: Green onions, 7 to 8c. per doz.; rhubarb, 20 to 40c. per doz.; carrots, $1.40 to $1.50 per bag; turnips, 40 to 50c. per bag; lettuce, 20 to 30c. per doz.; radishes, 20 to 30c.; mint and parsley, 20 to 25c.; cabbage, 75c. to $1 per doz.; dry Egyptian onions, $1.75 per bush; potatoes, 90c. to $1 per bag; asparagus, 50 to 75c. per doz.; Californian cabbage, $3 per crate; new potatoes, $8 per bbl.; spinach, 50c. per bush.; parsnips and beets, 40 to 50c. per bag.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—The market is firm at 15c. per doz. for good stock. Some houses are expecting a decline before long and are offering their eggs at 14½c. Picklers are not yet through with their operations.

BEANS—The market is very dull. Quotations follow: Choice hand-picked, $1.30 per bush.; prime, $1.10 to $1.20.

HONEY—Trade is slack, there being very little doing. Our quotations are as follows: 9½ to 10c. for 60-lb. tins and 10 to 11c. for less quantities; combs, $2 to $3 per doz.; dark honey, 5 to 5½c. per lb.

MAPLE SYRUP AND SUGAR—There is scarcely any trade doing and prices are unchanged. Quotations are: Maple syrup, in 10-lb. tins 90c., and 90c. to $1.10 per imperial gallon. Maple sugar is quoted at 9 to 10½c. per lb.

DRIED AND EVAPORATED APPLES—There is no trade in dried apples and the market is bare of evaporated. We quote: Dried apples, 5 to 6c. per lb., and evaporated 10½ to 11c.

HAY—The demand is fair and the receipts are sufficient to meet the requirements. Quotations are $8 to $10.25 per ton.

POTATOES—The steadiness in the market continues and the receipts are large enough to supply the demand. They are worth 70c. per bag on track here in car lots and 80 to 85c. in less quantities.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—The receipts of dairy butter have been large, being principally in tubs. There has also been an improvement in the quality coming in, and this has had the effect of lessening the sales of creamery butter. The market is inclined to be weak, but the prices are unchanged. We quote: Choice 1-lb. prints, 15 to 16c.; large rolls, 15c.; tubs, best quality, 15 to 15½c.; large rolls, medium grade, 12 to 14c., and tubs, medium grade, 12 to 13c. per lb. Creamery prints are worth 19 to 21c., and creamery solids, 19 to 20c. per lb.

CHEESE—The cheese market, contrary to the expectations of many, has taken a stronger turn this week, and sales at the factories are being made at prices ranging from 9⅝ to 9¾c. This strength in the Canadian market is caused by the firm tone of that of Great Britain. Locally, the business doing is fair, and prices are steady at 10 to 10½c. for new cheese, and 12 to 13c. for old.

FISH.

The shortage in same lines of fish noticed last week has been relieved by the arrival of one or two shipments, and jobbers have now sufficient stock on hand to supply current wants. There has been no change in prices and the market is steady. Our quotations are as follows: Fresh fish—Lake Erie herring, 4 to 5c.; perch, 4 to 5c.; trout, 6½c.; pike, 4c.; British Columbian salmon, 20c.; whitefish, 7½ to 8c.; blue fish, 9c. per lb.; mackerel, 12 to 15c.; rock bass, 4c.; eastern salmon, 25 to 30c.; speckled trout, 25c.; halibut, 15c.

GRAIN, FLOUR AND BREAKFAST FOODS.

GRAIN—Manitoba hard wheat is a little easier, being quoted at 85c. for No. 1. Nos. 1 and 2 Northern remain about the same at 82½ and 80½c. per bushel respectively. The movement from the West is brisk. Locally, the receipts of the coarser grains have been heavy and the prices of FLOUR — Trade is still quiet and the demand, locally, shows no improvement over that of last week. There is still some inquiry from the Old Country, but the prices offered are not sufficient to enable business to be done on a paying basis. Our quotations are as follows: Ontario patents, in bags, $3.60 to $3.75; Hungarian patents, $4 to $4.15; Manitoba bakers', $3.70 to $3.85; straight roller, $3.30 to $3.40 per bbl. in Toronto.

We quote: Oatmeal, standard and granulated, in carlots on track here, $5.20; standard rolled oats in carlots on track here, $4.90 per bbl.; in wood, 10c. more; broken lots are 20c. per bbl. extra; rolled wheat, $2.40 in 100-lb. bbl.; cornmeal, $3.60; split peas, $4.75; pot barley, $4.25, in 196-lb. bbls.

HIDES, SKINS AND WOOL.

HIDES—The market continues steady and the prices are unchanged. Quotations follow: No. 1 green, 7½c.; No. 2 green, 6½c.; No. 1 green, steers, 8½c.; No. 2 green, steers, 7½c.; cured, 8 to 8¼c.

SKINS — Sheepskins are unchanged in price and the season for long-woolled skins is about over. Lambskins and shearling are plentiful. We quote: No. 1 calfskins, 10c.; and No. 2, 8c.; deacons (dairies), 60 to 70c. each; sheepskins, 80c. to $1; lamb skins, 20 to 25c.

WOOL —The weakness in the wool market continues without relief and trade is stagnant. Fleece wool brings 13c. and unwashed 7c. per lb. f.o.b. Toronto.

TALLOW—The scarcity of tallow continues and the prices are unchanged at 6¼ to 6½c. per lb.

A Bird in the Hand is Worth Two in the Bush.

THIS proverb fits exactly the position of the Japan Tea market of to-day. You know that you can at the present time fill your requirements at reasonable prices, while, if you wait, the chances are all that you will have to pay much more for what is coming from that country.

Crop Now 6,000,000 Pounds Short of Last Year.

Prices for May fully 4c. per lb. higher. Second and third crop teas will undoubtedly be bought at a less advance, but will they come back to last year's standard? It is not probable.

Out of 36,000,000 lbs. of Japan Tea shipped last year 21,000,000 lbs. were May teas.

Think over these facts, and, if you want to buy now, I have 1,500 packages of Japan Teas to offer you. They were bought in good time, and I will sell them to you right. Ask for my samples. It pays.

QUEBEC MARKETS.

Montreal, June 12, 1902.

GROCERIES.

WHILE jobbers are fairly busy with shipments, it must be said that the market, in comparison with other years, is rather unsatisfactory. The cold weather has had a depressing effect on almost all lines of trade, and groceries have suffered along with the rest. The most interesting feature of the week has been sugar, which after an unexpected drop took an equally unexpected rise. The trade in dried fruits is quiet; unusually so for this season, although a great trade is not expected. New Barbados molasses have commenced to arrive in fair quantities. Hams and bacons are quoted higher by the wholesale houses, large hams selling for 12½c.; medium, for 13½c., and small, for 14c. Small cheese have again declined, and the market shows considerable weakness; the price now quoted is 10 to 10¼c., 1c. lower than last prices. Dried and evaporated apples are hard to obtain, and what few there are to be had are held at high prices, something in the vicinity of $11. Dried apricots, peaches and pears are scarce.

SUGAR.

The market has been very unsteady. On June 5 a decline of 10c. was made, and on June 10 sugar went up 5c. The present price for granulated is $3.65, and for yellows, $3 to $3.40. The drop last week was supposed to be due to the refiners wanting to fight the Austrian sugar. Since then, however, the raw material took a firmer position and the better feeling in the market was followed by an advance of 5c. The market has slightly improved; trade, however, is still quiet.

TEAS.

The damage to the Japan tea crop has been found to be greater than was at first expected, and late advices state that it will be fully 30 per cent. smaller than the crop of last year. Prices have advanced again, and are now almost 5c. higher than a year ago. Advices from Colombo regarding Ceylon teas report the market firm for all good teas, but irregular for common to medium grades. The commonest leaf teas were in very poor demand. Good tippy brokens, however, are in active demand and full rates are being paid. Prices for dusts and fannings remain very firm. The quality of the tea offered has steadily deteriorated, and the first May auction was poor. The average prices keep well up, being at last reports at 37c. Locally, the market is in better shape. The demand from country buyers has been much better, they apparently realizing that they will have to pay higher prices for Japans. Gunpowders on this market are pretty well cleaned up. The teas just arrived from Japan are all of a very good quality, and apparently there has been a resolve to keep out all the frost-damaged tea from good stuff.

SYRUPS.

The market for corn syrups remains very quiet. Prices are nominal, as follows: 3½c. in bbls.; 3⅝c. in ½ bbls.; 3¾c. in ¼ bbls.; $1.60 in 38½-lb. and $1.20 in 25-lb. pails.

MOLASSES.

Several shipments of new Barbados molasses have arrived during the week, and wholesalers are quoting 22 to 24c., according to quantity. The demand, however, is not large. Some old Barbados has been disposed of at 20c., although even at this figure there has not been much done. The price of Porto Rico molasses remains at 38c., for finest grade, and Antigua sells for 24c.

CANNED GOODS.

The market is fairly active. Tomatoes continue to grow scarcer, and jobbers are firmer in their demands. Most houses are now quoting higher prices, from 97½c. to $1. The dollar mark has been reached by almost all houses, and several report a fair business at that price. Canned salmon, of the new pack, to arrive, are now being offered by jobbers, and prices quoted are considerably lower. Pink salmon are 5 to 8c. lower; red sockeye, 2c.; Fraser River red sockeye, 5c., and for spring, 5c. lower. We quote: Peas, 82½c. to $1.15; corn, 80c.; tomatoes, 97½c. to $1; gallon apples, $2.85 to $2.90; 3-lb. apples, $1.10. Salmon, pink, 92 to 95c.; spring, $1.25; Rivers Inlet, red sockeye, $1.30; Fraser River red sockeye, $1.40.

SPICES.

Trade is very quiet, the backwardness of the season having had a bad effect on this market. Peppers on the New York market are lower and somewhat weaker, although stocks are small. The demand has apparently been very light. The feeling in gingers is still strong. We quote: Nutmegs, 30 to 55c. per lb., as to size; penang mace, 45 to 50c. per lb.; as to quality; pimento, ground, 12½ to 15c.; cloves, 15 to 25c.; pepper, ground, black, 17 to 22c., according to grade; white, 25 to 27c.; ginger, whole, Cochin, 15 to 17c.; Japan, 13 to 14c.; Jamaica, 16 to 20c.; Afghan, 12 to 13c.; ground, Japan, 15c.; Cochin, 16 to 17c.; Jamaica, 20 to 22c., and Afghan, 13 to 14c.

RICE AND TAPIOCA.

The market is fairly active. Pearl sago has declined about ¾c., and is now quoted at 3¼ to 3⅝c. Tapioca has weakened a little, and is quoted at 3½ to 3½c. Quotations are: B rice, in bags, $3.02½; in ½ bags, $3.07½; in ¼ bags, $3.12½; in pockets, $3.17½. In 10-bag lots an allowance of 10c. is made. CC rice,, $2.92½ in bags; $2.97½ in ½ bags; $3.02½ in ¼ bags, and $3.07½ in pockets. In the open territory prices are about 10c. less. Patna rice is worth 4 to 5c. per lb., and tapioca, 3⅛ to 3½c.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS.—No further advance is reported on the primary market, which is somewhat steadier. The local market is quiet. We quote: Fine Filiatras, 5⅝c. in ½ cases; cleaned, 6c.; 1-lb. cartons, 8c.; finest Vostizzas, 7¾ to 8c. per lb.

VALENCIA RAISINS.—A good round lot of these arrived and were quickly disposed of. Quotations on finest off-stalk are nominal. We quote: Finest off-stalk, 6¼c.; selected, 6⅝c.; layers, 7¼ to 7½c. per lb.

SULTANA RAISINS.—These are scarce and the demand is very light. The price is 9c. per lb.

CANDIED PEELS.—A steady demand continues. Citron peel sell for 16½c.; orange, 11½c., and lemon, 10½c.

MALAGA RAISINS.—There is a fair demand, and our quotations are as follows: London layers, $1.50 to $1.60; "Connoisseur Clusters," $2.15 to $2.25; ½'s, 65 to 70c.; "Royal Buckingham Clusters," $3.30 to $3.35; ½'s, $1.05 to $1.10; "Excelsior Windsor Clusters," $4.50 to $4.60; ¼'s, $1.30 to $1.40.

DATES.—Trade is fair. Hallowee dates sell for 4½c. per lb.

FIGS.—There is nothing new in this market. A moderate inquiry keeps up. Tapnets sell for $1.20, and layers for $1.15.

CALIFORNIAN RAISINS.—The primary market remains unchanged. Locally there is a good demand for seeded raisins at 9¼ to 9½c. per lb.

PRUNES.—These are being rapidly taken up, and small sizes have begun to grow scarce. Quotations are: 8½c. for 40-50's; 8c. for 50-60's; 7⅞c. for 60-70's; 7½c. for 70-80's; 6¾c. for 80-90's; 6½c. for 90-100's.

CALIFORNIAN EVAPORATED FRUITS.—The demand is moderate. At present these are scarce on the market. The price of apricots is 14½c.; peaches, 10½c., and pears, 10c.

NUTS.

The market for nuts, locally, is not active. Brazil nuts remain at the last advance. Peanuts have again gone up ¼c. on the primary market. Filberts have advanced about 7s. per bale on the primary market. We quote: Walnuts, 9¾ to 11c.; Tarragona almonds, 12 to 13c.; shelled walnuts, 16½ to 17½c.; shelled almonds, 26 to 27c.; Jordan shelled almonds, 42c.; filberts, 8¾ to 9½c.; pecans, 15 to 16c.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER.—A strong butter market is to be reported this week. Quite a demand is obtaining for June creamery, a consignment bringing 19½ to 19⅝c., an advance of ¼ to ½c. over last week. Some lots of Western dairy have been sold on this market, realizing from 16½ to 17c. The demand on export account is very active, due to the English supply being light.

CHEESE.—There is quite a demand for early Junes at full prices. The price of cheese is 1½c. higher than at the same time last year. The inquiry from the British market has been very satisfactory owing to the consumption over there increasing. A continued good inquiry may be anticipated from England. Prices are as follows: 9⅞ to 10c. for finest western white and colored; finest eastern white and colored, 9⅝ to 9¾c. Farmers here have no reason for holding as long as the present satisfactory prices are maintained.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS.—The egg market here is somewhat weaker this week. Numerous complaints of shrinkage are heard. Lower prices are looked for next week. 13½ to 13⅝c. are the prices ruling here in a wholesale way.

HONEY.—White clover comb is selling at 13 to 14c.; tinged, at 10 to 11c.; strained, at 9 to 10c.; buckwheat, in comb, at 9 to 10c., and extracted, at from 7 to 8c. per lb. The condition of the market is very much as before, namely, dull.

ASHES.—The market is without any special change, and still remains quiet. Prices are: Firsts, $4.15 to $4.20; sec-

BEANS.—A fairly good jobbing trade is being done, and the market is steady. Primes are still quoted at from $1.25 to $1.30.

GREEN FRUITS.

The cold weather which has prevailed so late in the season has been hard on the green fruit trade, and jobbers report an unusually quiet market. Valencia oranges have taken the expected advance, and are this week quoted 50c. higher. Canadian apples have also advanced. Other fruits, which have changed in price, are lower. The range in quality of strawberries has altered the quotations from 13 to 15c., to 12 to 18c. Pineapples are 2½ to 4c. lower. Other declines are, radishes, 20c., wax beans, 50c., green beans, 50c., and cabbage, 50c. FISH.

The market for fresh fish is still fairly active, chiefly in Manitoba dore, whitefish and trout. Skinless and boneless cod are moving well but other lines are slow. All fresh fish are in plentiful supply. A number of advances have been made in the price of fresh fish. We quote: Haddies, 7 to 7½c.; smoked herrings, 9 to 10c. per box ; fresh haddock and cod, 3½ to 4c. per lb.; whitefish, 7½c.; dore, 7½c.; pike, 6c.; halibut, 10 to 12c.; salmon, 15 to 16c.; trout, large and medium, 7½c.; No. 1 herring, Nova Scotian, $4.75 to $5.25 per bbl., and $2.50 per ½ bbl.; No. 1 Holland herring, $6.50 per ½ bbl. ; No. 1 Scotch herring, $6.50 per ½ bbl., and 95c. per keg ; Holland herring, 75c. per keg ; No. 1 green codfish, $5 per bbl.; mackerel, $12.50 per bbl. ; boneless cod, 1 and 2-lb. blocks, 6c. per lb.; loose, boneless cod, 5c. per lb. in 40-lb. boxes ; dried codfish, $4.75 per 112-lb. bundle ; No. 1 Labrador salmon, $17.50 in tierces, and in barrels, $12.50 ; No. 1 British-Columbian salmon, $6 per ½ bbl., and $12 per bbl.; standard bulk oysters, $1.50 per gallon ; Marshall's kippered herring, $1.45 per doz.; Canadian kippered, $1 per doz.; Canadian ¼ sardines, $3.75 per 100 ; canned Cove oysters, No. 1 size, $1.30 per doz.; canned Cove oysters, No. 2 size, $2.20 per doz.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

FLOUR.—A good business has been done in Manitoba flour for export. The price of Manitoba spring wheat patents and strong bakers' has been reduced 10c. We quote as follows : Manitoba spring wheat patents, $4 to $4.20 ; winter wheat patents, $3.90 to $4.10 ; strong bakers', $3.70 to $3.90 ; straight rollers, $3.65 to $3.75.

GRAIN.—Export business in Manitoba wheat is dull, buyers and sellers not being able to get in line as to the price to be paid. Prices on oats and buckwheat are inclined to be lower, and corn is 1c. lower. We quote : Ontario No. 1 spring wheat afloat, May, 78c.: No. 2 spring wheat, 76c.; peas, 85½ to 86c.; rye, 63c.; oats, 48½ to 49c., ex-store ; corn, 64 to 70c.; buckwheat, 68c. to 69c., middle freights ; barley, 59c.

FEED.—Supplies are very scarce, and though there is a good inquiry buyers are unable to obtain what they want. There has been no change in the price, which is very firm. We quote : Ontario bran, in carlots, $20 to $20.50 per ton ; shorts, $22 to $22.50 ; Manitoba bran, $19 to $20 ; shorts, $22 per ton, including bags.

OATMEAL.—The market is steady and quiet. The price of rolled oats is $5.65 in bbls., and $2.77½ in bags.

BALED HAY.—There is a moderate demand for baled hay, but with heavier supplies the market is becoming easier. No. 2 timothy and clover are both 50c. lower. We quote : No. 1 timothy, $9.50 to $10 ; No. 2, $8 to $8.50 ; clover, $7 to $7.50 per ton in carlots.

MONTREAL NOTES.

Cabbage is 50c. lower.

Pearl sago is ¾c. lower.

Canned tomatoes are 2½c. higher.

Canadian apples are 75c. to $1 higher.

Sugar is 5c. lower than at our last report.

Wax and green beans are 50c. per basket lower.

Valencia oranges, 420's, have advanced 50c. per box.

The new pack of canned salmon is being offered, to arrive, at reduced prices.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

St. John, N.B., June 9, 1902.

COMMENTS in regard to the export number of "The Grocer, to hand since our last report, are particularly favorable. The arrangement of the advertisements drew out special comment. St. John is feeling much pleased because of the large shipment of horses to go forward through this port for South Africa. There are to be some 4,000. In business, there is a large movement. Values are rather lower. This is noticed the more in sugar and flour. There have been large receipts of rice via England and further shipments are due. The stock this year is good and prices low. Rather more Patna is being used, but the quantity is still small. In cream of tartar the price is a little higher again, and the market seems firm. Hops are quoted rather higher.

OILS.—Burning oils are a dull feature of the market although there is quite a large movement, but it is the usual off-season relatively, and little attention is given to it. Prices are unchanged. In lubricating oils there is a very active business, and active competition to secure the trade. Prices are unchanged. Paint oils hold high, and the market seems firm. There is a fairly steady demand. In cod and seal oil stocks are light and prices high. New cod oil will be received in about a month.

SALT.—This is a large receiving point in Liverpool coarse salt, owing particularly to the very large quantity of fish packed here and nearby points. There is an active sale at this time, though much was imported during the winter and forwarded to consuming points. There is at this time a large sale for Canadian cheese and butter salt, chiefly bulk, in barrels. The cheese and butter industries in the Province are growing ones. We quote : Liverpool coarse, 55 to 60c. ; English factory-filled, 95c. to $1 ; Canadian fine, $1 per bag ; cheese and butter salt, bulk, $2.40 per bbl.; 5-lb. bags, $2.85 to $2.90 per bbl.; 10-lb. bags, $2.70 to $2.75 per bbl.; 20-lb. wood boxes, 22c. each ; 10-lb. wood boxes, 14c. each ; cartons, $2 per case of 2 dozen ; English bottled salt, $1.25 to $1.30 per dozen ; mineral rock salt, 60c. per 100 lb. (Selected lumps.)

CANNED GOODS.—There is quite an active business. All vegetables are firmly held, particularly tomatoes. Some corn and peas are due from the west, and our local packer is still offering some of these lines. Fruits have an improved sale. Gallon apples are out of the market. Blueberries are scarce. This line has shown improved sale the last two years. The pack last year was light. Strawberries and peaches move freely at quite firm figures. In meats there is an active sale. Prices are high. While in the fancy lines considerable American is sold in canned beef, the sale is chiefly in Canadian. Lobsters are quite high for best stock. There is considerable cheaper goods offered. Salmon moves freely. In some lines stocks are light. Spring fish seem to have the demand. Packers are quoting full lines and some sales are being made. In domestic fish a full line of new goods are offered. In sardines, haddies and herring the prices are about the same as last season.

GREEN FRUITS.—Dealers are busy. In bananas the quantity sold is large. American strawberries are arriving quite freely and have to be handled quickly. Prices are quite low for this outside stock. In oranges some nice Valencias are still being received. Messina stock is freely offered. In lemons, prices are higher, but even at the advance dealers say there is no money to be made. Pines have just a fair sale. Cucumbers and early vegetables have just a limited business. Rhubarb is low.

DRIED FRUITS.—There continues considerable inquiry for apples and it is the more notable as the market is so bare. Flaked apples are about all that are offered. There is a fair sale for seeded raisins, and prices will be higher. Stocks here are not large. In other lines of raisins there is little doing. Prunes are still low and show a fair business. Dates and figs are quiet. In currants, the mar-

An old soldier of Caesar's legions asked leave to kill himself. Caesar replied: "Thou fanciest, then, thou art yet alive." Now many ladies fancy they are alive to comfort. They think they are enjoying the best, when really they do not know the best. SOME MERCHANTS' EXPERIENCE.

Solomon said in his haste: "ALL MEN ARE LIARS!" He didn't mean it. He was simply so mad with one man that he included all the rest.

Let us not fall into Solomon's mistake. We should take out of our experience the wisdom there is in it and stop right there!

Otherwise we are as stupid as the cat who sat down on a hot stove lid. She will never sit down on a hot stove lid again, and that shows good judgment. But she will never sit down on a cold one, either.

Now, some merchants have had hard experiences lately with coupon hooks that were represented to be absolutely correct in count and made up just as good as any other, but they were not, and you won't know what a perfect coupon book is until you have tried either Allison's Coupon Books or Allison's Coupon Pass Books. Both are good; one hook suits some, while the other fills the hill with the rest of the merchants.

We are doing a lot of special engraving work now for merchants who use books in large quantities. Our books are carried in stock by jobbers. We will be glad to send you a free sample.

Allison's name on a Coupon Book is itself a guarantee of perfection.

ket is firm and there is a good sale. There are regular receipts from New York. Onions are higher. Quite a few Bermudas are here, but as they are higher than Egyptian they sell slowly.

DAIRY PRODUCE.—In butter there are fair receipts, and there is a steady sale at quite firm prices. Best stock sells freely. Eggs are higher. There is a good inquiry, but stock comes to hand slowly. The stock received is good. Cheese is still quite scarce and full prices are asked. New Brunswick cheese is now supplying the market.

SUGAR.—The price is again lower. In the second grade the price is quoted below the regular difference. The guild would seem to be after the foreign sugar. While none of the large wholesale grocers handle it, some houses have been pushing it. At the low prices sales are large.

MOLASSES.—Prices show no change. They are low. A large quantity of Porto Rico is about due, but importations are not above the usual quantity. In Barbados, which shows good quality, receipts this year are late.

FISH.—The chief business is still in fresh fish. The catch of gaspereaux the last few weeks has been large, and a quantity of alewives are being packed. In shad the catch is about over and the prices are unchanged. In salmon, while quite a quantity are shipped through here to Boston from the north of the Province, the catch here is as yet light. Prices are quite low. Halibut are not as plentiful and prices are rather higher. In dry cod and pollock, the market is dull. Pickled fish show a light inquiry and smoked herring continue at the low prices. There is a fair sale for boneless fish, and our quotations are now as follows: Large and medium dry cod, $3.50 to $3.60; small, $2.50 to $2.60; haddies, 4½ to 5c.; smoked herring, 5 to 6c.; fresh cod and haddock, 2 to 2½c.; boneless fish, pollock, $1.40 to $1.50 per 100 lb.; pickled herring, $1.75 to $1.80 per ½ bbl.; Canso herring, $5.50 per bbl.; gaspercaux, 50c. per 100; shad, 10 to 12c.; halibut, 8 to 10c.; salmon, 14 to 15c. per lb.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL.—In flour, prices are rather lower. There is a fair sale. Oats and oatmeal are the strong points. In oatmeal the stock held is light and there is but a light sale. Cornmeal is rather higher. There is an active sale. In beans prices are somewhat easier and there is but little doing. In feed the high prices continue, and the supply is light. Split peas are still scarce and high. Our quotations are now as follows: Manitoba flour, $4.70 to $4.75; best Ontario flour, $4.20 to $4.25; medium, $3.85 to $4.00; oatmeal, $5.20 to $5.25; cornmeal, $3.15 to $3.20; middlings, $22 to $23; oats, 52 to 56c.; handpicked beans, $1.50 to $1.55; prime, $1.40 to $1.45; yellow eye beans, $2.80 to $3.00; split peas, $4.95 to $5.00; barley, $4.40 to $4.50; hay, $12 to $14.

ST. JOHN NOTES.

Flour is 10c. lower this week.

Fresh salmon are much easier in price.

Tomatoes are much firmer and stock light.

Sugar is 10c. off in price, and Dutch granulated, 15c.

NOVA SCOTIA MARKETS.

Halifax, June 9, 1902.

THE grocery trade has not shown the same activity during the last week that has prevailed for some weeks, but the general opinion is that trade has been "very good." The early opening of spring trade and early buying will no doubt tend to make the present month's business somewhat lighter than in former seasons. The country orders are not coming in so large or so numerously as for some time, yet, a fairly good business is being done, and neither the office or working staffs find much idle time. The tendency, as previously noted, is towards smaller and more frequent orders.

The price of sugar was reduced 10c. on the 5th instant. Granulated is now quoted at $3.85, and No. 1 yellow, $3.25. Since Sunday there have arrived at Halifax 1,200 bags of sugar and 719 puncheons, 71 tierces and 108 barrels of molasses. Molasses seems to be a little firmer than earlier in the season, though

There is no better trade winner than a good article - Sell your customers

address orders to 12 Front St. East - Toronto and they will receive prompt attention the market quotations remain unchanged. The difference seems to be that all are now selling up to the quotations, while earlier—just after the first importations—there was considerable cutting in the regular prices.

The flour, cornmeal and oatmeal markets during the last week have become very firm and show a marked tendency to advance. A good many of the jobbers and retailers have very light stocks of flour, and when they replenish they may expect to meet a demand for higher prices. The trade in the above has only been light for some time. Rolled oats and oatmeal are very firm, owing to the scarcity and high price of oats. This situation can expect no relief until this season's crop is available for grinding, and that will not be for some months yet.

Butter is coming in but fairly well and prices have declined another cent all round. However, considerable Ontario butter is still being imported. Eggs still maintain the high price of 13 to 14c. wholesale, and retailers are still requiring 18 to 20c.

There is still a moderate quantity of hay in the market, and dealers are quoting at $12 to $12.50, though good hay can probably be purchased for less than that. Oats remain firm and dealers are asking one to two cents more than a week ago. All feeds are firm, though the demand is lessening with the season's advance.

There is very little doing in the dry-fish market, as nearly all the old fish have been marketed. The foreign markets have improved somewhat, but are not yet up to the expectation of the dealers here. This will have a tendency to make the opening of the new season's market lower than usual. Reports from the Banks' fleet are encouraging, the vessels all doing well. A number of the fleet arrived in Lunenburg last week with large fares, ranging from 400 to 900 quintals. Considerable quantities of fine mackerel are being taken off the coast. The real mackerel season for our coast fishermen does not come until July. The fish then taken, however, are much smaller, but they are what is put up for the season's trade, the present catch being largely disposed of fresh.

There is some talk here that the polariscope, for testing sugar, will be brought from Ottawa to Halifax. This seems to be a necessity on account of the immense amount of raw sugar now landing at this port. An average of 3,000 tons per month has been landed here for some time at the I.C.R. piers and loaded on the cars for transhipment to points in New Brunswick and the Upper Provinces, besides the thousands of tons used in the local refineries.

In March the Oruro landed here 1,730,502 lb. of raw sugar, besides 20 cars of molasses; in April, the Dahome landed 2,299,492 lb.; in May, the Oruro landed 2,801,425 lb. and the Bratsberg, 2,821,641 lb. The Dahome, due to-day, will land 18,000 bags; the tern schooner Blomidon also arrived yesterday with a cargo from Antigua. The trans-shipments for May are: For the week ending May 3, 54 cars; ending May 10, 51 cars; ending May 17, 21 cars; ending May 31, 68 cars—all raw sugars. R. C. H.

MANITOBA MARKETS.

Winnipeg, June 9, 1902.

THE week's business has been steady and of fair volume, but is retarded by bad roads in all country districts. Crop conditions are favorable throughout the entire country. The fact that cooler weather has marked the end of the week is regarded with favor in grain circles, as it was feared that should the extreme heat continue the amount of moisture would make the growth of straw too rank, and delay the ripening of the grain. The growth made during the week is enormous, and the whole country looks beautiful. Having had so much rain in May farmers are hoping for a comparatively dry June. The sowing of flax and barley has practically been completed this week. Jobbing houses report good sales, but collections are still rather slow.

SUGARS.—The most radical change in the market is the decline of five cents per cwt. on all grades of sugar. Both jobbers and buyers thought prices had practically reached rock bottom, and the further drop was in the nature of a surprise. Granulated is now quoted at $4.35, and bright yellows at $3.75. There have been few heavy transactions this week. Eastern Townships maple syrup has dropped 50c. per case. We now quote $5.75 per crate of ½ gallons, one dozen in crate.

TEAS.—Reports of the first sales of tea in Japan are to hand and show an advance of from 2 to 3c. over the prices of last year. The proportion of Japan consumed in this market has been in the ratio of about one-third the amount of black tea. There is an increase of demand, however, and with the large number of Western Americans now settling in the Canadian West it is anticipated that the demand will materially improve, as a very large majority of them are accustomed to drinking Japan tea.

EVAPORATED AND DRIED FRUITS.—The demand is steady and prices firm. There is a particularly good demand for evaporated apples, but very few are offering. The price is firm at 11 to 11½c. There are practically no stocks of dried apples on this market. Owing to the high price of apples, apricots, peaches and nectarines are all much called for. It is always noticeable here that when evaporated apples are high there is an increased demand for apricots, even although they are correspondingly high in price. At present apricots are selling for 11 to 15½c. for the best grades. In the cheaper lines there is considerable uncertainty as to quality.

TAPIOCA.—There has been a decline of ¼c. in tapioca this week, and prices are now 4 to 4¼c.

GREEN FRUITS.—There has been an advance of 50c. per case in lemons, which are now quoted at $4.50. Oranges have also advanced 50c., and now range from $4 to $6, according to size. Bananas are without change at $3 to $3.50 per bunch; cherries, $2.50 per box. Hood River strawberries are billed to arrive on Monday, and will sell at $5. A few boxes of apples remaining on this market sell at $3.00.

BUTTER.—Nearly all the creameries of the Province have had some butter to sell this week, and the price is rather weaker at 17 to 17½c. at factories, although in one or two cases 18c. has been paid There are no earlots on hand The supply of dairy butter is not increasing in the ratio of other years. The quality also, is in many cases undesirable. Prices range from 12 to 13c., country points, for the best grade of tubs and rolls.

CHEESE.—About 150 boxes of new cheese have been marketed this week. It was all very green, but otherwise of fair quality for May cheese. The price paid was 10 to 11½c. factories. It is anticipated that the June make will be large.

EGGS.—The supply is only moderate, and the demand is good. Prices are keeping up well, being 10 to 10½, country points, or about 11c. Winnipeg.

FLOUR.—The demand is very good, both for home consumption and export. There have been no changes in price for the week. We quote: No. 1 flour, $2.05 to $2.15; No. 2, $1.95 to $2; No. 3, $1.85; No. 4, $1.65 to $1.70; No. 5, $1.25.

CEREALS.—There has been no change in prices, and the demand is nominal. We quote: Rolled oats, 80s, $2.20; 40s, $1.15; 20s, 60c.; standard and granulated, $2.75 per 98 lb.; split peas, $2.85; cornmeal, $1.75; pot barley, $2.35; pearl barley, $3.25; white beans, $1.60 per bushel.

NOTES.

Campbell Bros. & Wilson are this week launching a new baking powder to be known as "York" baking powder. It is put up in 8, 12 and 16-oz., and 3 and 5-lb. tins, with handsome lithographed labels.

Manitoba has a new industry. Mr. J. S. McKay, of the Boissevain Mills, has just placed on the market an attractive package breakfast food, to be known as "The King of Breakfast Foods—Germmeal." It is a wheat preparation, with a small admixture of cornmeal, and is somewhat like "Cream of Wheat" in appearance.

OTTAWA TRADE GOSSIP.

THE telephone question is a live one here, and is also a hard one to understand. Subscribers are paying very high rates, but are getting a good service, while an offer is being made by an outsider to put in a plant and give a service at so low a rate that it looks doubtful if it will get any good financial support. If any proposition was made that was between the two and that would show a profit to the originator and a benefit to subscribers, it would undoubtedly be received with more confidence than such a big offer as we are getting with such low rates that are quoted.

Frank Mallette, of the Park, Blackwell Co., Toronto, is making his regular calls this week.

Mr. McGovern, who was with the old Fanning Co. for years, is now looking after the city and district for C. H. Cochrane & Co.

G. W. Hunt, of the Ottawa Fruit Exchange, is up west going through the fruit district looking up his shippers in view of the summer business. He reports excellent prospects for lots of strawberries from around St. Catharines and Grimsby. Although too early to speak about other fruits, he says it looks like a good year.

It looks as if the Ottawa grocers will have a "bumper" excursion this year. They have a good chance if the weather proves fine. Their Association is in much better shape this year. All the leading grocers are taking an interest in its meetings, so that more workers are to be had. Last year the trip was made on a day when business was going on. This year Dominion Day has been selected, and the grocers look forward to seeing all their wholesale friends and others who went with them last year.

OTTAWA RETAIL ASSOCIATION.

The regular meeting of the Ottawa Retail Grocers' Association was held in the Fruit Exchange building, Nicholas street, on June 9. There was a large attendance. President Provost was in the chair.

The committee appointed to look after the trading-stamp petition reported that the secretary had written the council as instructed and that the petition was now in the hands of the finance committee. It was decided to send a committee to the meeting of finance and support the matter; also, when it comes before the council the Association will attend in a body and show that they means business.

It was decided to agitate for a better peddling by-law. As the fruit season opens up the pedlars become more numerous and are a perfect nuisance to any merchant in the outskirts and residential part of the city.

The mayor promised his support in this matter and it was decided to follow it up.

The secretary was instructed to communicate with the fruit inspector for this district with a view to having him address the Association and post the merchants on the working of the new Fruit Marks Act.

It was also decided to ask the Auction Co. to make a new rule "regarding dealers who are in the habit of returning fruit that they cannot sell to be sold over again, especially when they face it up," so that it will be fnspected and if not right have it sold as damaged goods.

The executive committee reported in connection with the excursion to Stanley Island on Dominion Day, that they had all arrangements made with the railway and boat people. The terms were submitted, and after a good deal of discussion were considered reasonable and accepted.

The committee were instructed to sign the agreements and to arrange all minor matters as soon as possible.

A communication was received from the Ottawa Pipe Band offering their prices for the excursion, and it was referred to the executive committee for consideration.

It is understood that The Ottawa Dairy Co. will do the catering for the excursion. If so, it will insure good service to the patrons.

There will be a meeting of the Association, together with the associated members, next week. Notice will be given when the date is decided on.

LOGIC.

You know a good thing when you see it. But do you always know a better when you see it?

It is easy to know a good thing. Five cents is a good thing. But the goodness there is in five cents can never be enjoyed till you spend it. And you don't spend it till you know something better than five cents.

The value of five cents, therefore, is as much in your own quick insight and keen perception as in the money itself.

If your good sense tells you that a better thing than five cents is a horse-car ride over that long, dusty road you are travelling, you are indebted to your own sagacity for at least half of the benefit you enjoy by the exchange.

Then what you and all the rest of the world seek is a thing that is better than your money, so that in the spending of your money you will get more than its value.

Is there anything that you can buy just at this time that will give you more return than Before doing this they called in their largest local creditors, Messrs. Baby, sr., Guppy & Smith, and when it was found the business would not be able to pay the creditors in full, it was thought best to sell the stock while the business was a going concern. Thus they would be enabled to realize a better price than a forced sale of an assignee would bring them. The sale realized $1,261. The book debts amount to $1,500, but the value is uncertain. They are in the hands of Clarke, Cowan, Bartlett & Bartlett, of Windsor, for collection, and the proceeds of the sale are in the hands of A. H. Clarke and John Reeve, the trustees.

HALIFAX MERCHANTS DISCUSS HOLIDAYS.

THE Retail Merchants' Association of Halifax does not like the idea of having so many holidays. At a meeting of that organization, held on the evening of June 5, the consideration of the many public holidays coming together was the main business of the evening. A communication from the Halifax Board of Trade was received, asking the Association to send members to form part of a delegation to wait on the Governor and Mayor regarding the number of proposed holidays coming so close together. A. W. Reddan was the occupant of the chair, and W. E. Hebb was secretary.

A resolution was unanimously adopted setting forth that Thursday, June 26, and the afternoon of Friday, June 27, be recognized as public holidays, providing a programme of sports be provided, and that June 21 and July 1 be not observed this year. A resolution was also passed recommending that June 21 and July 1 be combined into one holiday, to take effect in 1903, the holiday to be on the latter date. June 21 has always been recognized there as Natal Day.

The association had a thorough discussion of the travelling auctioneer and peddlar grievance, and a committee was appointed to wait on the city council and ask that some means be provided for protection against these people.

The early-closing committee reported having had much success in obtaining signatures to the early-closing agreement and the law will soon go into force regarding the different businesses represented.

It was reported that a number of shops in the north end of the city were kept open all day Sunday, and the Mayor is to be interviewed on the subject. The membership of the association now numbers 150.

On the motion of Mr. B. A. Boas, seconded by Mr. H. Dobell, it was agreed: "That the following gentlemen be appointed to act as Scrutineers: Messrs. G. F. C. Smith and F. E. Meredith, K.C., and that Mr. James Aird be the secretary of the meeting."

DIRECTORS' REPORT.

The report of the Directors to the Shareholders at their 84th annual general meeting was then read by Mr. E. S. Clouston, general manager, as follows:

Since the last annual meeting a branch of the bank has been opened at Glace Bay, N.S., and suitable premises for its occupation are now being erected at that point.

The premises which were announced at the last annual meeting as in course of erection at Point St. Charles, are now completed, and occupied by the bank.

The head office and all the branches have passed through the usual inspection during the year.

STRATHCONA AND MOUNT ROYAL,
President.

Bank of Montreal, Head Office, 2nd June, 1902.

THE GENERAL MANAGER.

Mr. Clouston then said:—

There is nothing of unusual interest calling for comment in the statement we lay before you this year. It shows a steady increase in our business, and a corresponding increase in our profits. The following are the principal changes as compared with last year. Our circulation has increased $525,000, and the deposits $14,139,000, making our total deposits here and in other countries $86,825,633; quite a respectable amount, but still not large as compared to the deposits of banks with smaller capital in Great Britain and the United States. Our readily available assets have increased about $10,000,000, and our loans and discounts $1,360,000. The overdue debts, secured and unsecured, are $77,000 greater, but we believe that we have amply provided for any possible loss. The profits show an increase of $63,630, after paying all charges of management, all additions and repairs to our bank premises, and making provision for bad and doubtful debts. I think you will agree with me that the statement is a fairly satisfactory one.

Nor have I anything of importance to say on matters outside our own statement. Generally speaking, the past year has been a prosperous one for Canada, and so far the hand of the commercial barometer still stands at "fair." The revenues of the country are large; railway earnings are steadily increasing; farmers are prosperous; the outlook for lumber is improving, and the tide of immigration has set in with greater volume, insuring to Western Canada, and, indeed, to the whole country, more rapid progress in population and material prosperity. The natural resources of the country are being steadily developed; the output of coal is increasing; and it looks as if we were on the eve of important results in the iron and steel industry. There are indications also that the recent consolidation of Atlantic steamship lines by an American syndicate will compel Canada, in self defence, to take up the question of a fast Atlantic service, and if we wish to secure immigration, retain the traffic properly belonging to our own ports, and safeguard the interests of our commerce, we must see that the service, both passenger and freight, is second to none in speed and equipment. There have been exceptions, and some industries have not shared in the general prosperity, but these can, in most cases, be traced to undue competition and bad management. Mining in British Columbia is still highly unsatisfactory, and it may be some time yet before it recovers from the collapse of the last two or three years.

The stock exchanges of Canada have shown an activity unexampled in the history of the country, and though speculation has been rife, there has been a certain foundation for the advance in the quotations of securities, and it is not entirely the wild, reckless state of affairs that foreign critics profess to believe exists here. Still, there is danger of speculation being carried beyond legitimate bounds, and we have probably reached a point where investors and lenders would do well to look more closely into the intrinsic value of the securities they purchase or accept as collaterals.

If there are any questions relative to the business of the bank on which the

THE CHAIRMAN'S ADDRESS.

Hon. George A. Drummond then said :

Gentlemen,—The statements presented by Mr. Clouston will, no doubt, be received by you with satisfaction, showing, as they do, the prosperity and progress of the bank.

That it has made substantial progress you may gather from the figures periodically submitted to you.

In 1873, when the capital was raised to its present amount of $12,000,000, and the rest stood at $5,000,000, the assets were about $35,250,000.

In 1880 they were nearly 45 millions ($44,661,681).

In 1890 they were over 46 millions ($46,166,448).

In 1900 they were nearly 79 millions ($78,852,197).

And in the present year over 100 millions ($114,000,000).

The keen competition among banks necessitates a greatly enlarged business to maintain dividends, and the public gets its financial business done much more cheaply now than formerly.

The increase of our rest by one million of dollars will, no doubt, commend itself to your judgment as a prudent step, and should enhance the value of our property.

The large addition to our Head Office Building, now in progress, was rendered necessary by the inconvenient overcrowding of our present premises. The addition is on a considerable scale, and will, it is hoped, suffice for the wants of the bank for years to come. Large as it is, however, it is not more in advance of our present wants than our present structure was when erected to the conditions then existing.

The beautiful facade of our present building will not be impaired ; but the interior will be remodelled to adjust it to the new premises and make it fireproof.

The marked increase in the general banking business of the Dominion is an evidence of the prosperity of the country. Since April, 1897, the total assets of all the banks have increased from $243,400,000 to $448,300,000 ; the deposits alone having risen from $196,700,000 in the former year to $339,000,000, and the note circulation from $30,800,000 to $50,700,000.

The Bank of Montreal has fully shared in the great improvement in business above noted, the general increase in the public deposits in the last five years being equal to 72½ per cent., and that of our bank alone considerably exceeds 100 per cent.

The conservative course of your directors in continuing to strengthen the resources of the bank will, I am sure, meet with your approval, for while the general prosperity of the country shows no signs of abatement, it seems an undeniable proposition to say that bad times may be expected sooner or later.

In commercial matters generally nothing is so striking as the growth of the foreign commerce of the Dominion. In the first nine months of the current fiscal year, that is to March 31, the aggregate foreign trade has reached $302,500,000, as compared with $282,300,000 in the corresponding period of the preceding year, while only five years ago our foreign commerce for the entire period of 12 months barely reached $249,000,000, a figure which in the fiscal year ending this month will probably be exceeded by more than 50 per cent. This expansion covers both exports and imports.

The most gratifying feature of the trade returns is the increased sales abroad of Canadian products, which from 1st of July to 1st April amounted in value to $144,547,000, and for the full period of twelve months will probably exceed $190,000,000 ; whereas six years ago the value of our shipments was only $110,000,000.

Products of the soil still constitute much the largest portion of this trade, but it is satisfactory to note that in manufactures the increase is about 30 per cent., or, as $12,800,000 to $9,800,000 ; and I need scarcely refer to the enormous activity in the production of iron, steel, nickel, etc., to say nothing of the extraction of the precious metals, which for the present is under a cloud.

Meanwhile the carrying trade of the country has been in an unprecedented state of activity and prosperity ; the great railways are spending liberally on track improvements and rolling stock to meet the demands on them, and new trunk lines are under construction.

Immigration is increasing rapidly, and will have a favorable influence in every direction. Lands, especially in the Northwest, which have for years been in little demand, have latterly been actively sought for and taken up.

Turning to general conditions outside the Dominion, the immense aggregations of capital in the hands of corporations and individuals is bringing about economic results of the most startling character. The control of railway lines, the absorption of ocean transport, the consolidation of industries, all fly directly in the face of economic theories based on unlimited competition, and he would be bold who attempted to predict the outcome.

No fewer than four new banks were incorporated during the present session of Parliament.

Questions of vital importance to ourselves and the Empire are to be considered by the Imperial Government and the Premiers of the colonies, at the conference to be held in London ; its decisions will be watched with absorbing interest and involve momentous possibilities.

The present moment seems to be most favorable for securing an independent line of steamships to a Canadian port. They should in speed and equipment be equal to any afloat, and the prospects of financial success for the undertaking were never, in my opinion, so bright as now, while its realization would be of enormous benefit to this country.

It is with the highest satisfaction and gratitude that we receive to-day the news of peace in South Africa.

Compared with the proud satisfaction we feel at having had a share in bringing the harassing and protracted struggle to a successful termination, all the sacrifices made by the country are trival. But the gratitude we owe to those who fought and bled for us will never, I trust, be forgotten. The glorious record of courage and endurance made by her sons has lifted Canada into a higher plane of national life.

The auspicious visit last autumn to this country of Their Royal Highnesses the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York was the occasion of the unanimous display of loyal welcome from one end of the Dominion to the other, and was happily marked by the absence of misadventure of any kind.

The approaching Coronation of our Gracious Sovereign will, we trust, be succeeded by a long and prosperous reign.

I move that the report of the Directors be adopted and printed for distribution among the shareholders.

THE REPORT ADOPTED.

Mr. A. T. Paterson, in seconding the motion for the adoption of the report, said that it was quite unnecessary to add anything to the remarks which had fallen from the chair and to the statement made by the General Manager, beyond stating that he entirely concurred in them, and endorsed them. There was one thing, however, to which he might refer, and that was that on that day he had come of age, not personally, but as a director of the bank, and he wished to take the opportunity of thanking the shareholders for their long continued confidence in him. He also wished to say that his many years' experience as a director enabled him most thoroughly to endorse the statements made as to the improvement in the position of the bank.

After a few remarks by Mr. John Morrison, the motion for the adoption of the report was unanimously agreed to.

Hon. James O'Brien moved :—

"That the thanks of the meeting be presented to the President, Vice-President and Directors for their attention to the interests of the bank."

This was seconded by Mr. Donald Macmaster, K.C., and having been adopted unanimously, was acknowledged by the Chairman.

Mr. E. B. Greenshields moved :—

"That the thanks of the meeting be given to the General Manager, the Inspector, the Managers and other officers of the bank, for their services during the past year."

The motion was seconded by Mr. James Ross, and the Chairman having added that he fully concurred in it, and thought it was exceedingly well deserved, it was unanimously carried, and was acknowledged by the General Manager.

Mr. George R. Hooper moved :—

"That the ballot now open for the election of Directors be kept open until 3 o'clock, unless fifteen minutes elapse without a vote being cast, when it shall be closed, and until that time, and for that purpose only, this meeting be continued."

This was seconded by Mr. C. J. Fleet, and unanimously agreed to.

On the motion of Mr. John Morrison, seconded by Mr. A. F. Gault, a hearty vote of thanks was accorded the Chairman for his conduct of the business of the meeting, and he acknowledged the same.

THE DIRECTORS.

The ballot resulted in the election of the following Directors :—

R. B. Angus, Esq.
Hon. George A. Drummond.
A. F. Gault, Esq.
E. B. Greenshields, Esq.
Sir William C. Macdonald.
A. T. Paterson, Esq.
R. G. Reid, Esq.
James Ross, Esq.
Right Hon. Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal, G.C.M.G.

At a meeting of the new Board on Tuesday, the 3rd inst., the Right Hon. Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal, G.C.M.G., was reelected President, and Hon. George A. Drummond, Vice-President.

The Auer Gas Lamp

Money-Back Style.

No. 1

THIS style is particularly suited for a reading light—the shades prevent the light from tiring the eyes and the burner can be raised just the same as any other students lamp.

IT can be carried around the house with perfect safety and as the base is heavily weighted there is no danger of its up-setting.

THE light is soft enough for the most sensitive eyes and yet strong enough for the finest print.

Discriminating Grocers . .

You discriminate, of course you do—you don't "go it blind" in buying goods to satisfy a particular trade. All goods are not the same because they bear the same general name. HOW A BUSY YOUNG MILLIONAIRE EMPLOYS HIS TIME.

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER., JR., son of the richest man in the world, has a remarkable mission—a task which he is making the supreme purpose of his life, according to a New York paper.

It is, as all philosophers will agree, no trivial thing that this young Croesus has undertaken. Even the Scriptures (see Luke xviii., 25) have intimated, through the parable of the rich man, the camel and the needle's eye, that it is next to impossible. But Mr. John D. Rockefeller, jr., perseveres in his noble mission, which is, in plain words, to square business with Christianity, to Christianize commerce, and, strange as it may seem to the layman, is absolutely encouraged by the results which he has obtained.

In a speech which he delivered a short time ago before the Y. M. C. A. of Brown University on the topic, "Business as a Life Work," John D. Rockefeller, jr., made plain his mission as he understands it.

"Many men of to-day," said he, "think that business and Christianity are diametrically opposed to each other. We have come here for the purpose of expressing the belief that they may go hand in hand, and that the most successful business men can be, should be and are the most successful Christian men.

"There are three chief requisites for a successful business man. The first is honesty—absolute honesty; the second is industry and the third is perseverance.

"We must not be quitters. A fourth point to be considered is justice."

Here John D. Rockefeller, jr., interjected a plausible if not profound defence of trusts, in which, it being one of his few "flowery" speeches, he compared them to American Beauty roses.

"Large concerns," said he, "often shut out smaller men who cannot compete. Oftentimes we cannot reconcile this fact. It seems to us contrary to the Golden Rule.

"Let us go back and examine the true causes. The big businesses increase because they can by advanced methods and appliances place their goods on the market cheaper than can the smaller concerns.

"Modern methods should be employed even at the expense of the few.

"The American Beauty rose can be produced in the splendor and fragrance which brings cheer to its beholder only by sacrificing the early buds which grow up around it. This is not an evil tendency in business. It is merely the working out of a law of nature and a law of God."

Among young John D. Rockefeller's aphorisms are several that sum up his brief philosophy:

"The chief thing in life is to do something—to work."

"I know what it is to cut wood and to crush stone roads at 15c. an hour."

"It is by doing the work that is at hand that we become useful and successful."

"Success comes by doing the common, everyday things of life uncommonly well."

"Do the little everyday duties of life without a murmur. Do them well. That is success."

SOME OF HIS MAXIMS.

The most successful business men can be, should be and are the most successful Christian men.

There are three chief requisites for a successful business man. The first is honesty—absolute honesty; the second is industry and the third is perseverance.

Modern methods should be employed even at the expense of the few.

The chief thing in life is to do something—to work.

The growth of a big business is merely a survival of the fittest.

Do the little every-day duties of life without a murmur. Do them well. That is success.

Thirty cents is all I ever spend for luncheon. It's enough for any man on a salary.

Success comes by doing the common, every-day things of life uncommonly well.

"A war may cost many lives, but it is for the good of the country at large. The growth of a big business is merely a survival of the fittest."

John D. Rockefeller, jr., began to work and to earn money when he was six years old.

His first hard day's work netted him 13c. His father offered him a fee of 1c. for every fence post in need of repair that the boy could find on the big country place near Cleveland, O.

Young Rockefeller tramped miles, and in 12 hours hustling he earned the 13c.

Another time he lived up to his work maxim by working out his father's road tax and collecting the wages from Rockefeller, sr.

It is doubtful if he ever really wasted a penny.

"Thirty cents is all I ever spend for luncheon," he remarked one day. "It's enough for any man on a salary. Sweetmeats ruin the digestion, anyhow,"

He never touches wine. He never smokes. Wine, at his request, was left off the menu at his wedding breakfast, when he married Miss Abby Aldrich last fall.

He gave his first society entertainment in a dinner-dance at the Waldorf-Astoria recently. There was no wine on the supper cards.

When he was a student at Brown University he was talking one day with a fellow student who worked his way through college.

"A man who works and is exposed to all kinds of weather has to be mighty careful about taking cold," said the first student. "I always wear three weights of underwear in winter."

"Three weights of underwear! Great Scott! I can't afford to wear more than two myself! It's reckless extravagance," said John D. Rockefeller, jr.

Work, the necessity of religion and the righteousness of making money and getting on in the world are the three pegs upon which Rockefeller, jr., invariably hangs his speeches.

He talks without gestures and usually without raising his eyes from the desk or from the notes that he has in hand.

Of medium height, rather thick-set, pale, weak-eyed, spectacled and serious, dressed faultlessly in black, with a shiny black tile, the richest young man in the world looks nothing so much as a promising divinity student.

He once made a speech to the students of Tuskegee Institute, Booker Washington's school.

A sea of black faces looked up curiously at the pale, mild-mannered young fellow who looked down at them over a big white puff tie.

"My friends," he said, "do not be ashamed to do any kind of work that falls into your hands. When I went into my father's office I was willing to do any sort of work they wanted me to do, even if it were putting on my father's shoes. I did not care how humble it was. I wanted to begin at the bottom and learn. Do not be afraid to make a lowly beginning.

"I once assisted a young man to get a position. He remained in it two days, and when I asked him why he had left he said: 'They put me to sweeping the floor and I quit. I am too old to be sweeping the floor.'

"I am delighted with your school. I am going to prove that by coming back in nine months. I have a reason for returning. As I was visiting the night class I came across a young man who was exercising for his class on the blackboard. He had written: 'Nine months after date I promise to pay to John D. Rockefeller, jr., $650, with interest from date, for value received.'

"I asked the teacher to have him sign it, and he did. I am coming back in nine months to see that young man."

If John D. Rockefeller, jr., had gone more into details as to his own business career he might have brought out these facts:

About four years ago he began as a clerk on small wages in his father's New York office. He learned the routine of the business, and he is to day his father's private secretary. He rise at 6.20 a.m. and rides or drives, or, if he is stopping at the Tarrytown place he chops wood until 7 o'clock.

After breakfast he starts down town and reaches his office at 9.30. He works till 3.30 p.m., when he knocks off and goes over to a Broad street restaurant, where he gets his 30c. lunch.

From that time until dinner at 6 he amuses himself, usually in works for the Fifth Avenue Baptist Church or Sunday-school, or in reading, violin playing or walking through the park. His dinner consists of soup, meat and one simple dessert, with never any wine. He is not a member of any club, and spends his evenings at home with his wife, his father and his mother.

In his few independent business ventures John D. Rockefeller, jr., has always acted upon the theory of the survival of the fittest.

He made his first million in a speculation in leather, in which a good many men went to the wall. He engineered a copper and transportation deal which largely advanced freight rates and gave the Rockefellers control of the shipping industry of the Great Lakes.

It is in addresses to his Bible class in the Sunday-school of the Fifth Avenue Baptist Church that young Rockefeller has trained himself as a lay preacher.

"I am more than a Baptist," he remarked one Sunday; "I am a Christian."

In a talk one day on the Belshazzar feast, the most famous orgy in Bible history, and the handwriting, "Mene, mene. Tekel upharsin," traced upon the wall, the millionaire lay preacher said:

"The reading of this Belshazzar lesson has always inspired me with solemn thoughts. I have often asked myself whether I would be found wanting in the balance when the time came to weigh me.

"I trust that when we stand before the great white throne we shall not be told that we have been weighed in that awful balance and found wanting."

At another time the question of evil communications and the corrupting of good manners thereby came up in young Rockefeller's Sunday-school class.

"Well," said he, "when I was at Brown University, though I did not smoke myself, I did not object to any one else smoking in my room. I had a reason for seeming thus to countenance the use of tobacco.

"My grandmother thought that I was wrong in allowing those about me to do things of which I myself did not approve. But I said to her, 'Were I to raise an objection to their smoking they would go away from me and I could not approach them on drinking, gambling and other sins.'"

That John D. Rockefeller, jr., has a sense of humor and knows how to tell a good story is proved by the mother-in-law joke which he made famous. It happened to be all the funnier to his hearers as the occasion was shortly after the lay preacher became a benedict.

"This story," began Mr. Rockefeller, "has no relevancy to the occasion, but I will not let that deter me. A young man and his wife had lived for years, and not always pleasantly, with the wife's mother. At last the old lady died—or at least they thought she had died.

"The pall-bearers carried her coffin down the front steps, and one of them slipped. The coffin struck a tree, the lid came off and then it was found that the mother-in-law had not died at all, but was only in a trance.

"Well, she lived for some years after that, and then she died again—this time permanently. And as the pall-bearers approached the same tree at the foot of the steps the young man stopped weeping, turned to the man who had slipped and whispered, 'Be careful, Sam, don't slip this time.'"

ESTIMATES ON SALMON PACK.

In connection with salmon, with special reference to the coming pack, the Pacific Selling Company in their last circular state: "The greatest increase in the pack of last year occurred on Puget Sound and in British Columbia, where, at recurrent periods of four years, there is a phenomenal run of fish, the intervening three years averaging considerably less than half the quantity; hence, while the pack in the sections referred to was last year something over 2,600,000 cases, it is likely during the present season to fall short of 1,000,000 cases, and it is doubtful if the total pack of the Coast will greatly exceed 3,000,000 cases. Therefore, if the increased consumption, as demonstrated this year, and estimated at 4,500,000 cases, is maintained in the future, a 3,000,000-case pack, which up to the last year was a maximum, will be insufficient to supply the demand."

NEW CHILLIWACK CREAMERY.

The farmers of Chilliwack, B.C., have formed amongst themselves a cooperative society and hnve built a new creamery that is the largest establishment of its kind in British Columbia. The building has an advantageous situation near the town of Chilliwack where there can be readily had a plentiful supply of fresh water.

The creamery will be large enough to handle the cream of 1,200 to 1,500 cows, and, owing to the farmers there going now largely into winter dairying, during the whole year a large output is expected to be maintained. The creamery will soon be in active operation, and arrangements have been made to place their butter in all of the leading stores of the city. The butter-maker is J. W. McGillvery, a graduate of the Ontario Agricultural College, and T. R. Whitty, of the Bank of Chilliwack, is business manager.

OUR FOREIGN TRADE GROWING.

THE foreign trade of Canada is growing fast. On the basis of imports for consumption and exports on domestic merchandise only, for the 11 months of the present fiscal year, the foreign trade of Canada shows an increase of $35,000,000. The imports and exports of the former period were $348,705,085, and of the latter period $313,863.314. With corn, bullion and exports of foreign merchandise included, the increase in the total trade is a little less than $35,500,000, the total amount being $366,942,595 for the past 11 months. For the 11 months of 1901 the total was $333,-472.908.

The imports for the month of May show a gain of $359,129, and for the 11 months a gain of $18,561,298. The exports for the month exceeded those of May last year by $4,079.060. For the 11 months the better-ment was $17,462,516.

LARGER NORTHWEST WHEAT CROP.

From reports gathered from reliable sources throughout Manitoba and Assiniboia there is not a doubt but the wheat crop there is making excellent progress. At Winnipeg a few weeks ago a sample of wheat in the stalk was exhibited measuring 18 inches. This sample was hardy, and was taken from the Cartwright District, where one farmer is stated to have said he had 100 acres of crop all 18 inches long. With fair weather from now till the middle of August it seems an assured fact that Manitoba and the Northwest will harvest this year even a greater crop than the record-breaking one of last year.

Mr. F. W. Thompson, vice-president and general-manager of The Ogilvie Flour Mills Co. has received the following Manitoba crop bulletin from Hon. Robt. Rodgers, Minister of Public Works, dated Winnipeg:

	Acres.
Wheat	2,039,940
Oats	725,060
Barley	329,790
Flax	41,200

THE PROVISION TRADE.

Five Months Hog Figures—The Markets—Miscellaneous Notes.

FIVE MONTHS HOG FIGURES.

THERE was never a time in the history of the Chicago market when the cattle and hog supply afforded a more interesting topic of discussion than at present. While the subject of the beef supply has been well nigh worn threadbare in cattle circles, the question of the future hog supply is just at the height of its interest. The bears in the Chicago provision market say: "Sentiment placed the price high; there is no reason for high prices." They base their contention on the heavy receipts of hogs at this market for the five months ending May 31. During that time Chicago gained 310,932 in hog receipts over the same period in 1901; therefore, April was the turning point. If the reports of well-posted, conservative shippers are worth anything, the decrease in the supply is likely to become much greater before next fall.

The receipts and weights at this market for the first five months in 1902 and 1901 follow:

	Five months ending May 31.	Same period 1901.
Hogs received, head	3,699,345	3,388,513
Average weight, lb.	211	225
Gross weight, lb.	780,561,795	762,415,425
Increase in receipts, head.		310,832
Decrease in average weight; lb.		10
Increase in gross weight, lb.		18,146,374

As large as seems this increase in the number of head received the little difference of 14 lb. in the average weight makes a great reduction. If we consider the average weight of 211 lb. for the five months of 1902 with the increase in the gross live weight for the same period, as shown above, our increase of 310,832 hogs dwindles to 86,000. This is what a shrinkage of 14 lb. per hog means to the supply.

The decrease in receipts began in April, when the month showed 10,562 head short of the same period in 1901. The hogs were 12 lb. lighter, which made the actual decrease in live weight equivalent to 42,430 head, as will be seen by the following table:

	April, 1902.	April, 1901.
Average weight, lb	214	226
Gross weight, lb.	119,182,806	128,252 966
Decrease in receipts, head		10,562
Decrease in average weight, lb.		12
Decrease in gross weight, lb.		9,070,160
Actual decrease in live weight equals decrease of (head)		42,430

In May the shortage was even greater, being close to 50,000 head. The average weight of the hogs was 5 lb. heavier than April, which is accounted for by a more liberal feeding of green stuff and a tendency to gain more rapidly in warm weather. The average weight for May is 8 lb. less than a year ago. Following are the figures for the month of May:

	May, 1902.	May, 1901.
Hogs received, head	640,245	686,958
Average weight, lb.	219	227
Gross weight, lb.	140,213,655	155,939,466
Decrease in receipts, head		46,713
Decrease in average weight, lb.		8
Decrease in gross weight, lb.		15,725,811
Actual decrease of live weight equals decrease of (head)		71,350

Reports from the hog-producing sections indicate a good pig crop, an unusually healthy condition of the herds and the phenomenal period of high prices has undoubtedly stimulated farmers to raise more and better hogs, and, while conservative men in the business believe that the supply will be short this summer, we may reasonably expect it to again become good next fall and winter, when this year's crop begins to move.—Drovers' Journal, Chicago.

ORDER FOR 750,000 WISHBONES.

An order came from England some time ago to the Armour Packing Co. for 750,000 wishbones.

The name of the company in England from which the order came is withheld by the manager of the Armour company, but it is known to be a large novelty manufacturing concern which turns out all sorts of Christmas, New Year's and Easter trinkets.

This order of 750,000 is the largest wishbone order that has ever come into the New York branch of the Armour company. All orders have heretofore been very small indeed compared to it, ranging from 10,000 to 20,000.

According to a statement made by Mr. Raphael, manager of the Armour branch at New York, orders for the wishbones have been placed with the company for many years. It is an old article of trade, he says, and millions of the wishbones have been bought and sold. Every packing company gets orders for them.

The sale of the wishbone is another evidence of the fact that nothing is lost of an animal or fowl by a packing company but its squeal or cackle. Chickens are not, of course, killed especially for the trade in wishbones. Primarily the chickens which supply that trade die in the interest of the canned boneless chicken branch of the packing business, and their wishbones are taken from them in the general process of rendering them "boneless." It is these wishbones that are packed in boxes, shipped to England and sold at so much a bone.

THE PROVISION MARKETS.

TORONTO.

Trade in dressed hogs, lambs and veal is quiet, and beef is only in fair demand. The prices of front quarters of beef have widened. Live hogs are 12½c. lower than last week, but, on the other hand, two cars of choice export cattle were sold at $7 per 100 lb. last Tuesday. This is the highest price ever paid in Toronto for cattle. We quote as follows: Dressed hogs, $9.00 to $9.25; beef carcasses, $7.50 to $8.50 per 100 lb.; hind quarters, $8.50 to $9.50 per 100 lb.; front quarters, $6.50 to $7.50 per 100 lb. Veal, 7 to 8c. per lb.; lambs, 10 to 10½c. Live hogs: Selects, $6 87½; lights, $6 50 to $6 75 per 100 lb.; choice export cattle bring $6 to $7.00 per 100 lb.; lights sell at $4 to $5.75.

The demand for provisions is steady and the prices are unchanged. Hams, backs and rolls are moving quite freely. Plate beef is firm at $15 and a fair demand is being experienced for it. We quote as follows: Long clear bacon, 11 to 11½c.; smoked breakfast bacon, 14½ to 15c.; rolls, 12 to 12½c.; medium hams, 13½ to 14c.; large hams, 12½ to 13c.; shoulder hams, 11c., and backs, 14½ to 15c.; Canadian heavy mess pork, $21.50; short cut, $23 to $23.50; lard, in tierces, 11 to 11¼c. per lb.; tubs, 11¼ to 11½c., and pails, 11½ to 11¾c.; plate beef, $15.

MONTREAL.

There is a good business doing in all cured meats with, possibly, the exception of pork, which has not been moving so well. The supply of bacon is said to be rather short, and prices are fairly firm since the advance in hams and bacon of last week. The supply of Jones' pork is now up to the mark. A small amount of Canadian short cut mess pork has been sold as high as $24.50.

There has been no change in the price of dressed hogs, country-killed being quoted at $9 to $9 50, and fresh abattoir stock at $9.25 to $9 75 per 100 lb. A fair jobbing trade is being done in dressed hogs, and the tone of the market continues steady.

Lard has been in very good demand, and prices have ruled steady. In our quotations this week we have made a change in the order of things, and now quote the "Boar's Head" compound lard tierce price with the

The market for live hogs is firmer this week and slightly higher. The price ranges from $7 to $7.25 per 100 lb.

ST. JOHN, N. B.

Market continues firm, but the high prices have affected sales, and to encourage business a price is sometimes cut. In barrelled pork and beef, business is light. Smoked meats are held very firm. There is limited business. Lard shows some range, but the price is high. The sale of refined lard is good. In fresh beef, there is no change from the high figures. Veal is not so freely offered. Mutton is held firm. Lamb shows no change, but is rather more freely offered, and as the lambs grow you get more for your money. Pigs are scarce and the price is rather higher. We quote as follows: American mess pork, $23 to $23.50; domestic mess pork, $21.50; plate beef, Canadian, $14 to $14.50; clear pork, American, $25.50; plate beef, American, $17 to $18; veal, 4 to 7c.; lamb, 4 to 5c.; mutton, 10 to 12c.; fresh beef, 8 to 10½c.; round hogs, 7½ to 8c.; pure lard, tubs, 12c.; pure lard, pails, 12¼c.; compound lard, tubs, 9½c.; compound lard, pails, 9¼c.; refined lard compound, Fairbank's, tubs, 10¾ to 11c.; pails 11¼ to 11½c.

Baird & Peters have just received a large shipment of "Reindeer" lard.

COLOMBO TEA AUCTION.

Dodwell & Co., Limited, Colombo, under date of May 7, say: "The quantity offered was 13,562 packages, equal to 1,160,121 lb., of which 2,431 packages, equal 190,986 lb., were withdrawn for higher prices. The market was firm for all good teas, but common to medium grades were irregular, especially the commonest leaf teas, for which there was a poor demand, and prices show a drop of ¼ to ½d. per lb. A strong inquiry still prevails for good tippy brokens, and very full rates are being paid. All leaf teas from medium to finest kinds, with good appearance or quality, keep very steady. Prices for dusts and fannings remain very firm. Quality is poor. The exports to the United Kingdom for April were 9,000,000 lb. We estimate exports for this month at about 10,500,000 lb.

BALTIMORE JUNE PEA PACK CLOSING.

Private advices from Baltimore state that the 1902 pack of early June peas has practically closed, and that a commencement has been made on the pack of marrowfats. A representative of one of the leading Baltimore packers who is visiting in New York market, in an interview, said: "The early June pack has closed after the shortest run of which I have any knowledge. The packing season lasted about 12 days, against the usual packing period of 20 days. The total pack is figured, on a rough estimate, at 50 per cent. of that put up last year. This season the proportion of fine sifted and petit pois grades was, according to my advices, less than 50 per cent. of the normal. This shortage was due to the fact that the weather conditions brought the peas to a state of maturity earlier than usual, and instead of the peas in the pods running irregular in size they were filled out better than usual. This condition naturally caused a proportionate increase in the pack of standard and sifted grades, which accounts for the greater difference in prices. Sifted are offered at $1.10, and standards as to quality and packer at 80 to 90c. Extra sifted are offered at $1.40, and extra fine sifted at $1.75. Petit pois are hard to obtain, and late sales were made at $2.10. The demand since the season opened has run largely to the sifted and petit pois grades."

PEANUT COMBINE COLLAPSES.

According to private mail advices from the South, the combine on peanuts, consisting of 12 members, will be dissolved on October 1 next, the association being formed for the handling of the 1901 crop. There are six firms outside the combine, and these, it is claimed, are quietly disposing of their holdings under cover of the "umbrella" held over them by the combine. The independents claim there is a big stock of peanuts now carried by farmers and cleaners, and that, instead of advancing prices, lower values are expected. Members of the combine, on the other hand, assert that the present stocks are extremely light, and higher values will prevail.

THE CINNAMON MARKET.

The quarterly sales of cinnamon held last week attracted more than ordinary attention. The total number of bales passing the hammer amounted to 433, as against 1,311 bales in February last, and these consisted—with the exception of a few thirds—entirely of good and fine qualities, fair plantation being conspicuous by its absence. This fact illustrated more clearly than anything else the depression from which the trade had suffered for a considerable period and which had rendered forward business almost impossible. Even a certain few operators among shippers appear to have failed in their endeavor to find buyers of usual assortment at greatly reduced prizes. Offers at 8⅞d. c.i.f., we are told, had to be returned to Colombo as being too dear for our market. Evidently some consumers have unwisely allowed their stocks to run dangerously low. The trade had to purchase and was forced to concede prices which were much in excess of those accepted privately. Fine sorts realized an advance of about 2d. above last sales' rates, and good fetched about 3d. more than was paid in the February auctions, whereas the few bales of thirds fair found buyers at an advance of ¼d. per lb. The tone in the market has since been a firm one both here and in Ceylon.—Home and Colonial Mail, June 6.

SUGAR TRADE CONDITIONS.

Czarnikow, MacDougall & Co., say of sugar: "The assured ratification of the Brussels convention is undoubtedly a strong argument in favor of a higher range of prices, for, as the 1903 4 and succeeding crops will consequently receive no bounties, the effect will be to cause reduced beet sowings next spring and thereafter, until consumption again overtakes production. On the other hand, there is likely to be some pressure on the part of Continental producers to sell and export before September, 1903, as much sugar as possible, so as to derive the benefit of the export bounties as long as they exist. This benefit is, however, limited by 'the contingent,' which is the quantity upon which each factory has a right to demand the official export bounty. It is also reasonable to suppose that not only dealers but consumers of sugar in Germany and Austria will endeavor to regulate their purchases of sugar so that they may on September 1, 1903, have no stock whatever, as otherwise they would be carrying sugars which had paid a high duty into the new period of low duties. Of course, consumption must go on as usual, but visible supplies will be relatively increased and invisible supplies will be practically nil, and it is visible supplies which tell upon the market. As to Javas, it is difficult to say how far the sales already made absorb the sugar for which tonnage has been secured, but the transactions have no doubt been large, as steamers and sailing vessels with a capacity of 100,000 tons have been taken up. There is no pressure to sell in Java, as the early sugars have already been disposed of, but there is no difficulty in purchasing at prices around 8s. 3d. c.i.f. for steamer shipment June-July, and a shade less for August-September. Cargoes by sail are held very firmly."

AN EASIER CURRANT MARKET.

During the past week there has been less activity in the currant market, while a slackening in the distribution is indicated by the falling-off in the duty-paid clearances. Prices nevertheless remain steady for all qualities except Provincials, which fluctuate continually in sympathy with the more or less contradictory and vacillating reports which arrive daily from Greece respecting the growing crop. These are only repetitions of the considerations already chronicled. At the same time there is among the Greek merchants a strong conviction that the present conditions are generally unfavorable, and that an early development of disease among the vines may be expected. To the uninitiated the conduct of these gentlemen in rather pressing their present holdings for sale in the face of such prospects would appear paradoxical. But it must not be forgotten that stocks in first hands are now so small that a difference of 1s. or 2s. per cwt. is a matter of no importance to any individual holder, as compared with the advantage of clearing up accounts and making a new start; and a little wholesome check of undue inflation in prices is also of considerable advantage to everybody at this time of year, when merchants are making arrangements for the coming season.—Produce Markets' Review, May 31.

CANNED GOODS PACKERS MEET.

A MEETING of the Canadian Packers' Association was held on June 17 and 18, at the Walker House, Toronto. This was not the annual meeting of the Association, but one called especially to hear reports. Much routine work was looked after and reports from the different localities were given by representatives from the various canning factories. The question of growing crops, fruits and vegetables, was discussed. Full crops were reported from a large number of sections, but a few reported adverse conditions. Peas, save at one or two points, presented unfavorable prospects, due to the damage caused the seed by the excessively wet weather. The reports of corn and tomatoes were so unfavorable that prices in these lines were not fixed at this meeting, but a special meeting will be called for their consideration. The prices for peas, strawberries, raspberries, gooseberries and other small fruits soon to be packed, were fixed, but the members of the Association were disinclined to disclose the figures.

The prospects of fruit are very fair, though it was considered too early as yet to fix prices for peaches, pears and plums. Apples will be a good average. Pears appear to be clean, and bidding fair. The prospects for a heavy crop are not good.

The Association are managing their business this year. The Quebec packers have formed an association, and were represented at the meeting by Mr. J B. E. Robitaille, of St. Johns, president of the Quebec Association. The Quebec Association has become affiliated with and part of the Canadian Packers' Association, and thus is subject to its ordinances and laws.

The members of the Association seemed not at all inclined to make any statement about the closing of certain factories, further than to admit that some were closed.

IMPORTS OF REFINED SUGAR.

ALTHOUGH the importations of refined sugar into Canada from the United States are not as heavy as they were before the new equalized freight rates went into force, the importations from European continental countries are much heavier than they were last year. In fact, they are about 47 per cent. heavier.

The last figures we have are for 10 months, ending April 30. These show that while for the 10 months of 1901 the quantity was 28,581,728 lb., valued at $817,894, the quantity for the same period this year was 41,359 672 lb., valued at $1,078,361.

The chief increase has been in the imports from Germany, which have increased over 11,000,000 lb., the quantity for the 10 months last year being 2,128,-099 lb., while this year it was 13,131,783 lb. The importation from Holland increased over 3,000,000 lb., while from Great Britain the increase was scarcely 1,000,-000 lb. The quantity up to the end of April brought from the United States was about 4,000,000 lb. in excess of last year; but of course the new equalized freight rates had not then gone into force, and the falling off in the imports from that country has, of course, been since that.

These heavy importations of refined sugar are, no doubt, a disturbing factor in trade, and, judging from present indications, they are likely to be so until the bounties are discontinued in Europe. But Canada is not alone in this respect; the United States market is also being affected.

At present the prospect for the removal of these bounties is more favorable than it was a short time ago. Germany, which was expected to be the chief stumbling block to the carrying out of the provisions of the Brussels Sugar Convention, has been the first to legislate favorably in the matter, in the Riechstag, on June 11, a Bill having been given its third reading complying with the conditions of the convention, while in Hungary, the Finance Minister, on June 12, said that the Government would shortly introduce a Bill providing for the abolition of sugar bounties in that country.

The convention, it will be remembered, does not go into force until September 1903, and, in the meantime, the refineries in Germany and other beet-root sugar countries will no doubt export all the sugar they possibly can. One steady influence, however, which must not be overlooked, is that the expected removal of the bounties will next year cause a decrease in the sowing of beets for sugar-making purposes.

DISHONEST BERRY-PACKING.

Several inspectors under the Fruit Marks' Act have reported to the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, a number of violations of the Act.

Strawberries and other small fruits are being sold in various centres packed with large and solid berries on top covering fruit of poorer quality in the bottom of the box.

The Department has issued directions to the inspectors to enforce the provisions of its Fruit Marks' Act relating to frauds in the packing of small fruit as vigorously as against fraud in the packing of apples.

In carrying out these instructions, the inspectors from time to time will visit the various centres.

NEEDED LEGISLATION.

THE practice of business men making over their property to their wives in order to escape payment to creditors in case of failure or other reverse in business, has become only too common, and any legislation which can be effected to remedy the evil should be welcomed by all honorable men.

The subject was brought up in the Quebec Legislature during the last session, and an amendment was made to Article 1834 of the Civil Code regarding the registration of marriage contracts, which has since been assented to. This amendment read as follows:

Every married person doing business as a trader, whether alone or in partnership with others, shall be bound, under a penalty of a fine of $200, to register in the office of the prothonotary of the Superior Court of the district wherein such business is carried on, within sixty days from the date on which trading commenced, or within sixty days from the date of his marriage, a declaration in writing stating if he is under community or is separate as to property, if by contract of marriage, and in case of separation of property, if by marriage contract or judgment. If by marriage contract, the declaration shall mention the date, the name of the notary before whom the deed was passed, and the domicile of the latter when the contract was made; and if by judgment the declaration shall mention the number of the case, the date of the judgment, and the name of the district in which the judgment was rendered.

The prothonotary of each district shall keep a register for this purpose.

The following persons are subject to the provisions of the code:

1. Merchants, viz., persons habitually engaged in the buying and selling of goods, wares and merchandise for profit.

2. Manufacturers of goods, wares or merchandise for sale.

3. Bankers and dealers in money and commercial paper and securities.

4. Factors or commission merchants.

5. Auctioneers.

6. Insurance and underwriters.

7. Common carriers for hire, whether by land or water.

8. Hotel and tavern, eating house and boarding-house keepers.

9. Warehousemen and wharfingers.

10. Mechanics and tradesmen who buy goods, wares or merchandise, either in the form of raw materials or wholly or partially manufactured, with intent to sell, after having by their labor improved the articles so purchased, or converted them into something else; such as jewellers, boot and shoe makers, builders, merchant tailors, hatters and furriers, watch and clockmakers, shipbuilders, printers, butchers and millers.

Those who have been married in Ontario and are residing in Quebec are considered entirely separate as regards property.

APPOINT A COMMISSION OF BUSINESS MEN.

AT a recent meeting of the Brantford Board of Trade the resolution of the Halifax Board regarding the Intercolonial Railway came up for consideration. This resolution, it will be remembered, was in favor of the management of the I. C. R. being handed over to the Canadian Pacific Railway.

The resolution found little sympathy with the Brantford Board, which is its experience before every board of trade in the country that has discussed it.

During the discussion of the question at Brantford the other day, one of the members said that the proper solution of the I. C. R. problem was the appointment of a Government commission "composed of sound, capable business men who should be given a free hand to manage the road."

This is practically the position this paper has taken since the question was first mooted. And it seems to us the only solution. No matter how zealous the Government may be, whether it be Conservative or Liberal, it is practically impossible for a railway to be managed in a businesslike way under its direct control. It is only natural in order that a good report may be annually submitted that the party in power should desire to present a favorable statement, but it is practically impossible for it to do so, on account of the demands which are continually being made upon the Government by its supporters for privileges or appointments for themselves or for their friends, which no Government has yet been able to successfully resist.

The earnings of the road are steadily increasing, and last year were the largest on record, being over $5,000,000. The expenses are also increasing at an equal ratio, and last year exceeded the earnings by nearly half a million dollars. Both the passenger and freight traffic last year were the largest in the history of the road.

As our readers are well aware, the road in the first place was not built as a business venture. The route laid out had, first of all, in view military exigencies, and not commercial requirements, and was suggested by the Imperial authorities. Had the road been built for purely commercial purposes, the route taken would have been an entirely different one. However, the road is now built, and it is without a doubt one of the best equipped, both in regard to rolling stock and roadbed, on the continent, as everyone knows who has travelled over it. The only thing wrong with the road is that it does not pay.

But in spite of the geographical drawbacks, there is no reason why every effort should not be made to manage it on a purely commercial basis, and this can only be done by the road being managed by a commission composed of men with practical business experience and untrammeled by political interference. This is a matter which the boards of trade throughout the country should persist in impressing upon the attention of the Government, and it is to be hoped that at the annual meeting of The Canadian Manufacturers' Association in Halifax, in August next, due attention will be given to the matter.

PRAISEWORTHY ACTION.

Nothing that the Toronto Board of Trade has done for many years has so increasad its popularity and received the general endorsation of the public as its action in regard to the difficulty between the Street Railway Company and its employes.

While up to the time of going to press there is still grave danger of a strike, it is certain that the citizens of Toronto would have been experiencing the inconveniences of at least a partial paralysis of the street railway service but for the timely intervention of the Council of the Board of Trade, and particularly of its representatives, President Ames and Messrs. J. D. Allan and W. J. Gage and Secretary Jarvis.

If their efforts are not finally successful it will not be due either to the want of intelligent or energetic action on their part. It will be simply due to the stubbornness of either one or the other of the parties to the dispute.

THE YOUNG MAN.

DURING the recent conventions of the different churches in Canada the young man came in for a great deal of consideration.

But it is not only in his relation to the Church that the young man is coming in for a great deal of consideration. His relation to commercial life is also a live topic.

There has probably been no time in the history of the world when the young man has received greater attention. This is largely due to the new commercial conditions, which demand a higher state of efficiency than was at one time deemed necessary on the part of those designed for mercantile careers. To-day there is positively a dearth of young men of first-class ability. There are numbers of young men seeking positions, but there are also a great number of positions, which are seeking desirable young men—men who can think and act for themselves, and who have energy to keep them going.

NEW USE FOR TRADING STAMPS.

Trading stamps are being devoted to a rather new purpose in Indiana. A despatch from Indianapolis says that a fire insurance agent there is offering trading stamps with each policy which he negotiates.

His competitors are naturally up in arms against him, and threaten to make a direct rebate of 5 per cent. below his rates.

Trading stamps were for a long time a disturbing factor in mercantile circles, and they now promise to be equally so in fire insurance circles in Indiana.

GOODS ON THE COUNTER.

In a good many stores it is a common thing to see the counters crowded with merchandise.

It is, no doubt, the proper thing to make neat displays of goods on the counter, but it was never intended that the counter should be filled with goods so as to inconveniently limit the space necessary for the clerks to wait on the customers.

By all means use the counters for tasty displays of goods, but be careful not to overcrowd them.

THE GROCERS' SECTION OF THE TORONTO BRANCH OF THE RETAIL MERCHANTS' ASSOCIATION OF CANADA.

Talk about Excursions, a Convention, and Other Matters.

THE Grocers' Section of the Toronto Branch of the Retail Merchants' Association of Canada held their monthly meeting in their rooms on Bay street on Monday evening, June 16, 1902. Chairman F. C. Higgins presided.

Communications were received from the British Columbia Wholesale Grocers' Guild, the Montreal Grocers' Association, the Hamilton Grocers' Association, and the Grocers' Section of the Berlin and Waterloo Branch. The general secretary was requested to answer the same.

A letter from the Ozo Co., vinegar manufacturers, Montreal, was referred to the Pure Foods Committee to deal with.

The report of the committee appointed to tackle the question of adulterated vinegar stated there was no fixed Government standard at present regarding the quality of vinegar made. They recommended that letters be forwarded to all the grocers' sections of the Retail Merchants' Association throughout Ontario asking their views on the advisability of having a fixed Government standard; and that they (the committee) be empowered to wait upon the vinegar manufacturers and endeavor to secure their co-operation in the matter.

This report was adopted as received.

The bakers' section sent in a communication with an agreement enclosed setting forth a number of conditions and agreements to govern the sale of bread. The bakers were requested by the grocers to appoint a committee to confer with another committee from the grocers to discuss these propositions clause by clause.

The committee from the grocers' section includes Messrs. McAuliffe, Hall, Moyer, Nettelton, Tattle, Coulter, Good and Bond. Those who jointly with a committee from the fruiterers' section held a conference with the wholesale fruiterers reported the meeting to be of a mutually beneficial character; that the agreements were being prepared for signing, which would be fully reported on at the next meeting.

A communication from the Natural Food Co., of Niagara Falls, N. Y., was received, inviting the members of the grocers' section to be their guests some time during the month of July. This invitation was accepted and the general secretary was instructed to forward the thanks of the section and its acceptance at the same time to the Natural Food Co. An excursion will be held across the lake to Niagara Falls, in which every grocer will be invited to join. The section resolved to endeavor to make a success of the coming convention of the Retail Merchants' Association of Canada, on September 9 and 10. It was decided that certain hours be set apart on the two days of the convention for the grocers to discuss fully all questions affecting their line of business. The chairman will appoint a committee to report at the next meeting of the section for submission by its members the subjects to be considered at the convention.

The Price Restrictive Plan Committee reported that they were now in correspondence with a number of manufacturers anxious to adopt the price restrictive system. They promised to give full particulars at the next meeting.

Eleven applications for membership were received.

MR. D. J. KELLY MARRIED.

On Wednesday, June 18, All Saints' Church was the scene of the marriage of Miss Agnes Tugman, daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Tugman, and Mr. D. J. Kelly. Rev. Canon Baldwin performed the ceremony. The bride looked charming in a gown of India silk and shirred skirt and trimmings of chiffon, lace and pearls, with a long bridal veil caught up with lilies of the valley and a pearl sunburst, the gift of the groom. After a reception at the home of the bride, 204 Gerrard street east, the happy couple left by boat for an extensive trip to Muskoka and the Upper Lakes. Mr. Kelly is a popular member and an ex-president of The Toronto Retail Grocers' Association. THE GROCER wishes Mr. and Mrs. Kelly much happiness.

HIGH PRICE OF TOMATOES IN BALTIMORE.

The canned goods market is concerned with the absorption of articles of the new season's pack, and the exigencies of the situation tend still to increase the price of tomatoes. No. 3 standard tomatoes are quoted by brokers in this city at present at $1.35, which about breaks the record for the last 25 years. Although we are well into the season now, the receipts of new tomatoes from Southern points appear to be much less in quantity than in other years, and they are retailing in the city markets at prices varying from 20 to 50c. per dozen, as to quality. These high prices are merely indications of the scarcity, and it can clearly be seen that this scarcity of new tomatoes bolsters the value of the canned article, the supply of which must be running extremely low throughout the entire country.

At present quotations packers could afford to pay high prices per bushel for tomatoes, and growers would be only too ready to rush supplies into this market if they had them to realize on the high prices. Tomatoes, however, like everything else in the field, are somewhat backward, and we will probably have a delayed season to continue the enhancement of values. No. 3 extra tomatoes are quoted at $1.40, seconds at $1.15, and gallon standards at $3 50 to $3.75.—The Trade, Baltimore, June 13.

PACKERS' COMBINE LISTED.

THE British Columbia Packers' Association, or as it has been christened on Change, "Packers," was listed on the Toronto and Montreal Stock Exchanges on Tuesday, and, judging from the heavy trading done in shares, is likely to become a prime favorite with the public. The prospectus issued by the company is a very attractive one. The Association is the consolidation of 31 canneries on the Fraser River, and 15 in northern parts of British Columbia, representing about 50 per cent. of the total pack of the Pacific Province. These 46 canneries last year packed 660,000 cases, while the total average pack of these 46 canneries for the past four years has been about 425.000 cases per annum, divided into about 300,000 cases on the Fraser River, and 124,000 cases in the northern districts. A 7 per cent. guaranteed dividend has been running on the stock since the date of consolidation, May 20, last.

The final estimate of the valuators placed the average minimum profit at $1 per case for the entire pack. This profit applied to the average pack, per year, for the last four years of the companies entering the consolidation is as follows :

425,000 cases, $1 per case.....	$425,000
7 per cent., dividend on preferred stock of $1,250,000	87,500
Leaving	$337,500
25 per cent. on $425,000 set aside for rest	106,250
Surplus	$231,250

The shares opened on the local market at par, and sold up to 100⅝, there being about 1,500 traded in, the public evidently being the buyers. In Montreal the stock sold as high as 101½, about 1,200 changing hands. Those on the inside look for much higher prices before many days.

"He Laughs Best Who Laughs Last"

Our Japan friends in their advertisement last week said :

"We laugh in our sleeves when we see our competitors claiming that their teas are displacing Japans"

Well, if they are laughing they must be "Mark Tapleys" for most people would feel discouraged under the circumstances. Look at the falling off in the consumption of Japan teas in Canada during the past three years :

DURING 1899 IMPORTS OF JAPAN TEA AMOUNTED TO 11,667,757 LBS.
" 1900 " " " 9,262,032 "
" 1901 " " " 7,528,309 "

A FALLING-OFF OF ABOUT 5 000,000 LBS. IN THREE YEARS.

These figures are obtained directly from the Statistical Department of the Dominion Government and speak for themselves.

We venture to prophesy that the imports of Japan Tea into Canada will not amount to 5,000,000 lbs. this year.

In the meantime the sale of "SALADA" Ceylon Green Tea keep on increasing enormously.

To the Wholesale and Retail Trade of Canada.

Although the fire of the 29th May destroyed the main portion of our factory, we have in our warehouse, and distributed in the various cities where we carry stock, sufficient manufactured goods to fill orders for some months, probably until we have our factory again in operation.

We take this opportunity of thanking our friends for their valued favors of the past, and for the many kind expressions of sympathy which have reached us ; and we solicit a continuance of their esteemed orders.

MARKETS AND MARKET NOTES

ONTARIO MARKETS.

Toronto, June 19, 1902.

GROCERIES.

THE amount of business done this week has been fair and the market is without any startling features. Canned goods are still active and the scarcity and resultant advance of canned tomatoes is noteworthy, $1 to $1.05 being now the ruling prices. Sugars this week are unchanged and steady. A fair number of sales are being made for delivery a little later on, and some buyers are beginning to stock up quite heavily in anticipation of a good demand during the summer fruit season. The coffee trade is slow, but teas are moderately active with a demand for young hyson tea that it is impossible to supply on account of the scarcity thereof. Valencia raisins are unchanged, the advance of last week being maintained. Spices and nuts are quiet.

CANNED GOODS.

In the canned goods market tomatoes are the ruling feature and the stocks of them are becoming almost exhausted. As high as 95c. was paid for a round lot of 400 cases, and the ruling figures from now on will be $1 to $1.05. The market has never before been known to have been so bare of tomatoes. Peas also are becoming scarce and corn is showing more activity, as it is the lowest priced of the three vegetables. There is a fair movement in beans. The local quotations this week are $1 to $1.05 upwards for tomatoes, 80c. for peas and 65c. for corn. Nearly all kinds of fruits are active and stocks in the hands of wholesalers are being rapidly reduced. Salmon has been active, sockeye brands being the favorites. Canned meats are showing some activity and from this out large sales of them are expected. We quote: Fraser River sockeye, $1.42½ for five-case lots and over, and $1.45 for less quantities; Northern sockeye, $1.25 to $1.30; cohoes, $1.05 to $1.15, according to quality, and canned haddies, $1 to $1.10.

COFFEES.

There is no marked feature in the local coffee trade this week, which is inclined to be quiet. Outside markets were dull and prices showed a tendency to drop. Advices from Europe report an easier market there, with slight declines as a direct result of Brazil sellings, due probably to the anticipated movement of the new crop. Our quotations are as follows: Green Rio, No. 7, 7¾c.; No. 6, 8c.; No. 5, 8¼c.; No. 4, 9c.; No. 3, 10 to 12c. per lb.

NUTS.

The quietness in the nut market continues and prices are unchanged.

RICE AND TAPIOCA.

There is a moderate demand both for rice and tapioca with no new developments this week. The outside markets for rice showed a good undertone and steady prices, owing to firm advices from Southern markets where stocks have been reduced to moderate proportions.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

No active trade is being done in syrups and molasses locally, and prices rule steady. The outside markets show a slight decline in blackstrap, with supplies coming forward with considerable freedom. We quote: Corn syrup, 3½ to 3¾c. in barrels and kegs; sugar syrups, 30 to 32c. for medium, and 35 to 40c. for bright. Molasses, 24 to 26c. for open-kettle.

SPICES.

The local spice market is similar to what it was a week ago. The outside markets for pepper were stronger, owing to the continued absence of offerings from the East, and cloves, cassia, mace, nutmegs and ginger were reported as unchanged.

See pages 39 and 40 for Toronto, Montreal, St. John and Halifax prices current.

SUGAR.

The local sugar market is moderately active. The low prices at present prevailing are being taken advantage of by a number of buyers, who are purchasing freely and laying in heavy stocks on the expectation of this being a big fruit year. The demand for sugars from this out is expected to improve until the end of the summer. Cable despatches from London, Eng., bear reports of a flat and lower market for beet sugar, with a slight decline; cane was unchanged. In the United States the market was steady with advances of 1-16 to ⅛c. in raws and refined is firm at the recent advance of 5 points. The receipts of raw sugar in the Republic for the week were only 16,501 tons, while the requirements for meltings were 33,000 tons, producing a strong market for the few lots of raw sugar offered for sale. The large demand for the refined product there is having a tendency to make the raw market favor the sellers. The likelihood of the supply of muscovados there diminishing from this time forward has made that line an important feature in the business, resulting in an advance of ⅛c. The stock last week, owing to the small receipts and large meltings, decreased 16,496 tons, and now in the Union there are only 127,160 tons as against 263,455 tons at the same time last year. In refined sugar a heavy demand is now being experienced from all parts of the Republic and refiners are being steadily put behind with their deliveries, they being now from five to twelve days late in their shipments, exclusive of carload orders for fine granulated and some of the lower grades of softs in barrels. The whole country is estimated to have absorbed some 500,000 barrels during the past two weeks at the prices ruling.

TEAS.

No important advices have this week been received from the Eastern tea markets and the outside prices ruled steady. On the London, Eng., market a strong demand was reported for all useful Indian liquoring teas, which occasionally sold at better prices, but common grades were less firm than a week previous. In Ceylon teas all useful liquoring kinds were auctioned off with good spirit at an advance. The market was steady for medium teas, and was inclined to be easier for the commoner grades. Java teas sold without any material change, but a few teas were withdrawn for higher limits. There is a threatened danger of further excessive production of Indian and Ceylon teas this season, and a movement is on foot among the Indian planters to reduce the output of these teas for the season. Locally, the tea market was fairly active. In the absence of further reports from Japan the prices of Japan teas continued firm. Indian and Ceylon teas also experienced a fair inquiry.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS.—These are going out freely and the supply on hand is light. Late advices from Greece report the market there lower, with cable offerings reported around the parity of spot cost laid down. Prices here are firm and unchanged. We quote: Filiatras, 5¾ to 6c.; Patras, 6¼ to 7c.

VALENCIA RAISINS.—The market, locally, is almost denuded of supplies and the prices are very firm. We quote selected at 7½ to 8c., and layers at 7½ to 8c.

DATES.—The local trade doing in dates is fair and the stocks on hand remain light. We quote: Dates, in bulk, 4½c. and 6¼ to 6½c. in packages.

PRUNES.—The demand for prunes is still active and the market is characterized by a scarcity of stock among some of the wholesalers. We quote: Californian prunes, 100-110's, 5c.; 90-100's, 5½ to 6¼c.; 80-90's, 6½ to 7c.; 70-80's, 6¾ to 7¼c.; 60-70's, 7½ to 8c.; 50-60's, 8 to 8½c.; 40-50's, 8¾ to 10c.

CALIFORNIAN EVAPORATED FRUITS—The market for these continues featureless and unchanged, and our quotations are as follows: 11 to 14c. per lb. for peaches and 13 to 17c. for apricots. New Santa Clara apricots are quoted f.o.b. the Coast at 7c. in 50-lb. boxes, and 7½c. in 25-lb. boxes in carload lots.

GREEN FRUITS.

The Scott street fruit market opened this week for the summer trade. The chief feature was the large quantity of strawberries that were offering. The wet weather combined with the warm spell hastened their ripening, and a lot were marketed at once, causing prices to drop to from 4 to 6c. per quart by the case. There also were offering tomatoes at $1 to $1.20 per 20-lb. case; green currants at 4 to 6c. per quart basket; cherries at $1 to $1.25 per basket; asparagus, 50 to 75c. per doz.; green peas, 40 to 50 per basket; muskmelons, $5 per crate; bananas, $1.40 to $2.25 per bunch; pineapples, $3 to $3 50 per case; cabbage, $2.25 per crate, and new potatoes, $1.50 per bush. There is a quiet demand for oranges, and Paper Rind St. Michaels are selling at $2 per ½-box; Mediterranean sweets, $3 75 to$4 50; Messinas, $3.50 to $4, and Sorrentos, $4 per box. Grape fruit is worth $4 to $5.50 per box, and Messina lemons are quoted at $2.50 to $3.50 per case.

VEGETABLES.

The market in vegetables is featureless and prices are unchanged. Trade is still quiet. We quote as follows: Green onions, 7 to 8c. per doz.; rhubarb, 20 to 40c. per doz.; carrots, $1.40 to $1.50 per bag; turnips, 40 to 50c. per bag; lettuce, 20 to 30c. per doz.; radishes, 20 to 30c.; mint and parsley, 20 to 25c.; cabbage, 75c. to $1 per doz.; dry Egyptian onions, $1.75 per bush; potatoes, 90c. to $1 per bag; asparagus, 50 to 75c. per doz.; spinach, 50c. per bush.; parsnips and beets, 40 to 50c. per bag.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—The demand for local consumption has slackened off and the prices are steady at 14½c. per doz. for fresh eggs. Pickling operations still continue.

BEANS—There is hardly anything being done in the bean trade. Choice hand-picked beans are worth $1.30 per bush.

HONEY—The demand for honey is light. We quote: 9½ to 10c. for 60-lb. tins and 10 to 11c. for less quantities; combs, $2 to $3 per doz.; dark honey, 5 to 5½c. per lb.

DRIED AND EVAPORATED APPLES—In this line business is very quiet, and only dried apples are on the market. We quote: 5 to 6c. per lb. for dried apples.

HAY—The receipts of hay have been liberal during the past week and the market is easier. For the best quality $10 to $10.50 is being paid per ton.

POTATOES—The market for potatoes this week is strong at 70c. per bag on the track. The demand is fair and the arrivals plentiful.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—There is a fair amount of good dairy butter coming forward and the market for creamery is dull as the dairy now being of superior quality is taking its place. The prices continue steady. Our quotations are as follows: Choice 1-lb. prints, 15 to 16c.; large rolls, 15c.; tubs, best quality, 15 to 15½c.; large rolls, medium grade, 12 to 14c., and tubs, medium grade, 12 to 14c. per lb. Creamery prints are worth 19 to 20c., and creamery solids, 19c. per lb.

CHEESE—There has been a big make of cheese and prices are expected to take a drop before long. The export demand is slackening a little with the report of a large English make. At the factories quotations are 9½c. per lb., steady, and locally 10¼ to 10½c. There is the usual jobbing trade for home consumption.

FISH.

The features of this week's market are the brisk trade that is being done in all lines of fish and the difficulty experienced in getting sufficient stocks in to supply the demand. The prices are unchanged. We quote as follows: Fresh fish—Lake Erie herring, 4 to 5c.; perch, 4 to 5c.; trout, 6½c.; pike, 4c.; British Columbian salmon, 20c.; whitefish, 7½ to 8c.; blue fish, 9c. per lb.; mackerel, 12 to 15c.; rock bass, 4c.; eastern salmon, 25 to 30c.; speckled trout, 25c.; halibut, 15c.; Niagara whitefish, 9c. per lb.

GRAIN, FLOUR AND BREAKFAST FOODS.

The favorable crop reports have weakened the wheat market and so a drop of 1c, has taken place in Manitoba No. 1 hard and 1½ and ½c. for No. 1 and No. 2 Northern, respectively, the quotations now being 84c, for Manitoba No. 1 hard, 81c. for No. 1 and 80c. for No. 2 Northern. The market for oats continues strong at 44 to 48c. at outside stations, and 1,000 bush. sold on the St. Lawrence Market for 48½ to 50c. Two loads of goose wheat on the same market brought 69½c., and the prices of white and Ontario wheat are nominal at 82 to 84c. and red wheat at 79 to 80c.

FLOUR — There has been a quietness experienced in the flour market this week, but the prices are steady. We quote: Ontario patents, in bags, $3.60 to $3.75; Hungarian patents, $4 to $4.15; Manitoba bakers', $3.70 to $3.85; straight roller, $3.30 to $3.40 per bbl. in Toronto.

BREAKFAST FOODS—The warm weather has caused business in breakfast foods to slacken some. Quotations are as follows: Oatmeal, standard and granulated, in carlots on track here, $5.20; standard rolled oats in carlots on track here, $4.90 per bbl.; in wood, 10c. more; broken lots are 20c. per bbl. extra; rolled wheat, $2.40 in 100-lb. bbl.; cornmeal, $3.60; split peas, $4.75; pot barley, $4.25, in 196-lb. bbls.

HIDES—The market this week is without feature. Our quotations are as follows: No. 1 green, 7½c.; No. 2 green, 6½c.; No. 1 green, steers, 8½c.; No. 2 green, steers, 7½c.; cured, 8 to 8¼c.

SKINS — Calfskins are very weak and dull, and prices are likely to be lower. We quote as follows: No. 1 calfskins, 10c.; and No. 2, 8c.; deacons (dairies), 60 to 70c. each; sheepskins, 80c. to $1; shearlings, 20c.

WOOL—The prices are weak and unchanged. Fleece wool is quoted at 13c. and unwashed 7c. per lb. f.o.b., Toronto.

TALLOW—This article is scarce. Quotations are 6¼ to 6½c. per lb.

MARKET NOTES.

Eggs are easier this week.

The prices of canned tomatoes have advanced 7½ to 12½c.

Last week strawberries were selling at 15 to 17c. per quart; and this week their price is 4 to 6c., owing to the Canadian product being placed on the market.

NEW METHOD OF BUYING EGGS.

By the wholesale produce merchants of the Dominion a change has been inaugurated in the method of buying eggs. The egg dealers throughout Canada during the hot weather are going to purchase eggs only on the "loss of" basis, and whenever any shipper sends in eggs with over six bad in a case, they will be charged back to him. Hens never lay bad eggs, and it is alleged to be the fault of the storekeeper that so many are sent in. He takes them from his customers after they have gone bad and expects the buyers to accept them from him. But this the buyers will not do any more.

HOW TO KEEP VEGETABLES.

THE following from an unidentified exchange will probably interest some of our readers :

Don't display vegetables on the sidewalk where they will catch the dust, and be covered with refuse matter and worse, and be sunstruck.

Don't display them in boxes or on low shelves on the inside of the store where they will be handled by everyone, will catch the sweepings, will be tumbled under foot, and look unpalatable and unwholesome.

On the other hand, a very good plan to follow is to have a circular display stand in the centre of the store, if possible, where they can be kept cool.

Another idea is to utilize the front of the refrigerator for display purposes, or have a long glass showcase arranged with galvanized iron bottoms or several galvanized bottoms in the form of shelves, a jet or mist on each of which throws water over the vegetables necessary to keep damp.

A window display with a mist or jet of water is used by a great many merchants, but this is frequently open to objection on the ground that the sun penetrates the window and will counteract the benefits from the jet of water. If a store has a shady front or is well protected by awnings this is a good plan, but there should be a screen a foot high in the rear of the window to prevent consumers from picking over the green stuff and also to keep clerks and others from laying packages down on it, thus spoiling the form and freshness of the smaller vegetables.

Berries should never be put under a jet or where they will be sprinkled by water. They will mould rapidly, and if they do not mold will soften and return a loss much quicker. Beets need very little water and will keep green and fresh for several days if not directly under the spray of the mist machine. Lettuce will stand the most water. The tops of radishes rot quickly, if wet too thoroughly and persistently. Carrots will revive if placed in running water and the tops are sprinkled. They do not need a thorough drenching all the time. Tomatoes should be kept in a cool place, but not in water, as it softens them. String beans and white wax beans grow tough when soaked in water. White wax boans, if sprinkled, will take on rust specks, if the water is permitted to dry on them. Green peas do not need to be sprinkled. They will keep green and nice in a cool place, but heat will soon dry out the pods and bleach them. Asparagus will stand considerable moisture and drenching without injuring it. Mint, spinach and similar vegetables will stand sprinkling and will revive if they have become somewhat dry by placing them in water and thoroughly soaking them.

GROCERIES.

WITH a great improvement in the weather there has also been an improvement in business. While the roads in the country have been reduced to bad shape by the recent rainy weather, consequently making trade with country points rather slow, these conditions are now rapidly giving way to better, and this week buyers from country points have brought much more business to the cities. Another advance has been made in pickles, in bottles, owing to a lack of good supplies on the local market. The advance is of 5c. per dozen bottles. Cod liver oil, in bulk, also takes a second rise, and is now quoted at $1.25 to $1.35, according to quality. Oil, in bottles, has gone up proportionately. Pot barley has been weakening somewhat. It is now sold in barrels at $4.35, and in bags, $2.10. Currants have been reduced slightly. Jones' pork is again in stock in this market.

SUGAR.

The prices made last week have been steadily maintained, and granulated is still quoted at $3.65, and yellows at $3 to $3.55. At these low prices there has been a good demand for sugar, and the wholesalers all report business very brisk. Before the advance of 5c. last week the prices were the lowest ever quoted on this market, and the rush for sugar at those prices was not diminished when 5c. higher was quoted.

TEAS.

The Japan tea market remains as strong as ever although no further advances are reported. Buyers here are taking the tea at importers' prices. They held off for a while expecting to hear of a break or of reports favoring an easier market, but have apparently concluded that this is not likely, and Japan tea is now in good demand. The green tea market in China opened fully 20 per cent. higher than the closing price of last year, and at present the feeling is strong. The heavy demand for green teas pretty well cleaned up the market here and in the United States, but with the new crop on hand it is expected that lower prices will prevail. At the latest auction reported from Colombo, for Ceylon teas the market was dull and irregular for all common to medium teas, but the finer grades were in good demand and rates remained firm. Dust and fannings were in strong demand, prices showing an advance of 1c. per lb. The quality was poor, especially on teas from the low country. The average price was 36c., the same as at the previous sale.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

The demand for syrups is very small. No change in the price is reported. Barbados molasses of the finest grade sells for 24c., and for 23c. in carlots. A considerable quantity of mixed Barbados is reported in this market which is sold as the genuine article. Those handling pure Barbados, of course, cannot compete with these in price. Dealers should be on the watch for this stuff. Old molasses is still being sold at low prices, almost anything in fact the dealer can get for it. Antigua molasses is quoted at 24c., and Porto Rico at 38c. Corn syrups are quoted as follows : 3½c. in bbls.; 3⅝c. in ½ bbls.; 3¾c. in ¼ bbls.; $1.60 in 38½-lb. and $1.20 in 25-lb. pails.

CANNED GOODS.

The market for canned goods has been steady as to price. The demand is good in all lines. Peas are somewhat firmer, although the price is unchanged as yet. Corn is in fair demand. Tomatoes are unchanged. The inquiry continues active, and a good business is done in tomatoes at $1. Quotations are as follows : Peas, 82½c. to $1.15 ; corn, 80c.; tomatoes, 97½c. to $1 ; gallon apples, $2.85 to $2.90 ; 3-lb. apples, $1.10. Salmon, pink, 92 to 95c.; spring, $1.25 ; Rivers Inlet, red sockeye, $1.30 ; Fraser River red sockeye, $1.40.

SPICES.

Quotations on the local market remain about the same. Trade is still quiet and improving as the season advances. The feeling all round continues firm. The foreign market for peppers has regained its position, and the weakness of a week ago has disappeared. English advices report an advance in peppers. Locally, prices are : Nutmegs, 30 to 55c. per lb., as to size ; penang mace, 45 to 50c. per lb.; as to quality ; pimento, ground, 12½ to 15c.; cloves, 15 to 25c.; pepper, ground, black, 17 to 22c., according to grade ; white, 25 to 27c.; ginger, whole, Cochin, 15 to 17c.; Japan, 13 to 14c.; Jamaica, 16 to 20c.; Afghan, 12 to 13c.; ground, Japan, 15c.; Cochin, 16 to 17c.; Jamaica, 20 to 22c., and Afghan, 13 to 14c.

RICE AND TAPIOCA.

There is a good demand for rice and tapioca at the prices here quoted. No further change has been made in sago, which, however, is somewhat easier. We quote as follows : B rice, in bags, $3.02½; in ½ bags, $3.07½ ; in ¼ bags, $3.12½ ; in pockets, $3.17½. In 10-bag lots an allowance of 10c. is made. CC rice,, $2.92½ in bags ; $2.97½ in ½ bags ; $3.02½ in ¼ bags, and $3.07½ in pockets. In the open territory prices are about 10c. less. Patna rice is worth 4 to 5c. per lb., and tapioca, 3⅛ to 3½c.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS.—These are quoted somewhat lower this week. A cable of June 14 in regard to the crop in Greece says that the prospects of a good crop are bright, but that everything depends on a continuation of fine weather. It was too early to forecast the probable opening of prices. Srocks in Greece have declined, and fine Filiatras are offered at lower prices. We quote : Fine Filiatras, 5⅛ to 5½c. in ½ cases ; cleaned, 5⅝ to 5⅞c.; 1-lb. cartons, 7¼ to 7½c. ; finest Vostizzas, 7⅝c.

VALENCIA RAISINS.—There is still a scarcity of Valencias of all grades. The market is completely bare of finest off-stalk, and the price here quoted is purely nominal : Finest off-stalk, 6¼c.; selected, 6⅝c.; layers, 7¼ to 7½c. per lb.

SULTANA RAISINS.—There is a good inquiry, but supplies are very light. The price is 9c. per lb.

CANDIED PEELS.—There is no change in price. The market is fairly active. We quote : Citron peel, 16½c.; orange peel, 11½c.; lemon, 10½c. per lb.

MALAGA RAISINS.—A moderate trade is being done this week at steady and unchanged prices. Our quotations are as follows : London layers, $1.50 to $1.60 ; "Connoisseur Clusters," $2.15 to $2.25 ; ¼'s, 65 to 70c.; "Royal Buckingham Clusters," $3.30 to $3.35 ; ¼'s, $1.05 to $1.10 ; "Excelsior Windsor Clusters," $4.50 to $4.60 ; ¼'s, $1.30 to $1.40.

DATES.—Hallowees are quoted at 4½c. per lb.

FIGS.—A fair business continues at unchanged quotations. We quote $1.20 for tapnets and $1.15 for layers.

CALIFORNIAN RAISINS.—The market is fairly active for seeded raisins, which are quoted here at 9¼ to 9½c. per lb.

PRUNES.—The local market is active for Californian prunes at unchanged prices. Quotations on the new crop are from 1 to 1¼c. lower than last year's prices. Local prices follow : 8½c. for 40-50's ; 8c. for 50-60's ; 7¾c. for 60-70's ; 7½c. for 70-80's ; 6¾c. for 80-90's ; 6½c. for 90-100's.

CALIFORNIAN EVAPORATED FRUITS.—The market is quiet. Apricots are quoted at 14½c., peaches, 10½c. and pears, at 10c.

NUTS.

Nothing of importance has occurred in the market for nuts since our last report. The demand is still light, and our quotations are as follows : Walnuts, 9⅜c. to 11c. ; Tarragona almonds, 12 to 13c. ; shelled walnuts, 16½ to 17½c. ; shelled almonds, 26 to 27c. : Jordan shelled almonds, 42c.; filberts, 8¾ to 9¼c.; pecans, 15 to 16c.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER.—The butter market has developed further strength since our last reports. There appears to be a scarcity of finest-made creamery, none being obtainable under 20c. The supply of Canadian butter on the English market is light, although it is reported that larger quantities are now on the way. Finest Townships are quoted at 20 to 20¼c., good to fine, 19½ to 19⅝c., seconds, 19 to 19¼c. Shipments of butter from the port of Montreal for the week ending May 11 amounted to 18,997 packages, an increase of 4,712 over the corresponding week last year. Since navigation commenced this season the records show that 57,449 packages have been shipped, an increase of 8,565 packages over the same period of last year. The amount of butter shipped to Liverpool last week per steamer Tunisian was 8,318 packages ; shipped to London per steamer Montevidean, 4,013 packages ; shipped to Bristol, per steamer Monteagle, 6,636 packages. At Cowansville, June 14, 1,060 boxes of butter sold for 20¾c.; 490 boxes sold for 20¼c., and another lot of 37 boxes sold for 20½c. Altogether 22 creameries offered 2,082 boxes. The satisfactory condition of the butter market promises to remain so for some time, unless some unforseen change occurs.

CHEESE.—A somewhat weaker condition characterizes the cheese market this week, accounted for by the increased receipts. This remark is more especially applicable to white cheese, which is ¼c. per pound cheaper. Colored cheese remains firm and is in good request. The volume of business being done in England is not very large in consequence of buyers not being inclined to purchase beyond their immediate requirements. Finest Ontario is selling at 9⅝ to 9¾c. ; finest Townships, 9½ to 9⅝c.; finest Quebecs, 9⅜ to 9½c..; undergrades, 8⅛ to 9¼c.. The steamships Tunisian, Manaman and Lake Manitoba, bound for Liverpool, carried away 14,416 boxes. For the port of

OIL TANKS

FEDERAL SUPPLY CO., 232 Fifth Avenue,
PITTSBURGH, PA., April 29, 1902.

S. F. BOWSER & Co., Inc., FORT WAYNE, IND.

GENTLEMEN:—We are operating at the present time forty-six stores, all of which are equipped with your Self-Measuring Oil Outfits. Of the many different makes upon the market which we have used, we find yours to be the best tank we have ever used, both as regards durability and cleanliness. In measuring the old way from the barrel there is considerable loss through evaporation and wastage which is entirely eliminated by your tanks, and we do not hesitate to say this saving will pay for the outfit in a very short period. We cheerfully recommend your tanks to the trade. Yours very truly,

W. J. Phillips, Pres't & Gen. Mgr. FEDERAL SUPPLY CO.

Glasgow, the steamships Sarmation and Concordia had on board 5,755 boxes. The steamer Montevidean will land in London with 15,485 boxes, and the steamer Monteagle, in Bristol, with 18,574 boxes, a total shipment in all of 54,230 boxes for the week ending June 14. Since navigation opened this year 244,015 boxes have been shipped, making 50,932 more than for the corresponding period last year, and 8,384 more boxes were exported last week than for the same week last year. In the Montreal market a diversity of opinion exists concerning values, several large shippers reporting sales of finest western at 10c., but others aver they have offered similar kinds of cheese at 9⅞c.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS.—The condition of the egg market is even weaker than last week. The vats of packers are now pretty well supplied with the result that there is a sufficient quantity arriving to satisfy present requirements. There is a general feeling that there will be a further decline in prices in the near future. Straight receipts were sold at 13½c., although 50-case lots brought 14c. Candled goods are ½c. higher. On June 12 receipts reported on Board of Trade were 1,224 cases, and on June 16, 1,389 cases.

HONEY.—A dull and featureless market still prevails, the demand being even slower than last week. Prices are as follows: White clover comb, 13 to 14c.; tinged, 10 to 11c.; strained, 9 to 10c.; buckwheat in comb, 9 to 10c.; extracted, 7 to 8c.

BEANS.—Beans are easier than a week ago and round lots of primes are selling at $1, and in lots of 10 to 20 bags, at $1.25 to $1.30. On Tuesday last a round lot of primes were disposed of at $1.18.

POTATOES.—No change has taken place in the potato market this week. A moderately good demand for good stock at 75c. to 80c. obtains. On Saturday last a car of Manitoba potatoes sold at 40c. per bag, but they were not in the very best of condition, being badly sprouted.

MAPLE PRODUCTS.—Business is quiet and mostly of a jobbing nature. Syrup, in large tins, is quoted at 70 to 80c.; in small tins, 50 to 60c. Sugar brings 7 to 9c. per lb.

ASHES.—The market is quiet but steady. Prices are: Firsts, $4.15 to $4.20; seconds, $3.70 to $3.75; pearls, $6 per 100 lb.

GREEN FRUITS.

There has been some improvement in the market this week, but trade is still quiet for the season. The most interesting feature in the market has been the further advance of Valencia oranges, which, during the past week, went up 25c. to $1, and at the new prices oranges are quite firmly held. The arrival of Canadian tomatoes in quantities has caused a drop of 75c. in Florida tomatoes. Fine spies are $1 higher. Strawberries are 4 to 6c. per box lower, wax beans, 50c. per basket lower, and cabbage, 25c. lower. Californian cherries have arrived in fair quantities and sell at $2 to $2.50 per box. The first car of Californian pears and peaches is expected in about a week. Our quotations are as follows: Jamaica oranges, in barrels, $4.50 to $4.75; in boxes, $2.75; Valencia oranges, 420's, $5.75; 420's, Jumbo, $6.50; 714's, $6.50; Messina lemons, $2 to $3 per box; pineapples, 6½ to 16c.; Canadian apples, $5 to $6.50 per bbl.; cocoanuts, $3.50 per bag of 100; bananas, No. 1, $1.25 to $2, and eight hands, $1 to $1.50; sweet potatoes, Vinelands, $5.50 to $6; Malaga grapes, $5.50 to $7 per keg; cranberries, $7.75 to $10.50; red onions, $3.50 per barrel; yellow $3.25; chestnuts, 10 to 11c.; Italian chestnuts, 12½c.; grape fruit, $4.25 to $5 per box; Florida tomatoes, $3.25 to $3.75 per crate; fine spies, $6 to $6.50; radishes, 15c. per doz.; spinach, $2 per bbl.; strawberries, 8 to 12c. per box; asparagus, 40 cents per bunch; Boston lettuce, $1.00 per dozen; Canadian lettuce, 35c. per doz.; Canadian spinach, $2.00 per bbl.; Egyptian onions, 3½c. per lb.; English cucumbers, $1.25 per dozen; wax beans, $2.50 per basket; green beans, $3 per basket; cabbage, $3; Californian cherries, $2 to $2.50 per box.

FISH.

The supply of fresh fish continues plentiful, and the demand is good. Fresh Gaspe salmon are quoted 4c. lower this week. Dore, halibut and whitefish are in fair demand. Quotations are as follows: Haddies, 7 to 7½c.; smoked herrings, 9 to 10c. per box; fresh haddock and cod, 3½ to 4c. per lb.; whitefish, 7½c.; dore, 7½c.; pike, 6c.; halibut, 10 to 12c.; salmon, 11 to 12c.; trout, large and medium, 7½c.; No. 1 herring, Nova Scotian, $4.75 to $5.25 per bbl., and $2.50 per ½ bbl.; No. 1 Holland herring, $6.50 per ½ bbl.; No. 1 Scotch herring, $6.50 per ½ bbl., and 95c. per keg; Holland herring, 75c. per keg; No. 1 green codfish, $5 per bbl.; mackerel, $12.50 per bbl.; boneless cod, 1 and 2-lb. blocks, 6c. per lb.; loose, boneless cod, 5c. per lb. in 40-lb. boxes; dried codfish, $4.75 per 112-lb. bundle; No. 1 Labrador salmon, $17.50 in tierces, and in barrels, $12.50; No. 1 British-Columbian salmon, $6 per ½ bbl., and $12 per bbl.; standard bulk oysters, $1.50 per gallon; Marshall's kippered herring, $1.45 per doz.; Canadian kippered, $1 per doz.; Canadian ¼ sardines, $3.75 per 100; canned Cove oysters, No. 1 size, $1.30 per doz.; canned Cove oysters, No. 2 size, $2.20 per doz.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

FLOUR.—The market for flour has been steady throughout the week. At present there is a fair demand from both local and country buyers. A good demand has been experienced for export account, besides which millers are being kept busy filling orders for South Africa. Our quotations now are: Manitoba spring wheat patents, $4 to $4.20; winter wheat patents, $3.90 to $4.10; strong bakers', $3.70 to $3.90; straight rollers, $3.65 to $3.75.

GRAIN.—The inquiry for export is fair. Rye has advanced 3c. and corn is quoted 1c. higher. Bids for Manitoba wheat for export have been good, but little business was effected. No. 1 Northern Manitoba is quoted at 72½c., June. We quote: No. 2 Ontario oats, ex-store, 48½ to 49c.; rye, 66c.; peas, 85½ to 86c.; corn, 70 to 70½c.; buckwheat, 68½ to 69c.; No. 2 barley afloat, 61c.

FEED.—There is a steady demand for bran at present. The price dropped during the week to $18.50 to $19 per ton, in carlots, for Ontario bran. Manitoba bran is worth $19 per ton. Shorts are very scarce and the market is consequently quiet in that line.

OATMEAL.—There is a fair demand, mostly for small lots for immediate requirements. Jobbers are quoting small lots, for rolled oats, at $5.65 per bbl., and $2.77½ per bag.

BALED HAY.—The market is steadier this week. The good supplies continue to arrive, but the demand has picked up and is sufficient for the offerings. Prices are now as follows: No. 1 timothy, $9.50 to $10; No. 2, $8 to $8.50; clover, $7 to $7.50 per ton in carlots.

MONTREAL NOTES.

Fresh Gaspe salmon is 4c. lower.

Florida tomatoes are 75c. lower.

Currants are from ⅛ to ¾c. lower.

A decline of 25c. occurs in cabbage.

Wax beans have gone down 50c. per basket.

Valencia oranges have advanced from 25c. to $1.50.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

St. John, N.B., June 14, 1902.

BUSINESS continues very good, and there has been very little change in the markets during the week. Lumber, which is one of our important industries, is very high this season. Active shipping is just about beginning. A very large quantity of American lumber, cut on the Upper St. John river, is sawn here by American millers. This lumber is admitted free into the United States. Our own millers saw almost entirely for the English market. Logs are high; the expense of marketing these becomes greater every season. Fall goods are beginning to have some attention. Each year these are offered earlier. It seems to answer no good purpose, only increasing the competition and keeping buyers and sellers in hot water.

OILS.—In burning oils there is a good business for this time of the year. This trade will feel some effect of the change from local to Intercolonial standard time. This means 24 minutes less of artificial light every night of the year. In lubricating oils there is a large business. There is but little change at any time in prices. The question with the buyer is: Is he getting value, and does the grade of oil he buys suit his purpose best? In linseed and other paint oils prices are high, and there is a fair sale.

SALT.—Two sailing vessels discharged Liverpool coarse salt this week. The shipments were direct. There is a good demand at full prices. In English fine there is an improved business. Some particularly nice fine salt is being imported in bulk and repacked here into wooden boxes. In Canadian salt there is a good sale. Quotations are as follows: Liverpool coarse, 55 to 60c.; English factory-filled, 95c. to $1; Canadian fine, $1 per bag; cheese and butter salt, bulk, $2.40 per bbl.; 5-lb. bags, $2.85 to $2.90 per bbl.; 10-lb. bags, $2.70 to $2.75 per bbl.; 20-lb. wood boxes, 22c. each; 10-lb. wood boxes, 14c. each; cartons, $2 per case of 2 dozen; English bottled salt, $1.25 to $1.30 per dozen; mineral rock salt, 60c. per 100 lb. (Selected lumps.)

there seemed a good supply, are firmer. Corn shows little change in price, but stock is not large. In tomatoes, higher prices are expected. In fruits, there is a fair sale. Stocks are light and full prices are asked. Gallon apples are about of the market. This is not a large market for fruits. Blueberries are much scarcer than usual. This is a line showing improved sale. In meats, there is a good business. Owing to the firmer market at the higher prices good profits are made. Salmon sell well and stocks are light. New goods are quoted at fairly even figures, though there is some range in price. Spring fish seem the popular line in this market. In domestic fish, such as sardines, haddies, and herring, packers are busy, and the outlook is good.

GREEN FRUITS.—Dealers are busy. American strawberries are freely received and the quality shows much improvement. Domestic rhubarb, which has been on the market for some time, while low is higher than usual at this season of the year. The supply is not as large as usual and there is a good demand. Cucumbers and tomatoes are rather lower. In oranges, Valencias still have a good sale. The season is getting late and prices are rather higher. Sorrento oranges and Messinas have an improved sale. Bloods are freely offered. Prices show a wide range, according to count. Lemons are rather higher. There is a steady sale. Pines are easier, and there is a fair business. In bananas, the quantity sold is very large.

DRIED FRUITS.—Californian prunes for fall have been quoted. Prices show some range, but as the quality does also they keep the buyer guessing. Prices have opened low, and it is thought by many to be a good time to buy. Apricots and peaches are also quoted, but for some reason they are small sellers here. In spot goods there is little business. Prunes have a fair sale. Prices are low. In raisins there is very little moving, except seeded Californians. Prices on these tend firmer. In currants there is a fair business doing at quite firm prices. Old peels are out of the market. New have been largely bought, and the prices are rather lower than last year. New figs are also quoted lower, as are dates. There is but little change in the latter. In evaporated apples a few are selling, but the market is about bare and the price is high. Flaked are selling freely. Onions are held firm.

DAIRY PRODUCE.—Butter is coming in freely. The quality is quite good. For best stock even prices rule, but the market is rather easier. In eggs there is a good supply and the market is steady, though tending easier. Cheese is more freely offered and is rather lower.

SUGAR.—There is no change. Prices are very low. The foreign market is rather firmer. Sales, particularly of domestic granulated, are very large.

MOLASSES.—Prices have been very low this spring, and profits to importers very light. The tendency is to try for better prices. There has been a short supply of Barbados. Further lots are due, and a large quantity of Porto Rico is near to hand.

FISH.—Fresh fish occupy the attention of dealers. Salmon are of particular interest, both on the North Shore and here the catch is rather light. Prices are higher than is usual at this season. The market is being governed by prices in Boston. Gaspereaux have not been as large a catch as last year, being below the average. Shad are about done. In dry fish, the market is dull. Smoked herring are low. Pickled herring have very little inquiry. We quote: Haddies, 4½ to 5c.; smoked herring, 5 to 6c.; fresh haddock and cod, 2 to 2½c.; boneless fish, 4 to 5c.; pollock, $1.50 to $1.60 per 100 lb.; pickled herring, $1.50 to $1.75 per ½ bbl.; Canso herring, $5.75 per bbl.; kippered gaspereaux, $1.00 per box; Shelburne, $2.50 per ½ bbl.; dry cod, $3.50 to $3.65; fresh gaspereaux, 50c.; smoked, do., $1; halibut, 6 to 7c.; shad, 10 to 12c.; salmon, 14 to 15c.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL.—In flour there is a fair business at unchanged prices. Oats and oatmeal are firm. There is but a fair sale for oatmeal. Beans are rather easier, the sale being light at this season. Cornmeal is quoted the same as last week. In feed, the high prices continue, and it is impossible to supply the demand. Hay is unchanged. The South African business seems about closed. Peas are scarce and the stock is inclined to be poor. Quotations are as follows: Manitoba flour, $4.80 to $4.90; best Ontario, $4.20 to $4.35; medium, $3.75 to $4.00; oatmeal, $5.20 to $5.25; cornmeal, $3.10 to $3.15; middlings, $26 to $28; oats, 52 to 54c.; handpicked beans, $1.50 to $1.60; prime, $1.40 to $1.50; yellow eye beans, $2.80 to $3.00; split peas, $5.15 to $5.25; barley, $4.50 to $4.55; hay, $10 to $14.

MANITOBA MARKETS.

Winnipeg, June 16, 1902.

BUSINESS is steady in all departments with very little change in price, will about cover the situation in Winnipeg this week, so far as groceries and produce are concerned.

SUGAR.—The demand is heavy at the recent reduction. Prices are still $4.15 for granulated and $3.75 for bright yellows.

CANNED GOODS — Tomatoes hold steady and are in good demand. Corn is again easier and offering liberally at $1.65 to $1.75, according to brand. Peas are also offering freely and it looks as though there might be a drop in price if the early June pack proves a liberal one.

RICE.—Reports abroad indicate a ¼c. advance on Japan, but no change in the price has occurred here. Rangoon, however, is reported easier. There is not much trade in this market at present.

EVAPORATED AND DRIED FRUITS.—There is a tendency to shade prices in currants for the moment, although advices from the primary markets do not warrant any lower figures. The trade in evaporated fruits is good in the country, but in the city it is falling off somewhat as fresh fruit becomes more plentiful. Prices, however, are firm and seem inclined to advance in some lines. Apricots are now 14½ and 15c. for the best; evaporated apples, 12½ to 13c.; peaches, 10½ to 11½c., and prunes, 5½ to 9½c., according to size.

FRESH FRUIT.—The noticeable feature of this market is the drop in strawberries. Hood Rivers are quoted at $4 to $4.25, and are retailing at 17½c. per box. Oranges are over with the exception of Valencias, which run from $5 to $6 per crate, according to size. Messina lemons are the only stock in this market. They are quoted at $4.50, but are likely to advance. Tomatoes are down to $2 for the four-basket crate and are improving in quality. Watermelons are due to arrive shortly.

FLOUR AND CEREALS.—No change of price has occurred in cereals and the demand is only nominal. Quotations are as follows: Rolled oats, 80's, $2.20; 40's, $1.10; 20's, 55c. Granulated and standard oatmeal, $2.75; split peas, $2.85; cornmeal, $1.75. Barley—Pot, $2.35. White beans, $1.65. Package goods—Quaker Oats, $4 per case of 3 doz.; Pettijohn's Wheat, $2.85 per case of 2 doz.; Cream of Wheat, $5.50 per case of 3 doz.; Malt Breakfast Food, $3.35 per case of 2 doz.; Swiss Breakfast Food, $3.50 per case of 3 doz.; Grape Nuts, $2 per case of 2 doz.; Postum Cereal, $2.25 per case of 2 doz. The trade in flour is heavy, the demand being almost unprecedented. The mills are oversold and are working at full pressure. Prices are: Flour—No. 1, $2.05 to $2.15; No. 2, $1.95 to $2; No. 3, $1.85; No. 4, $1.65 to $1.70; No. 5, $1.25.

DAIRY PRODUCE.—Creamery butter is increasing in supply, and the price is now 17c., factories. Dairy butter is also plentiful, but the quality is not up to the mark. The range of prices is from 12 to 15c.

CHEESE.—The bulk of the cheese made in May has been marketed and found a ready sale at 11 to 11½c. per lb., and 12c. for some of extra quality. The make was small owing to the difficulty of getting milk to the factories over the bad roads.

NOTE.

One of the most attractive windows seen in Winnipeg for a long time is that of John Collart. His new store near "the bend" of Main is particularly well adapted for effective treatment, as the turn of the street brings it in full view half a block before you reach it. At the north side or back of the window is a

PRALINES.

AMONG the toothsome memories of by-gone years, there is nothing in the form of sweets or candy that appeals so keenly to the Louisianian as the praline. A stranger visiting the city and desiring to find some of this dainty, would probably go to the first confectioner's shop, to be waved out of the door by the hand of the French maid in attendance. · " Non, Monsieur, on vends, ca sur la rue !" (No, sir, they sell that in the street !")

The manufacturing of the real praline seems to be the accepted right of the descendants of the old Indians whose blood has been intermingled with French negroes. It is always carried about in the morning freshly made, on small, neatly covered trays by men only. A negress who sits at the street corner with her basket of fruit, candy and imitation pralines is not the true vender or maker, for her pralines are thin and flat, and resemble an over-browned buckwheat cake. The Indian takes a pride in selling his candy, walking about the streets, upright of carriage, proud in his demeanor, never selling it less than 5c. a cake, no matter if you buy out his entire stock, nor will he, after disposing of his tray-full, return again the same day with more to offer.

In the making of the praline the Indian obtains from the hogsheads of molasses the sugar that has granulated from the liquid and has been precipitated to the bottom. This is more highly flavored than the ordinary sugar-house production, and when reboiled and cooled has a most attractive and delicious taste of its own. Pecan nuts are carefully cracked and taken from their shells, so that the two halves of the nut are unbroken. The boiling thick sugar is then poured out on a flat stone in little puddles of about three inches in diameter, into the surface of which the pecan-nut meats are carefully bunched in conical heaps, with just enough of the hot sugar added to hold them in place.

As soon as a large enough batch is made to fill the tray it is taken out on the great thoroughfare, Canal street, and offered for sale.

Pralines are never made up in large quantities, as the hardening of the sugar when kept over, and the loss of the aromatic flavor of the mixture would render this famous New Orleans candy not up to its world-renowned standard.—R. M. F., in Trade Press List.

James McColl, general merchant and hotelkeeper, Fort William, Que., has rented his hotel to Mrs. Thomas Draper.

FRASER RIVER SALMON IN LONDON.

A good trade is doing in salmon, both on the market and in the country, and valuations in some instances are slightly higher. The cheapest class of salmon in the market at the present time is 1-lb. Fraser flats, quotations being very little more than best talls. This package has always been a popular one with the consumer, and now that it is practically within the reach of everyone, the sale should be a large one.—Produce Markets' Review, May 31.

TRADE CHAT.

A flour mill is projected for Moosomin, Man.

The wholesale grocers of Charlottetown, N.B., have decided to close their places of business from now on until September 13 each Saturday afternoon.

The London, Ont., Retail Grocers' Association will hold their annual excursion to Niagara Falls, Ont., on Wednesday, July 23. The grocers of St. Thomas will be asked to join with them.

Four Winnipeg merchants, W. F. Howard, J. A. McKercher, W. R. Schaefer and Samuel Bere, were recently in court on a charge of keeping their places of business open on Saturday night after hours, but Mayor Arbuthnot dismissed the case, claiming that if a storekeeper was open a few minutes after hours on Saturday nights the offence was not a grave one.

BAHAMA PINEAPPLE CROP SHORT.

Consul Thomas J. McLain, in the Bahamas, writing from Nassau on May 8, says the Bahama pineapple crop is smaller than the average, "though the fruit itself is of good quality. It is estimated that in quantity it will exceed, say, 60 per cent. of last year's crop. As prices are now ruling, it will not bring over 80 per cent. of last year's value.

"The average number of pineapples shipped from the Bahamas is about 6,000,000 per annum, worth some $250,000 or $275,000.

"The pineapple industry is developing new life, despite the threatened competition in the near future from Cuba and Porto Rico, and the plantations are being extended. So great is the demand for new plants, and so inadequate the supply, that the Colonial Legislature has just passed an Act imposing an export duty on the plants of $1.20 for the first hundred and $2.40 per hundred for all above that number. Pineapple tops and slips are included in the term plants. An order for 170,000 dozen plants was lately received from Cuba. This Act seemed necessary, as the shipments of the plants to Cuba and Florida were becoming very large."—Fruit Trade Journal.

OTTAWA TRADE GOSSIP.

THE grocery trade here has been very good during the past week, judging from the remarks of both wholesalers and retailers. Although the weather has been anything but good, continued rains must have hurt trade in other lines.

Messrs. H. N. Bate & Sons have donated a table to the Ottawa Retail Grocers' Association for use in their rooms.

TRADING STAMPS.

The Finance Committee of the City Council at its last meeting delayed dealing with the petition of the merchants asking for a by-law against trading stamps until its next meeting. The committee of the Grocers' Association were ready to be heard, but a letter from the company's manager, asking delay, was granted. It is important that all merchants of the city should do their utmost by using their inflence now with the aldermen in their wards. Some of the aldermen seem to be indifferent and would rather not interfere, but as now is the chance that the merchant has, it should be taken advantage of. The committee of the Grocers' Association are asking the merchants in each ward to go together and ask their representative alderman on the Finance Committee for his support.

BUILDING OPERATIONS AT EDDY'S

The E. B. Eddy Co., of Hull, are erecting their indurated ware factory. This will be the last of their buildings to be erected that were destroyed by the great fire. They are also putting up handsome offices on the site of the temporary building they have been using since the same time.

R. B. WHYTE'S NEW WAREHOUSE.

R. B. Whyte, successor to the old firm of J. G. Whyte & Son, dealers in grocers' sundries and smallwares, who were on the north side of Rideau street for so many years, has recently moved into his new building opposite. Mr. Whyte says it is a pleasure to do business now as he is equipped with all the latest ideas in handling their line of goods. His building, which is a four-storey one, has on the ground floor a handsome suite of offices, beautiful display tables and long rows of wide counters piled with goods that can be found at once. The other flats, while not finished so elaborately, have everything in its proper place, which is quite different from the old stand. Business has increased so much that Mr. Whyte is abundantly satisfied with the big outlay in making such a great change. Any merchant when in Ottawa should not fail to go through this establishment which is a credit to the wholesale trade of Ottawa.

AN ARMY OF TRAVELLERS.

There must have been an excursion into town this week of "commercials." Mr. John Everett, of Christie, Brown & Co., Limited; Mr. Conroy, of Fleischmann Yeast Co.; Frank Mallett, of Park, Blackwell; T. J. Porter, of Montreal Biscuit Co.; Teddy Sterling, of T. A. Lytle & Co.; Mr. McGregor, of J. C. Wilson & Co.; Mr. Brock, of Nicholson & Brock; Mr. Musgrave, of P. McIntosh & Sons; J. C. Campbell, of Chaput, Fils & Cie; P. McEvoy, of Laporte, Martin & Cie; and last but not least Mr. N. N. Munro, the king of spice travellers. They all promise to be between here and Cornwall on Dominion Day and go with the grocers to Stanley Island.

OTTAWA MARKETS.

TEA THE BEST DRINK FOR MINERS.

A travelling man who has recently made a trip to the West related as his experience that in the mining towns in Oklahama Territory in particular he found the miners, while toiling under the earth, almost exclusively drinking tea. Their explanation for this was that water and coffee made them sick at the stomach. They said iced tea was the best drink they had been able to find, and no bad effect had ever been noted from the use of this drink.

This habit of drinking tea is a new thing, but within a short period of time it has become very extensive. The miners found in this liquid a drink that would appease the throat without nauseating them and at the same time to no small degree strengthen them. The use of tea in the mines had been proven to the men in many ways most beneficial. Before its introduction there had been much suffering. Drinking water made the men sick; without it they would almost perish, and to take its place tea was the best thing they had been able to find.

A COMPROMISE EFFECTED.

D. Kopman, grocer and dry goods merchant, Acton, Ont., recently made an assignment to J. P. Langley, Toronto. At a meeting of his creditors, on June 16, a statement was submitted showing direct liabilities of $3,120.24, and preferred liabilities of $80. The assets were $2,981.24, leaving a nominal deficit of $219. An offer was made on his behalf of 40c. on the dollar, which was accepted by the creditors.

NOVA SCOTIA MANUFACTURERS ORGANIZE.

THE organization of the Nova Scotia Branch of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association has been completed. At a meeting of manufacturers at the Board of Trade rooms, Halifax, on June 13, officers were appointed to hold office till the annual meeting of the branch, which will be held two weeks before the yearly meeting of the parent association. The officers till then are the following :

President—Jos. Henderson, Henderson & Potts, Halifax.

Vice-President — Dr. D. H. Muir, Condensed Milk Co., Truro.

Secretary—J. R. Macleod, Halifax.

Executive Committee—John F. Stairs, N.S. Steel Co., Halifax; J. P. Longard, Longard Bros., Halifax; T. M. Cutler, Acadia Sugar Refining Co., Halifax; Wallace Buell, Dominion I. and S. Co., Sydney; James Munro, Munro Wire Works, New Glasgow; A, F. Pelton, Rhodes-Curry, Amherst; W. B. Taylor, Robert Taylor Co., Halifax; D. W. Robb, Robb Eng. Co., Amherst. C. M. Crockett, I. Matheson & Co., New Glasgow; Wm. Lithgow, Port Hood Coal Co., Halifax; T. R. Gue, Acadia Powder Co., Halifax; A. Moir, W. & A. Moir, Halifax; H. H. Hamilton, G. J. Hamilton & Sons, Pictou.

The meeting opened with Jos. Henderson in the chair and J. F. M. Stewart, assistant secretary, of Toronto, as acting secretary.

Mr. Stewart exhibited a folder having on its cover the statement that the annual meeting of the association (which has a membership of 1,000) would be held in Halifax next August. Inside of this folder were stated the aims of the association. These are to endeavor to secure from the Government at Ottawa conditions that will encourage manufacturing industries in Canada and keep our home markets for our own manufacturers. All Provincial and Federal legislation is vigilantly watched to preserve the Canadian manufacturers from encroachments from any quarter. They have made from time to time practical suggestions to the Government regarding legislation, Government returns, etc., which often have been adopted. The encouragement of Canadian export amongst its members is another object of the association, and it has special representatives in Great Britain, Europe, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and the West Indies. Canadian buyers have, through the association, been placed in touch with foreign buyers, and without increasing responsibilities have in many instances opened up a profitable trade. During the last six months nearly 1,800 inquiries from foreign buyers were forwarded to the members. Financial reports on foreign firms are obtained at a special rate, and a bureau of commercial intelligence is open free to all members.

A deputation was introduced consisting of President Longley and Manager Wood, of the Nova Scotia Provincial Exhibition. Both these gentlemen united in asking the help of the Nova Scotia branch of the association in making the exhibition more like it should be from a manufacturer's standpoint.

This proposition for co-operation was endorsed by the association and the executive will take the matter into consideration.

The statement was made that there are at least 200 business enterprises, representatives of which are eligible for membership in the association. The 55 now enrolled are the following named :

DEPRESSION IN BARBADOS.

It appears too true that severe depression exists in Barbados, the oldest British colony, although Newfoundland puts forward an arguable claim to that distinction. One of the pleasantest features about Barbados is the affection which the old families, which have been connected with it for centuries, it may be said, still have for it. The representatives of these old families are proud of it still, and think there is no place like it. The Earls of Harewood, under their family name of Lascelles, have long been engaged in commerce and production there. Mr. Forster Alleyne, too, owns a name that was prominent in the early days of the colony. For many years he lived in England and practised at the Bar. He has now made his permanent home in the island, and it is gratifying to observe that he has been called upon to take part in public affairs as a Legislative Councillor, a position for which his experience and his considerable stake in the colony eminently qualify him.—Home and Colonial Mail, June 6.

WHERE THE GLUEPOT CAME IN.

There was the usual collection of commercial travellers in the smoking-room of the hotel, and the inevitable quiet man was one of them. They had been asking conundrums, many of which had been received with roars of laughter, as being particularly clever. Then the quiet man lit a fresh cigar, and spoke.

"It is easy," he said, "to think of such riddles as 'Why is your hat like a baby?' which contain one smile, but those with two are far more difficult. For instance :

"What are the differences between the son of a millionaire, an organ, and a gluepot?"

"I give it up," said the mustard traveller presently.

"The son of a millionaire is an heir to millions while an organ has a million airs! D'ye see?"

"But what about the gluepot?" inquired the hosiery representative.

"Oh, that's where you stick!" returned the quiet man. And the waiter smothered a guffaw behind a tray he was dusting, while the hosiery representative howled for soda water.

CURRENT MARKET QUOTATIONS

June 19, 1902.

This list is corrected every Thursday, and the quotations herein given are for the cities of Montreal, Toronto, St. John, N.B., and Halifax. The prices are solicited for publication, and are of such quantities and qualities as are usually ordered by retail dealers on the usual terms of credit. For Winnipeg market report and prices, see page —.

All quotations for staple products are under the direct control of the Editors, who call daily upon all the leading houses in the principal centres.

Push and Advertising—Their Necessity in Business.

By E. H. O.

THE great aim of manufacturer, retailer and consumer is a minimum of expense, a maximum of receipts. Expenditures and receipts are so closely intermixed that the manufacturer's expense is often ultimately his receipts. In cities the manufacturers' employes purchase his goods from his retailers. To a great extent the expenditure exists "in circulo."

The farmer strives to acquire a maximum in prices for crops; a minimum in expenses for machinery.

It follows that the interests of no two parties are in all essential points the same. What one party to this deal strives to avoid, the other endeavors to push. It also follows that unless some strong pushing power takes the initiative and places strongly before the eyes of the consumer what he really needs or what will be to his advantage to possess, there will be a tendency towards a one-sided, flimsy, stagnant state of affairs. The consumer views the manufacturer's wares from the standpoint of an out-go. The broad attitude which he entertains towards them is that they are to him a necessary evil. How is the manufacturer to meet this attitude? How is the producer to overcome what is not so much apathy or indifference as hostility, or, to say the least, unfrendliness?

The producer must push. Make a good article; then take the initiative. By every legitimate means acquaint the consumer with his needs. Study his requirements. Understand him better than he knows himself. Often requirements in a consumer are not conscious; only in a dim, vague way he feels that something is lacking. By his broader outlook, his wider experience, the producer must know what he needs. When you tell him just what he wants, he feels the force of your statements. He has not realized it before, but he recognizes it to be a fact. He looks upon you as a being that knows him better than he does himself. He reposes confidence in you. When you say you have valuable goods he believes it. Be worthy of his confidence. Study human nature; strive honestly to satisfy its needs.

In this pushing initiative, as elsewhere, speech is silver, silence is golden, but words well chosen by a careful judgment are beyond price. No bragging in advertising—a straight business. No threadbare assertion will do. People are tired of hearing that "Mr. Samuel So and So's is the cheapest place in town." People who could not tell you what good taste is, yet feel its force. Consciously or unconsciously, vulgar or gaudy show cards are repellent. Witticisms which turn upon the customers do not invite. The public would scorn the imputation that they are offended by the placard of the chair-dealer which tells them to "go way back and sit down." Yet this same public, even if they smile, probably without knowing why, pass on to the next dealer's.

In advertising more than in any other sphere of a business man's work does push, but tactful push, pay. Down-to-date store news must be neatly arranged. No mistake is more common, or more suicidal than the "cramming" of advertisements. Plenty of white, with clear, neat, bright statements are what catch the eye. The chances are very poor that the reader will notice a change in the price of sugar if the space is crammed with the usual "bargains" in sodas, cheese, and what-not. Would it not pay to discard these "bargains" in sodas and cheese and let the public know that you have a real live bargain in sugar? The capacity of the ordinary reader is limited. He cannot retain the majestic roll and thunderous sounds that expatiate on the general cheapness of your wares; but he can remember that he can get sugar cheaper at Smith's, or Jones is offering raisins at a lower price than usual, or Robertson is making a specialty of prints for one week.

The old-fashioned advertising that tells a fine story of love and adventure and ends with a recital of how the young couple purchased their wedding garments at So-and-So's excellent store, whither all and sundry are exhorted to come for fashionable clothes—this old-fashioned way may have been esteemed push in its day. But a psychological study of this method pronounces on it an emphatic condemnation. Undoubtedly many of the stories were clever, but cleverness will not sell goods. The reader's feeling that he has been taken in by the wit of the dealer or the dealer's employes, has a tendency to make him avoid his place of business. He that will deceive in that which is little may deceive in that which is much.

Push is essential; push in advertising is very essential. But push in some quarters has been esteemed synonymous with a most disagreeable vulgarism. To be known is valuable, but to be known for reliability is infinitely more valuable. Advertising will accomplish much; but advertising must have its foundation. No other or better foundation can there be to advertising than reliability. Advertising is not the ultimate test. Reliability is the only thing that will keep a customer always a customer. Advertising introduces to the use of goods; reliability conduces to the sale of goods. Push is necessary for the sale of goods; but push does not stop with advertising; push must maintain the quality of wares. A strenuous endeavour should characterize all the actions of him who would succeed.

DECREASE IN U. S. LOBSTER CATCH.

A special tabulated statement issued by the United States Fish Commission shows an enormous decline in the lobster supply. This statement covers the changes in detail from 1880 to 1900, inclusive, in the States of Maine, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey and Deleware. To the waters of these seven States the lobster fisheries of the United States by nature are limited. The aggregate catch of these seven States in 1870 was 20,128,033 lb. The catch, by reason of the catching and marketing of immature lobsters, in 1889 had reached the enormous size of 30,771,573 lb. But this huge supply in 1900 had dwindled down to 15,757,741 lb., a decrease of nearly one-half. The catch last year, 1901, according to the estimates of the States Commissioners, had declined to about 11,983,483 lb., or nearly one quarter less than the previous year.

While the supply of lobsters during the last 12 years has fallen off nearly three-fifths, during the last 20 years their price has nearly doubled, owing greatly to the vast diminution in supply. This appreciation may also be attributed to the increased and improved facilities for transportation, leading to a more widespread distribution and demand.

COMMERCIAL-TRAVELLER TAX IN JAMAICA.

United States Commercial Agent R. N. Snyder, of Port Antonio, under date of May 27, 1902, reports that an Act abolishing the tax of £22 10s. ($109.49) on commercial travellers dealing in spirits and of £12 10s. ($60.90) on those not dealing in spirits was passed at the last session of the Legislative Council, and received the assent of the Governor. During the existence of this law, adds Mr. Snyder, many salesmen arrived in the Island intending to transact business, but, owing to what they considered an excessive tax for a stay of a week or fortnight, they left without selling any of their wares.

TO SAVE THE CRANBERRY.

THE United States Department of Agriculture is planning to build a cranberry bog about half an acre in extent, on a portion of the Arlington farm, recently turned over to it for an experimental station. On this investigations will be pursued into "cranberry scald," a disease which is threatening with extermination the cranberry industry of New Jersey, New York and New England, and which is slowly spreading into still other parts of the country. As the regions already seriously affected produce seven-eighths of the entire yield of the country, which a few years ago was valued at $2,000,000, the importance of any measures that will check the disease are apparent, not only to the growers, but also to every one who likes the berries in pies or with his turkey.

Acres upon acres of ripe berries have recently been abandoned as not being worth the picking, while nearly every quart bought in market, though sorted over beforehand, is likely to have in it a few berries with rotten spots on their sides or in their interiors. Investigations by the Department have now proceeded far enough to permit the statement to be made that this is due to a fungus, which, probably conveyed by the waters of the bogs, almost certainly enters the plant through its roots and penetrates to the berries, which decay inside before any external signs appear. This fact makes useless the use of washes, sprays, etc., so effective against most fungi, as these cannot reach the interior of the fruit. Possibly some chemical may be found which, placed upon the soil, may kill the fungi before they enter the plant. Strange to say, however, this mode of treating plant diseases has been little investigated, and there is, therefore, little knowledge on which to base hope for its success. Probably the only successful way of combating the disease—and the way which the Department is following as best it may without a special appropriation for the purpose—is by studying the fungus, learning its life history and finding where and when it is most vulnerable.

COFFEE CROP OF GUATEMALA.

The United States Consul at Guatemala, under date of May 9, writes: "The recent earthquakes, which totally destroyed Quezaltenango, the second city of Guatemala, and many of the neighboring smaller communities, visited with awful consequences the prosperous coffee plantations of the Republic. While the coffee trees themselves suffered little damage, the dwellings, storehouses, electric installations, coffee machinery, and other improvements on nearly all the estates were more or less seriously injured; and this will necessarily divert attention from the gathering of the coffee crop to the early repairing of the almost universal damage. Before the catastrophe of April 18 indications pointed to a very large output of coffee next season, but I can now say that the yield will not be one-half what was expected.

"Many things at this time combine to retard even the necessary repairs on the estates. The most serious difficulty is the lack of labor. For many seasons past the impossibility of securing adequate help for cleaning the coffee trees has been a source of constant loss to most of the coffee planters, and now that the surplus labor of the Republic has been pressed into service to clear away the debris in the ruined cities and towns, the question has become still more serious. The building of new railway lines has also induced many laborers to leave the coffee estates to engage in grading or track-laying. To escape compulsory service in the ruined cities, it is said that many laborers are crossing over into Salvador or Mexico."

CAPE BRETON MACKEREL CATCH.

St. Peters, C. B., advices state that so far the catch of mackerel along that coast exceeds the catch for any year during the past fifteen years. From Green Island to Fourchie fishermen report that they take as many as they can conveniently handle. Although the season has practically only commenced, the catch thus far exceeds the total catch of the past three years. Those of the fishermen who have a large number of nets are unable to take all the fish from the nets, as their boats are loaded and they have to return to shore, and the day is not long enough to allow a second visit.—Fishing Gazette.

MARITIME BOARD OF TRADE.

President Black, of the Maritime Board of Trade, has addressed a letter to the subordinate boards of trade in the Maritime Provinces asking their opinion as to where the June meeting of the executive committee shall be held.

The executive of the Maritime Board is required under the by-laws to be called together during the month of June, and at the forthcoming meeting arrangements are to be made for the annual convention, which is to be held in August next at Sydney, C.B.

FRUIT INSPECTORS AND TRADE DISPUTES.

The following resolution was adopted at a recent meeting of fruit dealers at Kingston:

That the Government be petitioned to give fruit inspectors power to act in all cases of disputes between buyers and sellers, and that their decision be final.

A copy will be forwarded to the Minister of Agriculture. The fruit dealers expressed considerable surprise that the inspectors could not seize packages fraudulently filled, redress having to come through a civil court. The dealers talked warmly about the frauds practised by packers, the lemon frauds being very pronounced. It was decided that a copy of the new law should be sent to Italian dealers.

GROCERIES FOR JULY.

Midsummer Goods the Trade Push.

DURING the month of July the grocery trade assumes features different from those of the preceding months. The native small fruits come in at this time and a big business is always done in them during their season. Preserving operations then are in order, and the housewife commences laying in a stock of fruits and jams for the winter. And with these fruits much sugar is sold.

THE PICNIC GOODS.

The picnic season is also at its height during this month and a demand for potted, canned and cooked meats sets in, larger than that of any other month of the year, excepting August, perhaps. The warmth of the weather prevents people cooking as extensively as they do other months, and so recourse is made to this form of food. Little extra expense is entailed in their use as a food and much trouble is spared the cook or housewife by their use, so a good business during July is generally done in this line. Canned salmon and canned fish generally also sell extra well.

FRESH FISH.

Fresh fish is much eaten during July. The busy season for fish dealers is now at its height. Grocers wishing to carry fish as a side line can profit by handling them if they have proper facilities for doing so. A tank and lots of ice is needed, and provision should be made in a basement for keeping the fish over night. They are usually displayed outside, around the door and the shop front during business hours.

THE FIRST FRUITS.

The fruits first in season are principally strawberries, raspberries, currants and cherries. Tomatoes also begin to play a considerable part in the trade. To keep these properly a good cellar or basement is needed, where the atmosphere is always cool. Berries can thus be kept over night, and they are by this means preserved longer, thus making the merchant less liable to loss through their spoiling. A sound, well-kept berry sells better than one showing signs of decay.

Those on sale are generally kept outside in front of the store in the fresh air where the people passing can see them and be thus induced to buy. Placing them outside in front serves a double purpose, it preserves the berry longer than if it were kept in a hot stuffy store, and enables them to be sold more easily.

PRICE TICKETS.

should be put on the boxes, as that is the custom with nearly every fruiterer or grocer doing a retail trade in small fruits. People desiring to buy their fruit generally go along and see where they can get the best stock at the lowest price. So if a man has a reasonable price on his goods he ought to sell them without any trouble.

DISPLAYS OF SUGARS.

To preserve these fruits sugar is required. The dealer is generally prepared before the season commences with a good stock of that article laid in, and is ready to serve it out to his customers in whatever quantities they require. No special effort is needed to push sugars generally, yet many find it of special advantage to dress a window with some samples of a particular line of sugar they are giving close prices on. Although not much money may be made on the sugar itself, yet trade in other lines greatly increases.

THE CANNED MEAT TRADE.

In canned meats and fish the usual effort made is to dress a window nicely with them. A fine looking display may in this way draw custom. Also a bulletin pasted up on a board or in a window with any particular or new lines recently placed in stock will help materially to sell them. We never recommended cutting prices, and in this line in particular fair profits should always be realized.

A counter display of canned goods is a good thing if ample room is left for parcelling and wrapping goods. It is hardly wise for a storekeeper to have his counter so piled with goods as to prevent wrapping and tying parcels and keeping things in continual risk of breaking or falling.

THE GOLDEN RULE IN BUSINESS.

Philip Present, Rochester, N. Y.

WE learn through history and experience that men through the instinct of self-preservation formed organizations. When two or more men found something in common, the same interests to protect, the same ideals to attain, they united, knowing well that in unity there is strength. We have also learned that through selfishness and the clashing of interests the strongest organization, whether civil, political or religious, will be wrecked. So we have this lesson: if our organization is to be a power for good we must not base our existence entirely on selfishness, although the germ that produced it, like any other production of man, usually is selfishness. It must be built on the broad principle of a great moral and ethical platform, where all good men can support it. It is true that we are supposed to be watch dogs of our household; we bark frightfully, snap or bite according to the nature of the beast, if some one attempts to steal that which it is our duty to protect. We would not be worthy of our trust if we did not strive to do so. We want our customers to meet their obligations when due so that we can meet ours. We want to impress upon them that it is neither honest nor honorable to order goods from us and afterwards to cancel the order or return the goods; that it is plain stealing to take a discount of 10 per cent. when six per cent. was specified; and that 60 days does not mean six months. Too long have we allowed the tail to wag the dog. We place too little value on our goods when we sell merchandise to parties in amounts equal to ten times as much as we would be willing to loan in cash, and allow trade abuses to continue through the fear of competition. We ourselves have two kinds of ethical rules, one for those who steal money and another for those who steal merchandise. Public opinion, therefore, is not shocked or outraged by dishonest failures in mercantile life as it is by any other transgression of morals, and for that reason the lawmaking bodies of our States have statutes entirely in favor of the debtor class. It is a natural consequence that we usually get no more than we deserve, considering we are the first to suffer under the present state of affairs. It follows that the duty devolves upon us to educate the public to a higher standard of ethics in business life. It is as rare now to see a smile on the face of a credit man as a 25 per cent. dividend in a bankruptcy case; and what can we expect? In every commercial death we occupy the mourners' bench on the first row; it is our funeral and no one else's. We used to have a laugh once in a while when in a failure we would get ahead of the other fellow, but since the National Bankruptcy Law has come into existence we are deprived even of that. I have stated to you conditions which you all know by experience. You will ask, what is the remedy? First, let us eradicate selfishness and be what we wish the other fellow to be, honest and honorable. If the creditor class, manufacturers and jobbers, agree among themselves to abolish trade abuses and have an association for that purpose, they should live up to it, even at the cost of some sacrifice; the end will justify the means. Second, let us pledge ourselves to do all we can and drive the rascals out of business life by not supplying them with goods, even for cash; it will have a greater effect than a prosecution fund and be more justifiable. Third, having set a standard of integrity among ourselves we can have the courage of our convictions and educate others, as well as compel them, to be honest.

THE BEET-SUGAR INDUSTRY.

THE Treasury Bureau of Statistics states that the sugar consumption of the United States has grown from 1,272,426,342 lb in 1870 to 5,313,987,840 lb. in 1901, or from 33 to 68 lb. per capita in that time. About two-thirds of the total consumption represented imports of the commodity. Of the 985,568,640 lb. of sugar produced in the United States about one-third was from beets and two-thirds from cane, and of the 599,774,613 lb. of beet sugar imported, 484,344,004 lb. came unrefined.

The abolition of the European beet-sugar bounties ultimately must compel those countries to seek other markets than the United States for the sale of their raw products, and it seems more than probable that the refiners of cane sugar, will, in time, look to the culture of beets as an industry on which they must figure, and in which it will be to their benefit to become interested. The annual statement of The American Beet Sugar Company furnishes ample proof of the advance which has been made by the beet sugar interest in the country. In 1880 the domestic production of beet sugar was 357 tons, and in 1901 it had increased to 124,859 tons, a gain in 20 years of nearly 350 per cent.

There are now 52 beet factories in the United States and Canada, each having a daily capacity of from 350 to 3,000 tons. Of these 17 are situated in the State of Michigan, 15 in the West, four in the Middle West, 10 in the States bordering on the Pacific Coast, two in New York State, and four in Canada.

This list shows the name, location, and daily capacity of the Canadian factories :

Wallaceburg Sugar Co., Wallaceburg, Ont., with capacity of 600 tons.

The Wiarton Beet Sugar Manufacturing Co., Wiarton, Ont., with capacity of 350 tons.

Dresden Sugar Co., Dresden, with capacity of 350 tons.

Ontario Sugar Co., Berlin, Ont., with capacity of 350 tons.

The sugar beet is about as hardy a crop as can be grown. In the United States miles and miles of sugar beet can be found where the soil is 15 to 20 feet deep and as black as ink, without a pebble as large as a pea.

Localities where successful beet-sugar factories have been erected are most prosperous. Land in the location of a well-conducted beet-sugar factory becomes very valuable. At Rocky Ford, before the factory was located there, land could be had for about $40 to $60 an acre. To-day it is readily saleable at from $200 to $300. There is not a house to rent in Rocky Ford, although some 700 have been built during the last two years.

The culture of the beet and the manufacture of sugar therefrom mean much to a country. All branches of trade feel it—coal mines, coke ovens, limestone quarries, manufactories of bags and barrels, the producers of lubricating oils, the blacksmiths' shops, the manufacturers of chemicals and chemical instruments, the railroads, the laborers, and the merchants.

MARKETING THE BEET.

The beets furnished a factory are generally produced within a radius of between 50 and 75 miles, those coming by wagon being always more desirable than those brought in by car, owing to the fact that they are fresher and slice better.

Five or six beets are taken out of the load and ground into a mash which is folded in a cloth and put under heavy pressure. The juice taken from these beets, after being purified, is put into a polariscope, which indicates the saccharine contents and purity, so that the farmer receives for this particular load the price set as specified in his contract for a load of beets of such a test in sugar.

After all the dirt has been taken off the beets are thrown into an endless-chain elevator, which carries them to the top of the house and dumps them into an automatic scale, which opens and shuts and registers their weight as they pass through into the slicer. Here the beets are cut up into "cossettes," which are pieces about as long as a lead pencil and cut in a V shape, so as to open up all the little octagon cells in the beet, which are full of the sweet substance going to make sugar. From the slicer the cossettes are carried to the diffusion battery, with its 14 receptacles so made as to be opened at both the top and the bottom. The bottom is covered with a wire sieve.

Pure water is carried through the cossettes and through the sieve at the bottom, where it is forced through a steam coil into the top of cell No. 2 and thus also through the 14 cells into a receiving tank.

Cell No. 1 has had 14 times as much water as the last; it is now cut out of the battery, the bottom is opened and the cossettes are allowed to drop out. The cell is then closed, filled with new cossettes and now becomes cell No. 14. This operation continues night and day, the water melting and carrying with it all of the sweet matter.

To get rid of impurities contained in the liquid which has as well the sugar, about 10 per cent. of milk of lime is mixed with it, carefully stirred. Then all is put in a carbonation tank. The lime is removed with the impurities by a filter press. Any further impurities are removed by the introduction of sulphur.

The liquid is now sent to concentrators or, as they are commonly called, quadruple effect evaporators. A final filtering takes place through what are called mechanical filters. Then, by means of a vaccum "fan," it undergoes the final concentration process, wherein it is reduced by boiling to a thick mass, containing about one half crystalized sugar and molasses.

A centrifugal machine next separates the molasses from the crystalized sugar. Then the process of washing takes place by allowing water and compressed air to force out of the end of the pipe a moist fog. Afterwards the sugar is dried in the granulator, which resembles a big boiler placed in a slanting position.

A well-conducted beet-sugar refinery has absolute control over the workings of the house by having the beets and cossettes sampled at each different operation.

After all the liquid is squeezed out of the cossettes, the pulp is deposited on the outside of the factory.

This pulp makes a most desirable fodder for cattle, and can be used for feed when fresh, or can be put in silos and allowed to ferment, when it takes on other chemical peoperties which make it far more valuable as a cattle food than when fresh. This is especially so when the factory is located in a section of the country where the weather is cold, as the fermented pulp will not freeze and in such a state is more desirable as feed.

OWEN SOUND GROCERS' PICNIC.

THE Owen Sound Retail Grocers' Association had a day of solid enjoyment at their picnic on June 18. The celebration commenced about midnight, when 30 or 40 men marched through the streets of the town singing songs. The morning broke bright and clear, with just enough breeze stirring to cool the air.

The fun began by a parade of 30 or 40 citizens grotesquely dressed, all wearing grey "plug" hats. Equipped with drums, horns, timbrels and carrying banners they made the streets resound with their clamor. Ald. Duncan, carrying a banner advertising a well-known brand of soap, was at the head of the procession.

The rejoicings were afterwards adjourned to Queen's Royal Park where a long programme of sports was provided and all enjoyed themselves to their heart's content. Two thousand people or more participated in the celebrations of the day. Music was rendered by the band of the 31st Regiment.

LEARN TO WRITE SHOW CARDS.

The demand for the card writer's work and skill has greatly and rapidly increased within the past few years, on account of the general competition in advertising and display in all up-to-date stores. Clerks and window-trimmers can readily increase their earning capacity in this class of work. Artistic show cards and price tickets call attention and sell goods that otherwise, very often, would lay on the shelf. Neat and attractive show cards are assistant clerks. An artistic show card in the window speaks louder than words. Clerks and window-trimmers who are good card writers are always in demand; they have no "dull seasons." W. Edwards, Carleton Place, Ont., advertises in this issue a book of instruction at one dollar, post paid, teaching this art. It has constantly grown in patronage and public favor, and is now universally recognized as the most popular and reliable book ever placed before the public. See advertisement.

MARITIME BOARD OF TRADE.

At a council of the Maritime Board of Trade held at Truro on June 19, it was decided to recommend the appointment of a permanent secretary of the board. The matter of freight and passenger traffic on the Bay of Fundy shore was discussed. It was decided to make shipping a prominent feature of discussion at the annual meeting of the board. The annual meeting of the Maritime Board of Trade will be held at Sydney.

PRICE OF SALMON FIXED.

The Fraser River Canning Association will continue as an independent organization. Arrangements for this season's operations are being made. At a conference with representatives of the Grand Lodge of Fishermen a schedule of prices was arranged on a sliding scale. The Grand Lodge will consider this at their next meeting in New Westminster.

A NEW INDUSTRY.

The proprietors of Hire's root beet have established a place for its manufacture in Montreal, under the management of Mr. W. P. Downey, their Canadian representative. Hitherto all the root beer has been imported from the United States; but the great quantity consumed in this country and the ever-increasing trade has made it necessary to manufacture on the spot. This has accordingly been done, and a new industry, which is likely to grow to considerably greater proportions, has been started in Canada. Other manufacturers are also feeling the benefit of this. For instance, the bottles used, which formerly were all made in the United States, will now be procured in Canada, The Dominion Glass Company having already received a large order.

GALT BOARD OF TRADE.

At a meeting of the Galt Board of Trade, June 20, reports from the sugar-beet committee stated the result of an interview with Mr. McCormick, secretary and manager of the Wallaceburg factory. Prospects were bright. To defray the expenses of the past campaign the town council will be asked for $200 and the township council for $100.

Considerable complaint was expressed at the mail service from the east, all mail being held over at Hamilton.

The railway committee were instructed to take action to secure a reduction in the excessive coal rates.

Notice was given of a resolution to make the membership fee $2 instead of $1. President F. H. Hayhurst submitted his report of the Board of Trade Conference in Toronto. The Board of Trade will hold its annual meeting on July 10.

WILL PAY 30c. ON THE DOLLAR.

The National Cigar Co., insolvents, Toronto, will pay the creditors about 30c. on the dollar. The Master-in Ordinary has ordered that an interim dividend of 25c. on the dollar be paid. The total assets of the company amount to $1405.16 and the claims against the estate so far allowed by the Master amount to $2,833.83. Besides there are other claims to the extent of about $1,000 that will probably be allowed. The Bank of Hamilton is a creditor to the extent of $1,000. The estate of the late William Adams is a debtor to the amount of $746.79.

INQUIRIES ABOUT CANADIAN GOODS.

Among inquiries received by the Canadian Section of the Imperial Institute were the following:

1. A firm of wholesale and export stationers is prepared to appoint a suitable Canadian resident agent.

2. A company manufacturing fireclay goods asks to be placed in communication with Canadian importers of these materials.

3. A company which manufactures electric lamps and all kinds of electrical materials and appliances wishes to develop trade in Canada, and seeks the services of an influential resident agent.

4. A London house wishes to hear from Canadian producers of "pine wool" and excelsior, with samples and prices.

The Seasoning of Sausages—The Markets—Miscellaneous Notes.

THE SEASONING OF SAUSAGES.

A DOZEN butchers' shops might be visited, and in the majority of them will be found sausage and bologna of about an equal grade. They cannot be honestly praised nor condemned. Then, in another shop, you find sausages that look bad, and cook even worse. Then you will drop into a shop where an amount of care is exercised in their manufacture, and you get an article which looks well, and when cooked is found very palatable. There is too much negligence displayed in the seasoning. It is the practice of many to season without either weighing the meat or the seasoning, and it therefore often occurs that they are not seasoned as they should be. This should not be permitted, as the business man who is catering for the public must endeavor to have his bologna, etc., flavored as near perfection as possible, and having them always up to concert pitch, is bound to command a trade. A great deal depends upon the quality of the seasoning, and too much care cannot be exercised in the purchase of spices. The greatest of care must be taken in weighing, and then to well mix the different seasonings and place them in vessels closed to the atmosphere, as exposure will soon render them useless. The seasoning of sausages is a matter of guesswork with the average butcher, and it is here they fail.—Butchers' Advocate.

LAMBS' TONGUES IN GLASS JARS.

Frequently lambs' tongues are also put up in glass jars of varying capacity. The tongues are cured for this purpose in the same way as for the usual canned article. After curing the tongues they are cooked for an hour in boiling water, after which they are placed in a tub of cold water, remaining there until thoroughly cool. The tongues are then packed in tierces and covered with white wine vinegar. The tierces are headed up and placed in the chill-room for 10 days, when they are pickled and ready for placing in the jars after trimming off the roots of the tongues to give them a neat appearance. The tongues are placed in an orderly way in the jars, and are so packed that when they are labelled the label will cover the roots and thus give the package a neat and smooth appearance.

In the pint glass jars five tongues are placed, and in the quart jars seven large ones. A few whole allspice are put in the top of each jar, which is then filled to the top with fresh white wine vinegar. The covers are screwed on the jars very tight, and when required for shipping are packed in cases with sawdust. While being carried in stock these must be kept in the chill-room.—National Provisioner.

MEATS IN NEW YORK.

Meats were held generally higher in sympathy with hogs and with the speculative products west, but up to noon the jobbers had not paid over last week's closing prices, which were still quoted by them and at which we still continue to quote, as revised, without business reported up to noon, jobbing trade having been fair the past week, but very little done from first hands. We quote: City pickled shoulders, 8¾c.; do. hams, 11½c., and 12c. for boiling hams; smoked hams, 1c. more; Western, s. p. hams, 18 to 20 lb., 12¼ to 12½c; 10 to 16 lb., 11¾ to 11⅞c.; Californian hams, 9c. asked; skinned hams, 12½c., all with pickle off in tierces here; ⅛c. more with pickle on and ¼c. less loose; jobbing prices ¼c. more; Eastern d. s. bellies, 11¾c.; city pickled, 11½c.; backs, 9¼c. for pickled and 9½c. asked for d. s.; city rib pickled bellies, 10½ to 10¾c. for 10 to 14 lb.; 10¾ to 11c. for smokers; ¼c. more boxed; green bellies, 10½c.; green hams, 11½c.—New York Journal of Commerce, June 23.

A STRONG MARKET.

The following letter from The N. K. Fairbank Co., relative to the Chicago lard market, will be found of interest, as the Canadian market will be influenced directly by conditions in Chicago. The letter is dated June 21, and is as follows:

The markets this week have made new price records since the recovery which began in 1893, at which time cash lard in Chicago was selling low in the 3's. To-day cash lard closed at 10.50c. (an advance of 27½c. for the week), and at this high price the product is in better demand, and in a stronger position than when it was selling for only 30 per cent. of its present value. All kindred products have sympathized in this upward movement, although not proportionately, and among the latter goods is lard compound. The present relative prices of lard compound and hog lard must inevitably increase the consumption of the former, and the advancing value of hog lard must necessarily strengthen the compound market, notwithstanding temporary disturbances in the trade.

The immediate, as well as the underlying strength in the provision market is the increasing shortage in hog receipts. Since the commencement of the summer season on March 1, the Western packing is estimated at 6,030,000 as compared with 7,050,000 for the corresponding time last year, a loss of 1,020,000 hogs or 16 per cent. This tremendous loss in all hog products need only be cited for everyone with any experience in the provision trade to realize its inevitable effect on values, and we believe, as we have repeatedly stated, that there is no relief for this condition until we are assured of the unquestioned success of the next corn crop. We will, therefore, have to pass through the trying summer months before the present market tension is relieved.

THE PROVISION MARKETS.

TORONTO.

The receipts of dressed hogs have been liberal and prices have been reduced 25c. per 100 lb. Beef continues firm and unchanged. The live stock markets are stationary. Our quotations are as follows: Dressed hogs, $8.75 to $9; beef carcasses, $7.50 to $8.50 per 100 lb.; hind quarters, $8.50 to $9.50 per 100 lb.; front quarters, $6.50 to $7.50 per 100 lb. Veal, 7 to 8c. per lb.; lambs, 10 to 10½c. Live hogs: Selects, $6 87½; lights, $6 50 to $6 75 per 100 lb.; choice export cattle bring $6 to $7.00 per 100 lb.; lights sell at $4 to $5.75.

There is a good business being done in provisions, but warmer weather would have the effect of improving the demand for cured meats. Our quotations are as follows: Long clear bacon, 11 to 11½c. smoked breakfast bacon, 14½ to 15c.; roll; 12 to 12½c.; medium hams, 13½ to 14c.; large hams, 12½ to 13c.; shoulder hams, 11c., and backs, 14½ to 15c.; Canadian heavy mess pork, $21.50; short cut, $23 to $23.50; lard, in tierces, 11 to 11¼c. per lb.; tubs, 11¼ to 11½c., and pails, 11½ to 11¾c.; plate beef, $15.

MONTREAL.

There has been a steady demand for nearly all lines of provisions and big products. Bacon and hams have been selling well. The Laing Packing and Provision Co. have advanced prices on a number of meats, and the prices on them now quoted by jobbers are: Large hams, 13c.; medium, 14c.; extra small, 14½c.; rolled bacon, 12½c.; Windsor bacon, 15c.; breakfast boneless bacon, 15½c.

The market for pork is not as active as in some other lines, but still a fair trade has been doing in certain lines. Wholesalers state that they cannot get either Canadian

SCALES USED CENTURIES AGO.

As though some hideous giant had wakened in his wrath,
And hurled the hate of hell along his path.

MORE than eighteen centuries ago that unchained vent of the Plutonian furnaces bleched forth its awful smothering elements of ruin and wrapped the city of Pompeii within its shroud of death. The story of that dreadful hour is again unfolded in its awful counterpart—the St. Pierre disaster of May 8, 1902. Only those who saw and lived to describe this awful repetition of the destruction of Pompeii can imagine it in all its horrible aspects, but the story of Pompeii has lived as St. Pierre will live, through its survivors and eye witnesses. On the afternoon of November 5, in the year 79, when life in Pompeii was running its sands, much as life is now running in an active city of 30,000 souls, its streets and shops filled with activity, and its theatres filled with pleasure seekers; in the midst of this commercial activity and abandon to revelry, Vesuvius burst forth in awful eruption. Darkness reigned supreme. Escape was well nigh impossible; the crazed and stricken inhabitants dying in their tracks. What we know of the horrible agony of that hour of doom is told us by the hideous images the Sculptor Death has cast in the matrix of molten lava and ashes. For more than half a century men have been engaged in the exhumation of this city whose souls have occupied a single grave since the beginning of the Christian era. Many thousand signs of life as it was moving along on that fateful day of November have been taken from Pompeii ruins. Objects of art in marble, bronze and fresco, the bakers' oven filled with bread, as it was being prepared for sale to the hungry populace, and the weighing instruments taken from this tomb of ages.

The accompanying illustrations are made from actual photographic reproductions of pictures of some of these most remarkable finds, and reveal the almost incredible fact that the Spirit of Invention seemed buried with Pompeii; for not until the dawning of the century just ushered into history were there any improvements in the crude weighing devices that have come down to us through the ages. It is indeed interesting to look upon these scales, buried as they were so long from human sight. It remained for the last decade of the 19th century to develop the first and only radical deviation from the patterns of these old heirlooms. The Computing Scale Company, the pioneer manufacturers of computing scales, gave the public the first and basic improvements of money-weight or computing scales, and proudly claim the honor of inventing and marketing the first complete departure from Pompeiian relics. Not unlike the buried treasures of Pompeii are the sunken treasures of merchants who have clung to the old methods of weighing. Thousands upon thousands of dollars to-day lie buried under the elements of a Vesuvius— a Vesuvius of waste, error and down weight. Will you continue to cling to these old Pompeiian scales which still infest the market, and leave a legacy to posterity in a fortune saved by the Money-Weight System?

Relics of the Pompeiian Disaster.

PROSPECTS OF THE TEA TRADE.

STATISTICS of the tea trade for the year ending May 31, 1902, are now at hand and an examination of them discloses some interesting facts. The over-supply and consequent lowering of value which confronted the trade a year ago have, more or less, disappeared. At that time the crops in India and Ceylon were heavy and inferior, and China was increasing her exportation. Now, British-grown teas show a decrease of 18,000,000 lb., and the Chinese export has been reduced by 24,000,000 lb. With the lowering of supply there has been a consequent increase in value, and the prospects of the trade are everywhere brighter. Two other causes are tending to liven the trade as well. One is the increased demand for tea on all sides and the other is the advance in popular favor which British-grown tea is meeting with wherever it once fairly gains a footing.

In the report of Messrs. W. J. & H. Thompson attention is directed to some remedies which have been successfully applied to improve the condition of the trade. The first of these was to raise the standard of the tea by growing smaller and better crops. Nature assisted this movement by checking the growth of leaf, and the growers took more care in plucking. As a result the crops last year have contained less common tea. In the second place, efforts were made to widen the market, especially among the native consumers in India. This increased demand coupled with a smaller and better supply naturally produced a favorable reaction in prices.

But so far the planter has not received a sufficient price for his product, and the Messrs. Thompson urge more concerted action on the part of the producers. They claim that the demand for tea cannot be appreciably destroyed by the slight increase in price which would place the planter on a more secure footing. Granted this, there should be some combination among producers to keep the supply within bounds and not flood the market. The sole result of the latter action is to hand the control into the grasp of the larger capitalists.

Another remedy suggested by the Messrs. Thompson is a reduction of duties. These duties are not paid entirely by the consumer, as some would believe, but every grower has to contribute a portion. The ten-cent war tax in the United States demonstrates this, for the foreign shippers lost as much by it as would amount to a very fair portion of the tax. The abolition of this United States tax next year should act as a stimulus to the trade. Australia has now free markets, and in Germany there will probably be a reduction of duty. If the British duty, which imposes an impost of nearly six million pounds on a value of £7,500,000, could be reduced, all these removals of barriers should give an impetus to the tea trade.

The questions of supply and value are of themselves important and difficult to understand. A short supply means higher prices for common followed by lower rates for fine tea, and the approximation in value of the different qualities will be accentuated if the crops be shortened only at the end where cheap teas are made, although the average value of the whole would be raised. To secure the most profitable results a combination of growers, acting in the common interest, could alone suffer. But at present there is little prospect of any such combination of interests.

Under the circumstances the Messrs. Thompson offer suggestions. The prospects being that more low-priced tea will be made and that its value will recede, then those who contemplate making heavy crops should watch what is being done in their district and keep their eye on London quotations. Those who make a large crop of medium quality should concentrate attention on its improvement, and those growing the finest varieties should maintain the highest possible standard of quality.

CORRECT BOTH TIMES.

A young fellow who was looking for a clerkship was recently recommended to a Kalamazoo merchant by a Vicksburg gentleman. When the two friends met some time thereafter the Vicksburg gentleman ventured to hope that his recommendation had been productive of good results.

"On the contrary," replied the merchant.

"You astonish me," said his friend.

"I thought he would suit you exactly; he was so full of go."

"And so he was. He has gone off with $1,000 of my money."

"Is it possible? And I thought he was the very man you were looking for."

"You are right there. He is the very man I am looking for."

They will cross over to Niagara on the 9 o'clock boat of the Niagara Navigation Co. and at 11 o'clock on their arrival will participate in a football game. The rest of the day will be taken up in boys', men's and girls' races, jumping, throwing the baseball and a tug-of-war. Substantial prizes in groceries, etc., will be awarded the winners.

EARLY CLOSING IN OTTAWA.

The clerks of Ottawa are commencing an agitation for all stores to close at 9 o'clock on Saturday night the year around excepting for the space between December 20 and 31. Petitions will be drawn up and circulated by an energetic committee of the Commercial Union, and the clerks have strong hopes that all lines of business, great and small, will close for the week at 9 o'clock Saturday night. Several of the larger concerns already close at 10 p.m.

In their endeavor to secure the cooperation of the public in the carrying out of their scheme the clerks have appointed a committee that has conferred with representatives of the different religious bodies and fully discussed the question.

Tied Down?

Are you in a rut? Are you "tied down" by prejudice, or falling behind in the race for business? Are the chains of habit binding you tightly? You can break away if you will and throw off the chains—if you are in the rut of low prices let "quality" be your watchword from now on.

Windsor Salt is the Salt of highest quality. It is pure, white, dry, crystaline. It is as perfect as Salt can be, and that is saying much in these days when perfection is claimed for so many staple articles of trade. If you are "tied down" let Windsor Salt be one of the levers to help you break away from old-fashioned prejudice.

QUEBEC'S PROPOSED TRAVELLERS' TAX.

QUITE a little interest has been excited in commercial circles in Canada by the proposal of the city of Quebec to impose a tax of $300 per annum on commercial travellers entering that city.

Some years ago Quebec imposed a tax of $60 per annum. This tax, moderate as it was compared with that which it is now proposed to establish, was eventually knocked out through the influence of the Dominion Commercial Travellers' Association, which, in 1887, succeeded in getting through the Provincial Legislature an Act prohibiting cities within the Province passing any law imposing a tax on commercial travellers. To our knowledge this Act was never repealed. Nor has there been any legislation which would apparently permit the city of Quebec passing the law which it now proposes to do.

But whether that city has power to pass such a law or not, it is surprising that an attempt should be made to reintroduce a system which, in all modern and progressive commercial centres, is looked upon as a relic of trade mediævalism.

The tax which Quebec proposes, if it ever comes into existence, will be practically prohibitive. At any rate only a few firms will consent to pay it. Those who do pay it will, of course, add the tax to the cost of the goods which its traveller sells to the merchants in the city. In other words, Quebec itself will have to pay for the results of the restrictive legislation. Besides this, a great deal of injury will be done to Quebec. Commercial travellers are only human, and they certainly will not have any kindly feelings towards a city that would inaugurate such a crude piece of legislation. The great army of commercial travellers can do a city a great deal of harm, as well as a great deal of good, and it should be the policy of every city to rather court their favor than their disapprobation.

It is to be hoped that Quebec will not attempt to carry out this proposal.

CANADA'S TRADE WITH FRANCE.

LA CHAMBRE DE COMMERCE, of Montreal, has started a movement having for its object the enlarging of our trade with France.

It will be remembered that in 1894 Canada successfully negotiated a commercial treaty with France. This treaty was somewhat limited in its extent, but at the same time it has been beneficial to the commercial relations of the two countries.

During the last five years our export trade with France has increased about 129 per cent. and our imports from that country about 115 per cent.

The last figures we have are for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1901, and these show that our trade with France, both in regard to exports and imports, was the largest on record. Our imports from France were valued at $5,398,021, and our exports to that country $1,581,331, a total trade of $6,998,352.

Our chief exports to France are breadstuffs, canned lobster, agricultural implements, wood and manufactures thereof. The exports in food products in 1897-1901 were briefly as follows:

	1897.	1901.
Breadstuffs.....	$ 28,141	$272,832
Canned lobster.....	292,929	608,343
Spirits and Wines	1,210	5,300

While in France Sir Wilfrid Laurier is to interest himself in the matter and it is to be hoped that the trade between Canada and the French Republic will in the years to come develop still more rapidly than it has during the past few years.

To France as well as to Great Britain the Dominion is attached by ties of consanguinity.

DELAY IN SHIPPING FRUIT.

A NUMBER of complaints are coming in from retailers regarding the shipment of fruit orders. The charge is made that orders are held at warehouse for two or three days.

This must be due to lack of supply, as no firm would scarcely be so careless as to be neglectful of this most important condition of the fruit business, which in order to be successfully managed depends on the frequent and steady supply.

At the same time it is most annoying to the retailer and to his customers.

There are times when it is absolutely impossible to get the goods; and when this occurs it is only simple justice on the part of the fruit dealers to notify the retailer so he may not disappoint his customers, or take orders depending on his order to be shipped. Consideration must be shown by all interested in this business, for these are conditions of the business that it is absolutely impossible for any person to guard against.

There is a "hot time" for the retailer when he has promised some crates of strawberries for a church festival or picnic and has placed his order in good faith with a fruit firm and delivery is not made on time and he is in consequence not able to fill his orders.

ADVANCES IN WASHBOARDS AND CLOTHESPINS.

The Canadian manufacturers of woodenware have advanced the prices of washbaords and clothespins. In the former, the appreciation is 10c. per dozen, and the latter 2c. per case all around.

The makers claim that this change has been warranted by the higher prices prevailing for raw material and labor, and that it only covers the additional cost of production. There has also been an excessive demand for these this year, in common with the activity displayed in other lines of trade, and probably this has had something to do with the advance.

For further information we refer our readers to the price lists published elsewhere in this issue.

HOLIDAYS FOR THE COMMERCIAL TRAVELLERS.

AS our readers are well aware, for some three or four years the travellers of most of the wholesale houses, spice manufacturers and other trades allied te the grocery business in Ontario, have had a uniform holiday in August extending over a period of two weeks. Steps are now being taken to carry out this holiday from August 4 to 16 next, and quite a number of houses have already signified their intention to agree to the arrangement.

Those who have up to the time of going to press signed this agreement are as follows :

The agreement, which covers all the towns and cities in the territory of Western Ontario, west and north of Toronto, on the Northern Division of the Grand Trunk Railway, up to North Bay, but does not include the North Shore Georgian Bay territory, the Soo territory or points on the C.P.R. west of North Bay reads as follows :

We, the undersigned wholesale grocers and manufacturers of Western Ontario, appreciating the arduous work done by our travellers and salesmen throughout the year and being desirous of making the summer vacation a uniformly pleasant one, hereby agree with each other as follows :

That we will withdraw all travellers from the road from Monday, August 4, until Saturday, August 16, both days inclusive, a period of two weeks, and also agree with each other that we will not during that time send out substitutes to take the places of the travellers withdrawn.

That in the event of any travellers not wishing to take holidays during the above-mentioned period, we agree to withdraw them from the territory included in the agreement for the period mentioned.

This agreement is made to enable wholesalers and manufacturers so signing to give their travellers holidays simultaneously and to avoid the necessity of sending out relieving men to keep the ground covered.

It is to be hoped that those who have not yet signified their intention of giving their travellers two weeks' holidays during the period fixed will at once do so. The travellers are certainly entitled to the holiday, and by making it uniform it is not only better for the travellers themselves, but it will be better for business generally.

In these days, with the telephone, telegraph and rapid transit of various kinds, the country merchants will be able to keep their stocks well assorted, notwithstanding the absence for a brief period of the commercial traveller, important and all as he is as a factor in the commercial affairs of the country.

Those who are devoting time and attention to the securing of the uniform holiday are certainly entitled to a great deal of credit, and it is to be hoped that their efforts will be even more successful than they were last year.

SEEKING RECIPROCAL TRADE WITH CANADA.

MINNEAPOLIS is endeavoring to create interest sufficient to secure the calling of a convention for discussing the question of closer trade relations with Canada. Some of the boards of trade in this country have received notifications to that effect, and asking for their cooperation.

For some time Minneapolis has been quite a centre in the movement for closer trade relations with Canada. In this, the western city is only following in the footsteps of Boston, Portland, New York, Chicago and other cities in the United States.

So far, however, the movement has excited little, if any, interest in Canada. We have not forgotten the time when this country importuned the United States again and again for commercial treaties, which would modify the restrictions which were placed upon Canadian products entering that country. The rebuffs which we on several occasions received, together with the McKinley and Dingley tariffs, finally deterred us from continuing a policy which brought us humiliation but no remedy.

The result has been in many ways to our own advantage, for, while our exports to the United States have been practically at a standstill for a number of years, our export trade with Great Britain and other countries has increased enormously, until to-day we are practically as little concerned about closer trade relations with the United States as we were some 10 or 15 years ago concerned in securing them.

As a matter of fact, we are quite passive in regard to the question of reciprocity with our neighbors to the south. No doubt, if a fair measure of reciprocity was offered us, interest would be awakened, and the matter might again come within the province of practical politics. At present, however, there is no indication of the development of any such interest, and if our cousins in the neighboring Republic are at all disposed to make us a reasonable offer, the sooner the better as far as their own interests are concerned. This country is developing at such a rapid rate that we are becoming more and more independent of the United States in matters of trade, and naturally the more independent we become the more exacting are we likely to be.

At present our tariff is on an average one-half as high as that which is in force in the United States, and there is more disposition on the part of the people of this country to raise it than to lower it on merchandise that would affect the United States.

A convention of business men representing the two countries is to be commended. It would at least result in an exchange of views that would be helpful rather than otherwise. But we have no faith that it would produce practical results in the way of reciprocal trade. We have not yet forgotten the opinions that were expressed at the convention of the manufacturers in Philadelphia held to consider the question of reciprocity. The manufacturers talked of reciprocity ; but the resolutions they adopted showed that they wanted to take but not to give. And we have not yet seen any evidence of a change of heart.

TRADE IN COUNTRIES OTHER THAN OUR OWN.

CANNED SALMON IN ENGLAND.

THE market for salmon is very firm, especially for finest quality Fraser talls, which are slightly dearer for the week. These goods are in very limited supply, and in some instances a higher price has been paid than for 1-lb. flats. Owing to the enhanced prices that were obtainable last season for flat tins, the packers were induced to can a larger quantity in this particular size than usual, but on account of the large pack, and the fish running quickly, they were unable to exercise the usual care when packing, with the result that the market is overdone with unreliable goods for which there is only a small demand, and it is most difficult to find parcels suitable for the highest class trade.—Produce Markets' Review, June 7.

THE BRITISH TRADE IN CURRANTS.

The continued forcing for sale of Provincial currants has produced the inevitable effect of defeating its own object, and causing a great hindrance to business. Were it not that the actual consumption of currants of all descriptions goes on steadily, uninfluenced by moderate change of price, this state of affairs might be viewed with apprehension. As it is, however, the only class of traders who usffer from the policy at present adopted are the holders themselves, and grocers, as their present stocks are exhausted, will find a favorable market open to them. The explanation of the anxiety of holders to realize can only be found in the supposition, which is borne out by latest reports, that the growing crop is going on in all favorable respects. Still, it must be remembered that the great destruction, which only two years ago reduced a crop which promised to be of large dimensions to those of the smallest on record during half a century, was only just commencing at the corresponding period of 1900, and that what has once happened may again easily occur. Prices of all currants are now so reasonable, and universal stocks so moderate, that a little more than ordinary boldness may not unreasonably be exercised in replenishing holdings.—Produce Merchants' Review, June 7.

U. S. SARDINE PACK LIGHT.

Referring to the situation on 1902 pack sardines in the United States, a prominent interest writes from Lubec, Maine, as follows: "I had a long talk with several of the Lubec packers, who attended a convention at Portland, Maine, and they said that where there were 120,000 cases of sardines packed up to this time last year, there is not over 10,000 cases this year. Only one factory is running in Eastport and one in Lubec. It seems that The Sea Coast Packing Company has enjoined the independent foctories in Lubec from doing any sardine business. Their case is to be heard next Wednesday and it is looked forward to with great interest. Of course, if these independent factories agreed when they sold out not to pack they should not, and it will have its effect on the market. They also said that it has leaked out that The Sea Coast Packing Company did not intend to do much this year, as they have 150,000 cases of last year's goods on hand, and that the powers behind the throne are not satisfied with the management of the past year at Eastport. They have discharged a great many men they would certainly need if they were to do much business. Their great hope is to make the patent can which they are working on now go, but the best information I can get is that the cement would not hold the oil; it might be all right on mustards.

"We are not getting any fish. There are some fish we could get by running a good many miles for, but they would come in rather poor shape and it would cost us all we would make out of them. There seems to be a good many fish near us in the deep water where they cannot be caught, and the dogfish have struck in, which we have always thought was a good sign."

PRUNES IN CALIFORNIA.

Referring to prunes, San Francisco mail advices say: "Prunes are still in evidence, but there is nearer a clean-up here and market is in better shape than in the east. There are some on the local market offering down to 2½c. which is about the cheapest prune here, while in Chicago 1900 stock is quoted down to 1½c."

CALIFORNIAN DRIED FRUITS.

Coast advices, referring to dried apricots, say: "The lateness of the season and shortage of help may hurt the sellers of futures for July delivery. In the f.o.b. circles it appears that the growers are asking 6½ to 7c. per lb. for choice apricots in the sweatbox, and the Eastern dealers want to buy at 5½ to 6c. loaded on the cars. A few peaches could be purchased for August shipment at 5½c. f.o.b. choice American bleached grade."

TEAS IN NEW YORK.

The only new feature was the receipt of advices from the East saying that the Wenchow country green teas had opened. The quality was reported about as usual. The local market was reported as holding fairly firm. There was some inquiry in a large way, but no business of consequence resulted, sellers being disposed to hold for the advance in prices recently established, which buyers were not ready to pay. The business was moderately active. There continues steady buying by the grocery jobbing trade of teas in bond for delivery after January 1, 1903, when the present import duty on tea of 10c. per lb. is removed. —New York Journal of Commerce.

RETAIL MERCHANTS TO ASSEMBLE.

There will be a big convention of retail merchants from all over the Province at Toronto on September 9 and 10. This meeting will be held under the auspices of the Retail Merchants' Association of Canada, and over 500 delegates are expected to attend.

The various sections of that organization will meet during the two days at various places, and a general meeting will he held on the evening of the first day, which will be followed by a banquet on the second night.

A MODEL OF BEAUTY.

The new premises of Robert Mann, confectioner, Orangeville, Ont., are a model of beauty and convenience. Large plate-glass windows arranged for displaying goods are in front and the walls and ceiling of the interior are decorated in handsome colorings. The walls and shelving harmonize well with their surroundings. The floor is of hardwood and there are two parlors, one for ice cream and the other for lunch at the back, the floors of which are covered with linoleum. On the walls, at intervals, are large mirrors. There have been installed two soda water fountains of brown marble and the whole place is lighted by electricity. In the rear is a manufacturing apparatus for making candies and confections.

CATALOGUES, BOOKLETS, ETC.

A STRIKING HANGER.

An exceptionally striking hanger has been issued advertising Ogilvie's flour, which will make a handsome decoration for the store of any dealer who secures one. The design has been artistically executed in several colors, and the lithographing and presswork is perfect.

"He Laughs Best Who Laughs Last"

Our Japan friends in their advertisement last week said :

"We laugh in our sleeves when we see our competitors claiming that their teas are displacing Japans."

Well, if they are laughing they must be "Mark Tapleys" for most people would feel discouraged under the circumstances. Look at the falling off in the consumption of Japan teas in Canada during the past three years :

DURING 1899 IMPORTS OF JAPAN TEA AMOUNTED TO 11,667,757 LBS.
" 1900 " " " 9,262.032 "
" 1901 " " " 7,528,309 "

A FALLING-OFF OF ABOUT 5,000,000 LBS. IN THREE YEARS.

These figures are obtained directly from the Statistical Department of the Dominion Government and speak for themselves.

We venture to prophesy that the imports of Japan Tea into Canada will not amount to 5,000,000 lbs. this year.

In the meantime the sale of "SALADA" Ceylon Green Tea keeps on increasing enormously.

MARKETS AND MARKET NOTES

ONTARIO MARKETS.

Toronto, June 26, 1902.

GROCERIES.

THIS week business continues steady with few new features to report. The cold weather has had some effect in retarding trade, especially in sugars, which are weak and unchanged in price with very little demand. Tomatoes are still advancing both here and in the United States. This week the appreciation was from 10 to 20c., and the supplies in the hands of the local wholesale houses seem to be small. Valencia raisins are quite firm and selected have advanced about ½c. It is claimed that no layers are at present on the market. Teas and coffees are without any marked feature, except that the demand for young hyson tea, noted last week, has had the effect of strengthening the prices of Japans on the local market. Rice, tapioca, syrups, molasses and spices are reported unchanged, and trade in them is quiet. Dried fruits generally are in fair demand, with an easier feeling in the currant market owing to favorable reports from Greece.

CANNED GOODS.

There has been an active demand in nearly all lines of canned goods during the week. Tomatoes continue to be a big feature in this market, as they are still going higher and the market is exceptionally bare of stock. One of the best-informed men in the business says that they will reach $1.25 before the new crop comes on the market. Prices are now firm at $1.10 to $1.20. In consequence of this appreciation in tomatoes there is a firmer feeling in corn and peas. Better grades of the latter have been put up 2½ to 5c., and the prices are still low at the advance. Peas are getting scarce and are good buying owing to the lateness of the pack coming in by reason of the cold weather. The local quotations this week are $1.10 upwards for tomatoes, 80c. upwards for peas, and 65c. for corn. The business in canned fruits continues active without any special change in prices. The same is true of canned salmon, the sales of which for future delivery continue large. Canned meats, although not quite as active as they were a week ago, are still meeting with a fair demand. Quotations are: Fraser River sockeye, $1.42½ for five-case lots and over, and $1.45 for less quantities; Northern sockeye, $1.25 to $1.30; cohoes, $1.05 to $1.15, according to quality, and canned haddies, $1 to $1.10.

COFFEES.

The local markets are still quiet and without feature. Reports from the outside markets show a light demand for actual coffee and an unsettled undertone. European markets experienced a slight decline, but the Brazilian markets were steady. Our quotations, which remain unchanged, are as follows: Green Rio, No. 7, 7¾c.; No. 6, 8c.; No. 5, 8¼c.; No. 4, 9c.; No. 3, 10 to 12c. per lb.

NUTS.

There has been little doing in nuts locally during the week. The outside markets are fairly active and prices are firmly maintained for all grades.

RICE AND TAPIOCA.

Trade in rice still continues to be very fair. Tapioca is steady and unchanged in both the local and outside markets. The outside rice market is showing a better undertone, and prices are well held with limited offerings due to very moderate stocks in first hands. The growing crop in the South continues to progress poorly, being in need of a good soaking rain.

See pages 35 and 36 for Toronto, Montreal, St. John and Halifax prices current.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

The quietness in this line in the local market still prevails and prices are unchanged. The grocery grades of New Orleans molasses in the outside markets continues quiet with light offerings, and considerable firmness is shown in the better grades thereof. Our quotations are now as follows: Corn syrup, 3½ to 3¾c. in barrels and kegs; sugar syrups, 30 to 32c. for medium, and 35 to 40c. for bright. Molasses, 24 to 26c. for open-kettle.

SPICES.

There are no particular features to be noted in the local spice market. Pepper continues firm on the outside markets, and other lines remain quiet.

SUGAR.

Inactivity prevails this week in the local sugar market. The cold weather has had the effect of retarding the ripening of the smaller fruits, making the demand for sugar quieter than anyone expected. A pessimistic feeling is prevalent among a number of holders who express an opinion that another decline is not improbable. Beet sugar on the London, Eng., market is reported to be weak with a slight decline, while cane was inactive. In the United States a decline of 5 points was made in refined sugar, but this did not result in any change on the local market, the basis here being still lower than there. Not much business in refined is at present being done in the Republic, the country now being well supplied, but refiners are still several days behind in their shipments. The market for raws there is governed just now by the amount of receipts that for the week have increased some 9,000 tons, the increase being from Cuba. That island supplied 17,000 tons of the total 25,430 tons that arrived. The meltings were 33,000 tons and the total stock in the four United States ports amounted to 119,590 tons. Last week the total stock was 127,160 tons, and last year, 269,133 tons. The market has not yet strengthened, but the current quotations have been fairly well maintained. The sugars arriving and offered for sale were in small quantities that have easily been taken up by the refiners. The visible production of the Cuba crop is 718,500 tons and reports from Demerara say that the canes there are making satisfactory progress and several estates are making yellow sugar for the English market. market.

TEAS.

The local tea markets are quiet with a good demand for young hyson that has had the effect of stiffening the prices of Japans. No new developments have been reported from the East, the China and Japan markets holding firm. The London, Eng., markets are experiencing a continued good business in good and attractive Indian teas, with an easier inquiry for common grades. The demand there for better-class Ceylon teas has become more pronounced and really good teas were considerably higher, but medium grades were without alteration, and common showed a fractional decline. All useful Java teas sold fairly well, and common grades had a tendency towards rather easier rates. Advices from India and Ceylon are to the effect that a heavy crop of tea there this season is quite probable.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS.—Trade continues about the same as it was last week. A cable despatch recently to hand from Schiahas, Patras, Greece, reports the currant crop there as progressing favorably and promising to yield abundantly. This has occasioned a quiet and easy feeling therein on the outside markets and the prices here are steady. We quote: Filiatras, 5¾ to 6c.; Patras, 6¼ to 7c.

VALENCIA RAISINS.—The demand continues good and the stocks on hand are very small, with layers about cleaned out. The advances are about ½c. We quote selects at 8c. up.

DATES.—There is a moderate activity in the date market locally. The outside markets are steady. We quote: Dates, in bulk, 4½c. and 6¼ to 6½c. in packages.

PRUNES.—The market here is not very active and the outside markets are in about the same condition, there being occasional business with a tendency in buying quarters to hold off pending crop developments. Quotations are: Californian prunes, 100-110's, 5c.; 90-100's, 5½ to 6¼c.; 80-90's, 6½ to 7c.; 70-80's, 6¾ to 7¼c.; 60-70's, 7½ to 8c.; 50-60's, 8 to 8½c.; 40-50's, 8¾ to 10c.

CALIFORNIAN EVAPORATED FRUITS —The business locally shows few transactions and the prices are unchanged. The outside markets are steady. Quotations are as follows: 11 to 14c. per lb. for peaches and 13 to 17c. for apricots. New Santa Clara apricots are quoted f.o.b. the Coast at 7c. in 50-lb. boxes, and 7½c. in 25-lb. boxes in carload lots.

GREEN FRUITS.

The cold weather during the week has delayed the ripening of strawberries and other small fruits and consequently lessened the receipts thereof at the local market. There has been a good demand for strawberries at 5 to 8c. per quart, and some fancy stock brought as high as 10c. Cherries sold at 75c. to $1.25 per large basket; tomotoes, $1.25 per 20-lb. crate; canteloupes or muskmelons, $5 per case; watermelons, 40 to 45c. each; cucumbers, $2.25 to $2.50 per crate; cabbage $2 to $2.50 per crate; beans, $1.50 per basket; pineapples, $3.50 per crate. Trade in oranges and lemons is fair. Our quotations are as follows: Oranges—Mediterranean sweets, $4 per box; Sorrentos, $4 per box; Californian late Valencias, $5.25 to $5.50, and Messina lemons $2 to $3 per box.

VEGETABLES.

During the week a large quantity of green stuff has been brought on the market, and trade is beginning to pick up with the advancement of the season. Quotations follow: Green onions, 8 to 15c. per doz.; rhubarb, 15 to 20c. per doz.; lettuce, 15 to 25c. per doz.; radishes, 20 to 30c.; mint and parsley, 20 to 25c.; turnips, 40c. per doz.; cauliflower, 50c. to $1 per doz.; cabbage, 60c. to $1; carrots, 30c. per doz.; beets, 40 to 50c. per doz.; peas, 40c. per peck; new potatoes, $2 to $2.15 per bag; old potatoes, $1.10 per bag; spinach, 50c. per bush.; dry onions, $3.50 per sack.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—The market continues steady and unchanged; 14½c. is paid for fresh stock, which is sold out again at 15 to 16c. A few picklers are through pickling operations for the season.

BEANS—Trade in this line is very slack and the prices remain unchanged at $1.30 per bush. for choice hand-picked.

HONEY—Business is dull. We quote as follows: 9½ to 10c. for 60-lb. tins and 10 to 11c. for less quantities; combs, $2 to $3 per doz.; dark honey, 5 to 5½c. per lb.

DRIED AND EVAPORATED APPLES — There is very little trade being done in this line and prices are steady at 5 to 6c. per lb.

HAY—There have been during the week large arrivals of hay and the prices are steady at $10 to $10.25 per ton for good quality.

POTATOES—These have advanced to 80c. per bag for carlots on track in Toronto, and the receipts are small at that price.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—The amount of dairy butter coming forward is fair and the demand therefor good. This dairy butter being of extra good quality is much supplanting the creamery-made, stocks of which are having a tendency to accumulate. Advices from the English markets make exporters of creamery butter here confident that an advance in the best grades of that product will take place before long. We quote as follows: Choice 1-lb. prints, 15 to 16c.; large rolls, 15c.; tubs, best quality, 15 to 15½c.; large rolls, medium grade, 12 to 14c., and tubs, medium grade, 12 to 14c. per lb. Creamery prints are worth 19 to 20c., and creamery solids, 19c. per lb.

CHEESE—Trade locally in cheese has been fair. The inquiry from Great Britain has not been quite so brisk lately, but there are no indications that it will diminish to any great extent. The prices at the factories are steady at 9¼ to 9 13-16c. per lb., and no future depreciation in value is looked for. Local quotations are 10 to 10½c.

FISH.

The market for fish continues brisk, with few new features beyond that whitefish are more plentiful, the arrival of a few shipments relieving the scarcity thereof. The stocks of other lines of fish on hand are light. Our quotations are as follows: Fresh fish—Lake Erie herring, 4 to 5c.; perch, 4 to 5c.; trout, 6½c.; pike, 4c.; British Columbian salmon, 20c.; whitefish, 7½ to 8c.; blue fish, 9c. per lb.; mackerel, 12 to 15c.; rock bass, 4c.; eastern salmon, 25 to 30c.; speckled trout, 25c.; halibut, 15c.; Niagara whitefish, 9c. per lb.

GRAIN, FLOUR AND BREAKFAST FOODS.

Rainy weather in the grain-growing districts of the United States and Canada together with a small visible supply of wheat have affected the market so that Manitoba No. 1 hard wheat has advanced 1c., and No's 1 and 2 Northern 2c. per bushel each. This year the world's visible supply of wheat is only 21,000,000 bushels, as compared with 33,000,000 bushels in 1901, and 45,000,000 bushels in 1900. The quotations this week are 85c. for Manitoba No. 1 hard wheat; 83c. for No. 1 and 82c. for No. 2 Northern. On the St. Lawrence market oats sold at 48½ to 50c.; goose wheat 69½c.; white Ontario wheat, 78 to 80c., and red 78c.

FLOUR — The demand for flour has improved during the week and the market is strong and active. We quote: Ontario patents, in bags, $3.60 to $3.75; Hungarian patents, $4 to $4.15; Manitoba bakers', $3.70 to $3.85; straight roller, $3.30 to $3.40 per bbl. in Toronto.

BREAKFAST FOODS—Business in this line is fair and the market continues steady and unchanged. We quote as follows: Oatmeal, standard and granulated, in carlots on track here, $5.20; standard rolled oats in carlots on track here, $4.90 per bbl.; in wood, 10c. extra; broken lots are 20c. per bbl. extra; rolled wheat, $2.40 in 100-lb. bbl.; cornmeal, $3.60; split peas, $4.75; pot barley, $4.25, in 196-lb. bbls.

HIDES, SKINS AND WOOL.

HIDES — The market continues quiet and unchanged. We quote as follows: No. 1 green, 7½c.; No. 2 green, 6½c.; No. 1 green, steers, 8½c.; No. 2 green, steers, 7½c.; cured, 8 to 8¼c.

SKINS — The weakness in the calfskin market is still felt, but the prices are unchanged. We quote: No. 1 calfskins, 10c.; and No. 2, 8c.; deacons (dairies), 60 to 70c. each; sheepskins, 80c. to $1; shearlings, 20c.

WOOL—The market remains very unsatisfactory and the demand for this line is slow. We quote: Fleece wool at 13c. and unwashed 7c. per lb.

TALLOW—The market continues bare of supplies, and the prices are firm at 6¼ to 6½c. per lb.

MARKET NOTES.

Dressed hogs have declined 25c. per 100 lb.

Canned tomatoes have advanced 10 to 15c.

Valencia raisins have appreciated ½c. per lb.

Potatoes have advanced 10c. per bag in carlots on track in Toronto.

The market for Manitoba and Northern wheats is firmer and shows advances of 1c. for the former and 2c. for the latter per bushel.

QUEBEC MARKETS.

Montreal, June 26, 1902.

GROCERIES.

IN groceries trade has been fairly satisfactory during the week, though the continued cold weather has, to a certain extent, kept down the demand in some lines. Lower prices are now offered on a few lines of liquors, on account of the agreement to maintain prices coming to an end. Heretofore there has been a fixed price for Hennessy's brandy, Martel's brandy, Booth's Old Tom gin and Bulloch, Lade & Co.'s Scotch whiskey, but jobbers may now sell these for what they like. Some scarcity in pork prevails among wholesalers, there being practically no Canadian or Jones' pork on the market at present. Canadian packers are reported to be out of stock. About the only lines that can be procured are Armour's, 50 to 60 piece, short cut clear pork, and Armour's 30 to 40 pieces, which are quoted at $25.50 and $26.50, respectively. Castor oil, in cans, is somewhat lower, being quoted now at 7¾ to 8¼c., according to quantity. Boiling peas are scarce. It is expected that in a short time it will be impossible to obtain any until the next crop is marketed. The scarcity chiefly affects the extra-quality article, which is quoted at $1.25 per bushel.

SUGAR.

The market has continued fairly steady and no change in prices has been made, granulated still selling for $3.65 and yellows, $3 to $3.55. At the recent advance there was an active market, but since no further changes were made the demand has dropped off for granulated, and trade is now rather quiet.

TEAS.

No important news has come from the Japan market since our last report, and the situation there is practically unchanged. The feeling continues very strong, and it is said that no new teas can be bought on the Japan market at less than 20c. Gunpowder teas have exhibited more strength and are now quoted in China at about 6c. per lb. higher than the closing prices of last fall. Latest reports from Ceylon state that the market is still dull for common grades, with rates ruling easier. Useful liquoring sorts were in good demand, and on teas classed as "fine" full rates were realized. Dust and fannings were in better demand, the average price realized being 26c. (13c. in gold). The quality continues poor. The average price paid at the last sale was 35c. (17½c. in gold), as against 36c. (18c. in gold) for the previous sale.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

Supplies of Barbados molasses have continued to arrive, some 11 vessels having so far landed cargoes here, and the market is now well stocked. The demand, however, has scarcely improved at all, and a quiet market continues. Barbados molasses is quoted by jobbers at 24c. in small lots, and 23c. for carlots. Antigua still sells at 24c., and best Porto Rico at 38c. The demand for corn syrups is very light, and the prices here quoted are little better than nominal. They are as follows: 3½c. in bbls.; 3⅝c. in ½ bbls.; 3¾c. in ¼ bbls.; $1.60 in 38½-lb. and $1.20 in 25-lb. pails.

year. We understand that an agreement has been arrived at by members of the Canners' Association, and all prices quoted will be ruled by the association. Several canners will not pack this year, and the marketed goods will be kept down to within limits of demand. The association has decided not to quote prices on any article until as late as possible; that is until they know what the crop will be. Up till now quotations have been given on English garden peas, early June peas, fine French peas, golden wax string beans, refugee wax string beans, strawberries in syrup and strawberries preserved, red raspberries in syrup, and on red pitted cherries. The only changes are in peas which are quoted somewhat higher, English garden peas are selling for 85c., and early June at 92½c., and in pitted cherries, which are lower. Prices on tomatoes and corn will not be issued until about July 24 or 25, at which time it will be possible to gauge the size of the crops. Peaches, pears and plums will also be quoted about that time. The present demand for canned goods is fairly active. Tomatoes continue to grow scarcer, and there is very little stock on hand. In salmon the demand is fair. We quote as follows: Peas, 82½c. to $1.15; corn, 80c.; tomatoes, 97½c. to $1; gallon apples, $2.85 to $2.90; 3-lb. apples, $1.10. Salmon, pink, 92 to 95c.; spring, $1.25; Rivers Inlet, red sockeye, $1.30; Fraser River red sockeye, $1.40.

SPICES.

There has been no important change in this market. Trade is somewhat quiet, but the feeling is firm all round. We quote: Nutmegs, 30 to 55c. per lb., as to size; penang mace, 45 to 50c. per lb.; as to quality; pimento, ground, 12½ to 15c.; cloves, 15 to 25c.; pepper, ground, black, 17 to 22c., according to grade; white, 25 to 27c.; ginger, whole, Cochin, 15 to 17c.; Japan, 13 to 14c.; Jamaica, 16 to 20c.; Afghan, 12 to 13c.; ground, Japan, 15c.; Cochin, 16 to 17c.; Jamaica, 20 to 22c., and Afghan, 13 to 14c.

RICE AND TAPIOCA.

The condition of the market remains about the same. The demand is good, and prices have been steady. We now quote as follows: B rice, in bags, $3.02½; in ½ bags, $3.07½; in ¼ bags, $3.12½; in pockets, $3.17½. In 10-bag lots an allowance of 10c. is made. CC ricc,, $2.92½ in bags; $2.97½ in ½ bags; $3.02½ in ¼ bags, and $3.07½ in pockets. In the open territory prices are about 10c. less. Patna rice is worth 4 to 5c. per lb., and tapioca, 3⅛ to 3½c.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS.—Nothing further has been reported in regard to the market in Greece. The feeling locally seems to be a little easier. Quotations are: Fine Filiatras, 5⅛ to 5½c. in ½ cases; cleaned, 5⅝ to 5¾c.; 1-lb. cartons, 7¼ to 7½c.; finest Vostizzas, 7⅝c.

VALENCIA RAISINS.—It is very difficult to obtain any first-class fruit on this market, and the prices are firm. Now and then small parcels of fine fruit can be procured. Some houses are quoting higher prices for finest off-stalk. We quote: Finest off-stalk, 6½c.; selected, 6⅝c.; layers, 7¼ to 7½c. per lb.

SULTANA RAISINS.—The demand for these keeps up. The price is 9c. per lb.

CANDIED PEELS.—A fair trade is doing at unchanged prices. We quote: Citron peel, 16½c.; orange peel, 11½c. and lemon peel, 10½c. per lb.

MALAGA RAISINS.—No quotable change has occurred and a fair demand continues. Our quotations are as follows: London layers, $1.50 to $1.60; "Connoisseur Clusters," $2.15 to $2.25; ½'s, 65 to 70c.; "Royal Buckingham Clusters," $3.30 to $3.35; ¼'s, $1.05 to $1.10; "Excelsior Windsor Clusters," $4.50 to $4.60; ¼'s, $1.30 to $1.40.

DATES.—A moderate inquiry exists for dates. Hallowees are worth 4½c. per lb.

FIGS.—The inquiry is fair, but it is practically impossible to procure any layer figs at present. They are nominally quoted at $1.15, and tapnets at $1.20.

CALIFORNIAN RAISINS.—The demand is steady for seeded raisins at 9¼ to 9½c. per lb.

PRUNES.—A good business is doing in this market. Quotations follow: 8½c. for 40-50's; 8c. for 50-60's; 7¾c. for 60-70's; 7½c. for 70-80's; 6¾c. for 80-90's; 6½c. for 90-100's.

CALIFORNIAN EVAPORATED FRUITS.—The demand is no more than fair. Apricots are worth 14½c.; peaches, 10½c., and pears, 10c.

NUTS.

Valencia shelled almonds are somewhat firmer. Bull brand and others of equal quality are quoted at 24½ to 25c. Roasted peanuts, in sympathy with the two advances in the primary market, have advanced here about ½c., and jobbers now quote roasted at 7½ to 12½c., according to the brand. Shelled walnuts are now quoted at 15 to 16c. We quote: Walnuts, 9¾ to 11c.; Tarragona almonds, 12 to 13c.; shelled walnuts, 15 to 16c.; shelled almonds, 24½ to 25c.; filberts, 8¾ to 9¼c.; pecans, 15 to 16c.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER.—During the first four days of the previous week the butter market retained its former strength but towards the end eased off somewhat, it being possible to obtain finest goods at about ¼c. lower than prices previously ruling. Altogether the market is in a very satisfactory condition, and indications point towards its continuing so for an indefinite period of time. Receipts for the past week were 23,021 packages compared with 29,770 for the week before, and 19,524 for the corresponding week last year. Quotations are: Finest creamery, 20¼ to 20½c.; good to fine, 19 to 20c.; dairy, Eastern Townships, 17½ to 18½c.; dairy, western, 16 to 17½c. For week ending June 18, 1902, 18,073 packages were shipped from Montreal, 8,326 going to Liverpool; 4,043 to London, and 5,704 to Manchester.

CHEESE.—The tone of the market is a little softer than before, and our quotations are as follows: Finest Ontario, 9¾ to 9⅞c.; finest townships, 9⅝ to 9¾c.; finest Quebecs, 9⅜ to 9⅝c.; undergrades, 8⅛ to 8¼. Last week 80,715 boxes were shipped from the port of Montreal, and lower prices are looked for.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS.—The market is steady and much the same condition prevails as last week. 13½ to 13¾c. for round lots of straight receipts and 13c. for No. 2 candled, and 12½c. for not candled are being quoted.

POTATOES.—A firmer feeling obtains than before owing to the falling off in offerings. The demand is fairly good at 85 to 95c. per bag in carlots.

HONEY.—The demand for honey is slow and we have nothing of interest to report this week. We quote: White clover comb, 13 to 14c.; tinged, 10 to 11c.; strained, 9. to 10c.; buckwheat honey in comb, 9 to 10c.; extracted, 7 to 8c.

BEANS.—The quietness noted heretofore in the bean market is still prevailing and prices are unchanged at $1.25 to $1.30 for primes.

MAPLE PRODUCTS.—Business is still very quiet and our quotations are as follows: Syrup, in large tins, 70 to 80c.; in small tins, 50 to 60c. Sugar is selling at 7 to 9c. per lb.

ASHES.—The market is dull and featureless at the following prices: Firsts, $4.15 to $4.20; seconds, $3.20 to $3.75; pearls, $6 per 100 lb.

GREEN FRUITS.

The market has improved slowly during the past few weeks, but the cold weather has continued and much of the same conditions in the green fruit market is no doubt due to this. There have been no quotable changes during the week. Californian cherries have been received in good quantities during the week and are quoted at unchanged figures. Pears and peaches are expected now every day, and our quotations are now as follows: Jamaica oranges, in barrels, $4.50 to $4.75; in boxes, $2.75; Valencia oranges, 420's, $5.75; 420's, Jumbo, $6.50; 714's, $6.50; Messina lemons, $2 to $3 per box; pineapples, 6½ to 16c.; Canadian apples, $5 to $6.50 per bbl.; cocoanuts, $3.50 per bag of 100; bananas, No. 1, $1.25 to $2, and eight hands, $1 to $1.50; sweet potatoes, Vinelands, $5.50 to $6; Malaga grapes, $5.50 to $7 per keg; cranberries, $7.75 to $10.50; red onions, $3.50 per barrel; yellow $3.25; chestnuts, 10 to 11c.; Italian chestnuts, 12½c.; grape fruit, $4.25 to $5 per box; Florida tomatoes, $3.25 to $3.75 per crate; fine spies, $6 to $6.50; radishes, 15c. per doz.; spinach, $2 per bbl.; strawberries, 8 to 12c. per box; asparagus, 40 cents per bunch; Boston lettuce, $1.00 per dozen; Canadian lettuce, 35c. per doz.; Canadian spinach, $2.00 per bbl., Egyptian onions, 3½c. per lb.; English cucumbers, $1.25 per dozen; wax beans, $2.50 per basket; green beans, $3 per basket; cabbage, $3; Californian cherries, $2 to $2.50 per box.

FISH.

The season is now getting late and as a result prepared, salt and dried fish are moving more rapidly. Fresh salmon is quoted 1c. higher this week; otherwise there has been no change in prices. Owing to the two fast days being dispensed with on account of the Coronation there was some falling off in the trade this week. Quotations are as follows: Haddies, 7 to 7½c.; smoked herrings, 9 to 10c. per box; fresh haddock and cod, 3½ to 4c. per lb.; whitefish, 7½c.; dore, 7½c.; pike, 6c.; halibut, 10 to 12c.; salmon, 12 to 13c.; trout, large and medium, 7½c.; No. 1 herring, Nova Scotian, $4.75 to $5.25 per bbl., and $2.50 per ½ bbl.; No. 1 Holland herring, $6.50 per ½ bbl.; No. 1 Scotch herring, $6.50 per ½ bbl., and 95c. per keg; Holland herring, 75c. per keg; No. 1 green codfish, $5 per bbl.; mackerel, $12.50 per bbl.; boneless cod, 1 and 2-lb. blocks, 6c. per lb.; loose, boneless cod, 5c. per lb. in 40-lb. boxes; dried codfish, $4.75 per 112-lb. bundle; No. 1 Labrador salmon, $17.50 in tierces, and in barrels, $12.50; No. 1 British-

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

The only quotable change in flour has occurred in straight rollers, which are selling at 5c. lower this week. The demand for small lots is fair, and our quotations are as follows: Manitoba spring wheat patents, $4 to $4.20; winter wheat patents, $3.90 to $4.10; strong bakers', $3.70 to $3.90; straight rollers, $3.60 to $3.70.

GRAIN.—The market is not active, either for domestic or export account. Ontario oats are somewhat easier and are quoted at a decline of ½c. Otherwise prices are unchanged, and we now quote: No. 2 Ontario oats, ex-store, 48 to 48½c.; rye, 66c.; peas, 85½ to 86c.; corn, 70 to 70½c.; buckwheat, 68½ to 69c.; No. 2 barley afloat, 61c.

FEED.—Another decline has taken place in both Ontario and Manitoba bran. The former is now quoted at $18 per ton, and the latter at $17 to $18 per ton. What small amount of shorts is on the mar- are very firmly held at $23 per ton, with very little business doing.

OATMEAL.—The market has considerably improved and rolled oats are in fairly good demand. The price, in small lots, for rolled oats, is $5.65 per bbl., and $2.77½ per bag.

BALED HAY.—No. 1 timothy is quoted 50c. lower this week. The demand is fair. We quote: No. 1 timothy, $9 to $9.50; No. 2, $8 to $8.50; clover, $7 to $7.50 per ton in carlots.

MONTREAL NOTES.

Fresh Gaspe salmon are 1c. higher.

Straight roller flour has declined 5c.

Castor oil, in cans, has declined, and is now quoted at 7¾ to 8½c.

MANITOBA MARKETS.

Winnipeg, June 21, 1902.

BUSINESS is fair but continues to be considerably handicapped by wet weather. There has been rain every day this week, and much of the land in low-lying districts is under water, and considerable areas of crop are threatened with damage. It is generally hoped that now the sun has crossed the line more settled weather will obtain. The wet and heavy roads are preventing the farmers from hauling in the balance of last year's crop still in store, and this tends to make collections slower than they should be at this season.

SUGARS.—The trade in sugar is very heavy. Retail merchants are now stocking up, but, as is usual with sugar at a low price, there is an enormously increased demand. Prices are unchanged at $4.35 for granulated and $3.75 for bright yellows.

TAPIOCA.—There has been a decided drop in this article; why, no one seems to know. The best qualities are offering freely at 3½ to 3¾c. Sago is in limited demand and without change at 4c.

RICE.—There is an easier feeling in rice and the best grades of Japan are now quoted at 4½c. Rangoon is also easier, but the demand in this market is very light.

EVAPORATED AND DRIED FRUITS.—There is practically no demand for raisins and currants; prices are firm at the old figures of $2.20 to $2.25 for Valencia layers, and $1.85 to $1.95 for fine off-stalk. In evaporated fruits prunes are the only line in active demand, and prices are firm at 5½ to 9½c., according to size. Evaporated apples are called for to a considerable extent, but prices are too high for general demand, being now 11½ to 12c. for the best grades; dried are also high at 7½ to 8c., and there is no really desirable stock in the city.

CANNED GOODS.—Tomatoes are in steady and increasing demand at $2.40 per case. Corn offers freely and is in good demand; the market, however, is weak, and a further drop is anticipated. The present price is $1.65 to $1.70 per case. Peas are quoted freely at from $1.90 to $1.95, but there are few buyers. In canned fruits, new pack of cherries and strawberries are now quoted at about the same price as last year.

GREEN FRUITS.—The market is very active in strawberries. The last cars of Hood River berries are expected next Monday. The demand has been very heavy for this fruit. The price is unchanged at $4. The retail price all week has been two boxes for 35c. Cherries are fairly plentiful and sell at $2.25 per box. Valencia oranges are the only line in the market, and they have advanced 50c. per case this week, prices now being $5 to $6, according to size as against $4.50 to $5.50 last week. Lemons are unchanged but very firm at $4.50. Bananas are in fair supply at $2.75 to $3 per bunch. Some small shipments of apricots and early peaches are being received, but are not regularly quoted in a wholesale way.

CEREALS.—Prices are unchanged and the market is dull. Quotations are as follows: Rolled oats, 80's, $2.20; 40's, $1.10; 20's, 55c. Granulated and standard oatmeal, $2.75; split peas, $2.85; cornmeal, $1.75. Barleys — Pot, $2.35. White beans are again lower and are quoted at $1.60. Package goods—Quaker Oats, $4 per case of 3 doz.; Pettijohn's Wheat, $2.85 per case of 2 doz.; Cream of Wheat, $5.50 per case of 3 doz.; Malt Breakfast Food, $3.35 per case of 2 doz.; Swiss Breakfast Food, $3.50 per case of 3 doz.; Grape Nuts, $2 per case of 2 doz.; Postum Cereal, $2.25 per case of 2 doz.

FLOUR.—The local market is slow and prices are without change.

BUTTER.—Creamery is in fair supply at 16½ to 17c., factories. Dairy, 12c. Winnipeg for best grade.

CHEESE.—Supplies are increasing and prices are lower, 9½ to 10c. factories being the best offering.

EGGS.—Eggs are in fair supply at 11c. Winnipeg.

NOVA SCOTIA MARKETS.

Halifax, June 23, 1902.

WHOLESALE grocery trade here continues most satisfactory, and is in keeping with the general prosperity, abundant signs of which are evident all over the country. The last week or two have been uneventful, but business has remained steady. Payments are being made most satisfactorily, and in some cases old indebtednesses have been wiped out. The volume of business for June is in excess of previous years, and promises to continue so.

The extreme conditions still prevail in beef and pork, and these have recently been subjected to another advance. There is a limit somewhere, but it does not seem to have been reached yet, and no sudden decline is anticipated, as the scarcity of the live product is quite sufficient to warrant the high prices prevailing. Evidently there is a good opening for our farmers to give more attention to beef and pork raising. Sugar remains steady at the recent decline. Molasses is firm and prices more settled to quotations previously noted. Raisins are getting scarce and have advanced ½c. Evaporated apples are practically out of the market. Green fruits are abundant, but high prices prevail.

Butter is coming in more plentifully and prices are easier. There is still a heavy demand with only a limited supply of fresh-made best creamery. Eggs, instead of declining, as they usually do at this season, are becoming firmer. Two weeks ago the retail price was 18 to 20c.; now it is 20 to 22c., and extra colored eggs in Saturday's local market were sold at 25c. for family use. The hen is evidently having her innings, and the owner thereof is quite satisfied—except that he would wish her to lay two or three instead of one each day. A considerable quantity has come into the market from Prince Edward Island, but only enough to ease the market for a few days. Last week the price on the Island advanced to 14 to 15c. This will naturally have its effect here.

Flour is firm at the recent advances, and there may yet be further slight advances before this year's wheat crop is available for manufacture. Rolled oats and oatmeal are also firm and have advanced to $5.30. This is no doubt in response to the high and continually advancing price of oats. Cornmeal is also firm with a late advance of 15c. per bbl. The various feeds are in considerable demand, as owing to the scarcity and high price of beef the farmers are using considerable quantities for fattening stock to put on the market. Last week bran and middlings advanced, the latter $1, to $27 to $28.50. Dealers are finding it difficult to get feed at the mills as many of them have lately been closed. Hay is in light demand. The prospects for this season's crop are good.

The fishermen on the Banks report fishing good and large catches have been made. The shore fishermen are also doing well. Some mackerel were taken off this shore last week. The markets in the West Indies have only slightly improved and may still be considered very poor. The price of fish here this season is expected to be extremely low. As previously noted, it was expected that the Newfoundland catch of codfish this season would be small. Reports now show that the total will be about 70,000 quintals as against 150,000 last season, large numbers having turned their attention to other industries.

Last week, 564 puncheons, 52 hhds. and 32 bbls. of molasses arrived by schooner from Antigua for The Dominion Molasses Co. The Ocamo, which arrived last night, brought 6,722 bags, 326 bbls. of sugar to be landed here, and 1,800 bags for The Woodside Refinery, Dartmouth. The steamer Dahome, on her last trip brought freight for the Upper Provinces which required about 50 cars for forwarding to destination.

NEW HERRING PACKERS.

It is reported that a new company is about to be formed in Scotland for the purpose of carrying on business in the herring fisheries on the Bay of Islands, Newfoundland. The plans are now being worked upon and it is expected that operations will commence some time in the fall. The company's representative in Newfoundland is Hon. E. P. Morris, K.C., and the capital, which is being subscribed in Scotland, amounts to $100,000.

It is proposed to conduct the fishing on a new basis. The company intends to introduce Scotch and Norwegian systems of the most improved sort ; and drift nets will be used to locate the fish in deep water, thus doing away with the necessity of waiting until the herring run into the net.

Smoked, pickled and kippered herrings, it is said, will be packed by the new company, who intend to put up a superior class of goods. They will also have a system of cold storage, which will add to the value of the plant.

The Bay of Islands, where operations will be conducted, is on the west coast of Newfoundland, about 55 miles north of St. George's Bay.

ATTRACTIVE FLY PAD "ADS."

Business methods produce business results. Success is the only excuse for advertising. It pays therefore continue it. Of those who appreciate the advantage of thorough advertising Archdale Wilson, of Hamilton, occupies a prominent place. Beginning May 20, he made arrangements for the insertion in no less than 254 Canadian newspapers of a splendid line of advertisements, eight in number, to be distributed through a period of three months. As seen in this issue of THE CANADIAN GROCER, the advertisements are neat, bright specimens. They tell concisely what Wilson's fly pads will do—they'll kill flies. The advertisements are sure to be productive of good results.

TRADE CHAT.

The Halifax agency of The E. B. Eddy Co., Limited, has been elevated to the dignity of a branch. John Peters, who has for a number of years looked after the interests of this firm in that city with marked success is retiring owing to poor health. J. T. Sheriff, who has been connected with The Eddy Co. for some years, has been placed in charge of the branch there as manager.

THE NEWFOUNDLAND FISHERIES.

According to The Evening Herald, of St. John's, Newfoundland, the fishery news from all around the coast is unusually good with splendid prospects that it will improve. With their diminished fleet a normal catch this year must mean better results for both merchants and men.

FLOUR MILL AT KAMLOOPS.

A flour mill of 100 barrels daily capacity will probably be constructed at Kamloops, B.C. The city will give the projector a fine site, tax exemption for a term of years, and a loan without interest of $5,000 for a period of five years. A by-law is now being prepared authorizing the carrying out of these conditions, and will be submitted for ratification to the ratepayers.

MAKING READY EOR EXCURSION.

The amusement committee of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association met on Monday night, June 23, in St. George's Hall, Elm St., Toronto, and made provision for providing entertainment on the boat for the excursionists on the day of their annual excursion, July 23. Matters also were arranged regarding the tickets and printing of posters in connection with the above excursion.

OTTAWA TRADE GOSSIP.

BUSINESS in Ottawa has been fair. Reports for June, so far, are not quite as good as last year. As the weather has been almost continually wet it has certainly had a bad effect.

C. H. Cochran & Co., wholesale coffee and spice manufacturers, report trade in their line increasing.

The motormen and conductors of The Ottawa Electric Railway Company are looking for an increase in pay. Owing to the increased cost of living they claim their wages are too small.

The Ottawa Board of Trade are intending to put up a suitable building for themselves. Ground sites have been thought of but not decided upon. The plans call for a building that will be a credit to the Capital.

Tenders for a large building on Bank street, to be occupied as a branch grocery store by F. A. Scott, Wellington street, were opened the other day, but so far no decision as to the successful tenderer has been arrived at.

The Ottawa Grocers' Association would be pleased to see many of their Cornwall friends go with them to Stanley Island on Dominion Day. They have chartered the steamer Valleyfield, of Valleyfield, and she will leave the Cornwall dock at 10 a.m.
June 23, 1902.

The death occurred on Sunday of the mother of Messrs Alphonse and Charles Provost, two well-known grocers of this city, the first-named, of the firm of Provost & Allard, and Charles, a leading retail merchant in Lower Town and president of the Ottawa Retail Grocers' Association. A resolution of condolence was passed to them at last night's meeting of the association.

The Ottawa Retail Grocers' Association met in their rooms last night. It was a special meeting in connection with their excursion. Tenders were received for bands and refreshments. Tippin Bros.' orchestra was engaged for the day, and The Ottawa Dairy Company's tender for the catering was accepted. All other final arrangements were made. The only thing now is good weather and the 2nd annual excursion of the association will be a success.

CALIFORNIAN ORANGE SEASON.

(From N. Y. Journal of Commerce.)

NOW that the season is practieally over for all Californian orangcs, except Valencia lates, it may be said that it has been quite a remarkable one. Owing to the short erop, whieh was due ehiefly to elimatic conditions, there was a heavy falling off in the receipts here as well as in the total shipments from the Coast. The produetion in California was about 3,000,000 boxes less than last season, resulting in a material inerease in prices on all varieties. In fact, some varieties reached the highest figures ever brought in the New York market, aeeording to West Side receivers. For instanee, in June of last year prices. from store, repacked, on Washington navels, faney, ranged from $3 to $5 per box, aecording to size, as compared to with $7 to $7.50, yesterday's priccs. Prior to yesterday the figures had been $7.50 to $8 a box. At this time last year Mediterranean sweets ranged from $3.25 to $3.75, as against $4 to $5.50 vesterday. The demand for oranges at present seems to be very light, owing, it is said, to increased reeeipts of small fruits, sueh as eherries, peaches, apricots, ete.

Another noteworthy feature of the past season has been the increase in the receipts of Italian oranges.

The following statisties, furnished by Secretary Rose, of the New York Fruit Exchange, show the total receipts of the season by months at New York, the total shipments from California to all points, and the reeeipts here of Italian oranges, with eomparisons :

CANNED PEAS AND TOMATOES IN THE STATES.

From The Trade, Baltimore, Md.

THE early June pea-packing season is now well past its zenith for this season, and, in a general way, it is nearly over. It has been, in the first place, a delayed season; in the second place, a season of surprises, in that the pods yielded a much larger quantity of peas than is usual, which naturally shut out the bulk of the small, fine peas, resulting in a scarcity of sifted and extra sifted peas and a much heavier pack of standards and seconds than appeared upon the face of the first receipts.

We are far enough now into the season to fairly determine what its conditions will be throughout the country. In Southern Indiana and Ohio the pea-packing season is very nearly over, and it should be understood that as far as the western pea pack is concerned, this section occupies a prominent position. The very best informed authorities, in a position to know, anticipate only about two-thirds of an average pack in that section. The quality, however, is above the average, and in the West as in the East, the pods have yielded more than usual. In Wisconsin and New York State, which are also nowadays prominent pea-packing sections, the crop has been much retarded by cold weather and rain, and packing in those sections will begin about the first of next week. It is expected that from these reasons the pack will be shortened and be below an average in quantity. In the northern part of Wisconsin peas have suffered considerably from cold weather, but in New York the crop is reported to be in fine condition at present. One of the peculiarities of the crop everywhere is the apparent deficiency in vines and large returns from the pods. So marked is this, that, taken in general, the yield of cans per bushel this season will be about 18, whereas, the normal average of other seasons was about 14 cans. It follows, of course, that in proportion, as the packer gets greater returns for his money paid to the grower, he sells his products cheaper to the grocer; but this season all such advantages will go on the standard and second quality peas. In fact, the receipts of small peas are not up to the demand, whilst the market is easy on the inferior varieties.

The market is preparing itself well in advance for the remarkable condition governing the tomato situation. It is a fact that the market price of No. 3 standard tomatoes in this centre to-day is $1.40, and anything below that price is a bargain for spot tomatoes. The holders of tomatoes throughout the United States are in all cases wholesale grocers, and they are garnering at present the last sheaves of their harvest of profits on the love apple. The peculiarity of the weather of the past two months has also affected the tomato situation, in that it has delayed the truck crops of the South, causing comparative scarcity of new tomatoes from that section. We believe there will be a genuine excitement in the market when the first tomatoes of the 1902 season are canned. But it is clearly to be seen now that tomato plants everywhere are about a month late in development, and there will be no early packing of tomatoes. There might have been some chance of the packers buying Southern tomatoes in crates for packing purposes if there were a prolific crop in that section, and there would be profit, at present quotations, for the canned article even if the packer had to pay a high price per bushel for his stock.

It is safe to say the public will begin eating the canned tomatoes of 1902 as rapidly as they can be turned out of the canning factory, and we are almost certain to face an insufficient supply of tomatoes next fall with consequent high prices also next winter. The tomato situation is, therefore, assured; and whilst it was anticipated that 80 to 85c. would be a very good price for future tomatoes this year, we believe those who placed orders at that figure will be able to count themselves among the lucky firms. We believe that $1 per doz. will be very nearly the average value of tomatoes for the next 12 months, and therefore consider that any transactions made at 80 to 90c. are in favor of the buyer rather than the packer.

The consuming abilities of the market, however, do not look more hopeful this week than they did last, as the great strikes not only continue, but promise to extend to unprecedented proportions.

QUICK TO CATCH ON.

One of the accused at a Supreme Court case in New South Wales, recently, was a man named Day, says The Australian Grocer, and the lawyer defending him was J. G. Martin, who got him off on probation. This was a chance that could not be missed by J. O'Meagher (otherwise Tim Doolan), a well-known lawyer, who got off the following almost before the judge had finished addressing the prisoner:

When Day and Martin first joined hands
They manufactured blacking,
Which they sent out to foreign lands
In straw and shaving packing;
But now, we find, in modern days,
Probation's got like lightning,
For when our Martin pleads for Day
The product was a whitening.

CRANBERRIES IN CAPE BRETON.

McQuin's Lake, Caribou Marsh, near Sydney, C.B., has been drained for the purpose of cranberry cultivation. This lake is elevated, but shallow, and covers an area of about 150 acres. A deep trench was dug to an adjoining lake at a lower level, the ground seeded, and by next year it is expected that there will be produced an extensive cranberry crop. The land thus reclaimed is within easy reach of the Sydney market.

POPULARITY is the proof of merit, and no brand has ever achieved popularity so quickly as Ceylon Green is making wonderful advancement, due to its excellent and unequalled merits. It is a tea that will capture a good share of tea trade for you. Records prove conclusively that it is displacing Japan and China teas.

WHY ARE

superior to all other Imported Lines ?

Because each Jam has the individual flavor of its own fruit.
